VICTORIA ZENANA HOSPITAL.

No. 2469Medl., dated Calcutta, the 23rd April 1898.

From—H. H. RISLEY, ESQ., C.I.E., Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal, Municipal Department,

To—The Commissioner of the Presidency Division.

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 27G.—Medl., dated the 9th March 1898, in which you report that Babu Ashutosh Nath Roy, of Cossimbazar, has forwarded to you a cheque on the Bank of Bengal for the sum of one lakh of rupees as a contribution towards the Building Fund of the new Victoria Zenana Hospital in Calcutta, and recommend that the gift may be suitably acknowledged.

2. In reply, I am to request that you will be so good as to convey to Babu Ashutosh Nath Roy an expression of the Lieutenant-Governor's thanks for his munificent gift and for the liberality and public spirit displayed by him.

3. The letter will be published in the Calcutta Gazette.

RESOLUTION ON THE ANNUAL REPORT OF THE HEALTH OFFICER OF THE PORT OF CALCUTTA FOR THE YEAR 1897.

No. 835Marine.

Government of Bengal.

MARINE DEPARTMENT.

Dated Calcutta, the 16th April 1898.

READ—

Letter from the Sanitary Commissioner, Bengal, No. 1006, dated the 24th February 1898, submitting the Report of the Health Officer of the Port of Calcutta for the year 1897.

Establishment.

The duties of the Health Officer of the Port of Calcutta were performed by Dr. Forsyth. His work was done in the steam-launch Relief. Surgeon-Captains J. Gould, B. C. Oldham, F. O'Kinealy, and Dr. C. Banks were appointed Additional Health Officers of the Port. A steam-cutter was placed at the disposal of the Health Officer for the use of these officers. The Sanitary Inspector carried out his duties in a bholio.

Inspection of vessels.

2. The total number of inward and outward bound vessels inspected during the year was 2,091, against 1,566 in the previous year and 1,592 in 1895. The total number of vessels which arrived in port was 1,182, of which 958 were inspected. There were 1,186 departures, of which 1,133 were inspected. All vessels arriving from the ports of Bombay, Goa, Jeddah and Karachee and flying the quarantine flag, as well as those arriving from foreign ports, were inspected on arrival. Indian coasting steamers were inspected only four times during the year.

Ventilation of crew space, &c.

3. The Health Officer mentions six vessels that have had their forecastles improved. In his report for the previous year, he brought to the notice of this Department certain defects in connection with the new types of vessels which have recently been introduced by the British India Steam Navigation Company and the Clan Line. The defects having been brought to the notice of the British India Steam Navigation Company, they undertook to secure improved ventilation of cabins and to provide an awning for the protection of officers, and the Health Officer, in September last, stated that he would refer to the subject again in his Annual Report for 1897. In the report under consideration, however, no further information is given on the point. The attention of the Health Officer will be drawn to the matter, and he will be asked to state whether the necessary improvements have been carried out.

Sickness and mortality among European seamen.

4. The number of European seamen who arrived in the port during the year was returned at 19,608, against 17,053 in the previous year. The daily average number in port was 1,202, against 1,124 in 1896. The total number of admissions into hospital amounted to 995; the death-rate per mille was 21·63 against 28·46 in the year previous, and the quinquennial mean of 17·21. Including the deaths out of hospital, the death-rate per mille was 33·27 during the year, against 40·92, 31·44 and 26·33 in the three preceding years. Of the admissions into hospital, 13 were due to cholera, 11 of which ended fatally. There were 52 admissions from bowel-complaints, and one from small-pox, but none of these ended fatally. There were three admissions from sunstroke, with one death. There were seven cases of drowning during the year.

The following table shows the number of admissions into hospital from venereal diseases during the year 1897 and the previous ten years:—

Year.	Admissions.	Admission rate per 1,000.
1888	183	121·1
1889	186	114·3
1890	248	147·7
1891	185	129·7
1892	479	224·5
1893	386	185·4
1894	343	231·6
1895	342	238·9
1896	215	191·2

Sickness and mortality among the Native floating population.

5. There were altogether 208 deaths, 68 in and 140 out of hospital among the Native floating population, against 219 deaths in 1896 and 123 in 1895, the death-rate per mille (8·11) being lower than that of 1896, which was 8·54. Of this total, 116 deaths were from cholera, 50 of which occurred in hospital against 156 deaths from this cause in 1896. There were 8 deaths from small-pox, 47 deaths from fever and 13 from bowel-complaints.

Pilgrim traffic.

6. The S.S. Sultan sailed from Calcutta for Jeddah on the 21st January 1897, with 60 pilgrims on board. The S.S. Pekin left Jeddah on the 28th May 1897, with 1,021 pilgrims, touched at Bombay on the 10th June, and arrived at Diamond Harbour on the 29th June with 443 pilgrims. No complaints were made.

Infectious diseases.

7. The S.S. Africa arrived from Rangoon on the 15th January 1897, with one case of small-pox on board. The case was removed to the Campbell Hospital, and the vessel disinfected; unprotected members of the crew and passengers were also vaccinated.

Plague.

8. One hundred and ninety-four vessels arrived during the year from the plague-infected ports of Bombay, Goa, Jeddah and Karachee, flying the quarantine flag at the fore. None of these vessels had a suspicious case on board.

Corpses and carcasses floating in the river.

9. The number of corpses and carcasses found floating in the river shows an increase. The number of corpses was 167, against 165 in 1896, 133 in 1895, 79 in 1894 and 72 in 1893. The number of carcasses was 2,718, against 2,707 in 1896, 2,216 in 1895, 2,179 in 1894 and 1,932 in 1893. The matter will be brought to the notice of the Judicial Department.

Water-supply.

10. Municipal filtered water was supplied to the shipping throughout the year, and no complaints regarding the quality of the supply were made.

Food.

11. The stores for the Native crew of the S.S. Clan Linpsay were examined, and 50 bags of rice were condemned.

Three members of the crew of the ship Kentmere complained of the salt-beef supplied to them as being bad. On examination, it was found to be of excellent quality.

The master of the ship North Star submitted flour from the ship's stores for report. It was found damaged by water and unfit for use.

On a complaint made by the Serang and a lascar of the S.S. Clan Macpherson regarding the rice issued to them, 40 bags (about 80 maunds) were rejected as not being up to sample.

Four of the crew of the ship Levernbank complained to the Magistrate of the food being unfit for consumption and short in quantity. On examination, the supply was found sufficient and the quality good.

At the request of the master and agent of the ship County of Dumfries, 18 bags of the ship's biscuits were examined and condemned.

Conservancy.

12. The brick-field at Ghoosery and the foreshore opposite the East Indian Railway Company's Coal Depôt and Messrs. John, King and Company's premises were kept in a satisfactory state. The channel at Mullick Ghat, and the latrines on its banks, however, were not in a satisfactory condition. The matter will be brought to the notice of the Port Commissioners, Calcutta.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

A. D. McARTHUR, Col., R.E.,

RABI CROPS IN BENGAL, 1897-98.

The following is published for general information.

REV. DEPT., The 20th April 1898.

M. FINUCANE, Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

DEPARTMENT OF LAND RECORDS AND AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

Note on the outturn of the rabi crops in Bengal for 1897-98.

Explanatory.—The present report furnishes estimates of the area and outturn of all kinds of rabi crops (food and non-food) and of such special crops as sugarcane, tobacco, ganja and opium, for which no separate reports are published.

The normal areas shown in column 5 of the appended statement have been revised with reference to the average areas found to have been sown during the past five years, and also in accordance with revisions made by local officers in the course of the past year.

2. Character of the Season.—Good rain fell during the monsoon season of 1897, and left sufficient moisture in the soil for the sowing of the rabi crops. In October, every district of these Provinces received considerably more than the normal fall of rain. In November the rain was well distributed, all Divisions of these Provinces receiving slight rain. In December, the rainfall was below the normal in all districts. In January, Bengal Proper received rain in excess of the normal, while in Bihar, Orissa and Chota Nagpur rain was deficient. In February, the rainfall was above the normal in North Bengal and Bihar, and below the normal in other parts of these Provinces. Most of the fall was received on or about the 6th and 11th, except in the hill districts of North Bengal, where light showers were more frequent. The latter half of February was almost entirely rainless. Slight showers of little consequence were received in a few districts in March.

3. Area cultivated.—According to the revised estimates shown in column 5 of the appended returns, it will be seen that the total normal area under rabi crops and under the special crops mentioned in paragraph 1 of this note amounts to 14,649,500 acres.

The total area sown with all the above crops during the year under report is estimated at 14,234,300 acres, against 13,632,500 acres sown in 1896-97. The increase in area in 1897-98 amounts thus to 601,800 acres.

The area sown during 1897-98 with rabi food-crops, i.e., exclusive of sugarcane, is estimated at 9,023,100 acres, against 8,813,600 acres, estimated to have been sown during the previous year. There is thus an increase of 209,500 acres (2·3 per cent.) in the area cultivated in 1897-98. An examination of similar entries against sugarcane will a show an increase of area in 1897-98, amounting to 129,000 acres. The estimated area in 1897-98 under rabi non-food-crops and under tobacco, opium and ganja, amounts to 4,249,200 acres, against 3,985,900 acres, the corresponding area in 1896-97.

The increase in all the above cases in the area cultivated in 1897-98, as compared with the area sown in 1896-97, is due to the more favourable character of the season at the time of sowing during the year under review. And it must be noted that the increase was really greater than would appear from the figures given, as a revision of figures in the Shahabad district has led to a decrease in the areas returned, and a similar revision appears also to have been made in Monghyr.

4. Character of the crop.—The outturn in 1897-98 of all the rabi crops of these Provinces, and of the special crops referred to already, is estimated at 15½ annas against 10½ annas estimated for 1896-97. The outturn of the rabi food-crops, inclusive of sugarcane, is estimated at 16¼ annas for 1897-98, as compared with an outturn of 10¼ annas estimated for 1896-97. The outturn of rabi non-food-crops, inclusive of tobacco, ganja and opium, is estimated at 14 annas for 1897-98, against 11 annas, the corresponding estimate for the previous year. The increase in the outturn of 1897-98 is due in all cases to the more favourable character of the season throughout the growth and development of the crops. From the Opium Administration Report for the year 1896 97, it appears that the yield of opium per bigha in 1896-97 was about equal to the average of the yield of the previous ten years. It is probable, therefore, that the crop of 1897-98, which is returned as being a little better than the crop of 1896-97, will reach the full average crop of 16 annas. The estimates returned by District Officers, viz., 14 annas for 1897-98 and 13 annas for 1896-97, appear to be low, in view of the figures given in the Opium Administration Report.

Rangpur ...	2,231,040	1,602,700	Wheat	34,000	32,700	30,700	11	14	The increase in the area sown and outturn of the several crops is due to favourable rainfall during the year. The floods of October affected the state of sugarcane to a certain extent in the Gaibanda subdivision. The rainfall about the latter part of September and in the beginning of October also interfered with the tobacco crop and affected the growth of the seedlings.

Poppy has been damaged to some extent by rainfall and west winds in February.	The great reduction in the areas sown with gram and other rabi cereals this year is not explained. It is probably due to a revision of the figures, as those which indicate the normal and last year's sowings appear too high.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h., and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

o, overcast; g, gloomy; d, drizzling rain; p, passing temporary showers;
t, thunder; <, lightning; ↗, strong wind; ⌓, dew.

NOTIFICATION.—No. 1885.

The 3rd May 1898.—Under section 14 of Act XX of 1879 (the Glanders and Farcy Act), as amended by Act XV of 1896, which has been extended to the districts of Saran, Champaran and Muzaffarpur, under Notification No. 1482Agri. of 4th April 1898, His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor has been pleased to make the following rules:—

Rule 1.—Every Inspector who receives information of the supposed existence, or who has reasonable grounds to suspect the existence, of glanders or farcy in any place within the local area to which this Act has been extended, shall proceed immediately to such place, and there execute and discharge the powers and duties conferred and imposed upon him under this Act.

Rule 2.—An Inspector may, for the purpose of seizing any horse under section 5 of the Act, enter and search any enclosure, field, building or other place where he has reason to believe that any diseased horse is to be found; but, as far as practicable, he shall conduct his search in the presence of the owner or of the person in charge of the suspected horse, field, enclosure, building or other place to whom notice shall be given previous to the search.

Rule 3.—Every person having in his possession or under his charge any diseased horse shall (1) keep the diseased horse separate from other horses not diseased, and (2) give information of the fact of the disease, as soon as possible, to an Inspector under the Act, or, if there be no Inspector at any place nearer than the nearest police-station, to that police-station, and the officer in charge of that station, if not himself an Inspector under the Act shall forthwith report the same to an Inspector and to the District Superintendent of Police.

Rule 4.—When a diseased horse is destroyed under section 8 of the Act, the owner or the person in charge of the horse shall without delay cause the carcass to be buried or burnt. The litter and the line gear shall in all cases be burnt.

Rule 5.—When the carcass of a horse destroyed under the Act is buried, the grave shall be not less than 9 feet deep, and the skin of the carcass shall be slashed to prevent its being used. All earth contaminated with blood or discharges shall be thrown into the grave, and the carcass shall be covered with 20lbs. of quicklime.

Rule 6.—The owner or person in charge of infected articles or places shall be responsible for carrying out the following orders as soon as possible after the issue of the notice under that section :—

(i) Every piece of stable gear connected in any way with a diseased horse shall be destroyed by fire, except iron-work, and that shall be made red-hot.

(ii) The roof of a building shall be well cleaned and freed from all dust and cobwebs.

(iii) The walls shall be scraped, feeding troughs burnt, and all wood-work within reach of horses carefully washed with hot water mixed with crude carbolic acid or phenyle in the proportion of 5 per cent. of acid or phenyle

(iv) The floor, if of mud or brick, shall be dug up for at least 8 inches, and more if urine has percolated deeper; and fresh material should be laid down If the floor be of cement in good repair, it shall be treated in the same way as the walls.

(v) All refuse derived from cleansing, and any dung, litter, straw, grass or hay shall be burnt, and that which will not burn shall be buried six feet deep.

(vi) The whole building shall be thoroughly white-washed with good lime and water to which 5 per cent. of crude carbolic acid or phenyle has been added.

(vii) Temporary stables of straw, grass or similar materials shall be pulled down and burnt, the floor being treated as in (iv) above.

(viii) When a cart has become infected, the wood-work shall be thoroughly scraped, washed with soap and hot water containing 5 per cent. of crude carbolic acid or phenyle, and exposed to the sun for two days after which the treatment shall be repeated.

(ix) When a carriage of any sort has become infected, any part with which the diseased animal can have come into contact, such as the pole or shafts, dash-board, etc., shall be washed with soap and hot water containing 5 per cent. of crude carbolic acid or phenyle, the paint scraped off and the parts repainted. The rest of the vehicle shall be thoroughly washed with soap and hot water containing 5 per of crude carbolic acid or phenyle.

(x) When a boat has become infected, the rules laid down in (i), (ii), (iii), (v) and (vi) above shall be observed when applicable. The floor shall be treated with special reference to (iii), and all battens shall be removed and burnt.

Rule 7.—All buildings, stables, carts, carriages or boats, which have been disinfected under Rule 6 above, shall be examined by an Inspector after disinfection, to see whether the work has been thoroughly carried out, and the owner or the person in charge of such building, stable, cart, carriage or boat shall give him reasonable facility for doing so. If he is not satisfied that the work of disinfection has been thoroughly done, the Inspector may pass such orders as he may consider necessary for the proper disinfection of the building, stable etc., and the owner or person in charge of such building, stable, etc., shall be bound to carry out such orders without delay.

Rule 8.—When it is absolutely necessary to remove a diseased horse or carcass to another place for slaughter, burial or cremation, the owner or person in charge of such horse or carcass shall attach a suitable covering to its nostrils or to any part of its body that has a wound or sore, so as to prevent all danger from contact during removal. Removal shall take place at night when practicable.

Rule 9.—No Inspector shall grant a license under section 11 of the Act for the removal of a horse which has been in the same field, building or place, or in contact with a diseased horse, except—

(1) when the horse has been isolated for 120 days from the slaughter of the diseased horse and has not during that period shown any suspicious symptoms; or

(2) when the horse has been treated with mallein, and it has not re-acted In such cases the license may issue at once.

The 30th April 1898.

No. 2647Medl.—The following questions, asked at the meeting of the Bengal Legislative Council on 30th April 1898, on the subject of the plague in Calcutta, with the reply given by the Hon'ble Mr. Risley and His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor's speech, are published for general information.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

H. H. RISLEY,

Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

I. Question by the Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee.—Will the Government be pleased to make a statement with regard to the suspicious cases of plague which have recently appeared in Calcutta? Are they cases of true bubonic plague? Will the Government be pleased to lay on the table the Report of Dr. Haffkine on the subject.

II. Question by the Hon'ble Babu Norendra Nath Sen.—In view of the panic and alarm caused in Calcutta by the reports of several cases of plague in the City and of the exodus that has already commenced, I have the honour to enquire to what extent the Government will be prepared to mitigate the stringency of the rules in regard to the arrangements required to be made for segregation and disinfection, in the case of respectable people, especially as regards purdah women and children, in the event of an outbreak of the plague?

(a) Have any cases occurring in Calcutta been reported to Government as cases of plague?

(b) Has Government taken any steps to ascertain if there are or were real cases of plague? If so, what are those steps?

(c) Has Dr. Haffkine pronounced any opinion as to the nature of the bacilli he may have found in the blood and fluid of the glands of patients that were sent to him? Is Government aware that there are differences of medical opinion as regards the bacteriological diagnosis of plague; that the true bacillus of plague, if there is any, has not yet been positively determined; that some say it is Kitasato's bacillus, others that it is Yersin's,—which is the true plague bacillus? Others again have said that there is a third variety which is found in plague cases, and that it is yet uncertain which is the real pathogenic bacillus. Under these circumstances, would it not be premature to declare Calcutta to be a plague-stricken city? If Government had acted on the opinion of the late Health Officer of the Calcutta Corporation, Dr. Simpson, Calcutta would long ago have been declared as such. Would it have been proper to do so?

III. Question by the Hon'ble Mr. Turner.—Has the attention of the Government been drawn to the alleged cases of plague in Calcutta during the past week, or cases of disease resembling plague, and will the Government be pleased to state the result of the enquiries made in connection with the said cases?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. H. H. Risley.

I WILL answer all the questions relating to plague together. The facts are as follows:—On the night of the 16th April a sudden death from fever, accompanied by swelling of the glands of the left groin, occurred in Kapalitola, a crowded locality near Bow Bazar. The post-mortem examination showed symptoms which were regarded by the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals, the Sanitary Commissioner and the Health Officer of Calcutta as suspicious. On the other hand an experienced local practitioner considered the case to be one of septicæmic fever of a type known to him as not uncommon in Calcutta. The deceased was a native of Eastern Bengal, resident in Calcutta, and there was no evidence whatever of his having had any communication with persons coming from the areas in Bombay and the Panjab which are infected with plague. The house in which he died was thoroughly disinfected; all persons who had been in contact with him were removed to a segregation camp in Narkooldanga; and all clothes which might convey infection were burned, compensation being at once paid to their owners. Cultures were made from the important organs and were sent to Monsieur Haffkine at Bombay for bacteriological examination.

On the following day three other persons in Kapalitola were found to be suffering from somewhat similar symptoms. One of these, a boy two years and-a-half old, has since died, and the other two are under observation. Seven other persons who had been in contact with the deceased were discharged after detention for ten days, during which time they showed no suspicious symptoms.

A Dom who assisted at the post-mortem examination got accidentally pricked in the finger, and has been dangerously ill, but is now reported to be recovering.

On the 27th April three more cases occurred in the neighbourhood of Kapalitola, one of which was fatal.

On the 24th April four cases, of which three were fatal, occurred in Market Street and Municipal Office Street, and on the same day a man died with suspicious symptoms at 39, Ezra Street. On the 27th four more cases occurred in the same locality, two of which have proved fatal. There were three cases, one fatal, on the 28th; and two more, one of which died, occurred yesterday.

On the 25th April a bearer in the employ of Messrs. Kilburn and Company died suddenly at 4, Fairlie Place, and on the following day a second bearer of the same firm died in Jaun Bazar.

On the morning of the 28th a man employed in Clive Street was admitted into the contagious ward of the Campbell Hospital with suspicious symptoms, and died the same evening.

On the 27th April four cases were admitted into the Medical College Hospital from Phear's Lane, Chunam Gully and Champatola.

Owing to the admitted existence in Calcutta at all times of the year of a form of fever accompanied by bubonic swellings, which on occasions proves fatal, and in view of the fact that the general death-rate of the town for the week ending the 23rd April was only 31·3 per thousand per annum as compared with 38·9, the mean death-rate of the corresponding period for the last five years, there seemed, until yesterday morning to be room for doubt as to the character of the suspicious deaths which have occurred during the last fortnight. That, I fear, can now no longer be said. Monsieur Haffkine, whose authority on the subject of plague is undoubted, now reports by telegram: "Cultivation sent from Calcutta produced typical plague involution forms Identity with plague microbe undoubted." The Lieutenant-Governor has conferred with all the Medical Officers of Government who have seen the suspicious cases, and they are unanimous in pronouncing them to be true plague. As I have already stated, no connexion can be traced between the persons affected, all of whom are residents of Calcutta, and any travellers who have arrived from the areas now infected in the Bombay Presidency and the Panjab. All such travellers are most carefully inspected at Chausa and Chakardharpur. Their railway tickets are punched with a peculiar mark before they leave the infected area, and persons holding such tickets are kept under observation throughout the journey and for ten days after their arrival in Calcutta. No suspicious cases have been discovered among the persons from Bombay and the Panjab who are now under observation here, and the Health Officer, after making special inquiry into the point, has been unable to trace any connection between the local cases and the arrivals from infected areas. Rats, however, have been found dead in considerable numbers in the press-room of the East Indian Railway and in godowns connected with the coasting trade with Bombay, and it is possible that the infection has been imported by these animals.

The fact already mentioned, that the general death-rate of the town is exceptionally low, affords grounds for believing that the cases which have now been reported are the first which have occurred, and that if the people co-operate cordially with the Government it may be possible to prevent the disease from gaining a firm footing in the town. The possibility of plague appearing in Calcutta has long been foreseen, and a scheme for dealing with it was prepared by the Chairman of the Corporation in consultation with the Government some months ago. As part of that scheme twenty-five doctors and as many nurses were procured from England, and it was arranged that until their services were required in Calcutta they should be employed and paid by the Bombay Government. The Bombay Government has now been asked by telegram to send two doctors and two nurses at once for duty in Calcutta, and more will be called for as occasion may demand. Meanwhile from the very first as ample precautions have been taken as if the first case had been known to be a case of plague. A plague hospital and a segregation camp had already been prepared; the suspected cases were removed to the hospital, and the contact cases isolated at the camp. All houses believed to be contaminated have been disinfected as thoroughly as possible, and places in which dead rats have been found have been thoroughly cleansed.

The measures to be adopted in dealing with an outbreak of plague are stated briefly in Chapter XVI, Report on the Plague in India, 1896, 1897, recently published by the Government of India. They are the following:—

(a) The prompt detection of cases by carefully enforced death registration, house-to-house visitation, and such other means as are found practicable.

(b) The segregation of the sick and their careful nursing and treatment in well-ventilated and sanitary hospitals.

(c) The segregation, after disinfection of clothing, bedding, &c., under medical supervision and in sanitary surroundings, of the persons who, by association with the sick, have been especially exposed to the risk of infection.

(d) The evacuation of infected houses and localities, the inmates being lodged in carefully supervised health camps.

(e) The thorough cleansing and disinfection of infected houses and localities before the inmates are permitted to return.

(f) The enforcement of general sanitary precautions, such as extensive cleansing of dwellings, freer admissions of light and air, destruction or modification of insanitary buildings, improvement of drainage and conservancy, abatement of overcrowding, and opening out of congested localities.

Plague Regulation No. 9 of the 10th November 1897 gives effect to these principles in Calcutta, but mitigates them in the case of the upper classes by providing in rule 46 for the formation of private hospitals and segregation camps subject to the necessary precautions.

To these must now be added inoculation with the prophylactic virus prepared by Monsieur Haffkine in his Laboratory at Bombay. Monsieur Haffkine asserts that inoculation by this material "prevents from 80 to 90 per cent. of deaths from plague and reduces the plague from an epidemic form to the position of a sporadic disease." Surgeon-Major-General Harvey was deputed by the Government of India last month to Bombay specially to examine the results of M. Haffkine's inoculations. This Government asked to be informed of Dr. Harvey's conclusions, and enquired further whether, if those results were favourable, the Government of India would agree to any modification of the segregation system. The Government of India have replied that Surgeon-Major-General Harvey's report is being forwarded by post. It is stated to be generally favourable to the system of inoculation; but the Government of India consider that the inoculation of the inmates of an infected house cannot take the place of the evacuation of the house, which is essential for the purpose of disinfection. They hold that the inmates of an infected house may be given the option of being inoculated instead of being removed to an observation camp for the full period of incubation; but after inoculation it will be necessary to keep them in a segregation camp during the course of the inoculation in order that they may be properly sheltered and kept under medical surveillance. As soon as the process of inoculation is over they may be released from segregation. The Government of India also consider that the inmates of houses round an infected house may, if they submit to inoculation, be exempted from both evacuation of the houses and segregation of their inmates. These concessions do not affect the treatment of persons actually suffering from plague in uninoculated households, who must be segregated either in public or private hospitals. But now that the efficacy of the Haffkine virus has been demonstrated, the experiment will be tried of exempting all families, which have been entirely inoculated prior to the occurrence of any case of plague among them, from liability to segregation. That is to say, if a member of a completely inoculated family is attacked by plague, neither he nor his family will be liable to removal to a segregation camp. This privilege will be subject to the strict proviso that any case that may occur in the family must be reported to the Health Officer within twelve hours of the patient falling ill, and that the directions of the Health Officer as to the isolation of the patient within the house and the daily disinfection of all parts of it are faithfully carried out. The Lieutenant-Governor wishes it to be distinctly understood that while on the faith of the experience in Bombay he strongly commends the method of inoculation to the people, inoculation will be pressed on no one. Every man will be left entirely free to satisfy himself of its efficacy and of the propriety of asking for it in the circumstances of his own household. Every assistance will be given to those who do apply, but the matter is left absolutely and entirely to the discretion of the people themselves.

This Government has already recognised and given effect to the principle that all hospitals, whether Government hospitals or private caste hospitals, should be so arranged as to provide accommodation for the immediate family of the patients. It is of the first importance that the sick people should not be separated from their families. In the plans that have been drawn up for the plague hospitals now under construction the unit is the family block, which is divided into two parts communicating with each other—one for the patients and the other for the members of the family who accompany them. Each such block will be self-contained and secluded, and will be so arranged that female patients can be admitted without any violation of their purda. The physicians of the family will be admitted at all times, and any method of treatment that is desired may be resorted to. There can be no question that the most dangerous place for the members of an uninoculated family is the house or room in which the plague-stricken person was attacked, and that they will be far safer in the hut in which he is being treated because it is open to light and air.

Finally, I may explain that the third question asked by the Hon'ble Babu Narendra Nath Sen is based upon a misapprehension of the scientific aspects of the subject. Only one plague bacillus is known. It was discovered almost simultaneously and independently by Kitasato and Yersin during the Hong-Kong epidemic of 1894. Their discovery has been verified during the present epidemic in India by Monsieur Haffkine, Mr. Hankin, various Medical Officers of the Government of India, the members of the scientific missions sent to Bombay by the Governments of Germany, Austria, Russia and Egypt, and by other foreign scientific authorities. But this bacillus produces three different forms of plague—simple, septicaemic and pneumonic—according as it attacks different parts of the human system. The bacilli discovered by Dr. Simpson were not plague bacilli at all. They were common atmospheric bacilli, and Dr. Cunningham showed conclusively that they did not come from the blood of the persons supposed to be suffering from plague, but were the result of contamination by the air.

Speech by His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor.

To the very clear and calm statement which has been read to you by Mr. Risley, I think it is desirable that I should, on an occasion so important, add a few words of my own.

You have heard that not till yesterday were we able to say whether the dropping cases which have occurred during the last ten days were or were not plague. It is, alas, now certain that they were plague, and, as was our duty, we have told you frankly and at once.

But I want you to take courage, and to give courage to those whom you represent and influence.

You know now that in a population of 800,000 people there has been only the absolutely infinitesimal occurrence of a couple of dozen cases in ten days. They are few and sporadic, and every one has been dealt with as it occurred, with the entire precautions that the plague rules require. We think, therefore, we may assume that the plague has been taken firmly and in time. We have had the immense advantage over Bombay in 1896 that we were on our guard, and that the plague had not established itself before it was recognised. It has come at a time of year which is the least advantageous to the spread of it, and in a season which, as Mr. Risley has shown to you, is exceptionally healthy. There is therefore every reason to hope and believe that we shall succeed in preventing the plague from assuming an epidemic form; and in all the encouraging features of the case no sensible person will feel the smallest grounds for alarm. I am sure you will all join with me in circulating to your constituents this consoling and reassuring character of the case.

In another and very important matter I will ask you to give your aid in re-assuring the people. Whenever segregation is necessary, it will be carried out with the strictest regard to the feelings of human nature. No wife shall be separated from her husband, no husband from his family, and the better classes will receive every encouragement in the arrangement of private hospitals in their own compounds or in garden houses in the suburbs to which they can remove themselves and their families in case of attack. But in addition to all this mitigation of the Bombay rules, we have announced to you to-day the success of a new method. Inoculation, I repeat, will be pressed on nobody, but in this method, when once you have assured yourselves of its efficacy, lies, I am satisfied, the assurance of safety to our city. I have made a great experiment. We have intimated to you that when families have been completely inoculated, we will leave them alone, even if plague attacks a member of it. It is a risk, but a risk worth running. We accept it because we believe the inoculated patient will have the very mildest form of attack, and he will not be a material danger to his family or his neighbours.

The policy of segregation is a painful necessity; the policy of inoculation we suggest to you is, at last, and for the first time in the great battle with plague in India, a policy of hope.

Therefore it is, gentlemen, that I bid you be of good cheer. Our plague is meanwhile a mere tiny business, for which we have made the most careful preparations, and which we hope to keep a tiny business. But should it be otherwise, we start our battle under conditions and with methods which give us assured hopes of such a victory as has not yet been won in India.

I am told that large numbers of people are leaving Calcutta under the apprehension that quarantine is about to be established. They may be re-assured. There is no such intention whatever.

PLAGUE REGULATION No. 14.

Calcutta, the 2nd May 1898.

IN exercise of the powers conferred by section 2 of the Epidemic Diseases Act III of 1897 and by the Notification of the Government of India in the Home Department, No. 302 dated the 4th February, and in supersession of Plague Notification No. 3, dated the 17th August 1897, so far as it relates to Calcutta, the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal is pleased to declare that all vessels and persons leaving the port of Calcutta for ports out of India or for the ports of Rangoon, Madras and Aden shall be subjected to the rules in the Regulation hereinafter set forth:—

RULES.

1. Medical inspection and bill of health.—No vessel shall leave the port of Calcutta for any port out of India or for the ports of Rangoon, Madras and Aden, until she has been inspected by the Health Officer, and the Master or person in charge of such vessel has obtained from such officer a bill of health in the form given below, stating that the Master or person in charge, officers, crew and passengers (if any) of such vessel have been inspected by him by day on shore at the time of embarkation and are free from infectious disease dangerous to life and from the bubonic plague. Provided that in the case of passengers a certificate in the form annexed as Appendix I, by a Commissioned Medical Officer appointed for this purpose, and dated not more than 12 hours before the departure of the vessel, shall be accepted in lieu of examination by the Port Health Officer. Such certificates shall be annexed to, and form part of, the bill of health.

2. Removal of infected persons.—Should the Health Officer be of opinion that any person so inspected is suffering from the bubonic plague or is not free from the infection of the plague, such person shall be removed to a plague hospital or place of observation appointed by Government.

3. Disinfection of suspected articles.—All contaminated or suspected articles shall be thoroughly disinfected on shore, under the supervision of the Health Officer, in the manner prescribed in Appendix II.

4. Fresh bill of health when necessary.—After the Master or person in charge of the vessel has obtained a bill of health under the provisions of these rules, no person shall be admitted on board such vessel before she leaves the port, unless such vessel is again inspected by the Health Officer of the port, and another bill of health obtained from such officer by the Master or person in charge of such vessel.

5. Port Clearance.—(a) Except as provided for in clause (b) of this rule, no port clearance shall be delivered to any vessel bound from Calcutta to any port out of India, or to the ports of Rangoon, Madras and Aden, unless and until the Master or person in charge thereof shall produce the bill of health so to be obtained as aforesaid; and it shall be the duty of the Collector of Customs to refuse delivery of the port clearance, without the production of such bill of health.

(b) Provided that the Collector of Customs may grant port clearance under section 66 of the Sea Customs Act on a guarantee being given by the Agents of a vessel that within 48 hours of departure they will produce a duplicate copy of the bill of health as finally granted, signed by the Health Officer, and that if for any reason the Health Officer should refuse to grant the bill of health, they will bring the vessel back to her moorings.

6. Health Officers.—In these rules "Health Officer" means the Health Officer of the Port of Calcutta, and includes an Assistant Health Officer and any person appointed by name or in virtue of his office to perform the duties of an Assistant Health Officer.

H. H. RISLEY,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

BILL OF HEALTH.

THIS is to certify that the ship (or steamer) sailing under the flag and under the command of as Master, of tons, bound for with a crew of persons* and passengers, is at the time of leaving this port in a satisfactory sanitary condition, and that no case of infectious disease dangerous to life, or of bubonic plague, exists among her officers, passengers, or crew, all of whom have been inspected by me, with the exception of the persons named below, by day on shore at the time of embarkation.

* Including officers and able-bodied seamen.

It is further certified that the town and port of Calcutta are at present† free from plague, epidemic cholera, yellow fever and all other dangerous epidemic disease.

† Or as the case may be.

The persons named below, who are personally known to me, or whose identity has been proved to my satisfaction, have produced the annexed Certificates from Commissioned Medical Officers duly appointed in this behalf.

APPENDIX I.

CERTIFICATE.

I DO hereby certify that I have examined , who is personally known to me or whose identity has been proved to my satisfaction, a passenger on the ship , not more than twelve hours before the departure of the ship from the port of , and find him in good health, except as noted in the margin, and free from any symptoms of bubonic plague.

Rank.

Official designation.

Specially appointed under Rule I of Plague Notification No. 14, dated the 2nd May 1898, to examine passengers leaving the port of by sea.

APPENDIX II.

UNDER-CLOTHING, bedding, wearing apparel, mattresses, carpets, etc., which are contaminated or suspected, should be disinfected in stoves at normal pressure, or at a pressure of from one and-a-half to two degrees, with or without the presence of steam.

Before a stove is passed as efficient for the purposes of disinfection, it should be subjected to a test, with the aid of a signal thermometer, showing the moment when the temperature in the middle of a mattress rises to at least 100° (centigrade).

To ensure that the disinfection is effective, this temperature must be maintained for from 10 to 15 minutes.

Disinfecting solutions—

(a) Solution of corrosive sublimate, of 1 part in 1,000, with the addition of 10 parts of chloride of soda.

The solution should be coloured with aniline dye or indigo. It should not be placed in metal vessels.

(b) A 5 per cent. solution of pure crystallized carbolic acid, or 5 per cent. of crude commercial carbolic acid, in a warm solution of soft soap.

The carbolic solutions will be useful, more particularly for disinfecting articles, such as metals, instruments, etc., which can neither be subjected to a temperature of 100° centigrade, nor placed in contact with corrosive sublimate. They may also be used at ports not provided with a disinfecting stove of the prescribed pattern.

NOTIFICATION.

No. 2648Medl.—The 2nd May 1898.—Under Rule 1 of Plague Notification No. 14, dated the 2nd May 1898, the following Medical Officers are authorized to examine passengers leaving the Port of Calcutta for Ports out of India and for the Ports of Rangoon, Madras and Aden:—

Minimum required in all papers collectively.

(a) Todhunter's Mensuration for Beginners.
(b) "Book-keeping," by Ball and Hamilton.
"Book-keeping" by double and single entry, by W. Inglis (Chambers' Educational Course).

1. The examination is held annually at the Civil Engineering College, Sibpur, on the 1st Monday in June. The examination will be conducted either at the College or by an Examiner, Public Works Accounts (including Railway and Telegraph), in Bengal, Assam and Burma only. The examination will be ipso facto vitiated, if it be not held (begun and completed) on the dates fixed; but the officer who will conduct the examination may make his own arrangements in regard to the place and hour of examination with the candidates.

Candidates will not be examined in any of the Calcutta offices.

A candidate already in permanent Government employ* may be allowed to compete in the examination even if he is more than 25 years of age, and may be appointed to an accountantship if he passes it; but if he is not already in pensionable service, he will be eligible only for appointment to the non-pensionable establishment on State Railways.

* This term includes employment under Local Boards and foreign bodies if such is pensionable by the British Government.

2. The candidate should apply to an Examiner of Public Works Accounts not later than 30 days previous to the date fixed for the examination and obtain his consent to conduct the examination, if examination at the College is not convenient. The application must bear the address of the candidate, must be accompanied by a fee of Rs 10 and the following certificates, and must be forwarded by him, not direct to the Principal, but through the Examiner.

Certificates may be submitted in original, or true copies attested by an officer of the Engineer or Accounts Branch, but none will be returned:—

(1) Certificate of good character signed by applicant's immediate official superior, or by the instructor under whom he has been educated, or by some other superior under whom he may have been brought up or employed, or to whom he may be well known. (This certificate must have special reference to the two years immediately preceding the application.)

(2) Certificate of age (baptismal or of birth not required if the candidate is already in permanent Government employ.)

(3) Certificate that the application is in the candidate's hand-writing.

NOTE.—A candidate already in Government service should, in like manner, submit his application through his immediate official superior to an Examiner of Accounts qualified to hold the particular examination, and should state whether he desires to be examined at the office of the Examiner of Accounts concerned or at the College.

It will rest with the Examiner of Accounts, to whom the candidate submits his application, to decide, on a consideration of the certificates submitted, whether the candidate should be allowed to appear for the examination or whether his application should be rejected. The Examiner of Accounts will then forward to the Principal for registration the names of the accepted candidates. The names of these candidates should be entered in a statement showing their ages and their addresses, and also showing where each candidate is to be examined, whether at the college or at the office of the Examiner of Accounts. This statement, together with the fees, should be transmitted to the Principals not later than 15 days after the dates fixed in paragraph 2 for the submission of applications of candidates.

3. Examination papers that are issued for examination need not be returned.

4. Each examination is complete in itself. A candidate who has failed in an examination, and presents himself for examination on a subsequent occasion, must undergo the full examination and furnish fresh fee and certificates.

5. Passed candidates should apply, not to the Principal of the College, nor to the Accountant-General, Public Works Department, but direct to the Examiner of Public Works Accounts in the province or railway under whom they may desire to be employed.

6. It must be distinctly understood that the passing of this examination does not give any claim to an appointment, and that in making appointments, preference will be given to qualified persons who are already employed in the Department.

7. The Civil Engineering College acts solely as an examining body in reference to admission to the 4th grade of Accountants, Public Works Department.

N.B.—The attention of candidates is drawn to the alteration in rule 2 (3). In future no candidate is to apply direct the Principal for permission to attend the examination, but must send his application through an Examiner of Public Works Accounts, who will decide whether the candidate is to be admitted.
The Principal will attend to no application received direct.

   (b) Writing from dictation from an easy Bengali book.
   (c) Arithmetic to easy fractions and simple rule of three.

3. Under rule I, section 1, paragraph 6, examinations will be held in the Campbell Medical School at 8 A.M. on every Wednesday from the 15th May to the 14th June. Candidates for this examination shall have to apply to the Superintendent for permission to appear at it at least one week prior to the date of examination

4 Every candidate shall have to produce a certificate of residence and respectability signed by a Government officer, not below the rank of Deputy Magistrate, serving in the district in which the candidate ordinarily resides, or by some authority satisfactory to the Superintendent.

Should the Superintendent find cause to reject any such certificate, he shall be empowered to do so without giving his reasons.

5. Candidates should not be less than 16 years of age.

6. Their names must be registered between the 1st and the 15th of June.

7. No fee will be charged on admission or for tuition.

Scholarship and Prize Rules.

1. Thirty scholarships will be awarded to female students in all the four years' classes. The scholarships are of the value of Rs. 7 a month each, and will carry free tuition.

2. In the first year these scholarships will be awarded in order of merit, as determined by the admission certificates produced by the candidates, in the order stated in the admission rules.

3. The scholarships for second, third and fourth-year students will be awarded on the result of their examinations.

4. The scholarships are liable to forfeiture for misconduct, want of progress, or irregular attendance.

5. A special prize in silver medal, together with certificates of honour, two or three in number for each subject, will be awarded to the best female students in each class.

School Accommodation and Lodging.

1. A portion of the lecture theatre has been reserved for female students.

2. A portion of the dissecting-room has been screened off for the special use of female students.

3. For the accommodation of female students, a Hostel has been provided close to the school. This Hostel is called the "Lady Elliott Hostel," and is under the control of the Ladies' Committee, Countess of Dufferin Fund. For particulars application should be made to the Lady Superintendent of the Hostel.

Superintendent, Campbell Medical School.

EXTRACT FROM THE RULES OF THE CAMPBELL MEDICAL SCHOOL.

SECTION I.—Rules for the Admission of Male Students to the Licentiate Class.

1. The course of study will extend over four years.

2. The number of students on the roll is limited.

3. Candidates for admission must apply personally and produce one of the following certificates of general education:—

(a) Certificate of having passed any of the Calcutta University Examinations in Arts.
(b) Certificate from the Registrar of the Calcutta University of having failed in any of the Examinations in Arts.
(c) Calcutta University Entrance certificate.
(d) Certificate from the Registrar of the Calcutta University of having appeared at the Entrance Examination and passed in two subjects at least, of which English is one.
(e) The Middle English Scholarship Examination certificate.

4. Preference will be given to candidates according to their certificates of general education.

N.B.—A few Barua-Mugh students may be admitted on production of the Middle Vernacular Scholarship certificates, provided they can satisfy the school authorities that they possess a sufficient knowledge of English.

5. Their age should not be less than 16 nor above 23 years.

6. They should have their names registered at the school between the 1st and 15th June. Vacancies may be filled up before this latter date. Vacancies may also be filled up at the discretion of the Superintendent up to the 30th June, but students admitted after the 15th June will not be eligible for the scholarships and free-studentships referred to in paragraph 1, section II.

7. Every student on admission, except Muhammadans and out scholarship-holders, must pay the following fees before his name can be entered in the school-rolls:—

	Rs.
License fee	10
Entrance fee	2
School fee for June	3
Total ...	15

8. On account of the Mohsin Fund, a Muhammadan student is required to pay Rs. 13-8 on admission (viz., license fee Rs. 10, entrance fee Rs. 2, and school fee for the month of June Re. 1-8).

9. An out scholarship-holder (candidate bringing a scholarship with him) has to pay Rs. 12 (license fee Rs. 10 and entrance fee Rs. 2) on admission.

10. The school-fee (except for those mentioned below) is three rupees a month, which must be paid on or before the 15th of each month for which it is due.

Muhammadan students pay Re. 1-8 a month.

Scholarship-holders and free students pay one rupee a month.

Muhammadan scholarship-holders and free students pay eight annas a month.

11. The fees due from scholarship-holders are deducted from their stipends.

12. No fees paid and credited in the school-books will be refunded under any circumstances.

SECTION II.—Scholarship and Free Presentation Rules.

1. A certain number of first-year students are awarded scholarships or free studentships on admission.

2. These scholarships and free studentships are given in order of merit according to the qualification-certificates produced by the candidates, in the order stated in the admission rules.

3. The scholarships and free studentships are liable to forfeiture for misconduct, want of progress or irregular attendance.

4. Scholarships and free studentships for second and third-year students are distributed on the result of examination.

5. At the end of the third year, the Superintendent will select a limited number of students who will receive a stipend of Rs. 20 a month during the fourth year, provided they execute a bond to enter Government service.

J. B. GIBBONS, Surgeon-Major,
Superintendent, Campbell Medical School.

NOTIFICATION.

IT is hereby notified that for the ensuing half-yearly Departmental Examination of junior Civilians, Deputy Magistrates and others to be held on the 5th May 1898 and the two following days, one Local Examination Committee will be convened in the Presidency Division, viz., at No. 24½, Dalhousie Square West, Calcutta, for officers employed in all the districts of this Division.

2. The examination will commence at 11 o'clock, A.M., each day.

COMMR.'S OFFICE, PRESIDENCY DIVISION, CALCUTTA, the 14th April 1898.

CIVIL ENGINEERING COLLEGE, SIBPUR.

Apprentice Department.

THE date for admission to this Department is 6th June 1898. Candidates must be at least 15, and not more than 17 years of age.

They must have passed standard VII of the Code for European Schools or the University Entrance Examination. They must submit their applications accompanied by a certificate of age and a certificate showing that they have passed the requisite standard so as to reach the Principal not later than the 6th May 1898. No application will be attended to after this date.

The maximum number to be admitted each year is limited to 60, and applicants will be selected in order of merit.

Every applicant, before admission to the College, will be examined by the College Surgeon as to his physical strength, chest measurement, fitness for manual labour, and eyesight. If this officer's report is unsatisfactory, the applicant will not be admitted.

Before an apprentice is admitted to the College, his parent or guardian must sign an agreement in the form shown in Appendix A.

The sessions begins on the first Monday in June. All apprentices are required to join the College on that date. Any apprentice prevented by sickness from attending on the opening day must produce a certificate to that effect from a Civil or Assistant Surgeon, failing which he will be liable to a fine not exceeding Rs. 10. No apprentice will be admitted or re-admitted to the College after the close of the month of June, except by special order of the Director of Public Instruction. This permission will only be given under exceptional circumstances.

There will be no vacancy on the free list for Christian Apprentices in June next, but there will be five on the reduced* fee list. For natives there will be at least nine vacancies, possibly more, on the reduced† fee list.

* Rs. 5 per mensem.

† Rs. 2 per mensem.

These vacancies will be filled up after the opening of the session by the Board of Visitors from those apprentices who join the College. No guarantee can, therefore, be given beforehand, but forms to be filled up for the consideration of the Board can be had on application to the Principal.

J. S. SLATER,
Principal, Civil Engineering College

CIVIL ENGINEERING COLLEGE, SIBPUR.

Session 1898-99.

CANDIDATES for admission to the Engineer Department should apply to the Principal before the 15th May 1898. The session begins on Monday, the 6th June 1898.

Candidates must furnish proof that they have passed one of the following tests:—

(1) The F.A. Examination of the Calcutta University, or a similar standard of any Indian University recognised by the Calcutta University. The candidate's age must be under 21 years.

(2) The B.A. Examination in the B Course in Physics and Chemistry. The candidate's age must be under 23 years. (These students are admitted direct into the second-year class.)

The maximum number to be admitted each year is limited to 40. The position in the University Examinations and the age of the candidates will be taken into consideration when selection is made, and such selection will be made by the Principal.

Ten scholarships will be awarded to students entering the Engineer Department not being already holders of junior or senior scholarships. Every applicant, before admission to the College, will be examined by the College Surgeon as to his physical strength, fitness for manual labour and eyesight.

Further particulars will be supplied on application to the Principal.

MILITARY SECRETARY'S OFFICE.

NOTIFICATION.

Simla, the 29th April 1898.

No. 1285M.—His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor-General will hold a Levée at Viceregal Lodge, Simla, at 9-45 P.M. on Tuesday, the 24th May 1898.

All Civil and Military Officers and the Native Officers of the Detachment of the 1st Battalion, 5th Gurkhas, are invited to attend.

All Officers and Gentlemen attending the Levée are requested to bring with them two cards, with their names legibly written thereon—one card to be delivered on entering Viceregal Lodge, and the other to the Aide-de-Camp in waiting at the time of presentation.

Gentlemen, who have not already been presented at the Court of St. James or at the Viceregal Court, are requested to send their names and addresses to the Aide-de-Camp in waiting not later than Monday, the 16th May 1898; and, when attending the Levée, to have the names of those Gentlemen who are to present them also written on their cards.

Gentlemen presenting others must themselves attend the Levée.

Gentlemen wearing uniform will appear in full dress.

Gentlemen not entitled to wear uniform will appear in evening dress.

By Command,

A. DURAND, Colonel,
Military Secretary to the Viceroy.

NOTIFICATIONS.

Simla, the 27th April 1898.

No. 712E.B.—The following communication, dated the 23rd April 1898, addressed by Her Majesty's Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs to the Right Hon'ble Lord George F. Hamilton, Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India, is published for general information and guidance:—

"Her Majesty being fully determined to observe the duties of neutrality during the existing state of war between Spain and the United States of America, and being, moreover, resolved to prevent, as far as possible, the use of Her Majesty's harbours, ports and coasts, and the waters within Her Majesty's territorial jurisdiction in aid of the warlike purposes of either belligerent, and to ensure by every lawful means in Her power the due observance by Her subjects towards both belligerent Powers of the rules embodied in Article VI of the Treaty of Washington of the 8th of May 1871, copies of which are herewith enclosed, has commanded me to communicate to your Lordship for your guidance the following rules, which are to be treated and enforced as Her Majesty's orders and directions:—

"Rule 1.—During the continuance of the present state of war, all ships of war of either belligerent are prohibited from making use of any port or roadstead in the United Kingdom, the Isle of Man or the Channel Islands, or in any of Her Majesty's Colonies or Foreign possessions or dependencies, or of any waters subject to the territorial jurisdiction of the British Crown, as a station or place of resort for any warlike purpose, or for the purpose of obtaining any facilities for warlike equipment, and no ship of war of either belligerent shall hereafter be permitted to leave any such port, roadstead or waters from which any vessel of the other belligerent (whether the same shall be a ship of war or a merchant ship) shall have previously departed until after the expiration of at least twenty-four hours from the departure of such last-mentioned vessel beyond the territorial jurisdiction of Her Majesty.

"Rule 2.—If there is now in any such port, roadstead or waters subject to the territorial jurisdiction of the British Crown any ship of war of either belligerent, such ship of war shall leave such port, roadstead or waters within such time, not less than twenty-four hours, as shall be reasonable, having regard to all the circumstances and the conditions of such ship as to repairs, provisions or things necessary for the subsistence of her crew, and if after the date hereof any ship of war of either belligerent shall enter any such port, roadstead or waters subject to the territorial jurisdiction of the British Crown, such ship shall depart and put to sea within twenty-four hours after her entrance into any such port, roadstead or waters, except in case of stress of weather or of her requiring provisions or things necessary for the subsistence of her crew or repairs, in either of which cases the authorities of the port or of the nearest port (as the case may be) shall require her to put to sea as soon as possible after the expiration of such period of twenty-four hours without permitting her to take in supplies beyond what may be necessary for her immediate use, and no such vessel which may have been allowed to remain within British waters for the purpose of repair shall continue in any such port, roadstead or waters for a longer period than twenty-four hours after her necessary repairs shall have been completed. Provided, nevertheless, that in all cases in which there shall be any vessels (whether ships of war or merchant ships) of both the said belligerent parties in the same port, roadstead or waters within the territorial jurisdiction of Her Majesty, there shall be an interval of not less than twenty-four hours between the departure therefrom of any such vessel (whether a ship of war or merchantman) of the one belligerent and the subsequent departure therefrom of any ship of war of the other belligerent, and the time hereby limited for the departure of such ships of war respectively shall always in case of necessity be extended so far as may be requisite for giving effect to this proviso, but no further or otherwise.

"Rule 3.—No ship of war of either belligerent shall hereafter be permitted, while in any port, roadstead or waters subject to the territorial jurisdiction of Her Majesty, to take in any supplies except provisions and such other things as may be requisite for the subsistence of her crew, and except so much coal only as may be sufficient to carry such vessel to the nearest port of her own country or to some nearer destination, and no coal shall be again supplied to any such ship of war in the same or any other port, roadstead or waters subject to the territorial jurisdiction of Her Majesty without special permission until after the expiration of three months from the time when such coal may have been last supplied to her within British waters as aforesaid.

"Rule 4.—Armed ships of either belligerent are interdicted from carrying prizes made by them into the ports, harbours, roadsteads or waters of the United Kingdom, the Isle of Man, the Channel Islands, or any of Her Majesty's Colonies or possessions abroad.

The Governor or other chief authority of each of Her Majesty's territories or possessions beyond the seas shall forthwith notify and publish the above rules."

Rules embodied in Article VI of the Treaty of Washington, dated the 8th May 1871.

"A neutral Government is bound, first, to use due diligence to prevent the fitting out, arming or equipping within its jurisdiction of any vessel which it has reasonable ground to believe is intended to cruise or to carry on war against a Power with which it is at peace, and also to use like diligence to prevent the departure from its jurisdiction of any vessel intended to cruise or carry on war as above, such vessel having been specially adapted in whole or in part within such jurisdiction to warlike use; secondly, not to permit or suffer either belligerent to make use of its ports or waters as the base of naval operations against the other or for the purpose of the renewal or augmentation of military supplies or arms or the recruitment of men; thirdly, to exercise due diligence in its own ports and waters and as to all persons within its jurisdiction to prevent any violation of the foregoing obligations and duties."

The Governor-General in Council is pleased to direct that the Orders and Directions of Her Majesty the Queen, Empress of India, as contained in the above communication, are to be obeyed by all persons within the limits of Her Majesty's territories and possessions in India.

The 28th April 1898.

No. 516G.—Mr. T. J C. Chichele-Plowden, C.S.I., of the Indian Civil Service, a Resident of the 1st class and Resident at Hyderabad, was absent on furlough for six months and twenty-one days under article 340 (b) of the Civil Service Regulations, with effect from the 23rd March 1895. A Dictionary of the Economic Products of India

BY DR. GEO. WATT, C.I.E.,

Reporter on Economic Products.

The first five volumes and Vol. VI, Parts I, II, III & IV of the Dictionary are ready at the Office of the Superintendent of Government Printing, No. 8, Hastings Street, Calcutta, and will be supplied to non-subscribers on receipt of the price for the complete set, which is Rs. 45 in India, and 3 guineas in England (exclusive of the Index, for which a separate charge will be made): packing and postage, in India, 8 annas per volume; for England, Rs. 2-6 per volume. For copies bound in half calf or half morocco, Rs. 6 and 8 shillings, respectively, will be charged extra for the whole set.

The Dictionary is intended to deal with the products of India—animal, vegetable, and mineral; each product being treated after a uniform plan, the paragraphs of which give the scientific, vernacular, and European names; habitat or source; history; properties and uses (both chemical and industrial); trade statistics; markets, &c. The work is arranged alphabetically according to scientific nomenclature, but commercial and important vernacular names are also given as cross-references, so that little difficulty need be experienced in finding the account of a product, even when its scientific name is unknown to the reader.

An important feature of the Dictionary consists in the fact that derived information is in every instance given under quotation marks, and with a reference to the original publication. Numerous contributors have, however, furnished the results of new discoveries and confirmed the vernacular names, so that the Dictionary is not only a complete compilation of published information, but has been brought abreast of the most recent inventions and discoveries.

Volume I contains the letters A and B, and consists of 559 royal 8vo. pages; Vol. II embraces the letter C in 689 pages; Vol. III contains the letters D, E, F and half of G.; Vol IV latter half of G to middle of L; and Vol. V contains the latter half of L to end of O; Vol. VI (which consist of four parts), Part I, contains letters P to R. The whole work completed in nine volumes (including Parts II to IV of Vol. VI); but a tenth volume may also be issued, consisting of an Index to all the vernacular and other names contained in the Dictionary. The Index will practically be a Glossary of the Vernacular and European names of the plants, animals and minerals of India, and, as such, will be a work of reference, which, it is hoped, may prove of considerable value.

AUSTRALIA—PIONEER RIVER.

Breach at East Point Spit beaconed and lighted.

THE Port Master, Brisbane, has given notice (No. 8 of 1898) that the breach made by the Pioneer river through East Point Spit is beaconed and lighted for use, the old entrance being no longer marked.

Directions.—The Fairway buoy is placed in 3 fathoms off the edge of shoal water, and lies with Slade Islet bearing north and Flat Top bearing S.E., distant 5 cables. It may be passed on either side bringing two white beacons in line bearing W. ½ S. and pass a red buoy to starboard, and between red and black buoys marking the gap in the stone wall through which the breach occurred; then haul up sharp and steer for Mt. Bassett, bringing two white leading beacons in line ahead bearing N.W by N. ½ N. until two white beacons on East Point come in line astern leading on a N.W. by W. ½ W. course, then proceed as before.

These beacons are lighted at night.

Anchorage lights in river Hooghly.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 178 of 1898, paragraph 3) that, on 1st April 1898, the undermentioned anchorage lights would be shown in the river Hooghly:—

(a) Kalpi anchorage (Jigerkolli) light is a fixed white light, elevated about 12 fee, above the water, and visible from about North, through west, to S.S.W., at distance of 5 miles in clear weather.

It is situated near the surveying beacon about half a mile eastward of Jigerkolli obelisk.

Approximate position, lat. 22° 6′ 0″ N., long. 88° 11′ 15″ E.

(b) Kantabaria point light is a fixed red light, elevated 16 feet above the water visible 5 miles in clear weather, and shown either from Kantabaria obelisk, or from a mast close to it.

Approximate position, lat. 22° 8′ 0″ N., long. 88° 12′ 40″ E.

(c) Diamond harbour lights are two fixed red lights, visible 2 to 3 miles in clear weather, one shown from the yard arm of the Telegraph office, the other from abreast the Custom-house trees, at an elevation of about 14 feet above the water.

Approximate position, Telegraph office, lat. 22° 11′ 30″ N., long. 88° 11° 5″ E.

CHINA SEA—PESCADORES ISLANDS.

(1) Sunken rock north-eastward of Ragged island.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 179 of 1898) that a sunken rock, on which the sea breaks, is reported to exist in a position with Ragged island bearing S.W. ½ S., distant 4½ cables; and south extreme of Organ island W. ¼ N.

Approximate position, lat. 23° 36′ 30″ N., long. 119° 41′ 45″ E.

The symbol for a rock with less than 6 feet water on it, with the word "breaks" written against it, has been placed on the Admiralty Chart in the above position.

Also, that the sunken rock, shown on the chart nearly a mile, north-eastward, from Organ island, extends about a quarter of a mile north and south.

(2) Rocks northward of North rocks.

Also, that the undermentioned rocks exist northward of North rocks:—

(a) Niyake sho, a sunken rock, on which the steam-vessel Nara maru was wrecked in 1897, is situated about a mile northward of North rocks, in approximately lat. 23° 48′ 0″ N., long. 119° 34′ 50″ E.

(b) Higashiyako sho, a rock above water, in approximately lat. 23° 48′ 20″ N., long. 119° 34′ 55″ E.

(c) Oyake sho, a rock above water, in approximately lat. 23° 48′ 10″ N., long. 119° 34′ 20″ E.

NOTE.—The two masts of the Nara maru are reported to be still standing, and the upper part of the wreck shows at low water.

BAY OF BENGAL—AND ARABIAN SEA.

Alterations in storm signals at ports of India.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 182 of 1898) that the undermentioned system of storm signals is being adopted for all the ports of India, with the exception of those in the river Hooghly, and with that exception the previous systems have been discontinued:—

DAY SIGNALS.

1. CAUTIONARY.—BAY OF BENGAL.—The square flag W of the International Code, hoisted at the storm signal staff, indicates the existence of disturbed squally weather in the Bay of Bengal, which may be the first stage in the formation of a cyclonic storm, and which, if it develops, is likely to affect that part of the coast on which the port, where the signal is shown, is situated.

ARABIAN SEA.—The square flag W of the International Code, hoisted at the storm signal staff, indicates the existence of disturbed weather off the west coast of India near the port or ports where the signal is shown, or the advance of a cyclonic storm across Hindustan from the Bay of Bengal, which may shortly give squally or stormy weather in the Arabian sea.

In either of the above cases if the disturbed conditions pass away without producing stormy weather, the cautionary signal is hauled down; but if the disturbed weather will probably develop into a cyclone, signals indicating the probable position, character, and tract of the approaching storm are shown as follows.

2. WARNING SIGNAL.—A ball indicates that a cyclonic storm has formed, which will probably reach the port where the signal is shown, but is still at a considerable distance from it.

The same signal will also be shown at more important ports on the west coast of India, to indicate that a storm has formed in the Arabian sea at some distance from the coast and will shortly cross one or other of the track of vessels leaving those ports, but will not reach such ports. The Port officer will receive details to communicate to vessels leaving the port.

3. DANGER SIGNALS.—(a) A cone, apex downwards, indicates that a cyclonic storm, probably slight to moderate, is affecting the port, and that its centre will probably cross the coast considerably to the southward.

(b) A cone, apex upwards, indicates that the centre of such a storm, as above (3 a), will probably cross the coast considerably to the northward

(c) A drum indicates that the centre of such a storm as above (3 a) will probably cross the coast over or near the port.

4. GREAT DANGER SIGNALS.—(a) A cone, apex downwards, over a ball, indicates that a cyclonic storm of great intensity is affecting the port and that its centre will probably cross the coast considerably to the southward.

(b) A cone, apex upwards, over a ball, indicates that the centre of such a storm as above (4 a) will probably cross the coast considerably to the northward.

(c) A drum, over a ball, indicates that the centre of such a storm as above (4 a) will probably cross the coast over or near the port.

NIGHT SIGNALS.

1. No cautionary signals are shown at night.
2. A red light indicates similarly to warning signal (2) above.
3. (a) A red light placed vertically over a white light indicates similarly to danger signal 3 a above.

(b) A white light placed vertically over a red light indicates similarly to danger signal 3 b above.

(c) Two red lights, placed vertically, indicate similarly to danger signal 3 c above.

4. (a) Two red lights placed vertically over a white light indicate similarly to great danger signal 4 a above.

(b) A white light over two red lights placed vertically, indicates similarly to great danger signal 4 b above.

(c) Three red lights, placed vertically indicate similarly to great danger signal 4 c above.

SOUTH PACIFIC OCEAN.

Particulars of certain banks.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 145 of 1898) that the undermentioned particulars of certain banks in the South Pacific Ocean are derived from recent examinations by Captain A. Mostyn Field, H.M. surveying vessel Penguin:—

(1) LALLA ROOKH BANK, originally discovered and sounded on by Sir Edward Home, H.M.S. North Star, is 3½ miles long north-east and south-west, with an extreme breadth of 1½ miles.

The north-east end of the bank is in approximately lat. 12° 54′ 30″ S., long. 175° 38′ W., with general depths of 10 to 14 fathoms on it, over a sand and coral bottom.

The central portion of the bank is slightly deeper than the rim, but not very markedly so. From the edge the soundings drop down steeply to depths between 200 and 300 fathoms.

Whilst at anchor on this bank (October 1897) the current was found to set between W.N.W. and S.S.E., from a half to one and a quarter knots. The southerly set was most pronounced between 3h. and 8h. after high water at Wallis island.

(2) HOME KNOLL, named after Captain Sir Edward Home, was found by H.M.S. Penguin while searching for Lalla Rookh bank.

It is a small coral knoll, extending east and west about one mile between the 100-fathom limits, by little more than half a mile in breadth, with a least depth of 10 fathoms on it, and general depths of 12 to 16 fathoms, over a sand and coral bottom.

Its centre is in approximately lat. 12° 54¾′ S., long. 175° 36½′ W., and it is situated one mile eastward from the north-east end of Lalla Rookh bank with soundings of from 200 to 300 fathoms between.

The 1,000-fathom line encircles the two banks, Lalla Rookh and Home knoll, at distances varying from 1½ to 3 miles.

(3) PASCO BANK, reported by several vessels as situated between Savaii and Wallis islands, and marked "7 P. D." on the Admiralty Charts, is 5 miles in width at its eastern end, from whence it extends nearly 20 miles in a westerly direction, narrowing to a width of 3 miles in its centre, westward of which it contracts to a breadth of three-quarters of a mile, thence broadening out and forming a narrow ridge.

The general depths in the centre are from 22 to 27 fathoms, sand and coral, with a shallow rim of growing coral running round its outer margin, having depths of 8 to 10 fathoms on it. The shoalest soundings, 7½ fathoms, were found on the southern edge of the bank, where it is most contracted in width. On all sides it drops down steeply into depths of from 200 to 400 fathoms.

The western extreme of this bank is situated in approximately lat. 13° 4 S., long. 174° 37½′ W.

Whilst at anchor on this bank (October 1897) the current was found to set from N.W. to S.W. from a half to one and a quarter knots.

(4) FIELD BANK, probably identical with a bank reported in 1874 by Captain Turpie of the Missionary barque John Williams, was examined by H.M.S. Penguin in October 1897, and as there is already a Turpie bank in this vicinity, the name of Field has been given to it.

Its eastern extremity is situated in approximately lat. 12° 16¾′ S., long. 174° 43½′ W., and the bank thence extends W. by S. ½ S. for 6½ miles, with a breadth of 2½ miles towards the centre, and contracted at the eastern end to a narrow ridge, which is 2 miles long and barely half a mile in width.

The least water found was 13 fathoms, situated on its northern edge; the general depths over the shallow rim encircling the bank range from 14 to 16 fathoms, and the depths in the centre from 18 to 21 fathoms, over a sand and coral bottom.

The edge of the bank drops steeply on all sides into depths of from 200 to 300 fathoms.

It lies S.W. by S., distant 14 miles, from Tavuni bank, with soundings of upwards of 1,200 fathoms between.

The shoal to which the name Turpie was attached having been previously shown 50 miles northward of this position on the Admiralty Chart, a search was made by the Penguin over a considerable area in that locality, but no sign of shoal water was found there. It has therefore been expunged.

(5) TAVIUNI BANK, originally reported by the schooner of that name, is a small oval-shaped bank of sand and coral, 2 miles long E. ½ N. and W. ½ S., within the 100-fathom limits, and upwards of a mile broad.

Its centre is situated in lat. 12° 6′ S., long. 174° 34½′ W. The least water found by H.M.S. Penguin was 9 fathoms; the depth over the greater portion of the bank ranging from 11 to 14 fathoms.

Outside the 20-fathom line it drops steeply down to depths of over 100 fathoms, the 1,000-fathom line maintaining a distance of 2 miles from it all round.

Whilst at anchor on this bank (September 1897) the current was setting N.W., half a knot.

(6) ROBBIE BANK, originally reported by the Master of the schooner Taviuni in 1888, is nearly circular in shape, 8 miles in diameter, and situated with its centre in approximately lat. 11° 3′ S., long. 176° 53′ W.

It is composed of sand and coral, and is of the usual atoll-like formation, which is such a common feature in all these banks, having general depths of 26 to 29 fathoms over its central portion, with a shallower rim, running round the edge, of growing coral, about one mile in width within the 20 fathom line, with depths of 10 to 15 fathoms over it.

The shallowest part is on the north-western edge where this rim rises to depths of 7 and 8 fathoms for a distance of about 2 miles along its periphery.

The edge of this bank drops down steeply on all sides, within a very short distance, to depths of from 200 to 300 fathoms.

Whilst at anchor on this bank (November 1897) the current varied considerably. East and S E. currents, from a half to three-quarters of a knot, occasionally setting to windward against a fresh E.N.E. wind.

(7) ADOLPH KNOLL, originally reported by the German schooner Adolph, is a small coral bank, one mile in extent, rising steeply from depths of 300 to 400 fathoms, with a least depth of 16 fathoms on it on its western side.

Its centre is situated in approximately lat. 11° 54½′ S., long. 178° 9¾′ W. and it bears S.E., distant 3 miles, from Tuscarora bank, with soundings of from 300 to 400 fathoms between.

(8) TUSCARORA BANK, discovered by H.M.S. Penguin, is situated with its centre in approximately lat. 11° 48¾′ S., long. 178° 14′ W.

It is 10 miles long, east and west, and about 6 miles broad, having depths of 26 to 29 fathoms, sand and coral, over its central portions, with a shallower rim of growing coral, over which the general depths are 20 to 22 fathoms.

On the south-western edge there is a shallower patch of 14 fathoms, and on the northern edge a patch of 16 to 18 fathoms. The bank drops down steeply on all sides into depths of more than 200 fathoms.

Whilst at anchor on this bank (November 1897) the current varied in direction between W.N.W. and South, with a rate of from a quarter to one knot. The southerly current commenced with great regularity each day 3 hours after the moon's passage and continued for 6 hours, showing that these variations are due to tide.

Both the Adolph knoll and the Tuscarora bank appear to stand on an extensive deep bank, the 1,000-fathom limit of which it was not practicable to determine.

NOTE.—Captain Field remarks that in no single instance was the presence of any of these banks detected from the masthead, although the conditions for doing so were usually favourable, and in addition to the ordinary "look out," a Fijian, familiar with the appearance of coral water, was always stationed at the masthead.

Charts Nos. 780, 1829 and 1830 have been cancelled.

CALCUTTA MUNICIPAL BILL.

The debate on this Bill was resumed:—

The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee said:—"Sir,—My first duty is to congratulate the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill on the lucid and exhaustive statement with which he has prefaced his introduction of the Bill. Greatly as I differ from him with regard to his views about the Bill, and strongly as I condemn the measure, I am bound to recognize the tact, judgment and ability, and above all the conciliatory attitude, which are so conspicuous throughout the speech. My hon'ble friend rests his case not so much upon the failure of the Commissioners as upon the alleged inherent weakness of the system under which they had to work. It is the system rather than the men that he attacks. I commend this part of his speech. He has thus endeavoured, so far as it lay in his power, to clear the atmosphere and relieve the controversy of those personal elements which at one time threatened to darken the issues involved; for I can conceive no greater misfortune than that we should in approaching this grave consideration allow our minds to be perverted—our judgments to be warped—by any sentiment of personal or party bias or by any lingering recollection of a controversy which I hope and trust has now been forgotten. We should endeavour, in considering this question, to rise to the height of judicial impartiality and level-headedness, for the issues involved are of grave and far-reaching importance. If this Bill should unhappily become the law of the land, and if its principles are to be engrafted upon the system of Local Self-Government which prevails in the Mufassal, then I have no hesitation in saying—I say it with regret, but say it I must—that one of the greatest blessings which we enjoy under British Rule, and with the inauguration of which, Sir, your name is so honourably associated—the inestimable boon of Local Self-Government—will have become a thing of the past.

"Well, Sir, if I have rightly understood the attitude of my friend—and it is an attitude which challenges the system rather than the men—then the question which we have to ask ourselves is this—what are the grounds upon which he bases his conclusions? My hon'ble friend says in substance that the municipal system of Calcutta has been tried and has been found wanting, that the conservancy arrangements have broken down, that the constitution does not ensure prompt and continuous Executive action, and that it is unequal to the strain of a grave and sudden emergency. This represents the sum and substance of his indictment against the Corporation. Great as is the authority which undoubtedly belongs to my hon'ble friend as the Head of the municipal administration of these Provinces, I think we shall be guilty of no disrespect towards him, if we ask him to produce his evidence and to place before us the materials upon which he has based his opinion, and upon the strength of which he invites this Council to endorse his judgment. Sir, if we examine the matter a little closely, we shall find that my hon'ble friend has undertaken a task beset with serious difficulties. It will not be enough for him to show that in regard to the municipal administration of Calcutta there has been a failure here—a defect there—a break-down elsewhere. He must carry his evidence much further than that. He must show that the system has so completely failed—the situation is so desperate—that no partial remedy will suffice—that there must be a radical and fundamental change—that the system must be broken up, the site cleared for the erection of a new and a totally different superstructure. Nay more—he must advance a stage yet further. My hon'ble friend must show that in the actual circumstances of Calcutta, menaced by the plague, the only remedy that is left open to us as sensible and wise men is to adopt the discredited municipal system of Bombay which was not able to keep out the plague. A more desperate position—one more entirely at variance with the dictates of reason and sound sense—it would be difficult to conceive. My friend may well feel staggered, I will not say at the temerity of the enterprise, but at the gravity of the task which he has imposed upon himself, and if he is not able to do justice to it, his great ability will not be at fault—the badness of the cause will be responsible for it.

"Well, Sir, my hon'ble friend has laid before the Council the Report of the Sanitary Inspectors appointed by the Plague Committee. I have not the smallest desire to whittle down the evidence of these distinguished experts: but I have a complaint to make—a complaint with which I am sure the Council will sympathize—as to the procedure which my hon'ble friend has thought fit to adopt. The Hon'ble Member has not done the Corporation the justice which the Corporation is entitled to receive at his hands. My friend has read out the indictment but not the explanation—the charge but not the answer of the Corporation. It is not for one moment to be supposed that the Corporation allowed judgment to go by default. At more than one meeting did the Corporation consider the Report of the Sanitary Inspectors—more than one explanation did they submit with regard to that report. Some of the allegations were admitted, others were challenged, with regard to the rest explanatory notes were submitted. I crave the indulgence of the Council to be allowed to proceed with the details of the Explanation submitted by the Corporation.

'(a) Overcrowded and badly-built houses.—The general statements made under this head are mainly correct, but it is to be noted that most of the houses and huts attended to by the Medical Board were constructed before the present rules came into force.'

"I maintain therefore that the Commissioners are not responsible for this defect. But let us proceed:—

'(b) Defects of public latrines.—These defects are fully admitted and will be remedied as soon as the unfiltered water-supply is increased. It is to be hoped that this will be accomplished in six to nine months.'

"The unfiltered water supply has now been increased:—

'(c) Defects of private latrines.—In the opinion of the Commissioners the state of things described by the Medical Board is not common in pucka houses, except in those of old standing, and as regards privies in bustees they would remind Government that previous to 1884 there were practically no privies in bustees at all. As soon as the unfiltered water-supply is increased notices will be served upon the owners of houses in which there are bad privies to have them connected with the sewers. The Commissioners think it also necessary to add that in the case of some poor people the Commissioners have paid from Municipal Funds for the connection of their privies with the sewers. Paragraph 3 of the Health Officer's Note deals fully with this subject.'

"Now, Sir, there are 50,000 latrines in Calcutta. Could the Sanitary Inspectors have seen one-tenth or even one-hundredth part of these latrines? In some quarters and among a certain class of experts, I am afraid, there is too great a disposition to jump to sweeping conclusions when they happen to be in harmony with their preconceived ideas. Could the laws of induction have been more openly set at defiance by scientific men who ought above all to be scrupulously careful of them?—

'(d) State of house drains and drain-pipes.—It is fully admitted that these are in many cases choked and out of repair, but an establishment of Inspectors is kept up for the inspection of house-drainage.'

"Now I come to statements that are challenged by the Commissioners.—

'(e) State of surface drains.—The Commissioners are not prepared to admit the general statement that latrines are allowed to discharge into surface drains. Occasionally it is found that such a practice exists. With reference to paragraph 3 of the Sanitary Officer's report, they would call attention to paragraph 6 of the Health Officer's Note (a copy of which is sent herewith) on the surface drains, and to paragraph 20 of the Chief Engineer's Note sent (herewith).

'(f) Neglect of road scavenging.—As regards the sufficiency of the staff there is a considerable difference of opinion, and the whole question has attracted the careful attention of the Commissioners. As regards the question of the pollution of the subsoil, although there is no doubt that in certain places this is the cause of many most noxious smells, yet it is a matter of doubt whether in many cases it is not the sewers which are mainly responsible. As to the means suggested to minimize the evils of pollution, it will be observed from paragraph 12 of the Health Officer's Note that he is strongly opposed to the use of perchloride of mercury, and that in the face of such opposition the Commissioners have not hitherto thought it advisable to give this experiment a trial.

'(g) State of compounds and courtyards.—The Commissioners generally differ very much from the remarks of the Medical Board on this subject if they are intended to apply generally to all localities, but they fully admit their applicability to Wards 5 and 7 (Burra Bazar and Jorabagan) as a whole, and for this reason have allotted to those wards a special establishment. Acton is being persistently taken under section 318.'

"I would in this connection call attention to the remarks which the Commissioners make on this head in a subsequent communication dated the 21st April, 1897. They say:—

'With regard to the remarks in this paragraph, the Commissioners would point out that it is not apparent whence the Board got its information about the number of coolies, &c., employed, but from the Health Officer's report dated 15th March, it appears that on that day 1,588 men were on the roll, of whom 1,317 were present at work, and also 329 carts. The whole of the sum alloted has now been spent. As regards the question of the supervising staff living in or near the wards where they work, the Commissioners fully agree with the remarks of the Medical Board; but they would point out that the cost of providing quarters is very expensive.

'(h) Pollution of wells.—With regard to this, the Commissioners wish to point out that in recent years a very large number of wells has been filled up, and this filling up will be proceeded with as soon as the water of the wells has been analysed and the increased supply of unfiltered water provided. The Commissioners are of opinion that if the existing wells are filled up before this is done, that very great hardship will be suffered by many house-holders.

'(i) State of cow-sheds and stables.—Although a great deal undoubtedly remains to be done in the question of improving them, latterly there has been a most decided improvement in some instances, and it is to be believed that recent modifications in the bye-laws will lead to still further improvement.

'(j) The state of hackney carriage stands.—The Commissioners are fully aware of the bad state of these stands, and scarcity of money has alone prevented them from making many of the improvements required.'

"It is the old question of the eternal want of pence from which Administrations higher than that of the Municipality suffer even more grievously than the Municipality does:—

'(k) Conditions of bustees.—The Commissioners fully admit that there is a great deal of room for improvements in bustee, that they would call attention to the fact that a great deal has lately been done and that improvements are being steadily pushed on. More money than is required by the law to be spent on this head has been spent.'

"In ten years' time the Commissioners have spent 13 lakhs of rupees upon bustee improvement. When I joined the Corporation in 1876, a sum of only Rs. 10,000 was set apart for bustee improvement. Since then it must be admitted there has been an enormous growth in expenditure upon this most important sanitary purpose—

'Disposal of house-refuse.—With reference to this the Commissioners would invite attention to paragraph 13 of the Health Officer's Note. Considerable difficulty is experienced in including native house-owners to allow the retention of the refuse food on their premises during the day, and it will be probably necessary to amend the Act on this subject.'

"Now here are statements and counter-statements—statements made by high authority and counter-statements made by authority equally high and equally entitled to weight. What are we to do in the midst of this conflict of testimony—this divergence of opinion—this war of opposing views? We are left in a dilemma, and we have a complaint to make against the Government that it has not lent us a helping hand to rescue us from this uncertain and dubious position. The natural, the normal procedure which the Government should have adopted in a case of this kind was to have appointed a Commission which would have sifted the matter, taken evidence and submitted a report. That would have been in accordance with precedent, for when in 1884 a complaint was made by some of the rate-payers of Calcutta regarding the sanitary administration of the town, a Commission was appointed with Mr. Justice Beverley as President. If such a Commission were appointed and it found in favour of the views of the Sanitary Inspectors, why, Sir, that would have silenced all criticism, removed all doubts and would have enormously strengthened the hands of the Government in any legislation which it might have thought fit to undertake. I cannot conceive any possible objection to the appointment of a Commission except on the score of delay. But, Sir, the constitution of the Calcutta Municipality has now been allowed to exist for a period of thirty-five years, extending over the lifetime of a generation, and if it were allowed to survive for a year or two longer, no great catastrophe would have happened, the world would certainly not have come to an end. Further, a Commission might have been appointed with instructions—with the mandate—to report within a definite time. The Beverley Commission to which I have referred was appointed in August, 1884; it reported in January, 1885. The Building Commission submitted its report with praiseworthy promptitude. Is a public body—I ask—like the Calcutta Corporation to be condemned unheard—a public body with a brilliant record of active and useful service for the good of the town? Such a proceeding does not recommend itself to one's sense of justice and fair play, and will not, I am sure, be endorsed by this Council.

"In judging of the report of the Sanitary Inspectors and of its effect upon the course of legislation, the fact must not be overlooked that there is scarcely any European town, be it the richest or be it the most perfect in regard to its sanitary arrangements, to some portion or other of which these or similar remarks might not apply. Take London, the capital of the British Empire, the richest city in the world. London and Calcutta cannot of course be compared in regard to their sanitary arrangements. They cannot be mentioned in the same breath; but not many years ago, in 1883, an account appeared of the back-slums of London in a well-known book, 'The Bitter Cry of Outcaste London,' which would put to shame the most vivid description of the insanitary condition of the worst parts of Calcutta. I will, Sir, with your permission read an extract from the book:—

'We do not say the condition of their homes, for how can those places be called homes, compared with which the lair of a wild beast would be a comfortable and healthy spot?

'Few who will read these pages have any conception of what pestilential human rookeries are, where tens of thousands are crowded together amidst horrors which called to mind what we have heard of the middle passage of the slave-ship. To get into them you have to penetrate courts reeking with poisonous and malodorous gases arising from accumulations of sewage and refuse scattered in all directions and often flowing beneath your feet; courts, many of which the sun never penetrates, which are never visited by a breath of fresh air, and which rarely know the virtue of a drop of cleansing water. You have to ascend rotten staircases which threaten to give way beneath every step, and which in some places have already broken down, leaving gaps that imperil the limbs and lives of the unwary. You have to grope your way along dark and filthy passages with vermin swarming. Then if you are not driven back by the intolerable stench, you may gain admittance to the dens in which these thousands of beings, who belong as much as you to the race for whom Christ died, here live together. Have you pitied the poor creatures who sleep under railway arches, in carts or casks, or under any shelter which they can find in the open air? You will see that they are to be envied in comparison with those whose lot it is to seek refuge here.'

"Sir, in judging of the system of municipal government which it is now proposed to supersede, we must take into consideration the sanitary condition of Calcutta such as it was in 1876, when the municipal system of this City for the first time came under the control of the elected Commissioners. This was what Dr. Payne, the Health Officer, said of the sanitary condition of Calcutta in 1876:—

'On the evidence of its mortuary record the town is surpassed in fatality by many eastern towns and by some in the west, and yet it is impossible to conceive a more perfect combination of all the evils of crowded city life in the primitive filthiness and disorder than is presented in the native portion of Calcutta. Dirt in the most intense and noxious forms that a dense population can produce covers the ground, saturates the water, infects the air and finds in the habits and incidents of the people's lives every possible facility for re-entering their bodies; while ventilation could not be more shunned in their houses than if the climate were arctic instead of tropical. If then Calcutta be not a deadly place, filth in its utmost intensity must be innocuous and sanitation a pretentious sham.'

"Going back to a point of time still earlier in the history of the municipal administration of Calcutta—to a point of time when the municipal system was entirely controlled by the Government, we have revealed to us a state of insanitation which in the words of Mr. (afterwards Sir) John Strachey, constituted a scandal to a civilized administration; and yet it is now seriously proposed to establish a form of municipal administration which makes the nearest approach to complete Government control! Let me read an extract from the report to which I have referred:—

'For many years past the sanitary condition of Calcutta has been a constant subject of complaint, and this condition has probably never been much worse than it is at the present time. The state even of the southern division of the town, which contains the fine houses of the principal European inhabitants, is often most offensive and objectionable, while with regard to the northern or native division of Calcutta, which contains some hundred thousand people, it is no figure of speech but the simple truth, to say that no language can adequately describe its abominations. In the filthiest quarters of the filthiest towns that I have seen in other parts of India or in other countries, I have never seen anything which can be for a moment compared with the filthiness of Calcutta. This is true not merely of the inferior portions of the town or of the bye-ways and places inhabited by the poor classes, but it is true of the principal thoroughfares and of the quarters filled with the houses of the richest and most influential portion of the native community. If a plain unvarnished description of the northern division of Calcutta, bordered by their horrible open drains in which all the filth of the city stagnates and putrifies, were given to the people of England, I believe that they would consider the account altogether incredible.'

"And again:—

'It is not my wish to attempt to describe in detail the condition of Calcutta. To all who are here upon the spot the facts are notorious. The state of the capital of British India, one of the greatest and wealthiest cities in the world, is a scandal and disgrace to a civilized Government.'

"Such was Calcutta in 1863—such was Calcutta in 1876—such was the legacy which the Justices received from the Government and which, with the sanitary arrangements somewhat improved, they bequeathed to the elected Commissioners. And what use, let me ask, did the elected Commissioners make of this filthy bequest? Why, Sir, they turned it to splendid account. They introduced sanitary improvements which have converted a city which from a sanitary point was a scandal to a civilized administration into a city which is one of the healthiest in India, to which our countrymen flee in hundreds and thousands, driven from their malaria-stricken homes in the mufassal, as to a health-resort. The elected Commissioners completed the drainage and water-works which had been initiated by the Justices. They have taken in hand the drainage and the water-works of the suburban area—they have reclaimed bustees, filled up foul tanks and have opened out new roads. The net result of their sanitary works has been that the price of land has been doubled within the last few years; and this, Sir, not owing to the expansion of trade and commerce,—for the growth of trade during the last five years shows a falling off, according to the statement of the Hon'ble Mr. Allan Arthur before the Supreme Council, as compared with its growth in the five years preceding—but to the advance of sanitation and the consequent improvement in the health of the people. The position which I have ventured to assume as regards the great sanitary improvements which have been effected under the present municipal system is supported by high and competent official authority. To the testimony of these distinguished men I desire to refer. Let me quote what Mr. Cotton, now Chief Commissioner of Assam, said as a Member of the Beverley Commission:—

'I have devoted myself at considerable length to this historical retrospect in order to demonstrate once for all how utterly unfounded is the charge brought against the Corporation that the action taken by it is fitful, spasmodic and at haphazard. It is true that at one time there was a period of inaction, but the reason for that is fully explained. The policy of the Corporation is rather, as Dr. McLeod described it, one of gradual and progressive reform. The whole case is, as the Army Sanitary Commission describe it, as complete as it well could be. I do not think the true friends of Local Self-Government, who are watching with unconcealed anxiety the struggle for existence which marks the infant growth of a great principle, could find anywhere in this country more satisfactory tokens of encouragement and hope than exist in the metropolis. The small tree is here firmly planted. I am not careful to enquire whether a better practical administration of the affairs of the town might not be possible. It is possible that the municipal work of the city might be more efficiently administered under the ideally perfect control of a benevolent despotism. But be that as it may, the policy of Government is now cast in another mould. We have another object in view, the education and training of the people, and for this end we are content to put up with many failures in practical administration. And so even if there had been failure in Calcutta, if the Municipal Commissioners had been found wanting, if there had been short-comings, I would have appealed to the Lieutenant-Governor in his consideration of the Report of this Commission to deal with those imperfections tenderly and with patience. But I have shown, and my colleagues have shown, that there has been no failure. The Corporation of Calcutta as a representative body commands the confidence of the vast majority of the ratepayers; it has already done very much in the direction of sanitary reform; it has not retrograded in giving effect to a single sanitary improvement; stimulated by the healthy action of public opinion and profiting by the greater experience gained year by year, it has afforded, by the systematic enterprise of the past three years, the most solid guarantee that it will continue to advance on the path of progress.'

"I will not refer to the acknowledgment of the work of the Corporation made by the Commission itself. My hon'ble friend the member representing the Corporation quoted it at length; but I will pass on to the evidence of Mr. Henry Lee, the Chairman of the Corporation, who thus observed in the Administration Report for 1891-92 :—

'The most damaging criticism that is commonly levelled against the principal of Local Self-Government in Bengal is that it prevents and obstructs a reasonable out-turn of work. I maintain that the record of the Calcutta Commissioners refutes this criticism. The system of municipal government that has been in vogue here for many years past doubtless entails greater demands on the time and patience of the Executive officers than did the old autocratic or oligarchical system. And such demands have been growing and will continue to grow year by year. But so long as the strain can be borne, and the Executive and the consultative or administrative officers of the governing body work harmoniously together, they produce a regular and satisfactory harvest of good works, of which there is no need to be ashamed.'

"One other quotation I desire to make in this connection, and that will be from the Government Resolution dated the 20th November, 1893; it is a Resolution of the Government of Sir Antony MacDonnell :—

"Sir Antony MacDonnell has perused with much interest the report reviewed in the preceding paragraphs; it records the execution of much useful work, especially in the direction of sanitation and of structural improvements, such as the extension of drainage and water-supply and the improvement of bustees, and for their share in carrying out these measures the thanks of the Lieutenant-Governor are due to the Executive officers of the Corporation, the Engineer and the Health Officer. The Commissioners themselves have, as a whole, displayed a care and attention to their duties which is very meritorious and has in some cases risen to the level of devotion. The year, though not actually one of straitened resources, was yet clouded by the shadow of impending pecuniary difficulties, and the policy of the Commissioners has doubtless on some occasions been guided by this circumstance, which has induced them to shrink from expenditure on objects which have strong claims upon them. In executive matters the Lieutenant-Governor perceives an occasional want of vigour, especially in the collection of rates, the enforcement of the law in regard to license fees, and the recovery of expenses from the owners of bustees. But these defects admit of remedy; and on suitable opportunities they will no doubt be remedied. Leaving them out of consideration, Sir Antony MacDonnell very cordially acknowledges the services the Corporation have rendered to the city, and thanks them for the careful control which they have exercised over the various departments of the muncipal administration.'

"From the testimony of high officials, let us pass on to the testimony of facts, and here is a statement which, to save the time of the Council, I will not read, but will hand over to the Reporters. It shows the out-turn of sanitary work done by the elected Municipality which it is now proposed to supersede :—

"But it is said that the Corporation is unequal to the strain of a grave and sudden emergency. I dispute the proposition. There is absolutely no evidence in support of this view of the matter. Whatever evidence there is, distinctly negatives it. Well, Sir, there never was a greater crisis in the history of Calcutta than when it was feared that the plague would spread into the Capital. How did the Corporation act on that occasion? It acted with vigor and promptitude. It was on the 24th September, 1896, that it was reported in the newspapers that the bubonic plague had appeared in Bombay. The same day, there being a meeting of the Corporation, the matter was considered by the Commissioners. On the following day, the matter was again discussed by the General Committee. The Commissioners did not indulge in mere talk. That was not a season for talk or declamation, but for vigorous and decisive action. The Commissioners at once placed themselves in communication with the Government of Bengal, which at that time was staying at Darjeeling, with the Commissioner of Police, with the Port Trust and the Railway Authorities. The Government was asked to enforce a strict system of inspection in respect of all passengers coming from Bombay to Calcutta. Dr. Simpson, the Health Officer, was directed to visit different parts of the town daily instead of three times a week—his subordinates were to pay special attention to the cleansing of the town, for which they were authorized to entertain special establishments, and suspected cases were forthwith to be reported to the Health Officer. At my instance, a sum of three thousand rupees was placed at the disposal of the Health Officer for any preventive measures which he might think fit to take. An extra Conservancy establishment was entertained at an outlay of Rs. 5,500 a month. This establishment was eventually raised to 1,500 coolies and 329 carts. Eight Medical Inspectors were appointed and the services of a Chief Superintendent of Conservancy were entertained on a salary of one thousand rupees a month. Nor was this all. Arrangements were made for an isolation hospital, and ambulance carts were provided. The operations of the Commissioners in this respect cost them a sum of two lakhs of rupees. Sir, the late Health Officer, Dr. Simpson, was always a severe critic of the Corporation, but the measures of the Corporation elicited praise even from him. This was what he said in his Administration Report:—

'From the above account it will be seen that no pains have been spared to protect Calcutta against an outbreak of plague or to be in a state of preparedness to stamp it out, should the disease have unfortunately gained a foothold in this City.'

"But, Sir, it has been said—and I regret to have to remark that the statement appears in the letter of the Local Government addressed to the Government of India, and it has been repeated by the Hon'ble Member representing the Chamber of Commerce—that the Commissioners did all this under pressure. The Government letter says 'it was not till the 22nd January, and then under the strongest pressure from the Government and the Board, that the Commissioners sanctioned a grant of Rs. 30,000 towards a further temporary establishment for cleaning up the town.' Sir, I venture to challenge this statement. It is not in accord with the facts of the case. Instead of the Commissioners being pressed by the Government, they were pressing an indifferent Executive, strangely insensible to the exigencies of the crisis, to do their duty. This view of the matter will be amply supported by a reference to the proceedings of the Commissioners. A question was asked at the meeting of the Commissioners on the 19th January, 1897, by my friend, Babu Nalin Behari Sircar, one of the ablest and most active among the Commissioners, whom I am glad to see here, and the answer given by the Chairman will leave no doubt on the mind of any one that the Commissioners were fully alive to the exigencies of the situation, and they did not need any pressure from the Government or from any one else. Babu Nalin Behari Sircar asked:—

'What special measures have been taken by the Corporation since October last to remove these accumulated deposits of past years? If no special efforts have been put forward, will the Chairman kindly explain why this has not been done? (3) Is not the Chairman aware of a Resolution passed by the General Committee and unanimously confirmed by the Commissioners in meeting, to the following effect:—"That having regard, however, to the prevalence of the disease in Bombay, and to the intimate business relations that exist between the two Cities, the Commissioners are decidedly of opinion that a thorough cleansing of the town should be effected as soon as possible by employing a special establishment, and that they are prepared to spend any reasonable amount for the purpose." (4*a*) What action has been taken by the Executive on this Resolution of the Commissioners passed so long ago as 25th October, 1896? (b) If nothing has been done, will the Chairman kindly explain why this Resolution of the Commissioners has not yet been given effect to, particularly when the chances of an outbreak of plague in Calcutta are not so remote now as they were in October last? (5*a*) When does the Chairman propose to bring forward before the Commissioners specific proposals for entertaining other special establishments for the speedy and prompt removal of accumulations of dirt from all such parts of the town as abound in them? (b) Will it be next week?'

"I will not take up the time of the Council by reading in full the answer that was given. I will confine my attention to the part which bears upon the point I am endeavouring to explain. Mr. Williams said:—

'Before asking the Commissioners for extra establishment beyond the Special Cleansing Staff granted in October, the Health Officer considered it desirable, in order not to put the Commissioners to unnecessary expense, to ascertain what the existing staff could do under the excellent and energetic supervision of Dr. Banks. Dr. Banks, after making himself thoroughly acquainted with the capabilities of the existing establishment and of the local insanitary condition of the City, which of course required time, came to the conclusion that the establishment was inadequate—an opinion with which the Health Officer agrees. Dr. Banks has now placed before the Chairman a carefully considered statement in which he proposes a very considerable increase on the present establishment, and amounting to an extra expenditure of over two lakhs per annum. But the discussion of these proposals is likely to take up some time.'

"These proceedings took place on the 19th January. The Medical Board addressed the Government on the 20th, probably after having seen the proceedings of the Commissioners which appeared in the newspapers of the 20th. What the Commissioners did on the 19th January, it is very obvious, could not have been prompted by any communication which the Medical Board addressed to the Government on the following day.

"Now contrast the proceedings of the Bombay Corporation with those of the Calcutta Corporation which it is to supersede. The acting Chairman, Babu Nilamber Mookerjee, addressed a telegram to the Municipal Commissioner of Bombay making enquiries about the suspicious cases reported in the Calcutta newspapers. What was the answer that he received? Well, Sir, the Municipal Commissioner reported from Poona that there had been one or two suspicious cases Here was the plague, the deadliest and the most insidious enemy which Bombay has had to fight against in the whole course of the century, slowly making its way through the doomed City, and the Head of the Executive of the Corporation—and that Executive is to be our model—was at Poona from where he suspected one or two cases! Sir, I have no hesitation in saying that such a thing would have been impossible on the part of the Chairman of the Calcutta Municipality under the existing constitution. The supineness of the Bombay Executive in the earlier stages of the plague recently formed the subject of a motion for a vote of censure by the Commissioners, and the motion was carried in a modified form. What therefore is proposed is this—that the municipal system of Calcutta, which was tried by the stress and the strain of the plague, and which on the whole was not found wanting, is to be superseded by a municipal system which notoriously failed to meet the crisis! Well, Sir, I have always thought that experience was the guide of the practical administrator; but we are now going to discard the lessons of experience, and take a big jump into the unknown with results that are unknown. We are truly fallen upon evil times and upon evil tongues and by darkness and danger compassed round.

"But, Sir, it is stated that our municipal constitution is unequal to the requirements of modern sanitation. Where is the evidence in support of this view of the matter? Here, again, the lessons of experience raise a strong presumption in favour of the Commissioners being well qualified and of the municipal system being well-adapted to meet the sanitary requirements of a large city like Calcutta. It is admitted that the scavenging is pretty well done; and you were good enough to say in your Palmer's Bridge speech that in the lanes and streets where municipal carts can have access, the cleaning is fairly well done. Whatever insanitation there is, is largely due to defects in the structural arrangements of the City; and for those defects neither the Commissioners nor the system under which they work is responsible. The Commissioners did not create Burra Bazar—they did not make the filthy bustees—they did not open out the narrow lanes All that came as a legacy to them from the Justices and the Government The building regulations did not come into force till 1889, and we have it on the testimony of Dr. Simpson and of the Building Commission that if these regulations had been fully given effect to, even then they would not have gone very far. Whatever building regulations you may now pass, based on the most advanced continental models which the extensive researches of my hon'ble friend may open up to him, they cannot be permitted to have any retrospective effect. The sentiment of a civilized community would rise in revolt against any retrospective legislation. Whatever laws you pass cannot affect the existing pucka buildings of Calcutta. It is not laws, but funds that are needed. You have to open up the congested areas of Burra Bazar and Jora Bagan. The Government ought to recognize its responsibility in the matter. Calcutta is the capital of the Province and of the Empire, and the responsibility of the Government to open up the congested parts of the Metropolis was fully recognized, so far back as 1805 by Lord Wellesley, but it has merely been a recognition in name—no practical effect has been given to it. The question of structural improvements is a financial and not a constitutional question, and it is to be solved, not by depriving the Corporation of its constitution, but by providing funds. My hon'ble friend, the Member representing the Chamber was good enough to express much sympathy with the building regulations. Will the mercantile community consent to the imposition of the Octroi? In Bombay the Octroi duties come up to about nine lakhs of rupees a year. If we had such a fund at our disposal at Calcutta, the financial difficulty, which is the difficulty in connection with this and most other problems, would have disappeared.

"But, Sir, it has been said that the constitution of the Municipality does not ensure prompt and continuous Executive action. Sir, if there has been any failure in this respect, I have no hesitation in saying that the Government is responsible for it. The Government appoints the Chairman. Since 1890, we have had five Chairmen—in eight years we have had five Chairmen. How can you possibly expect prompt and continuous Executive action when the Head of the Executive is being constantly changed? And, Sir, the duties of the Chairman of the Corporation are of an onerous description They are very different from the duties that ordinarily appertain to district administration. They have to be learnt, and by the time the Chairman has learnt them, a new incumbent appears on the scene to relieve him of his responsibilities! How can you possibly expect Executive vigour and efficiency under such a state of things? Did the great and distinguished men, who in the past have filled the office of Chairman, ever complain of the weakness of their position—was ever such a complaint uttered by men like Sir Henry Harrison, Mr. Beverley, Mr. Cotton or Mr. William Souttar? If Sir Henry Harrison at all thought that his position was weak as Chairman, nothing could have been easier for him than to have amended the law when he was in charge of the Bill in 1888, on the lines now suggested.

"Further, it has been observed that the Municipality has no constitution, and that it is all fluid and indefinite and that it is impossible to fix responsibility. Sir, I must be permitted to express my surprise at this statement. Why, Sir, in section 4 and in subsequent sections of the Municipal Act we have sketched out for us the outlines of a firm, clear and consistent constitution. You may not like it—you may disapprove of it. All that I can understand, but the constitution is there, set forth in clear and definite lines which any one who runs may read. Equally extraordinary is the statement that it is difficult to fix responsibility. Well, Sir, I have been connected with the Corporation for the last 22 years. I have been associated with numerous Committees of enquiry connected with various departments of the Corporation, and speaking for myself, and I may add on behalf of my colleagues, I will say this—that we have never had the smallest difficulty in fixing responsibility for the various sins of omission and commission that were discovered. Why, Sir, only the other day we had a Committee enquiring into the Warrant Department, and we had not the smallest difficulty in finding out who were to blame and who were not to blame. In this connection, I would desire to call attention to a Note issued by Sir Henry Harrison, delegating his powers to his subordinates and fixing their responsibility. For the first time under the Act of 1888, the Chairman was empowered to delegate his powers to his subordinates—he did not possess this power under the Act of 1876 or under the still earlier Act of 1863. On the passing of the Act of 1888 Sir Henry Harrison drew out a statement assigning duties and fixing responsibility with that statesmanlike breadth and sagacity for which he was so conspicuous. I will read an extract or two from this statement:—

'The Secretary is empowered to sign all letters issuing on behalf of the Commissioners, or of the Chairman, and all orders, after satisfying himself that the order has been passed by an officer entrusted with due authority to pass it. He is entrusted with the seal of the Corporation and with the custody of valuable documents, contracts and records. He will expressly see that all notices of meetings are duly issued, and that the terms of the Act regarding such notices are complied with.

'The Engineer will exercise the powers necessary for the efficient performance of the duties of a Chief Engineer in a large City. He will directly supervise and control what are ordinarily known as the Water Works Department, the Drainage Department and the Road Superintendent's Department. He will also have under his orders the Workshop Superintendent and Workshop Establishment, the Municipal Railway Establishment and the Salt Water Lake Establishment. The maintenance and repairs of all the municipal buildings and machinery is also placed under his general supervision.

'Drainage Inspector.—Section 290 (inspect drains, &c., issue one hour's notice of intention to clean out drain and remedy defect).

'Of course, it does not follow that these subordinates will always exercise, without reference to the Engineer, the powers assigned to them; the Engineer should make them clearly understand that they should always consult him in all matters of importance as heretofore, and he will be generally responsible to the Commissioners and myself for all orders issued by his subordinates. The object of assigning power is not to limit responsibility, but to enable the subordinate's action to be legally valid. The same remark applies to the powers conferred on the Engineer.

'The Health Officer will, in a general way, exercise the powers necessary for the efficient performance of the duties of the Chief Executive Officer of Health in a large city. He will directly supervise and control what are ordinarily known as the Conservancy Department, the Nuisance Department, and the Bustee and Sanitary Departments. He will also have under his orders the Assistant Health Officer and his own office, the Food Inspectors, the Medical Inspectors, the Analyst to the Corporation, the Deputy Superintendent of Vaccination and his establishment, all officers and subordinates engaged in the registration of births and deaths, whether at the registration offices or at the burning-ghats and burial grounds, the Gowkhanna Superintendent and establishments, and the Superintendent of the Slaughter-house. All the markets of the town are also placed under his general supervision.'

"Now I ask could there be anything more clear and definite than this delegation of duties and the responsibility which such delegation necessarily involves, and yet it is said that it is difficult to know where the responsibility resides?

"Thus it will be seen that the grounds upon which it is sought to justify the supersession of the Calcutta Municipality will not stand the test of scrutiny. When tried in the crucible of reason and common sense, they vanish into thin air. You propose to give us the constitution of the Bombay Municipality. But the fact is overlooked that the entire system of Local Self-Government in Bombay is retrograde when compared with the system which prevails in these Provinces. You, Sir, very well remember the attitude of the Bombay Government in regard to Lord Ripon's scheme of Local Self-Government, and the remonstrance which has become historical which as Home Secretary you addressed to that Government. I will read an extract from your letter:—

'The Governor General in Council is at a loss to conceive what can have led the Government of Bombay to suppose that the Government of India had any intention either of subverting altogether the existing system in Bombay, or of conferring unlimited powers upon municipalities and local boards. In the separate communication to the Government of Bombay noted on the margin, stress is laid upon the advantages which the existence of a widely spread system of municipal and local fund boards gave to that Presidency in following out of the principles advocated by the Supreme Government. Not subversion but adaptation and expansion of existing arrangements was what the Government of India desired. Furthermore the powers which it is proposed to entrust to local boards are not in any sense unlimited, but are in fact most strictly limited.

"In such an insalubrious atmosphere, with the weight of official opinion arrayed against it, the tender plant of Local Self-Government could not thrive, and the whole scheme is conceived upon lines far less liberal than what we find in Bengal. Here, Sir, in Bengal in most Mufassal Municipalities, two-thirds of the members are elected; in Bombay, only one-half of the members are elected. In most Mufassal Municipalities in Bengal, the Chairmen are elected; in most Mufassal Municipalities in the Bombay Presidency, the Chairmen are nominated. As in the interior, so in the Presinency town, the system suffers by comparison with that of Bengal. In 1865 the Bombay Municipality was constituted upon a basis which made the Chairman the autocrat, or as my hon'ble friend, the Member for the Corporation, said the other day—'the despot of the situation.' The system hopelessly broke down after a short trial. It brought the Corporation to the verge of bankruptcy, and this autocratic system had to be abandoned, and the Municipal Administration was re-cast in 1872 upon more liberal lines. The Act of 1872 was amended by the present Bombay Act, and it was passed on the clear understanding, at any rate, on the part of the Indian Members of Council, that the Corporation was to exercise general control over the Executive, that it was to supervise, direct and guide the Executive. This was what the Hon'ble Mr. Telang said:—

'Mr. Pherozshah and myself are most anxious that there should not be any interference with the Executive functions of the Commissioner. We only want that it should be subject to the general control of the Municipal Corporation, and that is substantially provided for in the present Bill. I am not prepared to admit that, under the sections of the Bill as we have passed them, the Commissioner is what is called a co-ordinate authority. I do not think he is. That is not a correct description of his position under the Bill. I understand he is a subordinate in every respect except as regard the details of Executive work, in which he is untrammelled and not to be interfered with. That is his position, and that is what it ought to be.'

"The Hon'ble MR. MEHTA expressed himself very much to the same effect:—

'The greatest work that the Corporation has yet undertaken—the construction of the Tansa Water Works—was undertaken by it, not at the initiation of the Municipal Commissioner, but of one of its own members. I could multiply these instances; but I think I have said enough to show that the credit of this remarkable success justly belongs, in the main, to the constitutional scheme under which the Corporation carries on the administration by the hands of its Executive Officer, constantly and continuously controlling, criticising, supervising and directing him. To revert from a scheme of such promise and performance to the discredited principles of the Act of 1865 would be a blunder indeed.'

"This idea of providing the Calcutta Municipality with the constitution of the Bombay Municipality is not a new one. History has a tendency to repeat itself. Human events move in cycles. So far back as 23 years ago, Mr. Schalch from his place in this Council proposed the adoption of the Bombay Municipal Constitution. The proposal was objected to by Rai Kristo Das Pal Bahadur as a half-measure—it was vehemently opposed by Mr. Stuart Hogg, then Chairman of the Corporation; and the opposition it elicited was so strong that the proposal was not even formulated in the shape of a definite resolution.

"Sir, it is worthy of remark that the Bombay Municipal Bill, which is to furnish the model for our Municipal Constitution, was stoutly opposed at the third reading of the Bill by Mr. Forbes Adams. Mr. Forbes Adams was afterwards knighted for his distinguished services, and was the representative of the non-official European community in the Bombay Council. This was what he said:—

'After the full discussion which has taken place during the debate on the amendments, it may perhaps be thought superfluous that anything should now be said. I cannot, however, refrain from taking advantage of this opportunity to observe that much as I hope that the Bill now about to be read a third time may be found in practice to work smoothly and satisfactorily, I harbour and entertain grave misgivings. I regret that Your Excellency's Council has not seen its way to give such consistency and all-pervadingness to the great central principle of the Bill—the principle that the Corporation is the governing body—that no possiblity of question, uncertainty or clashing could hereafter arise. The idea of co-ordinate authority seems to me to be fraught with chance of friction and irritation. It is an attempt to reconcile what is irreconcilable. It possesses the elements of unsettlement and feud. I firmly believe the Bill might throughout all its sections have emphasised and accentuated its central principle without running the slightest danger of fettering or interfering unduly with the Commissioner in carrying out the details of the Executive work of the Municipality.'

"We deplore the want of interest on the part of the European community in our municipal concerns. We should rejoice if they could be persuaded to co-operate with us in our municipal work. But the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill completely misses the fundamental conditions of the problem. I cordially acknowledge that Calcutta owes its greatness to a considerable extent to European trade and commerce; but it is not to be forgotten that European merchants come here for a particular purpose, viz., their business; and it is no part of their business to feel an interest in the insanitary drains and bustees which may abound in Burra Bazar and Jora Bagan. Their business is all-engrossing, and in these days of keen competition leaves them no time for other and weighty public affairs. Our laws indeed bear traces of the efforts of the Legislature to enlist the sympathies and to secure the co-operation of the European community in the municipal work of the town. Under the Act of 1876, the southern wards of the town inhabited by Europeans had each the right of sending three Commissioners to the Corporation, while the northern wards each sent only two Commissioners. The experiment did not succeed. Under the Act of 1888, special constituencies were created for the benefit of the European community. The experiment again did not succeed; and now we are embarked upon another experiment, upon somewhat different lines, but in the same direction. Well, Sir, I am not a prophet. Prophecy is a dangerous art. No one ought to prophesy unless he knows; and for myself from my place in this Council, surrounded by the legislative wisdom of this Province, I have no desire to assume the prophetic function. But if our experience of the past is any guide for the future, then I have no hesitation in saying that as our experiments in this direction have not hitherto been attended with success, we cannot hope for a better result from the new one which we are about to try. My hon'ble friend, the Member representing the Chamber of Commerce, is confident of success. He is more fortunately situated than myself. To him has been vouchsafed the gift of the seer which is denied to the less gifted children of the 19th Century. Sir, I am not singular in the opinion which I hold as to the hopelessness of the task which the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill has undertaken in legislating with a view to secure the co-operation of the European community in the work of the Municipality. Let me place before the Council the views of two high officials in this connection. This was what Sir Henry Harrison said from his place in the Bengal Council:—

'Again if I had any hope that the European Members would take the same interest as the native members, I should be more disposed to yield to the Hon'ble Mr. Irving's argument, but I am afraid we must put this aside as really out of the question. I believe that to some extent they have been kept away from the meetings by finding they are in a minority, but at the same time they have also found that it was impossible for them to give the same attention to the work of the Municipality as those who have ample leisure and to whom it is almost a pleasure. There are a certain number of leisured gentlemen among the native Commissioners who have often come two, three or four times a week to Committee meetings to do work which is certainly not of transcendental interest. Now is it possible to hope that we can get European gentlemen who have business to attend, to whom time is money, to attend and take part in work of this nature?'

"A higher authority than even that of Sir Henry Harrison, the then Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, spoke in the same strain. Sir Steuart Bayley, as President of the Council, observed:—

'My own fear is just the contrary—that you will never be able to get the representatives of commerce to go out of their way to bring their knowledge and practical ability to bear on the affairs of the town. I wish it could be otherwise.'

"What do we find in Bombay under the operation of the Act which is to supersede our law and which, it is said, is calculated to ensure the co-operation of the European community in our municipal affairs? Why, Sir, the average attendance of the Indian element is higher than the average attendance of the European Members of the Corporation. Here is a statement which I have obtained from Bombay:—

'There were 59 Corporation meetings in 1895-96. The rate of average native attendance at these meetings was 64 against 54 of Europeans.

'In 1896-97 there were 56 Corporation meetings, the rate of average native attendance was 56 against 41 of Europeans.'

"It will be seen that the attendance of Europeans was much higher for 1895-96 than for 1896-97. The difference is easily explained. Dr. Blainey, one of the most active European Members of the Corporation, resigned in 1896, and there was a perceptible falling-off in the average attendance.

"And now, Sir, with your permission, I desire to advert for a moment to the speech of the Hon'ble Member representing the Chamber of Commerce. I must deprecate the tone and the style of that speech. My hon'ble friend professed great admiration for the speech of the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill. Admiration is best expressed by imitation. The Hon'ble Member representing the Chamber did not, however, imitate the conciliatory attitude of the Honb'le Member in charge of the Bill. His speech, I regret to have to say, is objectionable both in matter as well as in manner. Many of the statements which he put forward as facts are not facts, and the whole drift of his speech is misleading. I am sure when my hon'ble friend has heard me, he will come to the conclusion that he has done scant justice to the Corporation, and I have no doubt he will see his way to modify his opinions. I desire to invite the attention of the Council to his statement of facts. My hon'ble friend observed in regard to the drainage scheme of the added area that a standing committee of business-men would have finished in seven months a work over which the Corporation spent seven years. Surely my friend could not possibly have known all the facts when he hazarded this prophecy. The scheme embraced an area of 15 square miles and was originally estimated to cost one crore and seventy lakhs of rupees. The Commissioners consulted Mr. Hughes and Mr. Baldwin Latham, the greatest drainage expert in the world. They carefully considered the matter with the result that they reduced the estimate from one crore and seventy lakhs to seventy-six lakhs—they saved nearly a crore of the rate-payers' money. My hon'ble friend will admit that any business-firm which after seven years' deliberation could save a crore of rupees would be justified in congratulating itself upon the result. Seven years' deliberation terminating in the saving of a crore of rupees is deliberation fruitful of economy, of which any business-firm might well be proud. It is perfectly true that the Commissioners were censured for their delay in this matter by the Government of Sir Charles Elliott; but it is equally true that they were absolved from all blame by the Government of Sir Alexander Mackenzie.

"Let me read to you an extract from the Resolution of the Government:—

'For this reason, although the subject has been discussed in the newspapers and incidentally referred to in the Administration Reports of the Commissioners for the last five years, no continuous history of the various phases of the discussion, and no final expression of the views of the Corporation as a whole, has yet been laid before Government. Had such a record of facts and opinions been before Sir Charles Elliott, when he recorded his Resolution of the 8th November, 1895, it seems to the present Lieutenant-Governor to be doubtful whether the general condemnation of the supposed inaction of the Commissioners in respect of the drainage question, which is contained in the first paragraph of the Resolution, would not have been qualified by some reference to the intrinsic difficulty of the problem and the conflicting opinions expressed by the technical advisers of the Corporation.'

'In their joint report on the drainage question Messrs. Hughes and Kimber, after full consideration, and with a knowledge of the facts necessarily much more minute than Mr. Latham could have acquired during his brief visit to Calcutta, reject as based upon incomplete or erroneous data, the main feature of his scheme, and conclude that it is impossible to construct an open low-level reservoir for the discharge, by gravitation, of the combined sewage and rainfall of Calcutta. In the Lieutenant-Governor's opinion this fact, taken with the reduction or the estimate made by Mr Kimber from 170 lakhs to less than 79 lakhs, is in itself sufficient to show that, so far as the drainage question is concerned, neither the Corporation nor their Chairman can fairly be charged with unreasonable delay in arriving at a decision on an engineering problem of exceptional difficulty. Had they accepted and proceeded to carry out Mr. Baldwin Latham's scheme, with no more deliberation than was enjoined on them by irresponsible opinion in Calcutta (The Hon'ble Babu Surendra Nath Banerjee here said :—"You, Sir, referring to the Hon'ble Mr. Turner, the Member for the Chamber, have made yourself the exponent in this Council of this irresponsible opinion") they would have committed themselves to a project which would have been more than double of that now put before them, and which might not in certain essential features have fully met the circumstances of the case.'

"Then, again, my hon'ble friend referred to the reduction of Rs. 30,000 in the Health Officer's budget. If he knew all the facts in connection with this reduction, I am sure instead of blame he would have bestowed praise upon the Commissioners. The facts are these:—The year was a year of unusual financial depression. Mr. Lee, the Chairman, of his own motion and without any pressure from the Commissioners, asked the Heads of Departments to reduce their budgets. The Assistant Health Officer, who was then officiating for the Health Officer, cut down his budget by Rs. 56,000. In the meantime Dr. Simpson returned to his duties. He thought the reduction had been carried too far, and cut it down to Rs. 46,000. Now mark what the Commissioners did when the matter came up before them for consideration. They raised the expenditure of the Health Department and would not consent to reduce it to below Rs. 30,000. Now let me ask my hon'ble friend whether after this explanation he does not think that the Commissioners were worthy of praise rather than of blame for the part they took in this matter? Reference has been made to the reduction of Rs. 16,000 for road scraping. It is perfectly true the Commissioners cut down this amount, but surely not on the ground of economy. They insisted upon the road-scraping being removed by their own conservancy carts They objected to this work being done by hired carts for which Rs. 16,000 had been provided, on the ground that the work was badly done and the Corporation did not get an adequate return for the money spent. Subsequently the Commissioners granted a sum of Rs. 7,000 for road-scraping. My hon'ble friend has referred to a sum of Rs. 8,000 which had been disallowed for the conservancy arrangements of the added area. Here again the Hon'ble Member is ignorant of the facts of the case. A sum of Rs. 13,000 had been provided for the conservancy arrangements of this part of the town. In the middle of the year after the budget had been framed, a further sum of Rs 8,000 was asked. Mr. Ritchie, the Chairman, himself said that the Commissioners could not grant this extra sum. In judging of the policy of the Commissioners in connection with the Health Officer's Department, it is not surely fair to pick out an item of expenditure here and an item there, and say that the Commissioners have not done their duty. The whole expenditure on the Health Officer's Department extending over a series of years can alone give a correct view of the policy which the Commissioners have followed in this matter. I have drawn up a table of expenditure extending from 1889-90 to 1896-97; and what do we find from it? A scale of expenditure progressively increasing with the growing sanitary requirements of the town and the financial ability of the Corporation to meet them. In 1889-90, the expenditure on the Health Officer's Department was Rs. 9,27,947; in 1890-91 it was 9,27,446. Now take the last two years of the period. In 1895-96 the expenditure was Rs. 10,19,739; in 1896-97 it was Rs. 10,96,357 or nearly 11 lakhs of rupees. Thus the expenditure has been steadily progressing with the expansion of the sanitary needs of Calcutta. One item more, and I have finished my examination of the distinct allegations my hon'ble friend has thought fit to make against the Corporation. He has referred to an item of Rs. 50 which the Commissioners disallowed, although the money had been paid by the Chairman, Mr. Ritchie, to Mr. Wilson, who was then a candidate for the Gowkhana Superintendentship. The Hon'ble Member possibly referred to this matter as an instance of financial meanness on the part of the Commissioners. Here, again, he displays only a superficial knowledge of the facts of the case. The Commissioners had no option left in the matter. Under the law they were bound to disallow the sum, and Mr. Ritchie himself admitted that the Commissioners were in the right and that he was in the wrong. This was what he said about the matter at the meeting of the Commissioners:—

'Since the Resolution was passed (by the General Committee) he had enquired what would have been done in Government service under similar circumstances—what view would the Accountant-General take of an item such as this, and Mr. Ritchie was bound to say that the answer was it would probably not have been sanctioned. He thought that in most matters he as well as the Commissioners could not do better than to follow the procedure of the Government who dealt with many similar cases, and he had therefore caused the amount to be refunded.'

"Sir, my hon'ble friend has referred to a communication of the Chamber of Commerce addressed to the Government, dated the 10th July, 1895. In that communication the Chamber complained of the increase of typhoid fever in Calcutta. On the matter being inquired into, it was found that there had been no increase of typhoid fever, and the Government in its reply to the Chamber censured the Health Officer for lending the weight of his name to the spread of a false rumour. I will read an extract from the letter of Government:—

'It is a matter of much regret that after lending the weight of his authority to the statement that typhoidal fevers are largely increasing in Calcutta, the Health Officer should have neglected to comply with the request that the grounds of that opinion might be fully set forth. Owing to this omission it is impossible, as the matter now stands, to arrive at any certain or even probable conclusion on the important question whether the increase in fever mortality which has occurred during the last three years in Calcutta is due to purely local causes which admit of being diminished or removed, or to general causes affecting the whole surrounding country, which it would be vain to attempt to cope with. The position is a very unsatisfactory one, and illustrates the damage that may be done to sanitary progress by making vague general assertions and withholding the evidence upon which they are based.'

"One other remark I desire to make in connection with the speech of the Hon'ble Member representing the Chamber. He observed that the present Bill provided for a fair representation of all sections of the community in the Corporation. Does he regard it as a fair representation of the rate-payers that on the General Committee they should be represented by only one-third of the entire number—is it fair that those who pay the maximum of taxation should have the minimum of representation? Such an arrangement, I am sure, will not recommend itself to our sense of justice and fair play.

"Well, Sir, we have been told that under the proposed law there will be 75 Commissioners as before, and that the conditions of the franchise and of the distribution of the wards will remain unaltered. The Commissioners will vote the Budget, fix the rates and then—I was going to say—go to sleep. Their function will be like that of the gods of the Epicureans of old as described by Cicero in his De Natura deorum—they created the world and then went to sleep. The gist of the proposed changes may be summarized as follows:—The transfer of all authority from the representatives of the rate-payers to the official representative of the Government and to the representatives of the European mercantile community. The supreme power of the Corporation will be gone—Local Self-Government will be gone. Far better would it be to do away with this semblance of a show—this mockery of Local Self-Government—and convert the Calcutta Municipality into a Government bureau, controlled and directed by the Government.

"Let me observe that in all European countries which have any form of Municipal Government, the supreme authority is always vested in the Corporation. This is what Mr. Albert Shaw says in his well-known book:—

'Municipal Governments, elsewhere than in the United States, after having constituted a ruling body, do not erect a separate one-man power and give it the means to obstruct the ruling administrative body and to diminish its scope and responsibility. The Mayor elsewhere is an integral part of the Council. English, Scotch and Irish Municipal Government is simply government by a group of men who are to be regarded as 'a grand Committee of the Corporation—the Corporation consisting of the whole body of burgesses or qualified citizens. In Glasgow it is a Committee of seventy-eight; in Edinburgh, of forty-one; in Manchester, of one hundred and four; in Birmingham, of seventy-two; in Liverpool, Leeds Sheffield and most of the large English towns, of sixty-four; in Dublin, of sixty; in Belfast, of forty; and in the other incorporated towns of the United Kingdom it varies from twelve to sixty-four, according to their size. So far as those bodies have authority to pass bye-laws at all, their authority is complete, and nobody obtrudes a veto. They appoint and remove all officials. They have entire charge of Municipal Administration, distributing the work of departmental management and supervision to Standing Committees of their own number which they organize and constitute as they please. If such a Local Government cannot be trusted, the fault is with popular institutions. It is quite certain to be as good a government as the people concerned deserve to have. The location of responsibility is perfectly definite.'

"Municipal Government in America is differently constituted. It is organized upon lines which we are very unwisely going to imitate in the Bill before us, and the municipal system in America, according to Mr. Albert Shaw, is a failure. This is what he says in his book :—

'The typical American Mayor is no part of the Council or its organization. He is elected directly by the people. He is an independent co-ordinate authority. He bears somewhat the same relation to the Council that the President of the United States sustains towards Congress or the Governor of a State towards the Legislature. The analogy falls short, however, in the very important practical fact that the work of Congress and the State Legislature is principally that of legislation, while the work of Municipal Councils is of necessity principally that of administration. The theoretical independence and distinct executive responsibility of the President and the Governors is extremely difficult to maintain in practice, for the line between legislative and administrative work and authority is not at all distinct. Still more difficult is it in practice to apportion duties and responsibility between an American Mayor and the Common Council in such a way as to secure real efficiency on both sides. It is not easy to see where in the nature of things, the proper functions of one authority end, and those of the other begin. In the dispersion of authority, definite responsibility too easily disappears. The embarrassments and opportunities growing out of this divided responsibility are among the principal causes of the comparative failure of City Government in the United States.'

"Here in Calcutta the authority of the Corporation has always been supreme since there has been a Corporation. This has been the constitution of the Municipality ever since 1863. Every time the constitution has come under consideration, this principle has been recognized. It was first affirmed by the Act of 1863; it was re-affirmed in 1876; it was again affirmed in 1888, and under this constitution the Municipality has introduced those vast and stupendous sanitary works which have changed the face of Calcutta. If we had a tabula rasa upon which we might inscribe what we pleased, there might have been perhaps little room for complaint. But a constitution is a growth—in the words of Edmund Burke, the greatest political Philosopher the world has ever seen—it is an organic growth; and let me ask my hon'ble friend, the Member in charge of the Bill, whether he regards the Bombay Municipal Act as the natural and the most recent development of our municipal system? If not, it is a foreign body—an extraneous excrescence—sought to be engrafted upon our municipal system, and as such it is doomed—fore-doomed to failure.

"Sir, I base my objection to the Bill upon the highest considerations of expediency. The Bill, if passed into law, would lead to the dispersion of all sense of responsibility on the part of the Executive and would operate as a hardship upon the poorer sections of the community, whose well-being ought to be the supreme concern of all Governments. Under the existing law the authority of the Corporation is supreme To the Corporation, the Chairman and the General Committee are responsible. To whom will they be responsible under the new law? To none—they will be responsible only to their own consciences—the divine monitor within; and, Sir, power vested in the best and the wisest amongst us is liable to be abused when adequate provision is not made for bringing home a sense of responsibility. There will, under the new law, be three co-ordinate authorities, forming part and parcel of the same system, moving in their own appointed spheres, without any central or controlling force. Why, Sir, the material universe could not endure under such a system. The same principle dominates the world of man's actions. The Bill, as I have remarked, will be a prolific source of oppression practised upon the poor. The Chairman cannot possibly perform all his vast and varied functions. He will have to delegate his duties to his subordinates in an endless chain. The Executive will thus include the municipal underlings, and we know who and what they are. They are just as unpopular as the police, and their purity is on a par with that of the police. But they are far more meddlesome and mischievous. Their duties affecting the daily lives and habits of the people afford them the amplest opportunity for black-mailing. Now a remedy is provided by the appellate and revisional jurisdiction of the Corporation which may be invoked by any Commissioner. But when this power is taken away from the Corporation, these underlings will be the virtual masters of the situation—the lords of all they survey—their right none to dispute,—and the lot of the poor man hard as it is in Calcutta, will become harder still.

"Sir, I desire to say one word with regard to the constitution and the powers of the General Committee. Under the present law the General Committee consists of 18 members elected by the Corporation and is responsible to the Corporation. Under the proposed law the General Committee will consist of 12 members, of whom only four will be elected by the Corporation. The General Committee will be entrusted with the details of administration in a variety of important matters. The Corporation will have to find the funds. The Corporation having under the new system no part in the actual work of administration and therefore unfamiliar with the requirements of the administration, may vote inadequate finds, and then the Government, like the deus ex machina of the old dramas, will descend on the scene to avert a crisis. Here we have an imperium in imperio with a vengeance, with all the worst evils of that system, accentuated in their gravest form. Let us hear what a Bombay paper which you, Sir, very rightly described from your place in the Supreme Council as being distinguished for sobriety and moderation—the Indian Spectator—says with regard to this aspect of the Bill:—

'The division is a queer one, involving a logical fallacy, for, are not merchants too residents? Our Standing Committee is elected by the Corporation, as a whole, and so there is no friction. The General Committee, as sketched out in the words of Sir Alexander Mackenzie, quoted above, would be, as it seems at first sight, an anomaly, an imperium in imperio, and the work of dividing the responsibilities between the two bodies to be created on the one hand, and between them and the Chairman, on the other, would surely tax ingenuity. If the Budget and the rate of taxation is to be fixed by the Corporation, if the strings of the purse are to be in their hands exclusively, we do not see how a body that is not their representa tive can help becoming often a stumbling block in the way of smooth working.'

"Sir, it has been said with regard to the Committees of the Corporation that they hamper work and cause delay. The statement is founded upon an entire misconception of the situation. These Committees facilitate work and avoid a good deal of discussion which otherwise would be inevitable at meetings of the Commissioners. 'In 19 cases out of 20' said Sir Henry Harrison from his place in this Council, 'the decisions of Committees are accepted without any discussion; Nor do these Committees cause any delay when the Chairman is in agreement with them, and this is usually the case; for then his proposals may at once be given effect to.' In this connection there is one aspect of the question which this Council cannot overlook and which I am sure Your Honour will not overlook when we bear in mind the eloquent words which you addressed as Home Secretary to the various Local Governments, impressing upon them the importance of fostering the beginnings of Local Self-Government, as an instrument of popular and political education. These Committees familiarise the Commissioners with the work of the Corporation, inspire them with a sense of responsibility and promote the ends of political education.

"Lastly the Government has assumed to itself functions which do not belong to it under the present law. I thought, Sir, that decentralization was the order of the day. But I presume it is decentralization when power is to be delegated to officials or official bodies, and it is centralization when power has to be withdrawn from popular bodies. Here is a statement which I have drawn up showing the powers and functions which the Government proposes to assume under the Bill:—

'Under the present law the Local Government can take action direct and of its own motion in 20 cases. Under the proposed law the Local Government can take action direct and of its own motion in 35 cases. The new powers given to the Local Government among others are:—

(1) To appoint four members to the General Committee.
(2) To fix the salary of the Chairman.
(3) To appoint the Deputy Chairman and fix his salary.
(4) To grant leave of absence to Chairman and Deputy Chairman.
(5) To remove a Commissioner's disqualification by an order of the Local Government.

(6) To make rules prescribing qualifications of candidates for employment in the Health Department, Engineering Department, Conservancy Department, also make rules providing for occasional or periodical inspection of any Department of the Corporation by officers of Government.

(7) Resolutions of General Committee appointing Sub-Committees to be forwarded to Local Government.

(8) Minutes of all proceedings of Corporation, General Committee and Sub-Committees to be sent to Local Government.

(9) The Local Government may require the Chairman to undertake the execution of any work certified by a Secretary of the Government to be urgent for public service and for this purpose may make temporary payment from Municipal Funds.

(10) If any difference of opinion arises between the General Committee and the Corporation touching Budget allotments, the Chairman shall refer the matter to the Local Government and its decision to be final.

(11) To exempt the owner or occupier of any building or land from the payment of consolidated rate, if recommended by any two authorities.'

"Sir, I do not propose to detain you any longer. It is not for one moment to be supposed that I regard the present constitution of the Calcutta Municipality as perfect. Far from it. It is capable of improvement, but it does not lie in the directions indicated in the Bill. The Bill has been launched in the name of sanitation. Could we persuade ourselves to believe that it would promote sanitation and thus confer an unmixed benefit upon the people, what could be more natural than that we should support a measure, so wise in its scope—so beneficent in its intentions. For Calcutta is the city of our birth—it is the city of our sires—it is the city of our children—and it is to be the destined city of our children's children. We have a far more permanent and abiding interest in its sanitary well-being than any other section of the community could possibly have. We would welcome any rational scheme of sanitation which would bring to our people an accession of health and all the blessings which the possession of health implies. But we are persuaded that this Bill will not promote this great object. It is not laws but funds that are needed for the structural improvement of Calcutta We have had of recent years too many laws. We want rest, peace, the repose of peace, freedom from the excitement consequent upon new proposals for the enactment of new laws. It is money and not a change in the constitution of the Municipality that is required for the sanitation of Calcutta. Sir, I speak not as an amateur or a theorist, but as one who has some practical familiarity with municipal work. I have spent the best part of my life-time in the service of the Corporation. I entered it when young. I have grown grey in its service. The work of the Corporation has been the pleasure and the pride of my life. I have behind me an experience of nearly 25 years. Fortified by that experience, I venture to make an earnest appeal to you, Sir, whose name is so honourably associated with the great scheme of Local Self-Government, to abandon or at any rate largely to modify a measure which has filled the rate-payers of Calcutta with alarm, which will not promote the ends of sanitation, which will depreciate the value of property, disorganize the work of the Corporation and wreck the best prospects of Local Self-Government in the capital of the Indian Empire. Sir, I might put my case upon still higher considerations. Municipal institutions, said Mr. Gladstone, are the seed-plots upon which and around which are developed that political capacity and those habits of political thought which ought to be the supreme concern of all Governments to foster and to promote. Our municipal institutions are the gift of our rulers. We owe them to their beneficence. But they have taken firm root in our hearts and our convictions, for they are in entire accord with our ancient traditions and the inherited instincts of our race, fostered by the panchayet system and our time-honoured village organisations. We cherish them with reverence. The love and devotion of a people cling to them. They supplement our education; for what nobler school could there be than the school of public affairs! These noble seminaries inspire the people with a sense of responsibility, exercise a moderating influence upon their minds, and enlist their sympathies on behalf of the Government. It would be most unwise, most unstatesmanlike, in these days of political unrest and excitement, to do aught which would in the least impair the utility of these institutions or shake public confidence in them. We are the friends of sanitation; but the worship of sanitation may be carried to the verge of idolatry. We agree with Sir Ashley Eden in thinking that a single case where native society is persuaded by conviction to adopt a sanitary reform is worth hundred cases where such reform is forced upon it by the pressure of external circumstances. Sir, greatly as we value sanitation, we are not prepared to sacrifice our civic freedom for its sake, especially when such a sacrifice is unnecessary and uncalled for, and when it will prove disastrous to the fortunes of our people in other, higher and nobler directions."

"The Hon'ble MR. SPINK said:—"The chief among the interests to be maintained by the Municipality are those of the European community, and it assuredly never was intended that the management of the affairs of this great and growing City should pass into the hands of one section only of the community. Europeans have been reproached for not coming forward in the past to take an interest in municipal affairs and to share in the work of the Municipality. The accusation is an unjust one. The gradual falling off of the European element in the Corporation and in the General Committee can be readily explained. I need only refer you to the statistics furnished by the Hon'ble Mr. Risley to show how hopelessly Europeans have been placed in the minority by the operation of the existing laws. Even supposing they were more numerous, men of business cannot spare time to take part in the too often fruitless debates of a large talking body. They are always ready and willing to serve on business Committees, and I need only instance such bodies as the Port Commissioners, the Chamber of Commerce and its various Committees, and the Trades Association, to show that Europeans are willing to, and do devote their time to public questions. It is impossible, as things now stand, to get a sufficient number of Europeans to join the Corporation, and to give the Executive the benefit of their experience and their counsels. The one solution for the problem presented by this unsatisfactory condition of things is, in my opinion, to be found in the principle of the Bill now under discussion. It will secure for us a representative General Committee capable of performing its various duties in a prompt and businesslike way, and who, armed with a comprehensive and well-defined Act, will be able to carry out much-needed sanitary and structural reforms, and to administer the affairs of the town on sound and modern principles. Such a Committee, I take it, would represent more truly the voice of the people than the present one, and would be more truly based on the fundamental principles of Local Self-Government. It is not correct to say that the European community get better arranged streets and so on at the cost of the native ratepayer. If the native electorate had realised, as the Europeans did long ago, the advantage of wide, clean, and not too crowded streets, they would, in season and out of season, have striven to improve the insanitary conditions which prevail at the northern end of the town, and they would have insisted on their representatives paying attention to these matters rather than to others in which public time has been wasted in the discussion of questions concerning the erection of verandahs or the appointment of petty Municipal Officers. Once more it must not be forgotten that the introduction of the elective system into this country was an experiment with an educational object. Now, Sir, under the existing law, it is the return of Hindus, not of Europeans, that is really guaranteed. Whatever may be claimed on behalf of specially-gifted individuals, a people or a race cannot claim to be educated in the difficult art of Self-Government, in the brief space of some two decades. I venture to say that when regard is had to the commercial, trading and other interests implicated in the well-being of this great commercial centre, it is preposterous to put too large a measure of power into the hands of those who, it should be recognized, are still in statu pupilari. This object in view cannot be called retrograde. I confidently anticipate that when once this Bill becomes law, members of the European community will no longer be unwilling to take their place on the Municipal Board. Members of the trading firms of Calcutta who had previously withdrawn their names, have already come forward for election. The position of affairs will be completely changed, and Europeans who already recognise that their commerce and trade is threatened unless great sanitary and administrative reforms are introduced, will inaugurate the reforms which are so urgently needed."

"The Hon'ble SAHIBZADA MAHOMED BAKHTYAR SHAH said:—"Your Honour, It is quite needless for me to make a long speech in favour of the Bill. The Bill supports itself. I have much pleasure in adding my small measure of assistance towards such a salutary and necessary piece of legislation. I, in common with all those who have any experience of the present condition of the city and of Municipal Government and who have the welfare of the town at heart, most sincerely wish this Bill the completest success. And I wish publicly to thank our retiring Lieutenant-Governor for this Bill which will perpetuate his memory in Calcutta."

The Hon'ble BABU KALI CHARAN BANERJEE said:—"I oppose this motion and shall be as brief as I possibly can in stating my reasons for doing so. I may premise that the object of the Bill is not to introduce provisions into the existing law which might be availed of on occasions of emergency; the proposal rather is to make that the standing law which is adapted only to emergencies. The object of the Bill is ostensibly twofold. First, to provide, as it is said, a responsible Executive, and secondly, to secure larger European representation. The Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill, in clearing the way for his proposal, referred to certain discoveries that had been made, and argued that the only remedy that could be proposed, was a radical change in the law. He would not reflect on the work either of the Commissioners or of the Executive, as he thought such a change in the law did not necessarily imply any reflection. But, he said, times had changed, and so it had become necessary to change the law. Another Hon'ble Member has proceeded on the same lines and has referred to the age as an age of progress, and has justified the Bill on the ground that it proposes to keep pace with the progress of the times. If times have changed, the legitimate proposition to put forward in view of such change and progress would be that a further expansion of the principle of Local Self-Government was called for. The progress of the times could not by any means suggest that the principle of Local Self-Government should be, not extended or developed, but hampered, if not crushed altogether. For although, as I have said, the ostensible object of the Bill is to provide a responsible Executive, if we read the Bill, we cannot avoid coming to the conclusion that the object really is to provide, not a responsible, but an irresponsible Executive, unless it be an Executive with autonomous responsibility. If the object is to secure larger European representation, the provisions of the Bill force on the conclusion that the object is not the legitimate one of the protection of minorities, but the illegitimate one of the dominance of minorities. Thus in reality the Bill seeks to secure an irresponsible Executive, and a dominant minority. Both these principles I have no hesitation whatever in characterising as unsound. For, starting from the discoveries to which reference was made by the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill, the question has to be raised, how is the state of things so discovered to be accounted for? Is the Act really responsible for it, or something else? Reference was made, in the course of the Hon'ble Member's speech, to the desirability of harmony between the Administrative and the Executive section of the Corporation. Might it not be that the Executive, although under the law responsible to the Corporation, were not at all in a frame of mind to accept their responsibility to the Corporation? Might it not be that they fretted under a sense of their responsibility to the Corporation, and there was frequent friction between the Executive and the Corporation, resulting in the Act not working so satisfactorily as it might otherwise have. That this represents the true state of things, one may suspect from that portion in the speech of the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill where he drifts somewhat into the pathetic and says:—'A Government officer specially selected for this difficult and important post is placed in a wholly false position by the present law which makes him dependent on the good-will of the Commissioners for an addition to his pay which owing to the great cost of living in Calcutta, is in most cases no more than is required to save him from positive loss while holding the appointment of Chairman.' This passage suggests, no doubt, a feeling on the part of Government officers so situated, which they do not at all relish, namely, a sense of dependence on the Corporation or a majority of native Commissioners. I would deprecate any provision of the law which accentuates racial differences and racial feelings. One other provision in the Bill on the same lines, is that which transfers from the main body of Commissioners to the General Committee the power of appointing the Secretary, the Engineer, the Surveyor, the Health Officer, the Collector, the Assessor, and other officers, the initial salary of whose appointments is Rs. 300 and upwards. If there has been friction in the work of the Corporation, that friction, I venture to say, has arisen from a desire to assert irresponsibility on the one hand, and a desire on the other hand to hold people to their responsibility. The Corporation have interfered with the Executive whenever the Executive have taken it upon themselves to do things which they were not entitled to do on their own motion, and with regard to which they were under the law subject to the Corporation. If that is the state of things, it will be disastrous to legalise the irresponsibility which has been the cause of the friction and has brought about a state of things which is to be deplored. It is said that the Bill defines the functions of the different municipal authorities which it brings into existence. It speaks of them as co-ordinate. Notwithstanding the statement that the Executive power is to be vested in the Chairman subject to the control of the Corporation where it is so expressly stated, the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill is perfectly correct in describing the authority sought to be conferred by this Bill on the Chairman as co-ordinate, because, if we go through the different sections of the Bill which the Hon'ble Member has been good enough to tabulate for us, and take up the sections in which the word 'sanction' or 'control' occurs, we find that it is only in connection with three or four points that any real control has been left in the Corporation, namely, the selection of the Bank, for example, in which Municipal Funds can be deposited, the taking of a census, the provision of new burial and burning places, and the establishment of markets, either municipal or private. These are, I believe, the only four matters in regard to which the Corporation will exercise anything like control over the action of the Chairman. Therefore, it is clear that the two authorities will really be co-ordinate, and I submit that it is an unsound principle to have two or more co-ordinate authorities of this description. Their functions are defined, it is said well, the functions of the Chairman are defined, but they are defined into a plenum. The functions of the Corporation are also defined, but they are defined into a vacuum.

"Then, there is another object for which the Bill provides, namely, a larger measure of European representation. The object, I contend is not to protect the interests of European minority, but to help the European minority to dominate. With regard to this, let us see what the Bill provides. There are to be 75 Commissioners altogether, out of whom 60 shall be elected as follows:—50 at ward elections, 4 by the Chamber of Commerce, 4 by the Trades Association, and 2 by the Port Commissioners. The remaining 15 are to be nominated by the Local Government. Then we come to the constitution of the General Committee. How is that provided for? The General Committee is to consist of 12 ordinary members and of the Chairman who shall be President of the Committee. They are to be Commissioners, and therefore, these 12 Commissioners shall be 12 out of the 75 Commissioners. They are to be elected and appointed as follows:—4 by the Commissioners elected at ward elections, that is to say, 4 out of the 50 elected Ward Commissioners. Then 2 shall be elected by the Chamber of Commerce. It is not clear whether these 2 are to be elected by the Bengal Chamber of Commerce or by the 4 Commissioners who represent the Chamber of Commerce; any way these 2 must be 2 out of the 4 elected by the Chamber, because the provision is that the 12 members on the General Committee shall be Commissioners. Thus 4 of the Commissioners elected by the Chamber will elect 2 members for the General Committee. Then, one member of the General Committee will be elected by the Trades Association; they return 4 members to the Corporation, and one of these 4 will be elected for the General Committee. One member of the General Committee will also be elected by the 2 returned by the Port Commissioners, and lastly, 4 members of the General Committee will be selected by the Local Government; that is to say, the proportion of Government nominees on the General Committee will be 4 out of 15; of the Chamber of Commerce, 2 out of 4; of the Trades Association, 1 out of 4; of the Port Commissioners, 1 out of 2; and of the Commissioners elected at ward elections, 4 out of 50. That is the constitution of the General Committee. Therefore, so far as the representatives of the elected Commissioners are concerned, there will be 4 as against 8 members. That is how the Bill provides, as I have said, not for the protection of minorities, but for the domination of minorities, and this has always been allowed to be an unsound principle. The principle of the protection of minorities is a sound principle, but in this Bill you provide for a dominant minority. It is complained that there is now a dominant majority, and it is proposed to go to the other extreme and have a dominant minority. Then, it is said that this has been done in order to remove the state of things in existence for a long time, in consequence of which Europeans, as a rule, refrain from taking any interest in the Municipality. With regard to this the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill has himself been pleased to say that the fact of Europeans standing aloof from the concerns of the Municipality is nothing new; they had kept aloof even under the old regime, and the explanation is that at that time the Executive was not hampered by the action of a number of Committees as at present, and therefore they thought their interests were quite safe in the hands of the Chairman. That is the explanation offered by the Hon'ble Member. If he himself is satisfied with that explanation, then of all men, he should be the last to expect European gentlemen to take any interest in the concerns of the Municipality when they know that they will have under this Bill an irresponsible Executive, more independent of, and unfettered by the action of Committees of the Corporation than ever. I have been asking myself whether the European community will take as a compliment all that the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill has so frankly said of its interest in, and criticism of, matters municipal, or be tempted to cry 'save us from our friend.' Although the Hon'ble Member who represents the Chamber of Commerce took it upon himself to say a number of things in disparagement of native Commissioners as to their ideas of sanitation, &c., the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill would warn us against laying much stress upon such criticisms.

"Europeans ought to have an influence on the administration of the town," not, however, by artificial provisions of law, but by really so using their influence in the Corporation as to gain the position which might well be assigned to them. The Bill would give them a predominant position, not on their own merits, but by an artificial provision of the law under which they will have that influence. The Hon'ble Member said:—'The Europeans, who ought to have a predominant influence in the affairs of the town, cannot be induced to take part in the general meetings of the Commissioners, where they consider, rightly or wrongly, the time is wasted in debate, and where they could not hope to command more than an insignificant minority.'

"The question is, why not? Why cannot they hope to command more than an insignificant minority? There have been European members of the Corporation who have, I believe, in their day led the Corporation, and there is no reason why European members should not again lead the Corporation by dint of their own merit, if they would divest themselves of their prejudices with regard to the conduct of meetings. There are some who rush into statements like these, that there is waste of time, that there is unlimited talking. Because other people cannot accept their ipse dixit, they are ready to put it down to a desire of talking, and complain of waste of time. When there is a disposition to talk, Europeans are quite as forward to talk as Hindus are. While admitting that Europeans should occupy an important position in the Corporation, I submit it should not be by means of an artificial provision of law, but on their own merits. Then the Hon'ble Member said:—'They prefer to stand aside and make themselves felt through the Chamber of Commerce, the Jute Association, the Health Society, or some other public body which now and then puts forward some very general proposal with an imperfect or no knowledge at all of the difficulties, financial and administrative, involved in the sanitation of a large Asiatic City.' There is the real difficulty in the way of Europeans sympathising with the deliberations of the Corporation. As regards the question of sanitation, I submit that the passage quoted with something like elation by the Hon'ble Member for the Chamber of Commerce, is an answer to his criticisms. He quoted my hon'ble friend to my left as having in the course of his remarks on the Annual Administration Report of the Corporation come down severely on the sanitary condition of Calcutta, thus showing that though a Native member, was not blind to the interests of the sanitation of the city. But there is such a thing as sanitation run mad, of people having before their eyes the one thing, and not being able to realise what would be best for the town, not in connection with one particular interest, but with all the interests connected with the administration of the Municipality. The Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill said further: 'It is one of the greatest evils of the existing state of things that, among the various critics of the Corporation, those who are most interested in the questions at issue and best able to make themselves heard, should at the same time be the worst informed as to the evils that exist, and the least responsible as regards the possible remedies for them.' If European gentlemen would profit by the picture thus drawn of them by the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill, there might be some hope of their understanding the action of the Corporation. Such being the history of their attitude towards municipal concerns, we have further to remember that notwithstanding the artificial provisions of the Bill, the Hon'ble Member for the Chamber of Commerce is doubtful whether the leading members of the mercantile community would come forward to take part in the work of the Municipality, although he said some competent men might be willing. With all this before it, I cannot understand why the Legislature should go out of its way to place a number of baits, so to speak, before a community which, on the admission of the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill, has, on the whole, shown no interest in the affairs of the Municipality. I object to the principle of the Bill as unsound. It seeks to provide an irresponsible Executive and to create a dominant minority, both of which objects should in my opinion be deprecated."

The Hon'ble BABU JATRA MOHAN SEN said:—"I desire to record my protest against this Bill. I am not familiar with the questions which form the subject of discussion before the Council, but from what I have read and heard, it appears to me that the passing of this Bill will be a blow to the principles of Local Self-Government for which, as far as I am aware, no case has been made out. It will, moreover, take away from the Commissioners of Calcutta rights which they now possess. For these reasons I am opposed to the principles of this Bill."

The Hon'ble MR. RISLEY, in reply, said:—"I have to thank my hon'ble friend, Mr. Surendranath Banerjee, for the flattering terms in which he has referred to me, however unequal I may feel myself to meet so accomplished a speaker, who has, I freely admit, the advantage of me both as regards his knowledge of the facts, and his unrivalled talent for presenting them in the most attractive form. It is a pleasure to have to deal with so courteous an opponent, and in return I desire to compliment him on his admirable speech. In summing up the debate and replying to the criticisms on the principles of the Bill, I shall endeavour to separate and classify the arguments that have been brought forward so as to deal with them more distinctly than I should if I followed the order of individual speakers. If in any matter I appear to criticise or find fault with the Commissioners, it will, I trust, be borne in mind that my remarks are directed at a system, not at individuals—at a bad law under which the counsels of the older and wiser men are liable to be over-ridden by the younger and more ardent spirits. As to the objection that the Bill is contrary to the principles of Local Self-Government and that, therefore, it is revolutionary, re-actionary, and retrograde, that, I submit, is a large and extremely vague general proposition, and before you can come to any conclusion about it you must know what it means. I will refer to that later on. For the present I take the phrase as it stands and assume that it means that the Bill somehow or other runs counter to Lord Ripon's famous Resolution of the 18th May, 1882. [THE Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE:—"October, 1881."] Hon'ble MR. RISLEY:—"Not at all. That letter only invited opinions. It was a sort of preliminary canter. Lord Ripon's final Resolution was issued on the 18th May, 1882. Against that Resolution, properly understood and applied with the necessary limitations, I have nothing to say. One of its chief limitations, however, is that it does not apply to the Presidency towns. This is expressly stated in paragraph 4 of the Resolution which restricts its operation to the area 'outside the Presidency towns.' It is, in other words, a Resolution meant for the mufassal, and it recognises the essential differences between the mufassal and Calcutta. For our present purpose the chief differences are, first, that the population of the mufassal is fairly homogeneous, and except in the planting districts and in the mill areas round Calcutta, Europeans form a very small minority, whether you look to their numbers or to their proprietary interests. Secondly, in the mufassal, sanitation, or the absence of it, concerns only the immediate locality; it raises no international questions, and does not affect the trade of the country. Calcutta, on the other hand, is the outlet for the exports, and the distributing centre for the imports of Bengal, Assam, and Northern India. I cannot mark its importance better than by stating that we are bound by international agreement, in force since 1882, to report every week our statistics of mortality to the Boards of Health at Constantinople and Alexandria. I may add that when I was staying in Constantinople some three years ago, I made the acquaintance of the chief foreign expert on the Board, and was surprised to find what keen interest was taken there in the sanitation of Calcutta, and how jealously the returns were scrutinised. That of itself shows how peculiar the position of Calcutta is, and what excellent reasons Lord Ripon had for excluding it from the scope of the Local Self-Government Resolution.

"But I will go further and meet my friends on their own ground; I will assume, for the sake of argument, that the principles of Local Self-Government —to stick to that indefinite phrase—are applicable to Calcutta. Does it follow even then that the Bill infringes the principle? I maintain that it does not; on the contrary the Bill affirms and extends it. Some politician once said—I forget who it was—when you see five men of whom three are sitting upon two, you can hardly say that all five are enjoying the blessings of Local Self-Government. That fairly describes the state of things that has prevailed in Calcutta for the last twenty years—three Hindus sitting on one European and one Muhammadan. That is a state of things which the Bill proposes to change, and in doing so I contend that it proceeds on the true principle of Local Self-Government—the representation of, interests—and applies it, moreover in a manner which Lord Ripon himself seems to have distinctly contemplated even in the case of the mufassal, where the problem, as I have already said, is far simpler than in Calcutta. In paragraph 14 of the Resolution of 1882 we read: 'Experience is wanting to determine the most suitable general system of election for each province, and it is desirable that a variety of plans should be tried in order to a future comparison of results. The simple vote, the cumulative vote, election by wards, election by the whole town and tract, suffrage of more or less extended qualification, election by castes or occupations—these and other methods might all be tried. New methods, unthought of in Europe, may be found suitable to India, and after a time it will probably be possible to say what forms suit best the local peculiarities and idiosyncracies of the different populations.' If that is not wide enough to cover the General Committee as proposed in the Bill, I do not know what is.

"The speeches of Hon'ble Members on the other side assumed throughout that the present system is a popular system. I should have thought the figures in Table C would have been sufficient to dispose of that fallacy. They show that the entire number of electors is only 13,000 or 2 per cent. of the population of Calcutta. The rest have no voice in the government of the town. Whatever you may call this, it is certainly not a popular government in any sense of the word. It is an oligarchy in which one section predominates—an ill-balanced oligarchy, in which the weight is all on one side. Even if we look to the Hindus alone, it appears to me—and many Hindu gentlemen have made the same complaint—that the working of the elective system is unsatisfactory. It gives undue prominence to a section of the community,—Young Bengal, New India—whatever you choose to call it, the soi-disant democratic section of a society which, from top to bottom, is essentially undemocratic in its character and ways of thought. It is, as many patriotic Hindus have often told me, a faulty and superficial method. It leaves the elder generation and those who follow in their steps out in the cold, and Government has to bring them in by way of nomination. It selects those who rise to the surface—the men who talk and canvass and agitate—but it does not reach the silent depths of the stream. It does not give us, as a rule, either here or in the mufassal, the genuine representative Hindus, the men we really want. In point of fact, in matters of this kind, you have to choose between two principles, neither of which can be stretched to justify the present state of things. If you follow the principle of numerical majority, you ought to enlarge the franchise; if you wish to give weight to intelligence, business capacity, and pecuniary interest in the prosperity of the town, some mode of proportional representation such as is proposed in the Bill must be resorted to.

"A great deal has been made of the argument that whatever has gone wrong in the town is the fault of the Executive, that is to say, of the Chairman. This is an argument which my hon'ble friends are not entitled to use. In the first place the law vests all powers in the Commissioners; it gives them complete control, and imposes on them full responsibility. So far from attempting to shift responsibility on to the Chairman by making any reasonable distribution of duties, they have tied his hands in every way and kept hanging over him the possibility of constant interference. They might have done by resolution what the Bill is doing now; but they did not do it. They kept all power in their own hands, and they must now abide by the results. You cannot indulge in the luxury of interference in season and out of season, and retain the right of disclaiming responsibility. If people keep on poking their fingers into the works of a clock, they must expect to be taken to task if the clock goes wrong. Moreover, as regards the really grave question of the terrible state of things discovered by the Medical Board—the Commissioners expressly assumed entire responsibility. On the 1st of December, 1896, the Government asked the Medical Board to make a full and searching inquiry into the causes of the lamentable failure on the part of those responsible for the town conservancy. On the 9th of December the Medical Board addressed a very polite letter to the Commissioners, in which they asked certain questions, none of which imputed any neglect to the Commissioners. The questions were:—(1) Are the facts correctly stated? (2) Were they reported to the Commissioners by the Health Officer, and with what results? (3) Is the law, as it stands, sufficient? (4) Is the law enforced, and if not, why not? (5) What are the duties of the Health Officer, and have they been properly carried out? To this the Commissioners replied that they respectfully declined to consent to the Medical Board being constituted judges between them and their officers. Can there be a more complete assumption of responsibility than that? In the face of that Resolution, is it possible for the Commissioners now at this distance either to dispute the facts or to deny or whittle away their responsibility for them? They were offered a full and fair inquiry by a body which, I believe, was absolutely impartial and free from prejudice and which, moreover, was on particularly friendly relations with the Commissioners, and had recently met the General Committee and discussed with them in the most amicable fashion the regulations to be framed under section 334 of the Act for the purpose of averting an outbreak of plague. My friend asks for a Commission now. He might have had a Commission then, but he would not. I am aware, of course, that there was a great division and much searching of heart among the Hindu Commissioners. One party, headed by my friend, the Hon'ble Babu Norendra Nath Sen, wished to accept the offer of the Government and the Medical Board. But they were overborne by the younger men, who, actuated by what my friend Mr. James Bryce calls 'the sensitive self-esteem of an assembly,' insisted on standing on their rights or what they thought were their rights. No doubt they have since realised the mistake that they made. They were led away by the younger men. And I have no doubt that this was what my friend Babu Kally Nath Mitter had in his mind when he suggested to me the other day at the Building Commission two reforms more radical than I should have ventured to propose myself. One of them was an age qualification for Commissioners—that no one should be elected under the age of thirty-five; and the other a property qualification for Commissioners—the payment of Rs. 200 in rates.

"Next we have what I may call the historical argument which dwells upon the state of the town some 30 or 40 years ago, before its administration was made over to the Justices, and it is suggested that the Commissioners cannot be blamed for not having entirely put in order a heritage of neglect. Well, I am not greatly concerned to defend the Government of so many years ago; but I may observe that the standard of sanitation even in England was very different half a century ago. To say that the Government of that day was not in advance of the ideas of their day, does not justify the Commissioners in lagging behind the ideas of our day. Moreover, the position has now entirely changed. Fifty years ago Calcutta was practically isolated from the rest of the world by a long sea voyage. The danger of the town spreading infection to Europe was practically nil, and could be disregarded. Nor was it connected with the rest of India as it is now, a fact which doubtless explains its immunity from plague. In those days the limit of infection was the distance a man could walk with the seeds of disease in him; now it is the distance he can travel by rail at 40 miles an hour—a very different thing. The copious references which have been made to the past accomplishments of the Commissioners are really irrelevant. No one denies that much has been done and a geat deal of money spent. I have every wish to do ample justice, and I admit that it is in their dealings with large issues that we see the Commissioners at their best. They passed the Harrison Road scheme, it is true, only by a narrow majority, and under extreme pressure, but they did pass it, notwithstanding their strong feelings on the subject of the right of property in ancestral houses. They agreed to the drainage scheme much against their desire for economy as such and their fear of a rise in the rates of taxation, and I am not at all disposed to go behind what was stated in the Government Resolution as to the time they took over it. But that refers only to the combined drainage scheme. It refers to the scheme embracing both the suburbs and the town. If I am not mistaken, the defects of the drainage system of Calcutta itself had been before the Commissioners for a very much longer period. The Health Officer claimed to have brought it forward as long ago as 1886, when he first came to Calcutta, and I am not aware that his statement has ever been challenged. In both cases public opinion, which can make itself felt in large issues, drove them at last to do something, the necessity for which many of them realised very imperfectly. But this is all beside the point. The large issues no one proposes to take away from them. The Bill will not withdraw from the general body of Commissioners the decision on these large issues, but it will give them an agency by which the large schemes will be prepared and digested. It will give them the initiative and driving power which they now want.

"In speaking of the action of the Commissioners and the attitude they assumed with regard to large schemes, I desire to give them full credit for the improvements they have effected in the town. But having said this, I fear it must be added that many large schemes have hung fire, and that the progress which has been made has not been as quick as it might have been. Look at the tramways for instance; for years past the whole thing has been a hideous scandal both as regards the state of the lines, the mismanagement and the display of cruelty to animals, and if there had been in the Corporation more initiative power, further progress would have been made in dealing with the tramways than there has been. Then take the state of the Warrant Department. That question dates really from 1886 and it descends, I may say, to the present time. Ten years later, in 1896, Mr. Williams discovered that, owing to the mismanagement of the department, two lakhs a year were written off as irrecoverable. There had been an accumulation of six lakhs of irrecoverable arrears in the three years preceding, and the Vice-Chairman, who showed the greatest possible energy in the matter, went into the subject, and found that there was a most inadequate establishment. They had 19 bailiffs on salaries varying from Rs. 20 to Rs. 8 at the bottom of the list, and besides this establishment there were also unpaid bailiffs who got no salary at all, but only a small commission for what they were supposed to collect. All sorts of peculation prevailed, as might be expected. A Committee was appointed in August, 1896, to investigate the matter, and I believe orders were passed on this report only the other day. But in looking through the correspondence, I found that, as long ago as 1886, Sir Henry Harrison urged upon the Commissioners practical reforms which would have tended to bring in the municipal revenues at a very much earlier period than under the existing system, and he resented very much what he considered to be interference with the independent action of the Executive. Then there was the large scheme of the establishment of a dhobikhana which had been under consideration ever since Sir Henry Harrison's time. There was also the disgraceful case of the trenching-ground at Goragatcha, which continued in Alipore from 1890—1895, a system of trenching of night-soil, which was the subject of general complaint, and which caused the Commissioners and their Chairman to be prosecuted and fined Rs. 100 in a criminal proceedings. It was admitted something ought to be done, but there was no power in the Corporation to find out what should be done or to do it. Eventually, the matter was settled by making a temporary connection with the sewer in Circular Road, but there was no reason why that temporary connection should not have been made years before. Here again the system was to blame, because there was no business-like body to bring about the solution of practical difficulties as they cropped up.

"So far as to the large issues. But how often does it happen that the Corporation have large issues to deal with? The great bulk of their work consists of minor issues—minor matters of conservancy which do not attract attention—and it is in respect of these minor matters that the interference of the Commissioners with the Executive is most striking. We have had one case referred to—the withdrawal of the grant for removing road-scrapings by hired carts. My hon'ble friend, Babu Surendranath Banerjee, says that hired carts do not work well, and therefore the Commissioners withdrew the grant. That is as much as to say that because the police are sometimes corrupt, therefore there should be no police. Then for a long time past there had been a series of proposals, which anybody can look at in the proceedings of the Commissioners' meetings, made by Dr. Simpson for the improvement of the scavenging establishment of the town, and intended to put it on a proper footing, and the way in which these proposals were dealt with was to refer them to a Committee which was appointed to consider the question of the amalgamation of the Conservancy with the Road Department under the Engineer. This Committee has been sitting since 1894, and I believe it is sitting still. This has been a great feature of the Commissioners' administration, the perpetual reference of all kinds of minor questions to Committees and Sub-Committees; the practice of appointing Committees to consider matters which might well be disposed of by the Chairman, and which, under this Bill, will be so disposed of without waste of time. To any one who will look through the proceedings of the Commissioners there is abundant evidence that Committees and Sub-Committees are too often set going at the instance of people who have an interest in stopping the progress of work. Inconvenient orders are thus set aside, for in municipal matters it is a familiar experience that when once questions are referred to a Committee, the chances are that in many instances they remain there for an indefinite period of time. The extent to which this power of appointing Committees has been misused and the way in which they have blocked work will appear from a list from which I will read extracts. The list is a very long one. [Extracts from the list were read.]

The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee rose to order. He said:—"This is a new matter which is introduced by the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill. It is not in the nature of a reply."

The Hon'ble the President said:—"It is an effective reply as to interference by Committees and preventing work being promptly and rapidly done."

The Hon'ble Mr. Risley, continuing, referred to some further instances of interference by means of Committees. He said:—

"In this matter of their interference with the Executive on minor issues, which is one of the chief reasons for strengthening the hands of the Chairman, if any one will look at any volume of the proceedings of the Commissioners and turn to the proceedings of the Buildings Committee, he will find there an indefinite number of cases in which orders passed by the Executive to do this, that, or the other, are brought up and considered by the Committee. It has been suggested that in respect of the Building Regulations there has really been no great interference with the Executive. But I will ask permission to read what was said by certain Commissioners at an ordinary meeting held in July, 1895, on that subject, as it completely disposes of the point and renders it unnecessary to cite a number of cases and go into details. At that meeting Mr. N. N. Ghose moved 'that the Chairman be requested to prepare a Note or Memorandum on the difficulties that have arisen in the interpretation and the working of the Building Regulations as given in Act II (B.C.) of 1888, and of the bye-laws passed by the Commissioners and sanctioned by the Local Government, and on the generally unsatisfactory character of those Regulations, and that the Memorandum, when prepared, be sent up to the Local Government after it has been adopted by the Commissioners in meeting.' In his speech he said:—'From a common-sense view the laws and bye-laws seemed enough, but sometimes the ingenuity of lawyers, and sometimes the Commissioners themselves who had cases to support, had made the rules unworkable. In many cases where they were absolutely plain and unambiguous, they had been twisted so as to make them inoperative and futile. Third storeys, for instance, ought not to be allowed in streets of less width than 40 feet. * * * * * * * * But recently the rule had been violated in a very large number of cases. To be strictly correct he should say that the rule had not been so much violated as it had been interpreted in a loose way. If there had been special cases only, the violations would not have been so much complained of, provided they were not taken as precedents. But when third storeys were allowed on the ground that they were cook-rooms and thakoorbarees, or when they were sanctioned because the structure in the third storey was 20 feet from the middle of the road, then such cases formed precedents against the intention of the law. He need not multiply instances.' In the same debate Babu Norendra Nath Sen agreed with the Mover on all points, that is to say, he agreed that the regulations had been broken. Babu Surendranath Banerjee said:—'He had not been convinced that a modification of the law was necessary; he did not think they had worked the bye-laws in a manner to justify that belief. If they worked the bye-laws in the way they might be worked, he thought the bye laws and the building sections of the Act would amply suffice for all purposes. He quite agreed with Mr. N. N. Ghose that the elaborate regulations of the London Building Act were not required here; Calcutta was not London. At present it would be sufficient if the existing rules were worked thoroughly, honestly and in a consistent spirit, without making the frequent exceptions which had been made. He thought the rules as they stood were amply sufficient for the purpose.' Then Babu Kally Nath Mitter, a very high authority on the subject, said: 'His friend, Mr. Ghose, considered that the bye-laws had not actually been violated, but that they had been loosely interpreted: on the contrary, the speaker maintained that the bye-laws had been violated in the most flagrant manner possible. All that was wanted was that they should be properly worked. Babu Priya Nath Mullick had referred to what he considered an ambiguity in the wording of the bye-laws under Chapter (J) of the bye-laws, but the speaker did not think it could have been made plainer, namely, that no three-storeyed house could be built in a road of less than 40 feet width. Take, for instance, the case of a building at 4, Sunker Ghose's Lane, in the Proceedings of the Buildings Committee on the 21st May, 1895, which was thus reported:—

'The Chairman submitted for consideration the question of the construction of the proposed building at No. 4, Sunker Ghose's Lane. The only objection in this case was to the third storey, the street being less than 40 feet wide. It was not a mere cook-room or a thakoorbaree, but a regular third storey.

'Babu Jadu Nath Sen pointed out that the third-storeyed portion of this house was 60 feet removed from the road, and at the last meeting a third storey only 30 feet removed was sanctioned.

'The Chairman was strongly against sanctioning a third storey in a road which was only 14 feet 9 inches wide. If the Commissioners wanted to sanction a third storey in such a narrow road, they should repeal the bye-law on the subject.'

"Was there any ambiguity in that? Was that a case of loose interpretation of the 40 feet rule? It was a deliberate violation of the bye laws in this case by allowing the construction of a third storey in a road only 14 feet 9 inches wide. The speaker, therefore, maintained that it was not a case of difficulty of interpretation, but of misplaced generosity by the Members of the Committee, and consequently there was no need of a Committee for the revision of the bye-laws. He gave another instance to illustrate his meaning. In the same Proceedings there was a motion against an order for the demolition of a cook-room on the third storey of a house at 76—1, Sickdarbagan Street. In that case:—

'The Chairman explained that in this case the Committee sanctioned the building of a two-storeyed house, waiving the objection that two feet space had not been left in front of a passage to the east. The house was not built according to the sanctioned plan, the four feet space on the back having been built upon, and a third-storey erected without sanction. He made an order on the 19th September to remove the third storey, but notice under section 241 was not issued until the 7th of December, Babu Nalin Behari Sircar having represented that the owner was negotiating for a piece of land for a cook-room. Nothing had, however, been done. The Department had no knowledge of the Ward Commissioners' letters.

'Babu Norendra Nath Sen remarked that there was not the least doubt that in this case the Building Regulations had been violated, and a cook-room built on the third storey without sanction. It was only in special cases in Burra Bazar that cook-rooms were allowed on the third storey.

'Babu Ramtaran Banerjee observed that there had been repeated violation of the rules as regards the building of third-storeys in narrow streets, leaving the requisite spaces and the like. In this case the service of notice was delayed in deference to the representation made by Babu Nalin Behari Sircar, and he thought any censure on the Road Department was uncalled for.

'Mr. J. Ghosal remarked, apart from the merits of this case, that every dewlling-house must have a cook-room, and in houses like this, built upon very small plots of land, the best place for a cook-room was on the roof.

'The question that the cook-room be allowed to stand was carried by 9 votes to 2.'

"There was in this case no ambiguity in the application of the rule; none whatever. Therefore, what was wanted was instructions from the Commissioners to their Committee to see that the bye-laws were more strictly adhered to. He thought that would be quite sufficient. There might, of course, be one or two bye-laws which needed some amendment to make them plain, but he thought that a general resolution of this kind would cause serious mischief. He could well understand why exception was taken to the Chairman's preparing a note on the subject, because he would be bound to point out prominently all these cases of violations of the bye-laws, which perhaps was not desirable.'

"And in winding up the debate, the Chairman said 'it was a matter of complaint that though a Committee had been appointed two years ago, nothing had been done; but it was no use for a Committee to sit round a table unless the points which they were to consider were properly put before them.'

"I will now turn to some of the specific statements made by the Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee in his extremely lucid and able speech upon this Bill. He spoke, among other things, on the question of bustee procedure, and he said that during the last ten years the Commissioners had spent no less than 10 lakhs on the improvement of bustees. Now the bustee question goes back to the year 1885, when the Government of India addressed the Government of Bengal on this subject. They said that 'there can be no doubt that though the Commissioners have, since the introduction of elective institutions in 1876, done much to improve the City, there have been at the same time very serious shortcomings on which the Government has been frequently compelled to comment.' Years of valuable time were wasted in discussion before the extension of the filtered water-supply was put in hand. It was not till 1880 that a beginning was made in bustee reclamation, and the expenditure up to date has fallen far short of the minimum sum of one-half lakhs per annum, which the Government of India in its orders on the report for 1882-83 declared to be necessary. It was not until the beginning of 1883-84 that an establishment for the surface cleaning of bustees began to be organised.

"The figures for bustee improvement from 1883 to 1896 were given in paragraph 249 of the last Administration Report of the Commissioners. They are the following:—

				Rs.
1883-84	...	...	...	28,238
1884-85	...	...	...	93,092
1885-86	...	...	...	84,628
1886-87	...	...	...	1,31,380
1887-88	...	...	...	2,05,575
1888-89	...	...	...	44,754
1889-90	...	...	...	64,018
1890-91	...	...	...	36,292
1891-92	...	...	...	1,27,762
1892-93	...	...	...	53,222
1893-94	...	...	...	29,188
1894-95	...	...	...	21,939
1895-96	...	...	...	5,601
1896-97	...	...	...	12,244
		Total	...	9,35,933

"So that in that number of years the total expenditure by the Commissioners on bustee improvement was Rs. 9,36,000 or Rs. 66,000 a year—less than half the amount laid down as a minimum by the Government of India in 1883-84. On this subject one of the Commissioners themselves, in discussing the Administration Report, said:—'In page 112 a very interesting statement was given showing the amount expended during last ten years upon bustee improvement, but he regretted to say that the amount expended last year was the lowest on record, namely, Rs. 21,939. Bustee improvement was one of the greatest necessities of the town, but it was now practically at a standstill. There were many bustees in the northern division of the town which were in the same state now that they were ten years ago, and if active measures were not taken to improve them, their condition would become worse.'

"Then my hon'ble friend read an extract from a well-known book describing the terrible state of things existing in some of the London rookeries. But what does that prove? Every body knows that London taken as a whole is one of the healthiest cities in the world. The death-rate is very low, and London, and England generally, has been continuously free from any of those epidemic diseases from which other European towns have suffered. If there was the smallest danger of a foreign port putting any sort of embargo on vessels hailing from London, it is quite certain that popular indignation would wipe out the County Council in a week, and would insist on the Government at once appointing a dictator to carry out the necessary reforms.

"My hon'ble friend challenged the statement that the Corporation is unequal to great emergencies, and he referred to the correspondence which took place with the Medical Board on the subject of the cleansing of the town. It was stated in the course of this debate that the Commissioners had been prompt in their dealings with the Plague. I find the same statement made in a Note by a well-known Commissioner which has been sent to me—a Note which I recognise as the brief from which my hon'ble friend spoke:—'The Commissioners at once employed another highly-paid officer as Special Superintendent of Conservancy.' As this appointment is thus pointedly referred to as a test case, I may be allowed to refer to the proceedings in connection with the appointment of the Superintendent. On the 25th September, 1896, the Chairman laid before the General Committee a telegram which he had received, and the Health Officer at once asked that he might have a man of the highest capacity for the purpose of superintending the work done in the town by the Conservancy establishment. It was stated that this was not a new proposal, and that he had asked before for the appointment of such an officer, but now there was an emergency, and it was his duty to press his demand for it at once. That was the first opportunity the Commissioners had to show their readiness to meet an emergency; but although in that very debate Babu Kali Nauth Mitter said that his own conviction was that if the money was given it would be well spent in a case of this kind, and Babu Norendra Nath Sen observed that in point of Sanitation Calcutta was no better off than it had been ten years back, the Commissioners gave the Health Officer the miserable sum of Rs. 3,000 which was strongly opposed by Mr. N. N. Ghose, and they absolutely refused to give a supervising officer on which the greatest possible stress was laid by the Health Officer. On the 28th of September another meeting was held at which the Acting Chairman said:—'He had an urgent matter of a very important nature to submit for the consideration of the General Committee. This morning he visited the Burra Bazar ward and another ward in company with the Health Officer, and they found the place so filthy and dirty that the Health Officer desired him to ask the Commissioners to see the place to-morrow morning. The Health Officer asked for an establishment for six months at a total expenditure of Rs. 36,000.'

"Even then all they did was to resolve 'that the Health Officer be authorised to spend on his own responsibility the sum of Rs. 3,000 placed at his disposal on such preventive measures as he thinks necessary.' They did not give him more money, but they authorised him to spend what had been given at his own discretion. Next I come to the 2nd October, 1896. On this occasion Babu Nalin Behari Sircar, who took the greatest possible trouble in connection with this matter, said:—'He also had inspected the Burra Bazar ward with the Chairman, and he was shocked to see the utter neglect of the existing staff of the Conservancy Department. There was not a single gully-pit which was not choked and from which the water was not oozing upon the street. In privies, gumlas full of nightsoil were visible from the streets, and the neighbours stated they had been in that state for a length of time. He also saw a narrow passage full of nightsoil, which was said to be used as a sort of drop-privy.'

"One gentleman, who was present at that meeting, was of opinion that 'the Note of the Health Officer now before the meeting should not be considered until a satisfactory explanation was submitted as to the disgraceful state of things which had been described.' But even then the Health Officer did not get his Superintendent, and it was resolved that there was no necessity for additional Medical Inspectors. Next we come to the 5th of October (three days afterwards); and that meeting was opened by Babu Surendranath Banerjee regretting on behalf of the meeting that 'the Health Officer had not given effect to their Resolution disallowing the employment of the additional Medical Inspectors which he asked for.' Next Mr. N. N. Ghose remarked 'that whatever might be wanted in Bombay, a case for the appointment of Medical Inspectors could not arise here until cases of bubonic plague occurred in Calcutta.' We know from the sad experience of Bombay that the one thing necessary is to catch your first case of plague, and the only way to do that is to have a special establishment to catch it. At the next meeting of the General Committee on the 9th October, Sir John Lambert attended, and it was only under strong pressure put on the General Committee by him that they accepted a proposal to appoint a Chief Superintendent of Conservancy temporarily for three months. I submit that the action of that Committee between the 25th September and the 9th October cannot fairly be described as meeting a great emergency promptly, and that it fully justifies the statement which has been made that the present constitution of the Municipality is not calculated to deal promptly with great emergencies.

"I now draw attention to the correspondence with the Medical Board. I understood my hon'ble friend to say that a certain establishment was sanctioned by the Commissioners on the 19th January, 1897, and that on the 20th January, 1897, the Medical Board wrote to the Government protesting that that establishment had not been appointed."

The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee, intervening, said:—"The Commissioners took action independently of any pressure brought to bear upon them either by the Medical Board or by the Government. The meeting of the Commissioners took place on the 19th January, and the letter of the Medical Board is dated the 20th of January. I suggested that the Medical Board took action after seeing what the Commissioners were doing."

The Hon'ble Mr. Risley, continued:—"I now understand what my hon'ble friend said, and can correct him as to his facts. Sometime in the beginning of October or in the end of September, 1896, the Commissioners sanctioned an establishment for cleaning up Burra Bazar. That establishment was calculated to deal with one ward and one ward only. Later on, after the Sanitary Officers had discovered vast accumulations of filth in eight wards, it came to the notice of the Medical Board that the Commissioners did not propose to sanction any more establishment, but intended to clean up the eight wards one after the other by means of the staff sanctioned for one ward. The Medical Board considered this arrangement to be utterly inadequate, and said so in their letter of 20th January with some emphasis. On the 22nd of January, not on the 19th, as my hon'ble friend says—after and not before the letter of the Medical Board, a grant of Rs. 30,000 was made for the purpose of cleansing the towns, its administration being, however, entrusted to the inevitable Sub-Committee which, I am informed by Mr. Bright, never sat and never reported.

"Then my hon'ble friend drew a comparison between the action of the Calcutta Corporation and Bombay to the detriment of the latter, and his argument was that this was the model constitution proposed to be given to Calcutta. I do not at all admit that the Bombay administration is faulty; they got to work very promptly. They made mistakes, as all of us are likely to do, in dealing with a terrible calamity, and nobody would blame the Bombay Corporation because they spent too much money on throwing corrosive sublimate into the drains; but any one who has read Mr. Snow's narrative and the account of the work done by my friend General Gatacre's Committee, must I think admit that the latter Committee was, to say the least of it, fortunate in being appointed just as the disease was declining. They got the credit for what would in any case have happened from natural causes. Mr. Snow carried on the work up to that period under the provisions of the ordinary law, and so far from its being admitted that the Bombay Corporation failed, the popular verdict on that side of India now is in favour of taking plague management out of the hands of the Special Committee and making it over to the Municipal Commissioner, who corresponds to the Chairman in the Bill.

"My hon'ble friend commented on the frequent change of Chairmen. That, I admit, is very much to be regretted, but like many other things, it has largely to do with the system on which work has to be done. If a man has to do every piece of work twice over, it is no great wonder if he breaks down. When ordinarily the Executive work of the City is heavy enough to task the energies of any one man if he has merely to do it, and be done with it; if he has to do it over and over again and fight constant battles with Committees, it is enough to break down any man. Nor is there any reason to suppose that a non-official Chairman would stand such a strain any better than an official Chairman.

"A reference was made to Sir Henry Harrison's Note, when the present Act came into force, distributing very elaborately, carefully and wisely the several functions which the Chairman was entitled to delegate among the various Officers of the Corporation to whom those powers were delegated. It is true that as between the Chairman and his subordinates the powers have been distribted; but not as between the Chairman and the Commissioners. The Commissioners have not even by a revocable resolution parted with any fraction of their powers of discretionary interference. One would have thought that the Commissioners would have said to their Chairman:—'We make over to you such and such powers.' That, however, was what they did not do, and that is why all the trouble has arisen. They left the whole thing indefinite. They reserved in regard to each of the sections of the Act the right of revision, of turning everything upside down; and that was what the President meant when he said that everything was fluid and indefinite; defined enough as far as the subordinates were concerned, but absolutely undefined as regards the Chairman. It is literally true that under the present Act no one can say in what part of the Corporation the Executive reside or indeed whether there is any Executive at all. The Chairman may have power to sanction verandahs to-day; it may be withdrawn to-morrow and given back the day after. In each and every section the power lies with the Commissioners. They may withdraw it generally; they may reserve particular cases; they may upset the Chairman in one case and uphold him in a similar case. The whole thing is a series of conundrums, to which the answers vary from day to day.

"Then it was pressed both by the Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee and the Hon'ble Member of the University that under this Bill as proposed, the General Committee and the Chairman will practically be responsible to nobody. As to that I should like to ask—Is it not better in Executive matters that the Chairman and the General Committee should be responsible to nobody, than that in such matters nobody should be responsible to anybody? And what is meant by saying that the Chairman and the General Committee would be practically responsible to nobody? If it means that their orders will be final in cases when the Bill empowers them to do certain things, then I agree. Beyond that, making their orders final in no way removes responsibility. Clearly it is the other way, that it tends rather to enhance the sense of responsibility than to reduce it. Responsibility in not the same thing as indefinite liability to appeal. A man whose authority is final is far more likely to do the right thing than if he is subject to a Committee and the Committee again is subject to further authority. Can there be any method more effectual for whittling away the sense of responsibility? Either he will disregard the Committee, or he will put before the Committee that which it is likely to accept, which need not be the best thing or even the second best.

"I am not greatly concerned to defend Europeans from the charge that they will not attend to the business of the Corporation in the future, because they have not attended to it in the past; because their position under this Bill will be very different from that which they have occupied under the present Act. They could be in the past only an insignificant minority. If they had exerted themselves as much as possible and got elected in all the wards in which it was conceivable they might be elected, they would not have had any real power in the Municipality. The Hon'ble Member for the Calcutta Trades' Association has stated how Members of that Association, who formerly withdrew from serving in the Corporation, came forward at once directly they heard that this Bill had been brought in. I believe the same thing has been experienced amongst the Members of the Chamber of Commerce. Some years ago leading Members of that body did attend meetings of the Corporation and did their work, but finding their voice ineffectual, they cried off. There is another point. There is an argument which has been used against Europeans, and I wish all the more to meet it, because I find it quoted as having been said by Sir Stuart Hogg. He said:—'Europeans in this country are, as a rule, merely birds of passage, and will often take a very partial view of measures put before them.' I am surprised that a man of Sir Stuart Hogg's authority should have lent his support to such a fallacious statement. In the midst of the floating population here, the great mercantile firms are the most stable and the most permanent element. It is true that individual members of such firms go home for a change from time to time and from time to time retire, but the firms go on. The whole object of the mercantile community, and especially of the Englishmen here, is to found firms which will last. Within the limits of the trading community you have to distinguish between two kinds of traders. You have a class of traders, mostly foreigners, who do merely an export business, and who, if anything happened to Calcutta, would shift their business elsewhere and be no worse off. But among the English firms you have what you may call fixed capitalists, who have built up a trade and invested their money in the development of the resources of the country. They have sunk millions in Calcutta and with Calcutta they must stand or fall. To speak of such firms as birds of passage, because the individual partners do not live for ever, is simply to misuse words.

"The question of making over certain appointments to the General Committee and their withdrawal from the general body of the Corporation was referred to on a former occasion, and I think it is unnecessary for me to add very much by way of reply to the remarks which I quoted from Sir Henry Harrison in my opening speech. But I shall first refer to an instance within my own personal knowledge. A native friend of mine was a candidate for a certain office, and though he was a proud man and hated it, he found it necessary to canvass. Well he went his rounds; he had Dante's experience and found it very unpleasant, but a day or so before the election he came to me with a list of positive promises giving him an absolute majority. Next day he was easily defeated. No doubt he had got the promises. The people who gave them had not the strength of mind to refuse, so they just promised all round, with no doubt a mental reservation. It is a nice case of casuistry, and is a very good illustration of how the present system works. But is it fair to put people in such a position? Is it not better to withdraw the power? It seems too obvious to need argument, that of all methods of filling appointments, which require very careful selection, that of election by a mixed body of 75 persons was by far the most unsuitable.

"In connection with this matter there was a reference by the Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee to America. I know Mr. Shaw's book which my friend quoted. It is an excellent book in its way, but it refers to American Municipalities only incidentally and by way of comparison with English Municipalities. If my hon'ble friend wishes to know the best that has been written on Municipal Government in America, he should read Mr. Bryce's book, and in particular the chapter called 'an American view of Municipal Government' by Mr. Seth Low, the Mayor of Brooklyn City. He will be left, I believe, with little doubt that Local Self-Government was to a great extent a failure in many American Cities. But why did it fail? It failed because it was too popular, because it was too democratic. Of late years they have been retracing their steps. In America, at any rate, there is no prejudice against the elective principle, no bias in favour of autocratic or bureaucratic institutions. But what was one of the chief recommendations of the famous Commission, which sat twenty years ago to consider Municipal Government and the state of New York? They proposed 'an extension of the general control and appointing power of the Mayor, the Mayor himself being subject to removal for cause by the Governor of the State.' In Boston the Mayor and Aldermen (a body of 12) appoint the heads of all the chief departments. In St. Louis the Mayor appoints with the approval of the Council. In Brooklyn the Mayor appoints absolutely without confirmation all the Executive heads of departments; the theory being that where Executive work is to be done, it should be committed to the charge of one man. So thoroughly has this view been accepted by the most democratic community in the world, that you can read in Ford's American Citizen's Manual 'there can be no question that one of the most prolific sources of official corruption and incompetence lies in the multiplication of elective offices.' If America can go as far as that, surely the Bill cannot err greatly in going half way. We propose merely to transfer a certain power from a less qualified body to a more qualified one—to adapt means to the ends they are intended to serve.

"Then my hon'ble friend says the Government has taken to itself too much power. The Government is in this position, that whatever it does or does not do, it is held responsible. All Municipal Government is a delegation from the ruling power of certain of its functions for certain purposes, and the limits of that delegation are a pure matter of convenience and experience. In this Country the Government is so situated that if anything goes wrong, it is immediately held responsible, and it is, therefore, bound to reserve to itself a sufficient power of control. If the town falls into an insanitary state, the Government will be told 'Why did you let the Municipality do it?' And unless an effective Act is passed, we have no reply to that question. I see that the Hon'ble Member for the University referred to race sentiment, and deprecated the introduction of race sentiment into this question. I for one certainly did not introduce the question of race sentiment either directly or by suggestion, and the reference to it comes from the Hon'ble Member himself; but as it has been mentioned, I say the question is one which every now and then has to be faced; and you can no more eliminate a certain modicum of race sentiment from matters municipal than you can eliminate the factor of personal character from matters of every-day life.

"Then there was some discussion about the relations between various municipal authorities in Bombay. This can be best answered by a quotation from the Hon'ble Mr. West's speech in the debate on that Act. There was considerable discussion in the Council as to the relations of the Municipal Commissioners and the Corporation; some said they were co-ordinate authorities; others said they were not. In the Bombay Act, as in this Bill, the authorities are not co-ordinate. The Commissioner, as Mr. West explained, 'is given independent power in his own circle. He cannot in any way thwart the general policy or desires of the Corporation.' That is a reasonable position for the Chairman of the Calcutta Municipality to occupy. You give him certain things to do, and powers to do them. As to the rest, he depends for all ordinary schemes on the General Committee and for all larger schemes on the Corporation; and it should be remembered that all schemes of any sort depend in the last resort on the power of the purse which rests in the Corporation.

"Some Hon'ble Member referred to the question of Fees. I am aware that this is a vexed question on which a good deal has been said, but the Bombay experience shows that the system of paying fees to Members of the General Committee has worked very smoothly, and it has the support of commercial practice, for it is the custom in almost all public Companies to pay fees to the Directors for their attendance at Board meetings, and the experience of all business men is that the system is a satisfactory system and works well.

"Finally, there is one point of departure from the Bombay system which I wish to explain, for it is a matter of some importance. I understood the Hon'ble Member for the University to take exception to the composition of the General Committee, and he pointed out that it differs from the Bombay system. In Bombay the Corporation, which is itself only half elected, appoint eight Members of the Standing Committee, whereas we propose that it should appoint only four. The reason for the difference is this, that Bombay differs from Calcutta in some very important particulars which tell in favour of the proposal in the Bill. In Bombay it is as a matter of common knowledge that natives of all classes are very largely concerned in commercial undertakings, and they have an infinitely larger interest in the prosperity and trade of the town than Bengalis, who as a rule hold aloof from business and do not regard the trade of Calcutta as an intimate concern of theirs. Then again, Bombay differs further in this, that the European element is very much smaller, and the European commercial element has not such a permanent interest in the City as it has here, there is not the same amount of European invested capital, and you have there the case, which is very uncommon here, of a number of native firms trading under European names. Thirdly, the Muhammadans of Bombay are a far richer and stronger body than they are here in Calcutta, and you have there also the Parsees. The result is that you may almost say that the Bombay community is homogeneous. It is of course not literally homogeneous, but the different classes are so evenly balanced that you may practically treat that community as one that is homogeneous. You do not need, therefore, to go out of your way to prevent any one section of the community being swamped by others, and it was conspicuous at a meeting of the Bombay Standing Committee which I attended last July that the proportion between the various communities was very evenly balanced. It was distinctly a cosmopolitan assembly, which is the last thing which can be said of the General Committee here.

"This is all I have to say by way of reply. I have endeavoured to answer the criticisms of my hon'ble friends, so far as I have been able to follow them, and I have again to thank them for the courtesy which they have shown me in discussing this measure."

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT said :—"I shall not detain the Council at any length, as I am physically unfit to do so, but it is necessary for me to say something in winding up this debate. I think the Corporation has lost nothing at the hands of its defenders here, and I have listened with considerable interest and pleasure to the speeches which have been made during the last two days. I have admitted fully that the Corporation has done good work, and that it is not in respect of its larger schemes that it is most open to adverse criticism, though indeed I remember that even in respect of one of the big schemes, I once myself declared it in this Council years ago to be an 'arsenal of delays.' But there is no doubt that much good work has been done by the Corporation, and I recognise that there are many good men among its Members. I have been intimately acquainted with the affairs of the Municipality from the time when I first came to Calcutta in 1864 or 1865; for during many years I was myself in direct charge of the affairs of Municipalities as Secretary to the Government of Bengal in the Municipal Department. I have been intimately acquainted with all the Chairmen of the Corporation, with the exception of Mr. Harry Lee, and there was not one of those Chairmen whom I have known who have not told me at one time or other that the system on which the Corporation has been constituted is a system which it is almost impossible for any one, were he an angel from heaven, to work satisfactorily. It is perfectly true that some of them have succeeded in getting business done, but if you refer to the debates in this Council and to Sir Henry Harrison's speeches in 1888. you will not find more scathing criticism of the Corporation and the way in which its business is carried on than in those utterances. When, therefore, we came face to face with a possible appalling emergency in the shape of an approaching plague, I felt it necessary to take stock of the situation. I shall not be here, but I wish most solemnly and emphatically to utter a warning to you that you should not assume that the plague will not come to Calcutta. I do not at all like the conditions of things at present in Upper India. Experience shows that the plague may stay with us for years. I hope to God it may not. But it may, and we are in more danger here in Calcutta from the appearance of the plague in Upper India, in the Panjab and the North-Western Provinces, than we are from its existence in Bombay, because the population of those parts of the country is far more migratory We have already stopped one distinct case of plague coming from the Panjab into Bengal at Chausa, and the most stringent orders have been given that any one showing symptoms of the slightest appearance of plague should not be allowed to pass; and the Medical Officers of the Government have been told that I hold them personally responsible that not a single case should escape their vigilance. But you never know when it may come. A case may escape attention, and therefore I say that in Calcutta you must keep your eyes open and put your house in order.

"Now I have said that there are many good men in the Municipality. There are, though I am sorry to say that some of the best of them have deliberately kept themselves aloof from me during the whole time I have been here; but that does not prevent me from recognising their worth and that they have done good work. I have read through the whole of the proceedings of the Corporation for years past, cubic feet of them, the proceedings of General Meetings and of the General Committee and of Special and Sub-Committees, and I have formed my own judgment of the men who are doing good and effective work on these Committees, and it was a pleasure to me to pick out two of them and to ask them to help us in the matter of the building regulations, and I wish now to acknowledge with thanks the work they have done on the Building Commission. Their assistance has been of the utmost importance both to the Hon'ble Mr. Risley and to the Hon'ble Mr. Justice Trevelyan; and if I thought that under this Bill the City was going to be deprived of the services of men like those, I would throw the Bill into the fire. But my own belief is that it is only in this way or by some such scheme that we can give full effect to the worth of men like these. It is perfectly true, as my hon'ble friend Babu Norendra Nath Sen has told us, that we should look at the work done by the Corporation. I see it—I have admitted it; there is a fair outside and an imposing superstructure, but we all know that beneath this there is a good deal of what no Corporation or any one can feel proud of. I am not going to make an attack upon individuals or upon anybody specifically, but we all know that there is underneath the surface, in the present system of working, things which ought not to be. We all know that there are certain classes of candidates who come forward to contest municipal elections, not out of love for the public service, but out of a regard for their own personal advantage. We all know that when it comes to the question of making appointments in the Municipality, there is canvassing, there is jobbery, there is even corruption; and I say that the work of no City can be carried on until there is some effective stop put to iniquities of that description. My theory of the Bill, the cardinal principle of the Bill, the essence of it, is that we must leave the ordinary every-day work of the City in one man's hands. That is a principle which, as the Hon'ble Mr. Risley has told us, is recognised in the more advanced Cities of America, where there is less corruption than in some of the other Cities. That is the principle recognised in Bombay, and which I now desire to see recognised here. If that is once secured, all the rest appears to be a matter of arrangement and detail. In theory under the present Act all this power is given to the Chairman, but you have not done that. You have insisted on interference by the appointment of Committees and Sub-Committees. You talk of your Chairman constantly breaking down. I say you do your best to kill them; both Mr. Williams and Mr. Bright, and others beside them have been broken down by the way in which the work has to be done and re-done. It is not, however, owing to complaints by either Mr. Williams or Mr. Bright that this Bill has taken its origin. That is an entire mistake. Mr. Bright is rather proud of the way in which he was getting on with the Commissioners; but I have seen him coming staggering into my room after a day's work quite exhausted, and when I asked him what he had been doing, he said he had been engaged sitting with a Committee for four hours at the end of his day's work. I do not want to make the Chairman absolute. I want him to have the power to do the every-day work of the Corporation, but I have carefully provided that every Member of the Corporation capable of doing good work should have the opportunity of doing so, and if the Select Committee find in going through this Bill that the actual distribution of power as its stands at present can be improved, it will be open to them to make a recommendation to that effect and to introduce emendations in the Bill for that purpose. I shall say one word about a thing which struck me yesterday very forcibly with reference to what fell from the Hon'ble Member for the Corporation. He said something about a Member of the Calcutta Trades Association who was a Member of some Committee and who said how admirably they had got on there. Why on earth then should not the popular representatives also get on in the General Committee? Is it supposed that every question which will come before the General Committee will be a question between Natives and Europeans? Surely, even if they are popular representatives, they should not treat business questions in that way. There is no reason to suppose that there will be any predominant majority in the General Committee. Men of all classes will, I hope, unite then to do the work of the town in a businesslike way. There need not be and should not be any faction fights. I hope that the selections of men to serve on the General Committee will be such that every man who is a member of that body will show himself willing to do good work and assist in considering what is brought forward, and he will find that he will be able to work with his European colleagues and the Government nominees just as if they too had been chosen by popular representation.

"I do not think I need go into details, but I just wish to notice one point as to what has been said about the domination of minorities. Of course Hon'ble Members refer entirely to numerical minorities, the democratic notion of majorities and minorities. I have no hesitation in saying that there is no country in the world where that principle applies with less propriety than in India. We have not to count heads, but to weigh interests in deciding on the best form of City Government. The figures which the Hon'ble Mr. Risley has quoted show that, however much you may talk and write about it, the elective system in Calcutta is not a popular system. It is a system which appeals to very limited numbers, and to talk about the poor rate-payers taking an interest in this Bill because they will be oppressed under it is abject nonsense. In fact they will have much less to pay under this Bill than they have now.

"Now as regards the representation on the Committee of the trade and commerce of the town, I am happy to know that we have behind us the support of the Secretary of State. The Secretary of State, I may say, takes a very real interest in this measure, and on the very day I was leaving London I received a note by special messenger assuring me of his strong support in carrying out any measure necessary for the well-being of Calcutta, and he writes in his Despatch to the Government of India:—

'I accept the view taken by your Government and by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal that some change is required in the Calcutta Municipal Law with a view to strengthening the Executive; and I approve of the proposal that the bodies which represent the trade of Calcutta should have a voice on the General Committee (or Town Council) of 12 Members, which will be the Executive body of the new Municipality.'

"That he said with our detailed proposals before him. I am quite content to rest upon that, and to leave the Bill in the hands of the Council, feeling quite safe regarding its fate in the hands of my Successor.

"I want now to say one word with reference to Bombay. We are not in a position to criticise the Bombay arrangements. My information leads me to confirm what the Hon'ble Mr. Risley has said, namely, that whoever is to blame for any breakdown that may have occurred or have been thought to have occurred in those arrangements, it was not the Municipal Commissioner or the Municipal Corporation who are to blame. Quotations have been made from popular authorities in regard to the provisions of this Bill and as to the subordination of municipal authorities to one another; that was a point which was settled in Lord Reay's excellent speech in winding up the debate in his Council. but I find that the one thing Mr. Tilang (who has been quoted against us) insisted upon was the absolute necessity of one governing spirit ruling the whole of the Municipal Administration, and he preferred giving powers to the Municipal Commissioner rather than to Executive Committees. We have sought to secure the one governing spirit in the Chairman while associating with him experienced Members of the Corporation as advisers and guides.

"In respect of the Corporation itself, the Bill follows the principle laid down by Lord Reay. The Corporation is given those powers which can properly be exercised by large deliberative assemblies. The Committee is given the special control which cannot well be exercised by the larger body. The Chairman is given and must be given the power of conducting Executive operations, the every-day work of the City, without minute interference, which can only do harm and has done much harm in the past. As Lord Reay said:—'The functions of a representative assembly such as the Corporation are those of superintendence and check. Administrative work can only be done by those who are trained to it.' A clear separation of functions on these lines is the essential principle of this Bill; and I hope when the Select Committee has the Bill before them they will carefully consider the representations which may be received from the local bodies who have been addressed on the subject of this Bill, and will see their way to carry out the cardinal principle of the Bill which will be affirmed by the vote which will be taken to-day. If they recognise that the majority is against them, I hope they will not deprive the Committee of the benefit of their experience. I hope they will help the Government to carry out its own proposals in the best way, although from their point of view they may not consider them the best. I hope they will approach the subject in Committee in a fair and reasonable and statesmanlike spirit."

The Motion that the Bill be referred to a Select Committee being put, the Council divided:—

Ayes 12.	Noes 4.
Hon'ble Mr. Spink.	Hon'ble Babu Jatra Mohan Sen.
Hon'ble Mr. Turner.	Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee.
Hon'ble Sahibzada. Mahomed Bakhtyar Shah.	Hon'ble Babu Kali Charan Banerjee.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h., and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

PLAGUE REGULATION No. 14.

Calcutta, the 2nd May 1898.

In exercise of the powers conferred by section 2 of the Epidemic Diseases Act III of 1897, and by the Notification of the Government of India in the Home Department, No. 302, dated the 4th February, and in supersession of Plague Notification No. 3, dated the 17th August 1897, so far as it relates to Calcutta, the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal is pleased to declare that all vessels and persons leaving the port of Calcutta for ports out of India or for the ports of Rangoon, Madras and Aden shall be subjected to the rules in the Regulation hereinafter set forth:—

RULES.

1. Medical inspection and bill of health.—No vessel shall leave the port of Calcutta for any port out of India or for the ports of Rangoon, Madras and Aden, until she has been inspected by the Health Officer, and the Master or person in charge of such vessel has obtained from such officer a bill of health in the form given below, stating that the Master or person in charge, officers, crew and passengers (if any) of such vessel have been inspected by him by day on shore at the time of embarkation and are free from infectious disease dangerous to life and from the bubonic plague. Provided that in the case of passengers a certificate in the form annexed as Appendix I, by a Commissioned Medical Officer appointed for this purpose, and dated not more than 12 hours before the departure of the vessel, shall be accepted in lieu of examination by the Port Health Officer. Such certificates shall be annexed to, and form part of, the bill of health.

2. Removal of infected persons.—Should the Health Officer be of opinion that any person so inspected is suffering from the bubonic plague or is not free from the infection of the plague, such person shall be removed to a plague hospital or place of observation appointed by Government.

3. Disinfection of suspected articles.—All contaminated or suspected articles shall be thoroughly disinfected on shore, under the supervision of the Health Officer, in the manner prescribed in Appendix II.

4. Fresh bill of health when necessary.—After the Master or person in charge of the vessel has obtained a bill of health under the provisions of these rules, no person shall be admitted on board such vessel before she leaves the port, unless such vessel is again inspected by the Health Officer of the port, and another bill of health obtained from such officer by the Master or person in charge of such vessel.

5. Port Clearance.—(a) Except as provided for in clause (b) of this rule, no port clearance shall be delivered to any vessel bound from Calcutta to any port out of India, or to the ports of Rangoon, Madras and Aden, unless and until the Master or person in charge thereof shall produce the bill of health so to be obtained as aforesaid; and it shall be the duty of the Collector of Customs to refuse delivery of the port clearance, without the production of such bill of health.

(b) Provided that the Collector of Customs may grant port clearance under section 66 of the Sea Customs Act on a guarantee being given by the Agents of a vessel that within 48 hours of departure they will produce a duplicate copy of the bill of health as finally granted, signed by the Health Officer, and that if for any reason the Health Officer should refuse to grant the bill of health, they will bring the vessel back to her moorings.

6. Health Officers.—In these rules "Health Officer" means the Health Officer of the Port of Calcutta, and includes an Assistant Health Officer and any person appointed by name or in virtue of his office to perform the duties of an Assistant Health Officer.

H. H. RISLEY,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

BILL OF HEALTH.

THIS is to certify that the ship (or steamer) sailing under the flag and under the command of as Master, of tons, bound for with a crew of persons* and passengers, is at the time of leaving this port in a satisfactory sanitary condition, and that no case of infectious disease dangerous to life, or of bubonic plague, exists among her officers, passengers, or crew, all of whom have been inspected by me, with the exception of the persons named below, by day on shore at the time of embarkation.

* Including officers and able-bodied seamen.

It is further certified that the town and port of Calcutta are at present† free from plague, epidemic cholera, yellow fever and all other dangerous epidemic disease.

† Or as the case may be.

The persons named below, who are personally known to me, or whose identity has been proved to my satisfaction, have produced the annexed Certificates from Commissioned Medical Officers duly appointed in this behalf.

APPENDIX I.

CERTIFICATE.

I DO hereby certify that I have examined , who is personally known to me or whose identity has been proved to my satisfaction, a passenger on the ship , not more than twelve hours before the departure of the ship from the port of , and find him in good health, except as noted in the margin, and free from any symptoms of bubonic plague.

Rank.

Official designation.

Specially appointed under Rule I of Plague Notification No. 14, dated the 2nd May 1898, to examine passengers leaving the port of , by sea.

APPENDIX II.

UNDER-CLOTHING, bedding, wearing apparel, mattresses, carpets, etc., which are contaminated or suspected, should be disinfected in stoves at normal pressure, or at a pressure of from one and-a-half to two degrees, with or without the presence of steam.

Before a stove is passed as efficient for the purposes of disinfection, it should be subjected to a test, with the aid of a signal thermometer, showing the moment when the temperature in the middle of a mattress rises to at least 100° (centigrade).

To ensure that the disinfection is effective, this temperature must be maintained for from 10 to 15 minutes.

Disinfecting solutions—

(a) Solution of corrosive sublimate, of 1 part in 1,000, with the addition of 10 parts of chloride of soda.

The solution should be coloured with aniline dye or indigo. It should not be placed in metal vessels.

(b) A 5 per cent. solution of pure crystallized carbolic acid, or 5 per cent. of crude commercial carbolic acid, in a warm solution of soft soap.

The carbolic solutions will be useful, more particularly for disinfecting articles, such as metals, instruments, etc., which can neither be subjected to a temperature of 100° centigrade, nor placed in contact with corrosive sublimate. They may also be used at ports not provided with a disinfecting stove of the prescribed pattern.

NOTIFICATION.

No. 2648Medl.—The 2nd May 1898.—Under Rule 1 of Plague Notification No. 14, dated the 2nd May 1898, the following Medical Officers are authorized to examine passengers leaving the Port of Calcutta for Ports out of India and for the Ports of Rangoon, Madras and Aden :—

Ophthalmic Surgeon and Professor of Ophthalmic Surgery, Medical College, Calcutta.

Professor of Surgery, Medical College, Calcutta, and ex-officio 1st Surgeon to the College Hospital, Calcutta.

Surgeon-Superintendent, Presidency General Hospital.

Professor of Midwifery, Medical College, and Obstetric Physician, Eden Hospital, Calcutta.

Professor of Materia Medica, Medical College, and ex-officio 2nd Physician, Medical College Hospital.

Professor of Surgical and Descriptive Anatomy, Medical College, Calcutta, and ex-officio 2nd Surgeon to the College Hospital.

MEDICAL.

The 30th April 1898.

No. 2647 Medl.—The following questions, asked at the meeting of the Bengal Legislative Council on 30th April 1898, on the subject of the plague in Calcutta, with the reply given by the Hon'ble Mr. Risley and His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor's speech, are published for general information.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

H. H. RISLEY,

Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

I. Question by the Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee.—Will the Government be pleased to make a statement with regard to the suspicious cases of plague which have recently appeared in Calcutta? Are they cases of true bubonic plague? Will the Government be pleased to lay on the table the Report of Dr. Haffkine on the subject.

II. Question by the Hon'ble Babu Norendra Nath Sen.—In view of the panic and alarm caused in Calcutta by the reports of several cases of plague in the City and of the exodus that has already commenced, I have the honour to enquire to what extent the Government will be prepared to mitigate the stringency of the rules in regard to the arrangements required to be made for segregation and disinfection, in the case of respectable people, especially as regards purdah women and children, in the event of an outbreak of the plague?

(a) Have any cases occurring in Calcutta been reported to Government as cases of plague?

(b) Has Government taken any steps to ascertain if there are or were real cases of plague? If so, what are those steps?

(c) Has Dr. Haffkine pronounced any opinion as to the nature of the bacilli he may have found in the blood and fluid of the glands of patients that were sent to him? Is Government aware that there are differences of medical opinion as regards the bacteriological diagnosis of plague; that the true bacillus of plague, if there is any, has not yet been positively determined; that some say it is Kitasato's bacillus, others that it is Yersin's,—which is the true plague bacillus? Others again have said that there is a third variety which is found in plague cases, and that it is yet uncertain which is the real pathogenic bacillus. Under these circumstances, would it not be premature to declare Calcutta to be a plague-stricken city? If Government had acted on the opinion of the late Health Officer of the Calcutta Corporation, Dr. Simpson, Calcutta would long ago have been declared as such. Would it have been proper to do so?

III. Question by the Hon'ble Mr. Turner.—Has the attention of the Government been drawn to the alleged cases of plague in Calcutta during the past week, or cases of disease resembling plague, and will the Government be pleased to state the result of the enquiries made in connection with the said cases?

Answer by the Hon'ble Mr. H. H. Risley.

I WILL answer all the questions relating to plague together. The facts are as follows:—On the night of the 16th April a sudden death from fever, accompanied by swelling of the glands of the left groin, occurred in Kapalitola, a crowded locality near Bow Bazar. The post-mortem examination showed symptoms which were regarded by the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals, the Sanitary Commissioner and the Health Officer of Calcutta as suspicious. On the other hand an experienced local practitioner considered the case to be one of septicœmic fever of a type known to him as not uncommon in Calcutta. The deceased was a native of Eastern Bengal, resident in Calcutta, and there was no evidence whatever of his having had any communication with persons coming from the areas in Bombay and the Panjab which are infected with plague. The house in which he died was thoroughly disinfected; all persons who had been in contact with him were removed to a segregation camp in Narkooldanga; and all clothes which might convey infection were burned, compensation being at once paid to their owners. Cultures were made from the important organs and were sent to Monsieur Haffkine at Bombay for bacteriological examination.

On the following day three other persons in Kapalitola were found to be suffering from somewhat similar symptoms. One of these, a boy two years and-a-half old, has since died, and the other two are under observation. Seven other persons who had been in contact with the deceased were discharged after detention for ten days, during which time they showed no suspicious symptoms.

A Dom who assisted at the post-mortem examination got accidentally pricked in the finger, and has been dangerously ill, but is now reported to be recovering.

On the 27th April three more cases occurred in the neighbourhood of Kapalitola, one of which was fatal.

On the 24th April four cases, of which three were fatal, occurred in Market Street and Municipal Office Street, and on the same day a man died with suspicious symptoms at 39, Ezra Street. On the 27th four more cases occurred in the same locality, two of which have proved fatal. There were three cases, one fatal, on the 28th; and two more, one of which died, occurred yesterday.

On the 25th April a bearer in the employ of Messrs. Kilburn and Company died suddenly at 4, Fairlie Place, and on the following day a second bearer of the same firm died in Jaun Bazar.

On the morning of the 28th a man employed in Clive Street was admitted into the contagious ward of the Campbell Hospital with suspicious symptoms, and died the same evening.

On the 27th April four cases were admitted into the Medical College Hospital from Phear's Lane, Chunam Gully and Champatola.

Owing to the admitted existence in Calcutta at all times of the year of a form of fever accompanied by bubonic swellings, which on occasions proves fatal, and in view of the fact that the general death-rate of the town for the week ending the 23rd April was only 31·3 per thousand per annum as compared with 38·9, the mean death-rate of the corresponding period for the last five years, there seemed until yesterday morning to be room for doubt as to the character of the suspicious deaths which have occurred during the last fortnight. That, I fear, can now no longer be said. Monsieur Haffkine, whose authority on the subject of plague is undoubted, now reports by telegram: "Cultivation sent from Calcutta produced typical plague involution forms. Identity with plague microbe undoubted." The Lieutenant-Governor has conferred with all the Medical Officers of Government who have seen the suspicious cases, and they are unanimous in pronouncing them to be true plague. As I have already stated, no connexion can be traced between the persons affected, all of whom are residents of Calcutta, and any travellers who have arrived from the areas now infected in the Bombay Presidency and the Panjab. All such travellers are most carefully inspected at Chausa and Chakardharpur. Their railway tickets are punched with a peculiar mark before they leave the infected area, and persons holding such tickets are kept under observation throughout the journey and for ten days after their arrival in Calcutta. No suspicious cases have been discovered among the persons from Bombay and the Panjab who are now under observation here, and the Health Officer, after making special inquiry into the point, has been unable to trace any connection between the local cases and the arrivals from infected areas. Rats, however, have been found dead in considerable numbers in the press-room of the East Indian Railway and in godowns connected with the coasting trade with Bombay, and it is possible that the infection has been imported by these animals.

The fact already mentioned, that the general death-rate of the town is exceptionally low, affords grounds for believing that the cases which have now been reported are the first which have occurred, and that if the people co-operate cordially with the Government it may be possible to prevent the disease from gaining a firm footing in the town. The possibility of plague appearing in Calcutta has long been foreseen, and a scheme for dealing with it was prepared by the Chairman of the Corporation in consultation with the Government some months ago. As part of that scheme twenty-five doctors and as many nurses were procured from England, and it was arranged that until their services were required in Calcutta they should be employed and paid by the Bombay Government. The Bombay Government has now been asked by telegram to send two doctors and two nurses at once for duty in Calcutta, and more will be called for as occasion may demand. Meanwhile from the very first as ample precautions have been taken as if the first case had been known to be a case of plague. A plague hospital and a segregation camp had already been prepared; the suspected cases were removed to the hospital, and the contact cases isolated at the camp. All houses believed to be contaminated have been disinfected as thoroughly as possible, and places in which dead rats have been found have been thoroughly cleansed.

The measures to be adopted in dealing with an outbreak of plague are stated briefly in Chapter XVI, Report on the Plague in India, 1896, 1897, recently published by the Government of India. They are the following:—

(a) The prompt detection of cases by carefully enforced death registration, house-to-house visitation, and such other means as are found practicable.

(b) The segregation of the sick and their careful nursing and treatment in well-ventilated and sanitary hospitals.

(c) The segregation, after disinfection of clothing, bedding, &c., under medical supervision and in sanitary surroundings, of the persons who, by association with the sick, have been especially exposed to the risk of infection.

(d) The evacuation of infected houses and localities, the inmates being lodged in carefully supervised health camps.

(e) The thorough cleansing and disinfection of infected houses and localities before the inmates are permitted to return.

(f) The enforcement of general sanitary precautions, such as extensive cleansing of dwellings, freer admissions of light and air, destruction or modification of insanitary buildings, improvement of drainage and conservancy, abatement of overcrowding, and opening out of congested localities.

Plague Regulation No. 9 of the 10th November 1897 gives effect to these principles in Calcutta, but mitigates them in the case of the upper classes by providing in rule 46 for the formation of private hospitals and segregation camps subject to the necessary precautions.

To these must now be added inoculation with the prophylactic virus prepared by Monsieur Haffkine in his Laboratory at Bombay. Monsieur Haffkine asserts that inoculation by this material "prevents from 80 to 90 per cent. of deaths from plague and reduces the plague from an epidemic form to the position of a sporadic disease." Surgeon-Major-General Harvey was deputed by the Government of India last month to Bombay specially to examine the results of M. Haffkine's inoculations. This Government asked to be informed of Dr. Harvey's conclusions, and enquired further whether, if those results were favourable, the Government of India would agree to any modification of the segregation system. The Government of India have replied that Surgeon-Major-General Harvey's report is being forwarded by post. It is stated to be generally favourable to the system of inoculation; but the Government of India consider that the inoculation of the inmates of an infected house cannot take the place of the evacuation of the house, which is essential for the purpose of disinfection. They hold that the inmates of an infected house may be given the option of being inoculated instead of being removed to an observation camp for the full period of incubation; but after inoculation it will be necessary to keep them in a segregation camp during the course of the inoculation in order that they may be properly sheltered and kept under medical surveillance. As soon as the process of inoculation is over they may be released from segregation. The Government of India also consider that the inmates of houses round an infected house may, if they submit to inoculation, be exempted from both evacuation of the houses and segregation of their inmates. These concessions do not affect the treatment of persons actually suffering from plague in uninoculated households, who must be segregated either in public or private hospitals. But now that the efficacy of the Haffkine virus has been demonstrated, the experiment will be tried of exempting all families, which have been entirely inoculated prior to the occurrence of any case of plague among them, from liability to segregation. That is to say, if a member of a completely inoculated family is attacked by plague, neither he nor his family will be liable to removal to a segregation camp. This privilege will be subject to the strict proviso that any case that may occur in the family must be reported to the Health Officer within twelve hours of the patient falling ill, and that the directions of the Health Officer as to the isolation of the patient within the house and the daily disinfection of all parts of it are faithfully carried out. The Lieutenant-Governor wishes it to be distinctly understood that while on the faith of the experience in Bombay he strongly commends the method of inoculation to the people, inoculation will be pressed on no one. Every man will be left entirely free to satisfy himself of its efficacy and of the propriety of asking for it in the circumstances of his own household. Every assistance will be given to those who do apply, but the matter is left absolutely and entirely to the discretion of the people themselves.

This Government has already recognised and given effect to the principle that all hospitals, whether Government hospitals or private caste hospitals, should be so arranged as to provide accommodation for the immediate family of the patients. It is of the first importance that the sick people should not be separated from their families. In the plans that have been drawn up for the plague hospitals now under construction the unit is the family block, which is divided into two parts communicating with each other—one for the patients and the other for the members of the family who accompany them. Each such block will be self-contained and secluded, and will be so arranged that female patients can be admitted without any violation of their purda. The physicians of the family will be admitted at all times, and any method of treatment that is desired may be resorted to. There can be no question that the most dangerous place for the members of an uninoculated family is the house or room in which the plague-stricken person was attacked, and that they will be far safer in the hut in which he is being treated because it is open to light and air.

Finally, I may explain that the third question asked by the Hon'ble Babu Narendra Nath Sen is based upon a misapprehension of the scientific aspects of the subject. Only one plague bacillus is known. It was discovered almost simultaneously and independently by Kitasato and Yersin during the Hong-Kong epidemic of 1894. Their discovery has been verified during the present epidemic in India by Monsieur Haffkine, Mr. Hankin, various Medical Officers of the Government of India, the members of the scientific missions sent to Bombay by the Governments of Germany, Austria, Russia and Egypt, and by other foreign scientific authorities. But this bacillus produces three different forms of plague—simple, septicœmic and pneumonic—according as it attacks different parts of the human system. The bacilli discovered by Dr. Simpson were not plague bacilli at all. They were common atmospheric bacilli, and Dr. Cunningham showed conclusively that they did not come from the blood of the persons supposed to be suffering from plague, but were the result of contamination by the air.

Speech by His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor.

To the very clear and calm statement which has been read to you by Mr. Risley, I think it is desirable that I should, on an occasion so important, add a few words of my own.

You have heard that not till yesterday were we able to say whether the dropping cases which have occurred during the last ten days were or were not plague. It is, alas, now certain that they were plague, and, as was our duty, we have told you frankly and at once.

But I want you to take courage, and to give courage to those whom you represent and influence.

You know now that in a population of 800,000 people there has been only the absolutely infinitesimal occurrence of a couple of dozen cases in ten days. They are few and sporadic, and every one has been dealt with as it occurred, with the entire precautions that the plague rules require. We think, therefore, we may assume that the plague has been taken firmly and in time. We have had the immense advantage over Bombay in 1896 that we were on our guard, and that the plague had not established itself before it was recognised. It has come at a time of year which is the least advantageous to the spread of it, and in a season which, as Mr. Risley has shown to you, is exceptionally healthy. There is therefore every reason to hope and believe that we shall succeed in preventing the plague from assuming an epidemic form; and in all the encouraging features of the case no sensible person will feel the smallest grounds for alarm. I am sure you will all join with me in circulating to your constituents this consoling and reassuring character of the case.

In another and very important matter I will ask you to give your aid in reassuring the people. Whenever segregation is necessary, it will be carried out with the strictest regard to the feelings of human nature. No wife shall be separated from her husband, no husband from his family, and the better classes will receive every encouragement in the arrangement of private hospitals in their own compounds or in garden houses in the suburbs to which they can remove themselves and their families in case of attack. But in addition to all this mitigation of the Bombay rules, we have announced to you to-day the success of a new method. Inoculation, I repeat, will be pressed on nobody, but in this method, when once you have assured yourselves of its efficacy, lies, I am satisfied, the assurance of safety to our city. I have made a great experiment. We have intimated to you that when families have been completely inoculated, we will leave them alone, even if plague attacks a member of it. It is a risk, but a risk worth running. We accept it because we believe the inoculated patient will have the very mildest form of attack, and he will not be a material danger to his family or his neighbours.

The policy of segregation is a painful necessity; the policy of inoculation we suggest to you is, at last, and for the first time in the great battle with plague in India, a policy of hope.

Therefore it is, gentlemen, that I bid you be of good cheer. Our plague is meanwhile a mere tiny business, for which we have made the most careful preparations, and which we hope to keep a tiny business. But should it be otherwise, we start our battle under conditions and with methods which give us assured hopes of such a victory as has not yet been won in India.

I am told that large numbers of people are leaving Calcutta under the apprehension that quarantine is about to be established. They may be re-assured. There is no such intention whatever.

NOTIFICATION.

Simla, the 27th April 1898.

No. 712E.B.—The following communication, dated the 23rd April 1898, addressed by Her Majesty's Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs to the Right Hon'ble Lord George F. Hamilton, Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India, is published for general information and guidance:—

"Her Majesty being fully determined to observe the duties of neutrality during the existing state of war between Spain and the United States of America, and being, moreover, resolved to prevent, as far as possible, the use of Her Majesty's harbours, ports and coasts, and the waters within Her Majesty's territorial jurisdiction in aid of the warlike purposes of either belligerent, and to ensure by every lawful means in Her power the due observance by Her subjects towards both belligerent Powers of the rules embodied in Article 6 of the Treaty of Washington of the 8th of May 1871, copies of which are herewith enclosed, has commanded me to communicate to your Lordship for your guidance the following rules, which are to be be treated and enforced as Her Majesty's orders and directions:—

Rule 1.—During the continuance of the present state of war, all ships of war of either belligerent are prohibited from making use of any port or roadstead in the United Kingdom, the Isle of Man or the Channel Islands, or in any of Her Majesty's colonies or foreign possessions or dependencies, or of any waters subject to the territorial jurisdiction of the British Crown, as a station or place of resort for any warlike purpose, or for the purpose of obtaining any facilities for warlike equipment, and no ship of war of either belligerent shall hereafter be permitted to leave any such port, roadstead or waters from which any vessel of the other belligerent (whether the same shall be a ship of war or a merchant ship) shall have previously departed until after the expiration of at least twenty-four hours from the departure of such last-mentioned vessel beyond the territorial jurisdiction of Her Majesty.

Rule 2.—If there is now in any such port, roadstead or waters subject to the territorial jurisdiction of the British Crown any ship of war of either belligerent, such ship of war shall leave such port, roadstead or waters within such time, not less than twenty-four hours, as shall be reasonable, having regard to all the circumstances and the condition of such ship as to repairs, provisions or things necessary for the subsistence of her crew, and if after the date hereof any ship of war of either belligerent shall enter any such port, roadstead or waters subject to the territorial jurisdiction of the British Crown, such ship shall depart and put to sea within twenty-four hours after her entrance into any such port, roadstead or waters, except in case of stress of weather or of her requiring provisions or things necessary for the subsistence of her crew or repairs, in either of which cases the authorities of the port or of the nearest port (as the case may be) shall require her to put to sea as soon as possible after the expiration of such period of twenty-four hours without permitting her to take in supplies beyond what may be necessary for her immediate use, and no such vessel which may have been allowed to remain within British waters for the purpose of repair shall continue in any such port, roadstead or waters for a longer period than twenty-four hours after her necessary repairs shall have been completed. Provided, nevertheless, that in all cases in which there shall be any vessels (whether ships of war or merchant ships) of both the said belligerent parties in the same port, roadstead or waters within the territorial jurisdiction of Her Majesty, there shall be an interval of not less than twenty-four hours between the departure therefrom of any such vessel (whether a ship of war or merchantman) of the one belligerent and the subsequent departure therefrom of any ship of war of the other belligeront, and the time hereby limited for the departure of such ships of war respectively shall always in case of necessity be extended so far as may be requisite for giving effect to this provision, but no further or otherwise.

Rule 3.—No ship of war of either belligerent shall hereafter be permitted, while in any port, roadstead or waters subject to the territorial jurisdiction of Her Majesty, to take in any supplies except provisions and such other things as may be requisite for the subsistence of her crew, and except so much coal only as may be sufficient to carry such vessel to the nearest port of her own country or to some nearer destination, and no coal shall be again supplied to any such ship of war in the same or any other port, roadstead or waters subject to the territorial jurisdiction of Her Majesty without special permission until after the expiration of three months from the time when such coal may have been last supplied to her within British waters as aforesaid.

Rule 4.—Armed ships of either belligerent are interdicted from carrying prizes made by them into the ports, harbours, roadsteads or waters of the United Kingdom, the Isle of Man, the Channel Islands, or any of Her Majesty's colonies or possessions abroad.

The Governor or other chief authority of each of Her Majesty's territories or possessions beyond the seas shall forthwith notify and publish the above rules."

Rules embodied in Article 6 of the Treaty of Washington, dated the 8th May 1871.

A neutral Government is bound, first, to use due diligence to prevent the fitting out, arming or equipping within its jurisdiction of any vessel which it has reasonable ground to believe is intended to cruise or to carry on war against a Power with which it is at peace, and also to use like diligence to prevent the departure from its jurisdiction of any vessel intended to cruise or carry on war as above, such vessel having been specially adapted in whole or in part within such jurisdiction to warlike use; secondly, not to permit or suffer either belligerent to make use of its ports or waters as the base of naval operations against the other or for the purpose of the renewal or augmentation of military supplies or arms or the recruitment of men; thirdly, to exercise due diligence in its own ports and waters and as to all persons within its jurisdiction to prevent any violation of the foregoing obligations and duties.

The Governor-General in Council is pleased to direct that the orders and directions of Her Majesty the Queen, Empress of India, as contained in the above communication, are to be obeyed by all persons within the limits of Her Majesty's territories and possessions in India.

NOTIFICATION—No. 2887Medl.

The 10th May 1898.—The following note is published for general information.

H. H. RISLEY,
Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

NOTE ON ANTI-PLAGUE INOCULATIONS.

From the earliest time, the treatment of plague has been the opprobrium of the medical profession, and the results of recent experience seem to show that it is so still. The case mortality both in China in 1894-96 and in India 1896-98 has ranged from 70 to 90 per cent., and it seems to be pretty generally admitted that such cases as recover do so in virtue of inherent power of resistance, rather than as a consequence of medical skill, although isolated cases are no doubt helped to recovery by treatment.

It is only since 1894, however, that the true cause of plague has been demonstrated as due to a pathogenic microbe. This was discovered at Hong-kong by Kitasato, and his observations have now been fully confirmed by other observers. Some such cause had for years been accepted by the profession as a matter of theory, founded on the analogous cases of small-pox, anthrax and other so called zymotic diseases, and the results of bacteriological work had led to the belief that a remedy might be worked out on bacteriological lines similar to that found in vaccination against small-pox, and the preventive inoculations against anthrax, cholera, diphtheria, etc. No practical work could, however, be done until the theory had been proved to be a fact, and the general absence of plague in centres of scientific medical activity delayed the discovery until the outbreak in Hong-kong in 1894. This speedily proved that the theories were right, and gave a great impetus to the hope that a protective and curative treatment based on scientific principles might be worked out. This could only be done by experiment and by practice, and time was required to prove its efficacy. Numerous experiments have been made both in the laboratory and in plague-stricken districts, some of which have been failures, others more or less successful. Some have been intended as preventive, some as curative, some as both. Great hopes were at one time entertained that M. Yersin of Saigon had solved the problem, but recent results show that his serum prepared on the same lines as the anti-anthrax serum of M. Pasteur does not come up to expectation. Another curative serum devised by M. Haffkine has also failed, and a third by M. M. Lustig and Galeotti now under trial in Bombay, while it seems to do great good in some cases, fails to effect much reduction in the total mortality. It must be remembered, however, that all these methods are tentative, that the experiments are only beginning, but the analogies mentioned above point to the fact that they are experiments in the right direction, and that we may hope for ultimate success.

The most promising results so far attained are those of M. Haffkine, and it is to this method especially that this note is intended to call attention. The idea is to combine a preventive and curative method which shall eliminate or greatly diminish the risk of contracting the disease and at the same time reduce the case mortality. In his anti-cholera inoculations a bactericidal power is conferred on the individual by inoculation with attenuated common bacilli, so that when exposed to attack his system can resist and kill off the invading microbe in its natural condition. The result is diminished susceptibility and a consequent reduction of the absolute mortality; but when an inoculated individual does get the disease the case mortality has so far been little affected.

In his anti-plague inoculation he uses the bacilli of plague to confer a bactericidal power which shall enable the individual to resist the same in its natural form; but goes a step further and by injecting the toxines secreted by the bacilli in the cultivating medium in which they grow, he strives to produce an anti-toxic effect in the tissues which shall enable the patient to throw off the poison if it should gain access to his system and so reduce the case mortality. He frankly states that the process is based on hypothetical considerations, and that time and experiment alone can prove the validity of his conclusions.

It must be obvious that an experiment of this kind must be tried on a large scale before any trustworthy conclusions can be drawn, and that many difficulties and possible sources of fallacy will be met and must be disposed of before we are entitled to say that events following inoculations are effects, and not sequences.

Thus plague may disappear from a village immediately after inoculations have been done. It by no means follows that the inoculations have been the cause of the disappearance. The disease may have come to an end at this particular time, and the inoculations be no more than a coincidence. Similarly, the exemption of a jail or other inoculated community may have no connection with the inoculation, but be due to the fact that the plague bacillus has never been introduced, in which case there could have been no plague though no inoculation had been done.

It is only when plague is actually present and when inoculated and uninoculated persons are living together under similar conditions in the midst of it, that we can begin to draw conclusions by comparing the incidence of the existing epidemic on the two classes; and it is only when a number of instances like the above have shown that under similar conditions similar results invariably appear, that we gradually substitute the relation of cause and effect for that of mere sequence: every additional instance strengthening the induction until we arrive at scientific proof.

The results so far arrived at go far to show that M. Haffkine is working on the right lines; that he has already obtained a measure of success which would justify the voluntary adoption of his method by the public, that there is reason to hope that still better results may follow from further experiment and observation, and that in time it may be possible to expect as much from inoculation in the suppression of plague as we now do from vaccination in the stamping out of small-pox. At present, however, the process is too crude and imperfect to justify any compulsion on the part of Government, though it might well consider the advisability of holding out inducements to inoculation by conferring certain exemptions from unpalatable restrictions on those who have submitted themselves to it.

Before discussing such questions, however, it will be well to briefly record the results already attained in different places where the inoculations have been tried.

Bombay House of Correction.—Plague broke out towards the end of January, 1897, and attacked 9 prisoners, 6 of whom died. On 30th January inoculation was offered to the prisoners, a number of teachers and students of the Grant Medical College being done in their presence to encourage them. Six additional cases, 3 fatal, occurred the same day among the non-inoculated, and three of the inoculated developed symptoms the same evening and also died. These cases are not included in the following figures, which show the results from the day after the inoculations, till the epidemic ended 8 days later:—

	No.	Cases.	Per cent.	Deaths.	Per cent.
Uninoculated ...	173	12	6·94	6	3·49
Inoculated ...	148	2	1·35	0	0·00

Mora in the Kolaba district, near Bombay, has a population of about 1,000; 7 cases occurred among 429 inoculated persons. All recovered. During the same time there were 26 attacks among the uninoculated part of the population, 24 of which proved fatal.

Lower Damaon experienced a very severe visitation of plague in the cold season of 1896-97. The history of the epidemic was very carefully investigated by Surgeon-Major Lyons, and the figures show that some 2,197 persons were inoculated, while 6,033 remained uninoculated. Between the end of March and the end of May 1897 no less than 1,482 of the uninoculated died of plague. The inoculated lost only 36, whereas had they suffered at the same rate as their uninoculated neighbours, they should have lost 332—a saving of close on 90 per cent.

Lanauli.—In July 1897, M. Haffkine and his assistants inoculated 323 persons in the two wards most severely infected with plague, 377 others remaining uninoculated. Among these there were subsequently 78 cases and 58 deaths, while among the inoculated there were only 14 cases and 7 deaths, instead of 67 and 49 as there should have been had they remained as susceptible as their uninoculated relatives living beside them under identical conditions. Here the reduction in mortality was some 86 per cent.

Kirki had a severe epidemic in the autumn of 1897 in which the followers belonging to the Royal Artillery suffered heavily, in spite of all possible precautions taken by the military authorities. These people numbered 1,530 living in about 40 barracks on the Kirki maidan. "Out of the total of 1,530 individuals," to quote M. Haffkine, "671 availed themselves of inoculation, while 859, belonging to the same families, living under the same roofs, having the same food, drink, etc., and subject to the same general preventive measures adopted by the military, remain uninoculated. From the time of inoculation up to the end of the epidemic the 859 uninoculated had 143 cases with 98 deaths. Seeing the absolute similarity of the conditions, the 671 inoculated should have had proportionately 112 cases with 77 deaths, if they had remained as susceptible to the disease as were their uninoculated brothers, sisters, parents, wives, husbands, children. Instead of that they had 32 cases with 17 deaths. The number of 77 deaths was, therefore, reduced for them by 60, that is by 77·9 per cent."

These cases all occurred before the recent recrudescence of plague in Bombay. A large mass of additional information has since been accumulated, but has not yet been worked out; although it all appears to point in the same direction. The two following instances, however, are complete, and have been most carefully verified.

Umarkadi Jail, Bombay, was attacked by plague in January 1898. About half the inmates had previously been voluntarily inoculated, the numbers on 1st January being—uninoculated 203, inoculated 198. A number of men were released during the month, others were inoculated, and on the 30th there were 106 uninoculated to 134 inoculated. Cases occurred throughout the month, ten in all with six deaths, all in uninoculated prisoners. No inoculated person was attacked, and the disease was believed to have disappeared. Since then, however, there have been three suspicious cases among inoculated persons—one on 10th February, one on 28th, and one on 18th March. All these have recovered, and the hospital authorities at Parel were not quite sure that they were cases of plague. If they were, they were so much modified as to be with difficulty recognisible. I saw two of them and they looked to me like mumps. Both parotides were equally affected (a rare thing in plague).

Undera, a village about six miles from Baroda, was attacked by plague in January 1898. On the 5th February a careful census was taken and showed a population of 1,029. Up to and inclusive of 14th February 79 plague deaths occurred, leaving 950 people to be dealt with. Of these 513 were inoculated, leaving 437 uninoculated. As far as possible an equal number of each sex, age and family were done; and as all were living under precisely similar conditions as to sanitary surroundings, food, drink, clothing, etc., the case is the best and most conclusive example yet available of the result of inoculation. Except for the inoculations all were on the same footing, and the disease had got a thorough hold of the place. The usual sanitary precautions as to segregetion and disinfection were carried out, all plague cases being removed to hospital and every effort made to combat the disease in the usual way. The inoculations were done on the 12th, but the following figures are taken from the 15th, so as to eliminate cases incubating plague at the time of the inoculations. Three deaths occurred among the uninoculated between the 12th and 14th, inclusive, none among the inoculated. These three deaths, together with two others which might possibly have been due to diseases other than plague, have been eliminated, so that no exaggeration as to the effects of the inoculation may be possible. The results up to 2nd April are as follows, but no case occurred after 26th March, so that we are probably dealing with a finished epidemic.

Between 15th February and the cessation of the disease plague cases occurred in 29 families, living together, as already said, under exactly similar conditions, save that some were, and others were not, inoculated. These 29 families comprised 135 individuals of all ages, 71 of whom had been inoculated and 64 not. The 71 inoculated had 8 cases with 3 deaths, while the 64 uninoculated had 28 cases with 26 deaths. Had the inoculated been as susceptible as the uninoculated, they should have had 29 deaths instead of three, and the inference seems irresistible that the inoculation saved 26 lives out of this small number, or 89·65 per cent. Taking the whole number inoculated, 513 had 8 cases, or 1·56 per cent., and 3 deaths, or ·58 per cent., while the 437 uninoculated had 28 cases, or 6·4 per cent., and 26 deaths, or 5·9 per cent., just ten times as many.

The protective influence of the inoculations is brought out still more strongly in some particular instances. Thus in hut 84, ward 4, five persons were inoculated and five uninoculated in a family of ten. The five inoculated remained healthy, while two out of the five uninoculated got plague and died. In hut 18 of the same ward three inoculated persons remained healthy, two uninoculated died out of a family of five. In hut 26 also in ward 4, one inoculated person escaped, two uninoculated died out of a family of three. In hut 8, ward 1, four inoculated persons escaped, while the one who remained uninoculated contracted the disease and died. In hut 24, ward 2, out of a family of two the inoculated member escaped, the uninoculated died. In hut 20, ward 3, one of three inoculated contracted plague, but recovered, while one of four uninoculated got it and died.

In two out of the three huts where fatal cases occurred among the inoculated a death also occurred among the uninoculated, and in only one instance in the whole village did a case occur among the inoculated, while the uninoculated went free. This was in hut 31, ward 4, where one of four inoculated contracted and died of plague, while two uninoculated escaped.

These figures have been verified* case by case and family by family, and seem to me to prove that while inoculation as at present practised is not an absolute protective either against seizure or death, it is of immense value both as a prophylactic and as modifying the severity of the disease and reducing the case mortality. This was 37·5 per cent. among the inoculated against 92·85 in the uninoculated.

Suleiman Musalmans, at Baroda, a population of 404 living in an extremely dirty crowded locality. By the influence of their headmen and mullah 322 of these people have been inoculated, and no plague has occurred among them, although cases have been prevalent all round about them. They have been taken into camp in batches, while their houses have been cleaned, disinfected and whitewashed. This case proves nothing, but so far as it goes is favourable to inoculation.

The Khoja community of Bombay has been largely inoculated, but the figures are not yet available. It is believed, however, that only some 20 cases of plague have occurred among several thousands inoculated, and that only three or perhaps four have been fatal.

Similarly, out of some 600 inoculated dependants of His Highness Aga Khan at Poonah all are believed to have escaped plague, though mixing freely with the general community among whom the disease was exceedingly severe.

The people at Undera are thoroughly convinced of the efficacy of inoculation, and those of a neighbouring village (Jotai), where plague is now prevalent, sent in a deputation of their headmen to implore that they might be done. Arrangements were made to do as many as possible the following day.

It seems to me that these cases go very far to show the great value of the process. Those at Damaon and Undera have been carefully verified by independent observers, while some of the others have been already published and have not been challenged. How long the protection lasts can only be established by time, but were it only for a few months, we should have a valuable aid in saving people from attack during an existing epidemic. There is reason to believe, however, that it lasts much longer than this, for the large numbers inoculated during the first epidemic both in Bombay and Poona have with very few exceptions escaped the disease during the recrudescence.

The position, therefore, seems to warrant Government in extending facilities for inoculation, and inducing the people to accept it by all legitimate means. The serum takes some six weeks to prepare and the technique of the process requires great care and can only be carried out by experts, but the actual inoculations can be done by any medical officer according to printed instructions. The operation is painless, but the serum causes a certain definite reaction, in which the temperature rises to about 102° F. and local irritation at the seat of infection usually lasts for some days and is frequently severe. This makes people shy of undergoing inoculation unless they have something to gain by it, and the fear of plague is in many instances insufficient to overcome these objections. Most people take an optimistic view of their chances of escaping plague—as Young says "all men think all men mortal but themselves"—and considering that the total mortality in both the Bombay outbreaks has been little more than 3 per cent., the chances of an individual's escaping are very large—thirty-two to one.

* By Surgeon-Major Bannerman, Madras Medical Service, Surgeon-Captain Dyson, Bombay Medical Service, M. Haffkine and myself.

If inoculation saved a man from forcible ejection from his house when plague is in the neighbourhood, if it allowed him to go freely about his business, if it saved him from detention in segregation camps and substituted surveillance for forcible detention, great stimulus would be given to the experiment, and with proper precautions as to disinfection and identification, which could be arranged for with no great difficulty, there would be little danger of the inoculated conveying the disease. No question of compulsory inoculation is intended, but the experience already gained shows that the numbers ready to accept it are already great, and as people realise its advantages they will steadily and rapidly increase.

RULES FOR THE APPOINTMENT OF SUB-INSPECTORS OF POLICE.

THE next divisional examination of candidates to fill vacancies in the rank of Sub-Inspector of Police will be held on the 25th and 26th July 1898 at the following centres:—at Calcutta (Senate House) for the Presidency, Rajshahi and Burdwan Divisions; at Bankipore for the Patna, Bhagalpur and Chota Nagpur Divisions; at Dacca for the Dacca and Chittagong Divisions; and at Cuttack for the Orissa Division. The following classes of candidates will be admissible to the examination:—

(a) Persons who have passed the Entrance Examination of the Calcutta, Allahabad or Punjab University, provided they are not less than 21 nor more than 25 years of age on the 30th June.

(b) Persons now serving as head-constables and writer-constables in the Police, who have obtained the permission of the District Magistrate to appear at the examination, provided that they are not more than 30 years of age, and are of not less than two years' standing in the Department. This permission will only be given to persons who satisfy the conditions laid down in Rule 2.

2. No person will be deemed qualified who does not satisfy the following conditions:—

I.—That he has no disease, constitutional affection or bodily infirmity, unfitting him, or likely to unfit him, for police duties, and that he is up to the physical standard prescribed by Government circular No. 4436J., dated the 7th December 1892.

NOTE.—"Stuttering or Stammering" is a constitutional defect, and represents a physical disqualification.

II.—That he is of good moral character.

III.—That he belongs to a respectable family.

IV.—That he produces a certificate of ability to ride signed by a district officer.

3. Applications for permission to appear at the examination must be submitted, not later than one month before the date fixed, to the Magistrate of the district in which the candidate resides, stating the place at which he desires to appear for examination. Each application from class (a) candidates must be accompanied by a fee of Rs. 5. All candidates will be required to satisfy the conditions specified in Rule 2 above. The certificate of health should be signed either by the Civil Surgeon of the district in which the candidate ordinarily resides, or in Calcutta by one of the Professors of the Calcutta Medical College. Forms of application are available in the offices of District Superintendents of Police.

The Magistrate should require a personal identification of each candidate by some known person, whose name should be recorded, and satisfy himself that the certificates of respectability and moral character refer to the individual applying for permission to appear at the examination, and that these certificates are given by responsible and competent persons, whose opinion may be trusted. It is particularly important that candidates be of reputable parentage and antecedents The candidate should be sent to the District Superintendent for a certificate as to physical fitness. This certificate should contain the applicant's descriptive roll, thumb impression, signature and address for purposes of identification. The District Superintendent will then obtain a health certificate, the fee for which will in all cases be Rs. 4, from the Civil Surgeon, and after seeing that all the certificates are in order send the applicant with his certificates to the Magistrate, who will, after subjecting the candidate to an examination in riding and noting the fact, grant a written permission to appear at the examination.

As these certificates form the verification rolls of candidates, they should be very carefully examined and enquiries made when necessary. A note should be taken of the names of candidates whose certificates do not cover the period immediately preceding the examination.

The above papers with the examination fee will be forwarded without delay by the Magistrate of the district in which the candidate resides to the Magistrate of the centre at which the candidate wishes to be examined.

The Examination Committee before the examination will compare the descriptions, thumb impressions (duplicate impressions being taken for the purpose, if necessary), and signatures and satisfy itself about the identity of the person appearing.

At the examination a candidate will be required to sign the papers in every subject, writing his father's name and his own address on them to avoid confusion arising out of a similarity of names.

After the result of the examination is known, the certificates of passed candidates will be forwarded to the Principal of the Police Training School, Bhagalpur, and will then be treated as verification rolls.

The certificates of unsuccessful candidates will be returned, if asked for, within two months, or destroyed at the end of that period.

4. The subjects of examination will be as follows:—

I.—Dictation, Letter-drafting, Précis-writing, and a short translation from Bengali, Uriya or Hindi into English. Europeans and Eurasians will be allowed to choose one out of these three languages to be examined in. No candidate failing to obtain half marks in this paper will be considered qualified for appointment.

II.—Paper on general knowledge. The question will be set so as to test the general information and intelligence of candidates.

III.—Mathematics, including Euclid, Books I—IV, Arithmetic and Algebra, and account-keeping.

IV.—Law, including the Penal Code, the Criminal Procedure Code, and the Evidence Act..

N.B.—Class (b) candidates will be exempted from passing in Euclid and Algebra, alternative questions in Arithmetic being given.

5. The marks will be given on the following scale:—

1.	Dictation and language	200.
2.	General knowledge	200
3.	Mathematics	200
4.	Law	200

6. The number of appointments which will be filled up from the list of successful candidates is noted below against each centre:—

Calcutta	8	Bankipore	8
Dacca	8	Cuttack	1

7. After the results of the examination have been ascertained, a list will be prepared of the candidates selected for appointment. Those who have not obtained half marks in dictation and language, and one-third marks in the aggregate of the remaining papers, may be struck out as ineligible for appointment. Of the remaining candidates, a list will then be composed as follows:—(a) one-half of the candidates who stand highest on the list in order of merit: (b) one-half of candidates selected from among those candidates who have obtained not less than one-third of the marks. At least two-thirds of the appointments will, if qualified candidates are available, be given to outsiders.

8. Natives of Bengal Proper will be eligible for appointments in all districts where Bengali is the vernacular of the district. Natives of Bihar will be eligible for appointments in districts where Hindi is the vernacular, and natives of Orissa for appointments in districts where Uriya is the vernacular. Selected candidates will be liable to be transferred to any district.

9. Selected candidates on appointment will undergo a three months' course of instruction at the Bhagalpur Police Training School. This course will include drill, elementary surveying, anthropometry, and instruction in prosecuting cases in Magistrates' Courts. At the end of the three months all probationers obtaining a certificate of proficiency will be posted to districts and receive appointments in due course as 5th grade Sub-Inspectors. During the period of probation candidates will receive Rs. 20 a month as salary; on being passed out of the Training School, they will receive Rs. 30 a month as salary. Candidates who fail to display due diligence during their period of probation will be liable to lose their appointment.

10. The position of selected candidates in the Range lists from which promotions are made will be determined by the places obtained by candidates at the final examination held at the conclusion of the Training School term.

11. Candidates resident in any of the districts of the Patna, Bhagalpur and Chota Nagpur Divisions, who take up Hindi at this examination, will be considered to be natives of Bihar. Candidates competing at Cuttack who take up Uriya will be considered natives of Orissa.

12. Information as to the hour and place of examination can be obtained 15 days before the examination by applying to the District Magistrates of the 24-Parganas, Dacca, Patna and Cuttack.

M. FINUCANE,
Offg. Chief Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

NOTE.—The question papers set at the examinations held in 1893-94, 1895, and 1896 can be obtained on application to the Officer in charge, Bengal Secretariat Book Depôt, Writers' Buildings, Calcutta, at 5 annas a copy, and annas fifteen for the three complete sets, in addition to postage.

EDUCATION DEPARTMENT, BENGAL.

CIVIL ENGINEERING COLLEGE, SIBPUR.

Apprentice Department.

THE date for admission to this Department is 6th June 1898. Candidates must be at least 15, and not more than 17 years of age.

They must have passed standard VII of the Code for European Schools or the University Entrance Examination. They must submit their applications accompanied by a certificate of age and a certificate showing that they have passed the requisite standard so as to reach the Principal not later than the 6th May 1898. No application will be attended to after this date.

The maximum number to be admitted each year is limited to 60, and applicants will be selected in order of merit.

Every applicant, before admission to the College, will be examined by the College Surgeon as to his physical strength, chest measurement, fitness for manual labour, and eyesight. If this officer's report is unsatisfactory, the applicant will not be admitted.

Before an apprentice is admitted to the College, his parent or guardian must sign an agreement in the form shown in Appendix A.

The sessions begins on the first Monday in June. All apprentices are required to join the College on that date. Any apprentice prevented by sickness from attending on the opening day must produce a certificate to that effect from a Civil or Assistant Surgeon, failing which he will be liable to a fine not exceeding Rs. 10. No apprentice will be admitted or re-admitted to the College after the close of the month of June, except by special order of the Director of Public Instruction. This permission will only be given under exceptional circumstances.

There will be no vacancy on the free list for Christian Apprentices in June next, but there will be five on the reduced* fee list. For natives there will be at least nine vacancies, possibly more, on the reduced† fee list.

* Rs. 5 per mensem.

† Rs. 2 per mensem.

These vacancies will be filled up after the opening of the session by the Board of Visitors from those apprentices who join the College. No guarantee can, therefore, be given beforehand, but forms to be filled up for the consideration of the Board can be had on application to the Principal.

Principal, Civil Engineering College.

CIVIL ENGINEERING COLLEGE, SIBPUR.

Session 1898-99.

CANDIDATES for admission to the Engineer Department should apply to the Principal before the 15th May 1898. The session begins on Monday, the 6th June 1898.

Candidates must furnish proof that they have passed one of the following tests:—

(1) The F.A. Examination of the Calcutta University, or a similar standard of any Indian University recognised by the Calcutta University. The candidate's age must be under 21 years.

(2) The B.A Examination in the B Course in Physics and Chemistry. The candidate's age must be under 2[illegible] years. (These students are admitted direct into the second-year class.)

The maximum number to be admitted each year is limited to 40. The position in the University Examinations and the age of the candidates will be taken into consideration when selection is made, and such selection will be made by the Principal.

Ten scholarships will be awarded to students entering the Engineer Department not being already holders of junior or senior scholarships. Every applicant, before admission to the College, will be examined by the College Surgeon as to his physical strength, fitness for manual labour and eyesight.

Further particulars will be supplied on application to the Principal.

EDUCATIONAL PROSPECTUS.

THE Calcutta Medical College Session, 1898-99, will commence on the 15th June next. Students who may be desirous of commencing their studies are requested to apply to the Principal between the hours of 11 A.M. and 4 P.M. on or before 1st June.

Those students who may be selected are expected to enter formally and commence attendance at the College upon the 14th, and none will be admitted at any later date.

2. No person shall be enrolled as a matriculated student who has not previously passed the First Arts examination of the Calcutta or an Indian University, or a preliminary Arts examination of the United Kingdom recognised by the British General Medical Council.

3. All matriculated students of the College must pay Rs. 15 on entrance, Rs. 35 on the 1st June, and Rs. 35 on 1st November of each year. Rs. 6 extra will be required from each student for each course of dissections. Fees once paid cannot be refunded.

Muhammadan students are required to pay Rs. 15 on entrance and half fee, i.e., Rs. 17-8, per session. The remaining half fees are charged to the Mohsin Fund.

4. No free presentations will be awarded at the beginning of the session, but the fees shall be refunded to the 10 students who passed highest in all subjects at the end of their first year of study

5. Any matriculated student of the College may, with the permission of the Principal and the Professor of the subject, attend courses of lectures or departments of hospital practice in addition to the full curriculum for the year, and shall be entitled to certificates of attendance at such extra lectures, if the Professor is satisfied that he or she has really studied the subject. The fees payable in advance for such additional courses are the following:—

	Rs.
For a single course of lectures on each subject in one year ...	40
For six months' attendance in each department of hospital practice ...	60

6. Any matriculated student who leaves the College before completing his University course, with the object of continuing his studies at a medical school in Europe, may receive certificates of attendance of lectures on payment of fees at the rate fixed in the foregoing rule provided the Professor is satisfied that he or she has really studied the subject. But in calculating the sum to be so paid, the amount of the fees already paid by him as a regular student, or, in the case of a free student, the amount which would have been paid by him had he been a paying student, shall be deducted.

7. Any person not being a matriculated student of the College who wishes to attend any course of lectures, or any department of hospital practice, may do so with the permission of the Principal and Professor of the subject on payment, in advance, of fees at the rates fixed in paragraph 5. If he has passed the Entrance examination of the University, he shall receive certificates of attendance at lectures. If he has not passed the Entrance examination, he shall receive no class certificates.

8. At the end of their first year, students will be required to pass a college test examination in Anatomy, Chemistry, and Botany. Those who gain not less than 20 per cent. in two subjects, and not less than 15 per cent. in a third, will be eligible for promotion to the second-year class. Those who fail to gain the aforesaid percentage of marks will not be eligible for promotion, but will go through the first-year class again.

9. Students of the second year will be required to pass a College test examination in Anatomy, Physiology, and Materia Medica. Those who pass the examination with 20 per cent. in two subjects and 15 per cent. in a third will be entitled to go up in the following March or April for the Preliminary Scientific Examination of the Calcutta University, the subjects of which are Chemistry and Botany. Those who (after passing the College test) fail at the University examination will be entitled, equally with those who pass it, to join the third-year class, at the end of which the former will have to present themselves, as at present, for the combined Preliminary Scientific and 1st L.M.S. (or 1st M.B.) examination.

10. Those students who fail at the College test examination of the second year will not be debarred from going up for the Preliminary Scientific examination, but will be encouraged to do so in order to get that stage over; but whether they pass or fail at the University examination, they will be relegated for a further year to the second year-class, provided that those who pass the University examination will not be required to attend the courses in those subjects in which they have passed.

11. Students of the third year will present themselves for the 1st L.M.S. or 1st M.B. examination of the Calcutta University. Those who fail at this examination will be relegated for a further year to the third-year class.

12. Students of the first or second-year class who fail a second time, at the same stage, to gain promotion to the next higher class, will be removed from the College and will not be entitled to re-admission. Third-year students who fail a second time will be liable to removal from the College; but if they are specially recommended by the Principal, they may again be relegated to the third-year class, on payment of the fees laid down in Rule 16, and re-admitted to the 1st L.M.S. or 1st M.B. examination, and this concession may be allowed for any number of years at the discretion of the Principal.

13. Students of the fourth-year class will be required to pass a College test examination in Surgery, Medicine, Midwifery, and Medical Jurisprudence. Those who pass the examination with 20 per cent. of the marks in three subjects, and 15 per cent. in a fourth, will be eligible for promotion to the fifth-year class. Those who fail will be relegated to the fourth-year class for a further year. The examination in Surgery and Medicine will be both theoretical and clinical; but those students who can obtain from the Visiting Surgeon or Physician, to whose wards they have been attached, a certificate that they have really profited by their instruction in either subject, will be excused the clinical examination in that subject.

14. Students who fail at the 2nd L.M.S. or 2nd M.B. examination will have to attend a further course of lectures in the subject or subjects in which they have failed, in accordance with the regulations of the University.

15. The Principal will determine the maximum number that may be admitted to the first-year class. Students who have failed at the test examinationof the first-year will have a prior claim to re-admission over new students.

16. Students re-admitted to a class after failure at the test examination will be required to pay half the regular fee for the session (Rs. 35), but extra fees as for dissection (Rs. 6) in full. The half fee must be paid at the commencement of the session in June. Those, however, who, after failing either at the preliminary Scientific Examination or at the final examination, have to attend a further course of lectures in the subject or subjects in which they failed, shall be required to pay for such lectures a fee of Rs. 20 for one subject, Rs. 30 for two, and Rs. 35 for three. Exceptions to this latter rule may be made in special cases by Director of Public Instruction on the recommendation of the Principal.

17. College prizes and certificates of honour are open for competition to matriculated students of the College, military medical pupils, and female certificate classes. College scholarships (vide paragraph 18) are awarded only to matriculated students of the College.

18. Junior scholarships of Rs. 8 per mensem and free tuition for one year are annually awarded to ten students of the second year, on the results of the Test and Honour examinations at the end of the first year.

Scholarships of the same value are awarded to ten students at the commencement of their third year, on the results of the Test and Honour examinations at the end of their second year, provided they have passed either the Preliminary Scientific L.M.S. or M.B. examination.

Ten senior scholarships of Rs. 12 per mensem and free tuition are awarded annually to students at the commencement of their fourth year, on the results of the Test and Honour examinations at the end of their third year, provided they have passed either the 1st L.M.S. or 1st M.B. examination. These scholarships are tenable for two years, provided the holder passes creditably the Test and Honour examinations at the end of his fourth year. In the event of any scholarship being forfeited under this condition, it may be awarded for one year to any student of the fifth year who has fulfilled the conditions and is not the holder of any scholarship. These scholarships shall not be awarded to students who have gained the Durga Charan Laha scholarship of Rs. 30 per mensem or any other scholarship.

Students who from any cause fail to pass their University examinations at their first chance are not eligible for any of these scholarships, either junior or senior.

19. The Goodeve scholarship of Rs. 12 per mensem, tenable for one year, is annually awarded to a matriculated student of the fifth year, on the result of the Midwifery test examination of the fourth year.

The F. C. Chatterjee scholarship of Rs. 15 per mensem, tenable for a year, is annually awarded to the best matriculated student of Native Indian extraction, and whose conduct is certified to be good, in histology at the end of the fourth year. The examination takes place in June each year.

The Abdul Gunny scholarship of Rs. 22 per mensem, tenable for one year, is annually awarded at the end of the fourth year to the best matriculated student in all subjects at the class examinations of the first to fourth year inclusive. The award is made in May.

The Duke of Edinburgh's prize is awarded to the best in Surgery among the matriculated students at the end of the fourth and fifth years. The examination takes place in December or January.

The Bhola Nath Bose's prize of Rs. 40 is awarded to the fourth-year matriculated student who proves himself to be the most successful at bedside diagnosis of disease in Surgery and Medicine in alternate years. The award is made in January.

A gold medal and certificates of honour are awarded to the best students in each subject at the Test and Honour examinations.

The Goodeve and Macnamara silver medals are awarded to the best of the first-year native students in Anatomy and Chemistry, respectively, on the result of the Test and Honour examinations.

A prize in Clinical Medicine is awarded annually to the best clinical clerk of the fourth and fifth-year matriculated students. This examination takes place in February.

A prize in Clinical Surgery is awarded annually to the best clinical dresser of the fourth and fifth-year matriculated students. This examination will be held in February.

The Rivers Thompson silver medal is annually awarded to the best Muhammadan student who passes the final L.M.S. or M.B. examination of the Calcutta University.

The Lady Rivers Thompson prize of Rs. 50 is awarded to the lady student who obtains the highest number of marks at the final examination.

No student shall be allowed to compete for a prize when attending a course in excess of the number prescribed in the College curriculum.

20. College scholars who receive less than Rs. 20 per mensem are not recquired to pay Rs 35 per session. All other scholars shall pay fees as matriculated students. These may pay their fees in advance, or have their scholarship money deducted till the full amount is received.

21. Any student holding a Medical College scholarship (paragraphs 9 and 10) will be permitted to draw the stipends of that scholarship at any recognized medical school in the United Kingdom, provided he furnishes from the head of such school a certificate of good conduct and diligence. These College classes are recognized by all the medical schools in the United Kingdom.

22. The class assistants to the Professors of Pathology and Comparative Anatomy will each receive a salary of Rs. 10 monthly.

30. Rules for the conduct of periodical examinations.

(1) Test examinations at the end of the—

1st year.

(a) Military pupils who obtain less than 10 per cent. of marks in one subject to be "warned" and informed that failure in the same subject at the end of the second year will entail liability to removal from College.

(b) Pupils who fail as above in two subjects will lose 200 conduct marks for idleness and will be re-examined two weeks before the commencement of the next session. Failure then in obtaining 15 per cent. of marks in either of the subjects will entail liability to removal.

(c) Pupils who fail to get 10 per cent. as above in three subjects will be removed from the College as being unlikely to succeed eventually.

(2) Pass examinations at the end of the—2nd year.

(a) Military pupils who obtain less than 20 per cent. of marks in one subject will, if practicable, attend lectures on this subject and be re-examined at the end of the next session. Failure again in the same subject will render pupils liable to removal.

(b) Pupils who fail in two subjects will lose 200 conduct marks for idleness, and will, if practicable, attend lectures on these subjects, and be re-examined at the end of the next session. Failure in either subject will entail liability to removal.

(c) Pupils who fail to attain the standard in three subjects will be removed from the College.

(3) Pass and Test examinations at the end of the—3rd year.

(a) Pupils who fail to obtain 20 per cent. of marks in either or both of the final subjects for the third year (viz., Hygiene and Pathology) will lose 200 conduct marks, and be re-examined at the end of the next session.

(b) Pupils who do not obtain 10 per cent. of marks in any of the test examinations (the other subjects) will lose 200 conduct marks for idleness for each subject in which he so fails.

(4) Pass examinations at the end of the—4th year.

(a) Pupils who obtain less than 20 per cent. of marks in all subjects of their final examination will be liable to removal from the College. Such pupils, will, however, be allowed to remain for a further period (to be fixed by the Principal in each case) in the College to continue their studies at their own expense.

31. FEMALE CERTIFICATE CLASS.

Lady students must be over 17 years of age before commencing their studies.

They must have passed the Entrance examination of the Calcutta University or an examination officially recognized by that University as equivalent to the Entrance examination. (The certificate of matriculation of the Melbourne University will be accepted.)

New students are expected, at latest, to enter formally and commence attendance at the College when the session opens on 15th June.

The duration of the course will be four years.

Tuition will be free.

32. Students, preferably native ladies, may reside in the Sornomoye Hostel. Applications for residence must be made to the Lady Superintendent of the Hostel, or to the Secretary to the Countess of Dufferin Fund, Bengal Branch, and not to the Principal of the Medical College.

33. The following is the curriculum:—

1st year.

Anatomy
Materia Medica.

Pass examinations in Pathology, Physiology, and Medical Jurisprudence.

4th year.

Medicine and Clinical Medicine.
Surgery and Clinical Surgery.
Midwifery (including six labour cases).
Hospital practice (of which six months in the Medical and Surgical wards minus 15 attendances at the Dental Dispensary; and six months exclusively in the Midwifery wards, when the students are to take regular tours of duty, night and day, assisting the regular work of the hospital).
Dentistry (optional).
Pass examinations in Medicine, Surgery, and Midwifery.

Students who are successful are entitled to receive the certificate of the College qualifying them to practise Medicine, Surgery, and Midwifery. A fee of Rs. 10 is charged for each certificate.

34. The following rules will be observed in regulating advancement from class to class:—

(1) Test examination at the end of the first year.—If a student obtains less than 10 per cent. of the marks in any two out of three subjects of examination, she shall not be allowed to continue in the College.

(2) Pass examinations at the end of the second and third years.—In order to pass, a student must gain 33 per cent. in each subject of examination. If a student fails in any two of the three subjects, or, failing in one subject only, if she gains less than 25 per cent. in that subject, she shall be put back for one year. If she fails in one subject only, gaining 25 per cent. or more in that subject, she shall be promoted to the next class, but will be required to submit to re-examination in that subject in addition to the examination in the regular subjects, at the end of the following year. She will be permitted to attend lectures on the subject in which she has failed. Failure on re-examination will carry the same penalty as original failure.

(3) Pass examination at the end of the fourth year.—The same rules as apply to the previous pass examinations, with the exception that if a student, failing in one subject only, gains 25 per cent. in that subject, she will be referred back to her studies for a period of six months, at the expiration of which she will be entitled to re-examination, after furnishing proof of having attended hospital practice during that period.

MIDWIVES AND DAIS.

35. Women who have a fair knowledge of English, but who have not passed the Entrance or its equivalents, will be admitted into the Eden Hospital to learn Midwifery. The Government grants Rs. 20 per mensem towards the board, washing, &c., of each pupil, and gives them free quarters. After a year's tuition and bedside practice, if found proficient, they will obtain a certificate qualifying them to practise midwifery. The fee for each certificate is Rs. 5. They are expected to do general nursing in the wards as well as midwifery.

36. Women who have not passed the Entrance or its equivalents, but who can read and write Bengali, can be admitted into the Eden Hospital as pupil dais. The Government grants Rs. 6 each per mensem to eight pupils towards their board, washing, &c., and gives them free quarters. After 12 months' tuition and bedside practice, if found proficient, they will obtain a certificate qualifying them to practise midwifery. They are expected to do general nursing in the wards as well as midwifery.

37. Candidates (midwives and dais) should apply for admission to the Sister of the Eden Hospital.

* The balance of previous year (Rs. 15,133-11-5½) has been increased by Rs. 18-5-6 under Accountant-General of Bengal's instructions conveyed in Board's No. 48A., dated 19th January 1898. This amount of Rs. 13-5-6 represents the pay of the establishment realised from parties for giving evidence in Civil Courts and deducted from the pay-bill. It was included in the expenditure of the previous year through mistake. To rectify this mistake it has now been added to the previous year's balance.

The Indian Law Reports.

Published under Authority.

THE Indian Law Reports, published under the authority of the Governor-General in Council, appear in monthly parts, published as soon as possible after the first of each month at Calcutta, Madras, Bombay, and Allahabad, and comprise four series—one for the Calcutta High Court, a second for the Madras High Court, a third for the Bombay High Court, and a fourth for the Allahabad High Court. The cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from each High Court are reported in the Series for that High Court. Cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from Provinces in India not subject to any High Court are reported in the Calcutta Series.

The Calcutta Series is distributed by the Bengal Secretariat Book Depôt, and the Madras, Bombay, and Allahabad Series are distributed direct from Madras, Bombay, and Allahabad respectively.

In supersession of the previous advertisements, on and from the 1st January 1889 the terms of subscription and sale will be as follows for current issues as well as for back numbers of the Reports from 1876:—

Position of certain shoals.

The Officer in charge of the Marine Survey of India has given additional notice that shoals Nos. 2 and 3, reported in Notice to Mariners, Bay of Bengal, No. 85, dated 1st April 1898, issued by this office, have been further examined with the following results:—

No. 2 is 4½ miles long in a N. ½ E. and S. ½ W. direction and ½ mile broad with from 6 to 9 fathoms on it.

The southern end lies in Lat. 15° 01½′ N., Long. 97° 35½′ E., with

Phalein Hill (1610) bearing	N. 31 E.
Summit Pig island	N. 72 E.
Krunangi S. Peak (2580)	S. 77 E.

The northern end lies in Lat. 15° 06′ N., Long. 97° 36′ E., with

Phalein Hill (1610) bearing	N. 37 E.
Summit Pig island	S. 78 E.
Krunangi S. Peak (2580)	S. 62 E.

No. 3 is 4 miles long in a N. by E. and S. by W. direction and ¾ mile broad with from 5 to 8 fathoms on it.

Its southern end lies in Lat. 14° 51½′ N., Long. 97° 20½′ E., with Krunangi S. Peak (2580) bearing N. 78 E., distant 31 miles.

Its northern end lies in Lat. 14° 55½′ N., Long. 97° 21′ E., with Krunangi S. Peak (2580) bearing N. 85 E., distant 30 miles.

A shoal of small extent, having 6¼ fathoms on it, has been discovered in Lat. 15° 08′ N., Long. 97° 38½′ E., with Phalein Hill (1610) bearing N. 36 E.

INDIA—BAY OF BENGAL.

Non-existence of rock N.-W. of Table island.

THE Bombay Government has given notice (No. 42 of 1898) that a careful search has been made by the Indian Marine Survey under exceptionally favourable circumstances for the rock two miles N.W. of Table Island, on which the S.S. Medusa is reported to have struck, without success. It is therefore considered probable the Master of the Medusa underestimated his distance from the light-house.

The Light-house Keeper reports that ships constantly pass close to the rocks with three fathoms on them lying twelve cables N.W. of the light-house, shown on Admiralty Chart No. 825. Vessels are hereby cautioned to keep well to the northward of Table Island, as the tides in this locality are strong and often set on to the rocks.

From the wreck the light-house bears N. 28 W. (true), distant 9½ cables, and shows signs of rapidly breaking up.

CHINA—Hwang hai.

Decreased depths eastward of Ta sha or Great sand.

The British Admiralty has given notice (No. 191 of 1898) that information has been received that the Captain of the Imperial German cruiser Kaiserin Augusta reports that eastward of the Ta sha or Great sand, in approximately lat. 34° N., long. 122° 17′ E., soundings of 7½ to 9 fathoms were obtained.

A note "7 to 9 fathoms reported, 1898" has been placed on the Charts in that position.

Also, that on the western side of the Hwang hai or Yellow sea, between the entrance of the Yang tse kiang and Kyau chau bay, the depths, already given as shallow, are generally less than those shown on the Charts.

BAY OF BENGAL—Nicobar islands.

Dangers near Kamorta and Great Nicobar islands.

The British Admiralty has given notice (No. 197 of 1898) that information has been received, dated 9th February 1898, that the Commander of the R.I.M. steam-vessel Elphinstone reports the existence of the undermentioned dangers in the Nicobar islands:—

1. A sunken rock, with a depth of one fathom on it at low water, situated on the west coast of Kamorta in a position with summit (435), east side of Kamorta, bearing N. 75° E., distant 3¼ miles; and mount Edgcumbe (360) S. 40° E.

Approximate position, lat. 8° 6′ 45″ N., long. 93° 26′ 10″ E.

A depth of 14 fathoms was found between this rock and the entrance of Dring harbour, and as there may possibly be less water, breakers having been reported in that locality, the words "Breakers reported" have been written on the Chart between the above rock and Dring harbour.

2. A shoal, with a depth of 2¼ fathoms on it, apparently not examined, situated in Kondul harbour, north coast of Great Nicobar, in a position with summit of Kondul island (400), bearing N. 36° W., distant 1 7/10 miles; and village on east side of harbour N. 71° E.

Approximate position, lat. 7° 11′ 45″ N., long. 93° 42′ 35″ E.

3. A patch of small extent, with a least depth of 4½ fathoms obtained on it, but possibly there may be less water, situated on the west side of Great Nicobar, in a position with the south-west extreme of the western point of Casuarina bay, bearing N. 30° W., distant 2¾ miles; and Kopenheat point S. 83° E.

Approximate position, lat. 6° 58′ N., long. 93° 40′ 15″ E.

Breach at East Point Spit beaconed and lighted.

THE Port Master, Brisbane, has given notice (No. 8 of 1898) that the breach made by the Pioneer river through East Point Spit is beaconed and lighted for use, the old entrance being no longer marked.

Directions.—The Fairway buoy is placed in 3 fathoms off the edge of shoal water, and lies with Slade Islet bearing north and Flat Top bearing S.E., distant 5 cables. It may be passed on either side bringing two white beacons in line bearing W. ½ S. and pass a red buoy to starboard, and between red and black buoys marking the gap in the stone wall through which the breach occurred; then haul up sharp and steer for Mt. Bassett, bringing two white leading beacons in line ahead bearing N.W by N. ½ N. until two white beacons on East Point come in line astern leading on a N.W. by W. ½ W. course, then proceed as before.

These beacons are lighted at night.

CHINA SEA—PESCADORES ISLANDS.

(1) Sunken rock north-eastward of Ragged island.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 179 of 1898) that a sunken rock, on which the sea breaks, is reported to exist in a position with Ragged island bearing S.W. ¾ S., distant 4¼ cables; and south extreme of Organ island W. ¼ N.

Approximate position, lat. 23° 36′ 30″ N., long. 119° 41′ 45″ E.

The symbol for a rock with less than 6 feet water on it, with the word "breaks" written against it, has been placed on the Admiralty Chart in the above position.

Also, that the sunken rock, shown on the chart nearly a mile, north-eastward, from Organ island, extends about a quarter of a mile north and south.

(2) Rocks northward of North rocks.

Also, that the undermentioned rocks exist northward of North rocks:—

(a) Niyake sho, a sunken rock, on which the steam-vessel Nara maru was wrecked in 1897, is situated about a mile northward of North rocks, in approximately lat. 23° 48′ 0″ N., long. 119° 34′ 50″ E.

(b) Higashiyake sho, a rock above water, in approximately lat. 23° 48′ 20″ N, long. 119° 34′ 55″ E.

(c) Oyake sho, a rock above water, in approximately lat. 23° 48′ 10″ N., long. 119° 34′ 20″ E.

BAY OF BENGAL—AND ARABIAN SEA.

Alterations in storm signals at ports of India.

The British Admiralty has given notice (No. 182 of 1898) that the undermentioned system of storm signals is being adopted for all the ports of India, with the exception of those in the river Hooghly, and with that exception the previous systems have been discontinued:—

Day Signals.

1. Cautionary.—Bay of Bengal.—The square flag W of the International Code, hoisted at the storm signal staff, indicates the existence of disturbed squally weather in the Bay of Bengal, which may be the first stage in the formation of a cyclonic storm, and which, if it develops, is likely to affect that part of the coast on which the port, where the signal is shown, is situated.

Arabian Sea.—The square flag W of the International Code, hoisted at the storm signal staff, indicates the existence of disturbed weather off the west coast of India near the port or ports where the signal is shown; or the advance of a cyclonic storm across Hindustan from the Bay of Bengal, which may shortly give squally or stormy weather in the Arabian sea.

In either of the above cases if the disturbed conditions pass away without producing stormy weather, the cautionary signal is hauled down; but if the disturbed weather will probably develop into a cyclone, signals indicating the probable position, character, and tract of the approaching storm are shown as follows.

2. Warning Signal.—A ball indicates that a cyclonic storm has formed, which will probably reach the port where the signal is shown, but is still at a considerable distance from it.

The same signal will also be shown at more important ports on the west coast of India, to indicate that a storm has formed in the Arabian sea at some distance from the coast and will shortly cross one or other of the track of vessels leaving those ports, but will not reach such ports. The Port officer will receive details to communicate to vessels leaving the port.

3. Danger Signals.—(a) A cone, apex downwards, indicates that a cyclonic storm, probably slight to moderate, is affecting the port, and that its centre will probably cross the coast considerably to the southward.

(b) A cone, apex upwards, indicates that the centre of such a storm, as above (3 a), will probably cross the coast considerably to the northward.

(c) A drum indicates that the centre of such a storm as above (3 a) will probably cross the coast over or near the port.

4. Great Danger Signals.—(a) A cone, apex downwards, over a ball, indicates that a cyclonic storm of great intensity is affecting the port and that its centre will probably cross the coast considerably to the southward.

(b) A cone, apex upwards, over a ball, indicates that the centre of such a storm as above (4 a) will probably cross the coast considerably to the northward.

(c) A drum, over a ball, indicates that the centre of such a storm as above (4 a) will probably cross the coast over or near the port.

Night Signals.

1. No cautionary signals are shown at night.

2. A red light indicates similarly to warning signal (2) above.

3. (a) A red light placed vertically over a white light indicates similarly to danger signal 3 a above.

(b) A white light placed vertically over a red light indicates similarly to danger signal 3 b above.

(c) Two red lights, placed vertically, indicate similarly to danger signal 3 c above.

4. (a) Two red lights placed vertically over a white light indicate similarly to great danger signal 4 a above.

(b) A white light over two red lights placed vertically, indicates similarly to great danger signal 4 b above.

(c) Three red lights, placed vertically indicate similarly to great danger signal 4 c above.

The results of observations at the Alipore Observatory are not rigorously comparable with the registers of past years (at the Park Street Observatory). The barometer is about [illegible] feet higher at Alipore, and, other things being equal, reads therefore ·003 lower. The diurnal range of temperature is also greater at Alipore, and the mean temperature apparently about 0·2° lower; and, finally, the thermometer which furnished the record of temperature at the Surveyor-General's Office, during 20 years and upwards is found to read 0·6 higher than the Kew standard thermometer, which is the standard of reference at the present Observatory.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h., and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the traces of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

NOTIFICATION.

No. 3009Medl.—The 10th May 1898.—It is hereby notified that the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, in exercise of the powers conferred by sections 4 and 5 of the Charitable Endowments Act, 1890, and upon the application and with the concurrence of Rai Setab Chand Nahar Bahadur, son of Gulal Chand Nahar, deceased, of Azimganj, in the district of Murshidabad, hereafter referred to as the donor, doth hereby order and direct that the immoveable property, described in the first schedule hereto annexed and already transferred by deed of gift, dated 16th April 1896, to H. F. T. Maguire, Magistrate of Dinajpur, as such, and of which the donor was the absolute owner before such transfer, together with the land and building erected by the donor for the establishment of a Charitable Dispensary within his zamindari at Setabganj alias Bochaganj, in pargana Salbari, police-station Peerganj, in the district of Dinajpur, for the benefit of his tenants and others who may avail themselves of the advantages of the said dispensary, shall, as from the first publication of this notification, vest and be henceforth vested in the Treasurer of Charitable Endowments for the territories subject to the Government of Bengal, to be held by him and his successor (subject to the provisions of the said Charitable Endowments Act, 1890, and any rules from time to time framed thereunder by the Governor-General in Council) in trust and for the sole use, benefit and maintenance of the said dispensary under the Charitable Endowments Act, 1890, upon the terms mentioned in the second schedule hereto annexed.

The First Schedule above referred to.

Zamindari right to the Hat Setabganj, also called Hat Budheshury, situated within Lat Behogaon, tauzi No. 109, in the Collectorate of Dinajpur, at the village of the said Setabganj alias Bochaganj, bounded on the north by khas jungle and patit lands and Budheshury Sthan, south by Peerganj road, west by the homestead lands of Haji Shaheb and Kudrat Sadagar, east by the homestead lands of Kalia Kamar and Nehar Posakar in pargana Salbari, thana Peerganj, registration sub-district Peerganj, registration district Dinajpur.

The Second Schedule above referred to.

I.—That the said property shall be vested in the said Treasurer subject to the patni or permanent lease, dated the 16th day of April 1896, from the said Magistrate of Dinajpur to the donor, reserving a fixed annual clear net rental of Rs. 62½ free of all charges, revenue and taxes, and exclusive of all costs without increase or decrease, such rent to be paid at all times by the donor, his heirs and representatives, and that in addition to the provisions contained in the kabuliyat from the said Rai Setab Chand Nahar Bahadur, the donor, as patnidar and permanent lease-holder to the same Magistrate of Dinajpur, dated the 16th day of April 1896 (which kabuliyat is hereby declared to be vested henceforth in the said Treasurer), the said Treasurer shall be vested with all the powers contained in Regulation VIII of 1819, and that the said donor, his heirs, executors and administrators, shall continue to remain as patnidar in possession of the said property, under the Treasurer as the zamindar of the said property, and shall pay all charges, revenue, taxes and costs of every nature in respect of the said property.

II.—That the appointment and removal of the medical officer in charge of the said dispensary shall be with the said donor, Rai Setab Chand Nahar Bahadur, his heirs and representatives, and that the medical officer in charge of the aforesaid dispensary shall also have to attend all patients in the annual mela, held at the said Setabganj alias Bochaganj, every year in the Bengali month of Chaitra, without any extra charge or any allowance or remuneration, whether the patients of the mela come to the dispensary or not.

That if the said donor or his heirs and representatives fail to appoint a qualified medical officer within one month on the occurrence of a vacancy in the post of medical officer in charge of the dispensary, the Committee hereinafter mentioned shall have power to make the appointment.

III.—That the said fixed annual rental of Rs. 624 be applied for the permanent maintenance of the dispensary at Setabganj alias Bochaganj, known as the "Lady Mackenzie Setabganj Charitable Dispensary."

IV.—That subject to the above reservations, the supervision, management and control of the said dispensary shall be in the hands of a Committee of three persons, of whom the District Magistrate for the time being of Dinajpur shall be the President, the Civil Surgeon or the Civil Medical Officer, as the case may be, of Dinajpur for the time being, a member, and a member or nominee of the donor's family, the Secretary.

V.—That such Committee may meet together for the despatch of business, adjourn and otherwise regulate their meetings as they shall think fit, but they shall at all times conform to, and abide by, any rules relating to the administration of endowments under the said Charitable Endowments Act, 1890, which the Governor-General in Council, in exercise of the powers conferred by section 13 of that Act, may from time to time see fit to make.

VI.—That such Committee shall, in books to be kept by them, regularly enter, or cause to be entered, full and true accounts of all moneys received and paid respectively on account of the trusts of the said endowment, and shall from time to time submit to such public servant as the Local Government may from time to time appoint in this behalf, in such form and at such times as the said Local Government may from time to time prescribe, an abstract of such accounts and such returns as to other matters relating to administration of the trust as the said Local Government may from time to time see fit to require.

MARINE DEPARTMENT.

The 14th May 1898.

No. 76 Marine.—The following communication, dated the 10th May 1898, from the Consul for the Netherlands, relative to the imposition of quarantine restrictions by the Netherlands-Indian Government against vessels arriving from Calcutta is published for general information.

A. D. MCARTHUR, Col., R.E.,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

Copy of a letter No. 711, dated 10th May 1898, from the Consul for the Netherlands at Calcutta to the Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

I HAVE the honour to inform you that the Netherlands-Indian Government have declared Calcutta infected with plague from the 16th April last.

Vessels arriving from, or having touched at, Calcutta have to undergo nine days' quarantine since their departure from that port or the recovery or death of the last plague case on board.

The importation in Netherlands-India from Calcutta of butter and victuals in general is temporarily prohibited, also the importation of rags, raw wool, hair, hides and furriery, coming from, or having been transhipped at, Calcutta.

The 16th May 1898.

No. 77 Marine.—The following rules for quarantine against plague passed by the Durbar of Travancore are published for general information.

A. D. McARTHUR, Col., R.E.,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

RULES FOR QUARANTINE AGAINST PLAGUE PASSED UNDER SECTION 2 OF REGULATION II OF 1073.

THESE rules shall come into force at once in all the ports of the Travancore State, and shall cancel all previous rules on the subject.

2. In these rules (1) "Vessel" includes anything made for the conveyance by water of human beings or of property.

(2) "Port Officer" includes any person acting under the authority of Government in charge of Port discipline.

(3 "Master," when used in relation to any vessel, means any person (except a pilot or harbour master) having for the time being the charge or control of the vessel.

(4) "Sanitary authority" means the Division Peishcar or the President of every Town Improvement Committee, the area under whose jurisdiction includes or abuts on any part of a customs port; and the jurisdiction of every Sanitary authority shall, for the purposes of these rules, extend to seaward for a distance of three miles beyond low-water mark on all parts of the coast-line bounding the area ordinarily under its jurisdiction.

(5) "Port Health Officer" includes any duly qualified medical practitioner appointed by Government to act in the execution of these rules.

(6) "Observation" means segregation either on board a vessel, or in an isolation camp or place.

(7) "Surveillance" means that the persons subjected to it will not be isolated; they will at once obtain free pratique, but will be kept under medical supervision.

(8) "Infected," used with reference to a vessel, denotes any vessel with plague on board, or on board which one or more cases have taken place within twelve days.

(9) "Suspected," used with reference to a vessel, denotes any vessel on board which there has been a case of plague at the time of departure, or during the voyage, but on which no fresh case has occurred for twelve days.

(10) "Healthy," used with reference to a vessel, denotes any vessel which has come from, or which during the voyage has touched at, an infected port, but which has had no death, or case of plague on board, either before departure, during the voyage or on arrival.

3. The master of every "infected," "suspected," or "healthy" vessel shall, when within three miles of the coast of any part of Travancore, cause to be hoisted at the foremast head the Commercial Code flag Q, being a yellow flag, and shall keep the same displayed during the whole time between sunrise and sunset. If any person on board such vessel be at the time suffering, or suspected to be suffering, from the plague, the master shall also hoist the Commercial Code flag R below the yellow flag Q. Any such vessel arriving at a port after dark shall hoist on coming to an anchor one white light at the foremast head and one red light at the mainmast head.

4. The master of any such vessel shall, before arriving at an anchorage, pump out the bilge water, if possible after disinfection, and pass fresh sea-water over the parts that have been in contact with the bilge water. The bilge water shall not be discharged within port limits.

5 The Port Officer, on the arrival of any vessel displaying the flag or flags or light or lights aforesaid, or if he ascertains from the master of such vessel, or otherwise has reason to believe, that the vessel is infected, suspected or healthy from an infected port, shall detain such vessel, or order the master forthwith to moor or anchor the same in such place as may be fixed by him, and the master shall moor or anchor accordingly. Provided that in the case of any ship which has not communicated with the shore, the master, if he objects to submit to the obligations imposed by these rules, shall be free to put back to sea. In such case the Port Officer shall send immediate information to the Sanitary authorities of the port.

6. While a vessel shall be so detained, no person shall leave the same.

7. The Port Officer, on the approach to the port of any vessel displaying the flag or flags or light or lights aforesaid, or on his detaining any vessel as aforesaid, shall forthwith give notice thereof and of the cause of such detention to the Sanitary authority of the port, and also to the Port Health Officer.

8. The detention by the Port Officer of a vessel under rule 5 shall cease as soon as the vessel shall have been, as hereinafter provided, duly visited and examined by the Port Health Officer, or if the vessel shall, upon such examination, be found to be infected or suspected, as soon as the same shall be moored or anchored in persuance of Rules 9 and 13.

9. The Sanitary authority shall, as speedily as practicable, with the approval of the Port Officer, fix some place where vessels may be moored or anchored for the purpose of Rule 13; and shall make provision for the reception of plague patients and other persons removed from vessels under these rules. The place to be fixed as aforesaid, where any vessel may be moored or anchored for the purpose of Rule 13, shall be some place within the jurisdiction of the Sanitary authority, unless Government otherwise orders, in which case the place so fixed shall, for the purposes of these rules, be deemed to be within such jurisdiction.

10. On receiving the notice prescribed by Rule 7, the Port Health Officer shall forthwith visit and examine the vessel in regard to which such notice shall have been given, for the purpose of ascertaining whether she is infected, suspected or healthy. He shall also do so if he have reason to believe that any vessel which has arrived or is within the jurisdiction of the Sanitary authority, whether detained by the Port Officer or not, is infected or suspected or has come from or touched at a port where plague prevails. The master of such vessel shall permit it to be so visited and examined, and shall afford all reasonable facilities for such examination as the Port Health Officer may deem requisite.

11. For the purpose of ascertaining the state of the vessel as aforesaid, the Port Health Officer may demand from the doctor of the ship or, failing him, from the master a declaration on oath whether there has been or has not been a case of plague on the ship since her departure, or whether any person suffering, or suspected to be suffering, from the plague has left or been removed from the vessel prior to or during the voyage, and all particulars relative to any such circumstance; and the doctor or the master, as the case may be, shall be bound to make a true declaration to the best of his knowledge and belief.

12. When the Port Health Officer has made such examination as aforesaid, he shall forthwith give a certificate in duplicate in the following form, or to the like effect, and shall deliver one copy to the master, and transmit the other to the Sanitary authority. He shall also, if the vessel is infected or suspected, give immediate information of the fact to the Sanitary Commissioner.

CERTIFICATE.

day of 189

I hereby certify that I have examined the vessel , of , now lying in the port of or detained at and that I find that she is—

(a) "infected" with plague,
(b "suspected" or
(c) "healthy" from an infected port (as the case may be).

(signed)

Port Health Officer.

13. The master of any vessel certified by the Port Health Officer to be infected or suspected shall thereupon moor or anchor her, if he has not already done so, at the place fixed for that purpose under Rule 9, where she shall remain until the requirements of these rules have been duly fulfilled, and from which she shall not depart without the written or, where communication with the vessel is impracticable owing to stress of weather, the signalled permission of the Port Health Officer.

14. No person shall leave any such vessel until the examination herein after prescribed shall have been made.

15. (1) The Port Health Officer shall, as soon as possible after a vessel has been certified as infected, suspected, or healthy, examine every person on board the same.

(2) If any person on board any such vessel is found to be suffering from plague, or from any illness which, the Port Health Officer suspects, may prove to be plague, the Port Health Officer shall certify accordingly. Every person who shall be so certified by him shall, if possible, be immediately disembarked, and shall be detained for treatment in a suitable hospital or ward or isolation camp or other place.

(3) If the vessel is certified to be infected, all persons on board shall be kept under observation or surveillance, as the Port Health Officer may determine, and shall, if possible, be disembarked for the purpose.

(4) All persons kept under observation, whether on shore or board the vessel, shall be detained for such period as the Port Health Officer shall prescribe with regard to the sanitary condition of the vessel and the date of the last case of plague which has occurred among the crew or passengers, but which shall not exceed ten days from the date of the occurrence of the last case of plague which has occurred on board, or which may subsequently occur among the persons detained in such camp or place as the Sanitary authority shall have appointed for the purpose of their detention or on board the vessel, after which they shall, if certified by the senior Medical Officer present at the station to be free from the infection of plague, be permitted to proceed to their destination.

(5) If the vessel is certified to be suspected or healthy, all persons one board who may disembark shall be subjected to surveillance either at the Port or at their destination as the Sanitary authority may direct, in the case of a suspected vessel for a period of ten days from the date of the arrival of the vessel in port, and in the case of a healthy vessel for the period necessary to complete a term of 10 days from the date of the vessel's departure from the infected port last visited. In either case the Port Health Officer may place under observation, instead of surveillance, for a term not exceeding 10 days from such vessel's arrival at the port any person whom he may consider to be in any way likely to carry the infection of the plague.

16. A clean bill of health shall not be granted to an infected vessel until all the conditions prescribed in these rules have been complied with, nor until ten days have elapsed from the date of the last case of plague which has occurred on board; nor, if the person attacked has been treated on board, until ten days from the death or recovery of such person.

17. In the case of a vessel certified to be suspected or healthy, a clean bill of health shall be given, provided the requirements of these rules have been complied with, and if ten days have elapsed since the vessel's departure from the infected port last visited. If ten days have not elapsed, the vessel may be detained in quarantine at the discretion of the Port Health Officer for the time necessary to complete the period of ten days, the crew and passengers being placed during such period under surveillance.

18. No port clearance shall be granted to any vessel which has been subjected to these rules, unless with the written concurrence of the Port Health Officer.

19. No person detained for treatment or placed under observation shall leave the camp or place or vessel in which he is detained, under treatment or observation, until the senior Medical Officer at the station shall have certified that such person is free from the infection of the plague.

20. Every person placed under surveillance shall present himself for examination by the Medical Officer appointed by Government for this purpose at such times and places as such Medical Officer may direct.

21. If any person suffering from plague or from any illness which, the Port Health Officer suspects, may prove to be plague, cannot be disembarked under Rule 15, he may be detained on board the vessel, which shall remain subject, for the purpose of this rule, to the control of the Port Health Officer. Such person shall not be removed from or leave the vessel, except with the consent, in writing, of the Port Health Officer; and, if the illness from which such person suffered is, or proves to be, plague, the vessel shall be treated as an infected vessel.

22. Any person detained under observation or placed under surveillance, who is certified by the Port Health Officer or by the senior Medical Officer present at the station acting under Rule 10 to be suffering from plague, or from any illness which such officer suspects may prove to be plague, may be taken to such hospital or ward or observation camp or other suitable place as may be appointed for that purpose by the Sanitary authority of the port or place and detained there until his recovery, or for such period, not exceeding ten days, as may be necessary for ascertaining whether his illness is or is not plague. The said person shall be bound to remain in the place where he is detained and to follow such instructions as the Sanitary authority may prescribe.

23. The Port Health Officer shall, in the case of every vessel certified to be infected or suspected, give directions for the disinfection of all parts of the vessel which have been inhabited by plague patients; and he may also give such other directions for the more thorough disinfection of the vessel as may appear to him to be necessary for preventing the spread of infection. The master of the said vessel shall forthwith carry into execution all such directions.

24. In the event of any death from plague on board such vessel while detained under these rules, the master shall, as directed by the Sanitary authority, or the Port Health Officer, either cause the dead body to be taken out to sea and committed to the deep properly loaded to prevent its rising, or shall deliver it into the charge of the Sanitary authority or the Port Health Officer for disposal, if the former procedure be not in accordance with caste or race customs.

25. The master shall cause to be destroyed any articles on board his vessel that may have been soiled with plague discharges, and he shall also cause to be disinfected or destroyed the clothing and bedding, and other articles of personal use likely to retain infection, which are on board his vessel and which have been used by any person who has suffered from plague on board such vessel, or who, having left such vessel, shall have suffered from plague during the stay of any such vessel in the port. If the master shall have neglected to do so or have done so ineffectually before the vessel arrives in port, he shall forthwith, upon the direction of the Sanitary authority or the Port Health Officer, cause the same to be disinfected or destroyed to the satisfaction of that authority, and in accordance with the instructions as to disinfection that may be laid down for guidance. If the said master neglect to comply with any such directions within a reasonable time, the Sanitary authority or the Port Health Officer shall cause the same to be carried into execution at the expense of the said vessel.

26. Provided facilities exist for obtaining suitable water in the port, the master shall, on the direction of Port Health Officer, cause all tanks in an infected or suspected vessel to be completely emptied and cleaned and disinfected in such manner as the Port Health Officer may direct and fresh water to be taken in. The Port Health Officer may also, if he thinks necessary, give like directions in the case of a healthy vessel. The master of the vessel shall forthwith carry any such direction into execution.

27. Any mails or cargo which may be brought by any vessel subject to these rules may be landed under such precautions as the Port Health Officer may deem necessary to prevent the spread of the disease.

28. It will be the duty of the Port Officer to facilitate the conveyance to all vessels detained under these rules of such supplies of provisions, stores or other articles as may be required by those on board. Such supplies will be placed on the boats of the vessel, to be subsequently removed by the crew.

29. Any person disobeying or contravening any of the foregoing rules shall be deemed to have committed an offence punishable under section 188 of the Indian Penal Code, and shall be liable, on conviction, to be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to six months, or with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees or with both.

Advertisement of Sale.

NOTICE is hereby given that the proprietary right of Government, as specified in the conditions of sale below, to the undermentioned estate, situate in the district of Bankura, will be put up to sale on the spot at chak Sukur on the 30th May 1898, corresponding with the 17th Joiata 1305 B.S.

The purchaser will be subject to the following conditions of sale :—

Conditions of Sale.

1st.—The estate to be sold to the highest bidder above the upset price. The purchaser of this estate will be considered as the proprietor of the estate, and the entire proprietary right of Government in such estate will be transferred to him, subject to the revenue fixed in perpetuity.

2nd.—The sale subject to existing leases and to the rights conferred by the settlement proceedings and by the laws in force, and the purchaser to be bound to respect the rights of resident cultivators who have signed the schedule of assessment prepared by the revenue authorities.

3rd.—If the amount of purchase-money do not exceed Rs. 100, the whole amount to be paid down at once.

4th.—If the amount of purchase-money exceed Rs. 100, one-fourth of the amount bid to be immediately deposited. If the balance be not paid by noon of the fifteenth day after the sale, reckoning the day of sale as one, or, if that day be a close holiday, then by noon of the first succeeding office day, the sale is to be cancelled (the sum deposited being forfeited to Government), and the estate to be again put up to sale at the risk of the defaulting purchaser, after issue of advertisement, as in the case of original sale.

The Indian Law Reports.

Published under Authority.

THE Indian Law Reports, published under the authority of the Governor-General in Council, appear in monthly parts, published as soon as possible after the first of each month at Calcutta, Madras, Bombay, and Allahabad, and comprise four series—one for the Calcutta High Court, a second for the Madras High Court, a third for the Bombay High Court, and a fourth for the Allahabad High Court. The cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from each High Court are reported in the Series for that High Court. Cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from Provinces in India not subject to any High Court are reported in the Calcutta Series.

The Calcutta Series is distributed by the Bengal Secretariat Book Depôt, and the Madras, Bombay, and Allahabad Series are distributed direct from Madras, Bombay, and Allahabad respectively.

In supersession of the previous advertisements, on and from the 1st January 1889 the terms of subscription and sale will be as follows for current issues as well as for back numbers of the Reports from 1876 :—

Terms of subscription payable annually in advance.

INDIA—BAY OF BENGAL.

Non-existence of rock N.-W. of Table island.

THE Bombay Government has given notice (No. 42 of 1898) that a careful search has been made by the Indian Marine Survey under exceptionally favourable circumstances for the rock two miles N.W. of Table Island, on which the S.S. Medusa is reported to have struck, without success It is therefore considered probable the Master of the Medusa under-estimated his distance from the light-house

The Light-house Keeper reports that ships constantly pass close to the rocks with three fathoms on them lying twelve cables N.W. of the light-house, shown on Admiralty Chart

No. 825. Vessels are hereby cautioned to keep well to the northward of Table Island, as the tides in this locality are strong and often set on to the rocks.

From the wreck the light-house bears N. 28 W. (true), distant 9½ cables, and shows signs of rapidly breaking up.

CHINA—HWANG HAI.

Decreased depths eastward of Ta sha or Great sand.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 191 of 1898) that information has been received that the Captain of the Imperial German cruiser Kaiserin Augusta reports that eastward of the Ta sha or Great sand, in approximately lat. 34° N., long. 122° 17′ E., soundings of 7¼ to 9 fathoms were obtained.

A note "7 to 9 fathoms reported, 1898" has been placed on the Charts in that position.

Also, that on the western side of the Hwang hai or Yellow sea, between the entrance of the Yang tse kiang and Kyau chau bay, the depths, already given as shallow, are generally less than those shown on the Charts.

BAY OF BENGAL—NICOBAR ISLANDS.

Dangers near Kamorta and Great Nicobar islands.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 197 of 1898) that information has been received, dated 9th February 1898, that the Commander of the R.I.M. steam-vessel Elphinstone reports the existence of the undermentioned dangers in the Nicobar islands:—

1. A sunken rock, with a depth of one fathom on it at low water, situated on the west coast of Kamorta in a position with summit (485), east side of Kamorta, bearing N. 75° E., distant 3¼ miles; and mount Edgcumbe (360) S. 40° E.

   Approximate position, lat. 8° 6′ 45″ N., long. 93° 26′ 10″ E.

   A depth of 14 fathoms was found between this rock and the entrance of Dring harbour, and as there may possibly be less water, breakers having been reported in that locality, the words "Breakers reported" have been written on the Chart between the above rock and Dring harbour.

2. A shoal, with a depth of 2½ fathoms on it, apparently not examined, situated in Kondul harbour, north coast of Great Nicobar, in a position with summit of Kondul island (400), bearing N. 35° W., distant 1$\frac{1}{10}$ miles; and village on east side of harbour N. 71° E.

   Approximate position, lat. 7° 11′ 45″ N., long. 93° 42′ 35″ E.

3. A patch of small extent, with a least depth of 4½ fathoms obtained on it, but possibly there may be less water, situated on the west side of Great Nicobar, in a position with the south-west extreme of the western point of Casuarina bay, bearing N. 30° W., distant 2¾ miles; and Kopenheat point S. 83° E.

   Approximate position, lat. 6° 58′ N., long. 93° 40′ 15″ E.

Breach at East Point Spit beaconed and lighted.

THE Port Master, Brisbane, has given notice (No. 8 of 1898) that the breach made by the Pioneer river through East Point Spit is beaconed and lighted for use, the old entrance being no longer marked.

Directions.—The Fairway buoy is placed in 3 fathoms off the edge of shoal water, and lies with Slade Islet bearing north and Flat Top bearing S.E., distant 5 cables. It may be passed on either side bringing two white beacons in line bearing W. ½ S. and pass a red buoy to starboard, and between red and black buoys marking the gap in the stone wall through which the breach occurred; then haul up sharp and steer for Mt. Bassett, bringing two white leading beacons in line ahead bearing N.W. by N. ½ N. until two white beacons on East Point come in line astern leading on a N.W. by W. ½ W. course, then proceed as before.

These beacons are lighted at night.

CHINA SEA—PESCADORES ISLANDS.

(1) Sunken rock north-eastward of Ragged island.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 179 of 1898) that a sunken rock, on which the sea breaks, is reported to exist in a position with Ragged island bearing S.W. ½ S., distant 4¼ cables; and south extreme of Organ island W. ¾ N.

Approximate position, lat. 23° 36′ 30″ N., long. 119° 41′ 45″ E.

The symbol for a rock with less than 6 feet water on it, with the word "breaks" written against it, has been placed on the Admiralty Chart in the above position.

Also, that the sunken rock, shown on the chart nearly a mile, north-eastward, from Organ island, extends about a quarter of a mile north and south.

(2) Rocks northward of North rocks.

Also, that the undermentioned rocks exist northward of North rocks:—

(a) Niyake sho, a sunken rock, on which the steam-vessel Nara maru was wrecked in 1897, is situated about a mile northward of North rocks, in approximately lat. 23° 48′ 0″ N., long. 119° 34′ 50″ E.

(c) Oyake sho, a rock above water, in approximately lat. 23° 48′ 10″ N., long. 119° 34′ 20″ E.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL MARINE DEPARTMENT.

NOTICE TO MARINERS—No. 108.

[Third Publication.]

BAY OF BENGAL—AND ARABIAN SEA.

Alterations in storm signals at ports of India.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 182 of 1898) that the undermentioned system of storm signals is being adopted for all the ports of India, with the exception of those in the river Hooghly, and with that exception the previous systems have been discontinued:—

DAY SIGNALS.

1. CAUTIONARY.—BAY OF BENGAL.—The square flag W of the International Code, hoisted at the storm signal staff, indicates the existence of disturbed squally weather in the Bay of Bengal, which may be the first stage in the formation of a cyclonic storm, and which, if it develops, is likely to affect that part of the coast on which the port, where the signal is shown, is situated.

ARABIAN SEA.—The square flag W of the International Code, hoisted at the storm signal staff, indicates the existence of disturbed weather off the west coast of India near the port or ports where the signal is shown; or the advance of a cyclonic storm across Hindustan from the Bay of Bengal, which may shortly give squally or stormy weather in the Arabian sea.

In either of the above cases if the disturbed conditions pass away without producing stormy weather, the cautionary signal is hauled down; but if the disturbed weather will probably develop into a cyclone, signals indicating the probable position, character, and track of the approaching storm are shown as follows.

2. WARNING SIGNAL.—A ball indicates that a cyclonic storm has formed, which will probably reach the port where the signal is shown, but is still at a considerable distance from it.

The same signal will also be shown at more important ports on the west coast of India, to indicate that a storm has formed in the Arabian sea at some distance from the coast and will shortly cross one or other of the track of vessels leaving those ports, but will not reach such ports. The Port officer will receive details to communicate to vessels leaving the port.

3. DANGER SIGNALS.—(a) A cone, apex downwards, indicates that a cyclonic storm, probably slight to moderate, is affecting the port, and that its centre will probably cross the coast considerably to the southward.

(b) A cone, apex upwards, indicates that the centre of such a storm, as above (3 a), will probably cross the coast considerably to the northward.

(c) A drum indicates that the centre of such a storm as above (3 a) will probably cross the coast over or near the port.

4. GREAT DANGER SIGNALS.—(a) A cone, apex downwards, over a ball, indicates that a cyclonic storm of great intensity is affecting the port and that its centre will probably cross the coast considerably to the southward.

(b) A cone, apex upwards, over a ball, indicates that the centre of such a storm as above (4 a) will probably cross the coast considerably to the northward.

(c) A drum, over a ball, indicates that the centre of such a storm as above (4 a) will probably cross the coast over or near the port.

NIGHT SIGNALS.

1. No cautionary signals are shown at night.

2. A red light indicates similarly to warning signal (2) above.

3. (a) A red light placed vertically over a white light indicates similarly to danger signal 3 a above.

(b) A white light placed vertically over a red light indicates similarly to danger signal 3 b above.

(c) Two red lights, placed vertically, indicate similarly to danger signal 3 c above.

4. (a) Two red lights placed vertically over a white light indicate similarly to great danger signal 4 a above.

(b) A white light over two red lights placed vertically, indicates similarly to great danger signal 4 b above.

(c) Three red lights, placed vertically indicate similarly to great danger signal 4 c above.

POLLUTION OF THE RIVER HOOGHLY.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked—

I have the honour to call attention to a question which I asked in Council on the 7th August last, regarding the pollution of the river Hooghly by the discharge into it of the sewage of mills on both banks of the river, and specially the pollution of the river caused by the new mill at Titagarh. The Chief Secretary, the Hon'ble Mr. Bolton, said in reply to the first part of the question that the matter has not escaped attention and is still under the consideration of the Sanitary Commissioner. With regard to the second part of my question, the Chief Secretary observed that the Sanitary Commissioner would be asked to enquire into the matter. Will the Government be pleased to state the result of the enquiries made with regard to both branches of the question?

The Hon'ble MR. RISLEY replied:—

"Owing to the heavy demands on the medical service in Bengal, arising from the deputation of a number of officers to active military service and to plague duty, it has been impossible as yet to undertake the inquiry into the alleged pollution of the Hooghly by the drainage from mills and factories, which was referred to in the Hon'ble Mr. Bolton's reply given in Council on the 7th August, 1897. It was stated in that reply that the case of the new mill at Titagarh would be dealt with in connexion with the general question."

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT said:—"I may add to this reply that I have had an opportunity of hearing something about the pollution of the river at this particular point of its course, and the Hon'ble Member has my assurance that the matter will be enquired into and reported upon with the least possible delay."

PLATFORM AT SEORAPHULI (EAST INDIAN RAILWAY).

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked—

I have the honour to call attention to a question which I asked in Council on the 7th August, 1897, in which I referred to the condition of the platform at the Seoraphuli station. In reply, the Hon'ble Mr. Bolton laid on the table a letter addressed to the Government by the Agent to the East Indian Railway Company—Colonel Gardiner—in which he said that he was of opinion that Seoraphuli had a claim to a high-level platform, and that he would recommend the same to the Board for sanction. This letter is dated the 22nd April, 1897. Will the Government be pleased to state what action, if any, has been taken to raise the Seoraphuli platform, the low level of which is a source of serious inconvenience to passengers, specially Hindu ladies; and if no action has been taken, what is the earliest date when action may be expected to be taken?

The Hon'ble MR. BUCKLEY replied:—

"The reply received from the Agent of the East Indian Railway to the communication addressed to him by this Government shows that the work of raising the platform of the Sheoraphuli station, East Indian Railway, has been started and was stopped for a day or two during the late rush of traffic to Tarkessur, but has again been re-started."

PLAGUE INSPECTOR OF DACCA.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked—

(a) Will the Government be pleased (1) to give the name of the gentleman who has been appointed Plague Inspector of Dacca by the Magistrate of Dacca; (2) his qualifications, medical, sanitary or engineering, if any; (3) and the pay of the post?

(b) Is it the case that the Magistrate has compelled the Commissioners of Dacca and, despite their protest, to dispense with the services of the Engineer-Secretary, the Chairman being told that he would be held personally responsible for his pay if the Engineer-Secretary was not at once removed? Will the Government be pleased to lay on the table the correspondence on the subject?

The Hon'ble MR. RISLEY replied:—

"The Government has no information on the matters referred to in the question except as to the name of the Plague Inspector. He is a Mr. Connan and was employed as Famine Superintendent at Muzaffarpur. The Commissioner of the Dacca Division will be asked to report the facts."

RETIRING BONUS TO MR. BUSKIN, MANAGER OF THE HATWA RAJ.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked—

Will the Government be pleased to state whether there is any truth in the announcement made by the Behar Herald that Mr. Buskin, the Manager of the Hatwa Raj, who is now about to retire from the management, is to receive "a bonus of Rs. 67,000 for long and meritorious service." If so, will the Government kindly state the nature of the meritorious services, and whether there was anything specially marked in them to call for this munificent recognition?

The Hon'ble MR. FINUCANE replied:—

"MR. BUSKIN served the late Maharajah of Hatwa for 30 years as Manager, Assistant Manager, and in other capacities. He was the Maharajah's confidential friend and adviser, and highly esteemed by him. It is the custom of the Raj to give pensions to old servants on their retirement, and it is reported that the late Maharajah wished to give Mr. Buskin a liberal pension. The Maharani has since the Maharajah's death pressed on the Court of Wards the propriety of giving Mr. Buskin a pension of Rs. 600, and also of leasing him a Raj Indigo Factory on favourable terms. The Court of Wards agreed to the pension, but refused to lease the factory. Mr. Buskin has been allowed to commute the pension into a lump sum according to the rules of Government service for commutation of pensions. The value of the pension according to the rules is approximately Rs. 67,000.

"The Maharani has expressed her regret and disappointment that a more liberal reward for his services has not been given to Mr. Buskin."

BENGAL FINANCIAL STATEMENT FOR 1898-99.

The Hon'ble MR. RISLEY moved for the discussion of the Bengal Financial Statement for 1898-99.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE said:—"It was impossible for the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Financial Department to present what is called a prosperity budget at a season like the present when the country is just emerging from the direful visitation of a great famine and of a great earthquake, with the prospect of the plague looming in the near future. These disasters have left their impress upon the financial situation of the country. The financial situation is always an index to the prosperity, or otherwise of the country. It is an infallible barometer of the national condition. I need only remind the Council of the weighty words of John Bright, one of England's greatest orators and statesmen. He said, "Tell me what the financial condition of a country is, and I will tell you all about the position of the Government and the prospects of the people." Judging by this standard we have no reason to congratulate ourselves on the present occasion, but I do not mean to throw any blame on the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Financial Department. I blame nobody. I cordially acknowledge the fact that the Hon'ble Member has done his best under the adverse circumstances in which he found himself placed, and that he has ably safeguarded our financial interests. The Financial Statement which is before the Council gives us the actuals for 1896-97, the revised estimates for 1897-98, and the budget estimates for 1898-99. I regard the revised estimates for 1897-98 as the most important of these. The actuals for 1896-97 may be regarded by some as ancient history, and as important only in their bearing on the revised estimates for 1897-98; and the budget estimates for 1898-99 represent merely a forecast which, no doubt, has been prepared with considerable care and forethought, but which may be upset by eventualities which the wisest may not be able to anticipate. It was estimated that the closing balance for 1897-98 would be ten lakhs of rupees; the closing balance, however, was only five lakhs. The orders of the Secretary of State are that the working balance of this Administration should be at least 20 lakhs. That order is a wise and statesmanlike order, and, having regard to the financial position of this province, namely, that we have to deal with an annual revenue and expenditure of five crores, I do not think that a working balance of 20 lakhs is at all too much. That balance has now dwindled down to five lakhs. If you refer to the actuals of 1896-97, you will find that the working balance for that year was about 39 lakhs, and there have been times when the balance was even higher than that. Therefore, we are confronted with a situation in which, under the orders of the Secretary of State, the working balance should be 20 lakhs, which was estimated at ten lakhs but which has now dwindled down to five lakhs. My Hon'ble friend has given an explanation of this in the admirable note which is appended to the Financial Statement. That explanation is complete as far as it goes. It is this;—It was expected that local funds would contribute a sum of eight lakhs towards famine expenditure; the local funds were in a position to contribute only three lakhs towards famine relief; there was, therefore, a deficit of five lakhs, and, under the orders of the Imperial Government, that deficit was made good from the Provincial Fund. I hope I may be permitted to express my regret at that order. The Imperial Government is the custodian of the Famine Insurance Fund. It has made itself responsible in the eyes of the whole civilised world for the protection of human life and the mitigation of human suffering from the calamities of famine, and the responsibility, therefore, for famine relief devolves almost exclusively on the shoulders of the Imperial Government. I hope and trust that the Imperial Government will see its way to recoup us to the extent of the five lakhs of rupees which the Local Government has had to contribute on this account. My hon'ble friend makes a statement in this connection which is extremely innocent in its character. He says:—'The question as to what contribution can be demanded is under the consideration of superior authorities.' The demand is a demand upon the local bodies; the local bodies are hard pressed; they have not sufficient funds to meet their own local demands, and I feel this view will be endorsed by my hon'ble friend. They are not in a position to meet the strain which their own requirements put upon them, and to ask them to add to that and to contribute a sum of five lakhs to famine expenditure would involve a serious burden which I am afraid they will not be able to bear. I would ask my hon'ble friend to state the names of the districts which have been called upon to make this contribution, and the amount which they are required respectively to contribute.

"Coming to the side of the receipts, I find that, in 1897-98, there was an improvement to the extent of six lakhs of rupees. We might at the first blush be disposed to congratulate ourselves on the elasticity of our revenues, but, on looking into the matter a little closely, the illusion disappears into thin air. Out of the six lakhs, three lakhs represent collections from water-rates imposed upon raiyats for drawing water from the Sone Canal, and my hon'ble friend, with admirable candour, says that this large increase in the payment of the water-rate is due to the scarcity of water. Practically it comes to this, that you take three lakhs from the pockets of the agriculturist in the payment of water-rate and put the money into the pockets of the general tax-payer. I admit that you are quite within your rights in doing what you have done. The Sone Canal was excavated at the expense of the general tax-payers, and the Government has, therefore, the right of levying a water-rate for the benefit of the general tax-payer. But the community of Bengal is pre-eminently an agricultural community, and the well-being of the people depends upon the agriculture of the country; therefore the agricultural community should be treated with some consideration, and I submit that this increase in the receipts from water-rate is a matter which does not afford much room for satisfaction. Then, looking at the receipts from stamps, we have an increase of Rs. 1,30,000 under this head. My hon'ble friend says that this increase is due to an increase in the number of mortgages and the number of transfer deeds owing to the prevalence of high prices. However, the darkest cloud has its silver lining, and we find that the excise revenue has fallen off by a sum of three lakhs; but that does not represent a permanent improvement in the habits of the people: it represents their straitened circumstances. It points to the fact that they were not in a position to indulge in the luxury of liquor. Let us hope that those who through scarcity or otherwise abstained from intoxicating liquors for one season may from prudential considerations continue a habit which they found to be economical.

"Then we find on the expenditure side a sum of eight lakhs for famine purposes, and here I desire to congratulate the Government on the signal and pre-eminent success which has attended its efforts in this direction. And, speaking of famine operations and famine relief, it is impossible to refrain from referring to the kindly and practical manifestation of sympathy which the people of India received from the British public in the hour of their sorest need. It is sympathy such as this which is calculated to draw closer together the bonds of amity and good will which unite the two countries. It were much to be wished that the admirable suggestion of the Maharaja of Darbhanga had been adopted—a suggestion which was endorsed by the high authority of Sir Henry Fowler—that a grant should be made from the Imperial Exchequer for famine purposes. On the expenditure side I find also that a sum of 5 lakhs was expended as grain allowance to the menial servants of the Government, and I trust the day is not far distant when this sum will be found in the estimates as a permanent increase to the salaries of the menial and ministerial servants of the Government. They are the most poorly and inadequately paid servants the Government has in its employ. Their salaries were fixed as far back as the year 1865. In 1885 a Commission was appointed, of which Mr. Grimley and Rai Durgagati Banerjea were members, and they recommended an increase of salaries to the extent of 75 per cent. That recommendation has not yet been given effect to, but I hope that, with the advent of returning plenty and prosperity, your Honour will find it possible to do this act of long-deferred justice to this deserving class of public servants. I find that a sum of Rs. 6,23,000 which had been provided in the revised estimates for 1897-98 as a grant from the Government of India in respect of survey and settlement charges has been discontinued. I should like to know the reason why.

"Coming to the budget estimates for 1898-99, we find that an estimated increase of 13 lakhs is expected from the reassessment of the khas mahals. I look with some little apprehension at this increase of revenue, specially in view of the somewhat summary law which this Council passed the other day. I should like to know the entire sum which the Government derives as zamindar from the khas mahals, so that we may be able to judge of the percentage of the increase which is expected. I am quite sure that the Setttlement Officers of the Government will deal in a considerate manner with the raiyats. Then I find on the receipt side of the budget estimates for 1898-99 an increase of Rs. 70,000 under the head of Education and 'Schools—General.' I do not know what this means; but I hope it does not involve an increase in the fees to be levied in schools. Then, under the head of Excise, I find an increase of one lakh of rupees. This increase is connected with distilleries, and I should like to know how much of this increase is expected to be derived from outstills, how many outstills we had in 1896-97, how many in 1897-98, and how many are estimated for 1898-99; and what were the proceeds from these stills? We find that for 1898-99 the receipts from ferries show a falling off as compared with 1897-98. Does this mean that a larger sum has been made over from the proceeds of ferries to the local bodies? If so, I congratulate the Government on the result. The general practice is to make over one-half the proceeds of ferries to the local bodies. These receipts represent purely local funds, and it seems to me that local bodies would be enormously strengthened if the entire receipts could be made over to them. It would be a welcome addition to their straitened resources.

"Coming to the expenditure side, I find that there is an increase under the head of 'Forests,' and the explanation given is that this increase is due to vacancies in the appointments of Extra Assistant Conservators having been filled up. I should like to know how many Extra-Assistant Conservators you have, how many are natives of India, and how many Europeans and Eurasians? It seems to me that this is one of those Departments in which the children of the soil ought to be largely employed. There is one other observation I should like to make in this connection, namely, that there seems to be a very wide scope for the employment of educated natives in the higher appointments in connection with the minor Civil Services. It will be in the recollection of Hon'ble Members that there was a somewhat heated and animated discussion in this country in connection with the resolution of the House of Commons affirming the principle of simultaneous examinations for the Indian Civil Services. If you will look at the Blue Book which has been published, you will find that not a single Government—neither the Supreme Government nor any of the Local Governments—has said a word against the holding of simultaneous examinations in regard to the minor Civil Services. Therefore, as far as the wider employment of the people of the country in the higher appointments in the minor Civil Services is concerned, we are justified in making the inference that there is no objection on the part of the Government, at any rate there is no political reason against such employment. Then we find in the Budget that provision has been made for an Additional Commissioner. I should like to know why. We have been able to do with the present number of Commissioners; why then is another Commissioner wanted? The matter requires explanation. Then I find another item of increase on the expenditure side. It is a small item, but attention should be drawn to it. Under the head of victualling for officers and men afloat an increase has been found necessary. In 1896-97 the actual expenditure under this head was Rs. 18,000; in the revised estimates of 1897-98 it rose to Rs. 20,000, and the budget estimates for 1898-99 provide for Rs. 23,000. The expenditure seems to be increasing year by year; the attention of Government should, therefore, be drawn to this item. Then, with regard to some other Departments—there is a tendency to increase in the charges of superintendence. I desire to call attention to two such departments—the Excise and the Calcutta Customs Department. With regard to these, the Hon'ble Member explains that, as regards the Excise Department, the full establishment has been entertained and hence the increase, but I do not know why there should be any increase in the charge for superintendence in the Customs Department. Then, under the head of Law and Justice, the expenditure in 1898-99 is estimated at 98 lakhs, and the receipts from stamps 130 lakhs. There will, therefore, be a balance of about 30 lakhs I refer only to the share of these receipts to which we are entitled, and not that which belongs to the Imperial Government; and it appears that we have an enormous balance. I remember that last year Sir Thoby Prinsep said, from his place in Council, that, after all charges had been met in connection with the administration of justice, there was a clear balance of 13 or 14 lakhs. If there is that balance, or a balance of 30 lakhs as estimated for 1898-99, or whatever the balance may be, the first charge on that balance ought to be the strengthening of the judicial establishments. You cannot say that our judicial system is perfect. The Council and the Government must be aware of the infinite delays to which suitors are subjected from the paucity of judicial officers. It is notorious that you have not an adequate number of Munsifs to try petty civil cases, and I desire to know whether it is proposed to add to the number of Munsifs, and, further, whether it is proposed to provide house accommodation for Munsifs. I know and thankfully acknowledge that something has been done in this direction; but much more remains to be done, and, as long as I have the honour to be a Member of this Council, it will be my duty to press this matter upon the attention of the Government.

"Lastly, let me refer to the expenditure under the head of Education, which shows an increase of about one lakh; that is to say, the estimated expenditure is set down at 28 lakhs as against the revised estimate of 27 lakhs. But, notwithstanding the proposed increase, the charge for education per head of the population in India is about the lowest as compared with similar charges in other parts of Her Majesty's dominions. It has been remarked that the faculties of our countrymen are capable of the greatest possible development under education, and this splendid material is being wasted by inadequate provision being made to promote the education of the people. I should like to know how much of the increase in education charges is due to European education? In the explanatory note it is stated that provision is made for the encouragement of literature.

"I should like to know how much it is proposed to devote to this object. Then there is a considerable increase under the head of Inspection charges due to re-organisation. Here, again, I should like to know how much is due to increased salaries allowed to the native members of the Department and how much to Europeans? I find that there is a reduction in the fund for grants-in-aid and scholarship grants. This is a matter which deserves the careful scrutiny of the Government. I rejoice to find that strenuous efforts are being made to promote the cause of technical education. I am an advocate of high education, none the less I desire to congratulate the Government on its policy in this connection; for the objects of high education and of technical education are not antagonistic. They both minister to the same purpose, namely, the elevation of the people. But, unless you are prepared to open out careers to at least the most distinguished of the young men who avail themselves of technical education, you can hardly expect your philanthropic efforts to be successful. That was the policy of the distinguished men who were concerned in the opening of the Calcutta Medical College. Incentives were offered to induce young men to overcome their prejudices, and the results have been marvellous. It is necessary that this fact should be recognised. Men after all are dominated much more by material than by moral considerations and the practical administrator should not lose sight of this fact. I may mention that Professor J. C. Bose last year, while addressing a meeting of the Society of Arts in London, remarked that students trained in electricity in the Presidency College were fully qualified to fill some of the higher appointments in the Telegraph Department. [The Hon'ble Mr. Risley rising to order said:—"I think this is not relevant."] I am only illustrating my contention that it is useless to open technical schools unless you are in a position to offer suitable careers either independently or with the aid of the Government of India to at least the most distinguished students who are trained in those schools. My contention is that there are no suitable careers open to them, and that, unless there are, your schools will not be the flourishing institutions they ought to be. If these young men find that they have to starve, they will dissuade others from joining these institutions; and, on behalf of these young men I venture to make an earnest appeal to the Government to furnish them with suitable prospects, and I have not the slightest doubt that my appeal will not be made in vain."

The Hon'ble Babu Norendro Nath Sen said:—"There is very little to criticise in the Budget of figures presented to us, especially as the appropriations from Provincial income to Provincial and Imperial expenditure seem to have been made under the mandates of the Government of India. The Provincial Statement, Sir, is simplicity, itself as compared with the Imperial Statement, published last month. It does not contain much matter of a controversial character. There is one point, however, which is referred to in the present statement in more places than one, which, it is to be hoped, will receive the attention of the Government as bearing on the economic condition of the masses. In referring to the increased income from stamps and registration, the increase seems to be regarded as a satisfactory feature in the operations of the year, but seeing that the increase is reported, and correctly reported, as due to the large number of bonds, mortgages and deeds of sale registered owing to the prevailing scarcity, it is more than doubtful whether there is any reasonable ground for satisfaction or congratulation in any such contingency. The Bengal Government has lately published a comparison between the famine administration as it was in 1874-75 and as it has been in 1897-98, and, alluding to the money costs of the two periods, gave us to understand that the cost then was double of what it has been

now. Doubtless, the development of railways and irrigation accounts for a great part of this decrease on the present occasion, but the true test will be found in the staying power of the masses, as manifested in the stamps and registration income. Will the Government be good enough to satisfy the desire of the public for this knowledge?

"There is one other point which requires elucidation in the present accounts. In the expenditure table, the Forest and Registration Departments are said to cost 8⅓ and 4½ lakhs against incomes of 6¼ and 7¾ lakhs respectively. The assessed taxes were put down as costing only Rs. 91,000 against an income of over 24½ lakhs. Again, Provincial rates are a source of revenue to the extent of over 44½ lakhs, whereas the machinery employed for the collection of these rates is alleged to cost 74 lakhs. Doubtless, there must be some satisfactory explanation of these anomalies forthcoming; but it would be more satisfactory if the accounts were presented in a form which may be understood by the general public.

"As the Provincial Statement may be said to form in a manner only a part of the Imperial Budget, the recent debate on that Budget has covered most of the ground, as far as Bengal is concerned, which it was the intention and purport of some of us to traverse. One of our greatest grievances, if you, Sir, will allow me to say so, is in connection with the working of the subordinate Civil Courts. The subordinate judicial service, it is notorious, is insufficiently manned, its members are acknowledgedly under paid, and very badly housed, indeed. The ministerial officers in Bengal are also inadequately paid, and if irregularities, and even much worse things, result as a consequence, they follow as a matter of course. This subject, however, has been most ably and exhaustively dealt with by Sir Thoby Prinsep from his place in the Imperial Council, and he has scarcely left us room for criticism. But even if he had left room for further comment, this would hardly have been the time to press the matter, considering how the resources of the Government of Bengal have lately been put to the severest test by the extraordinary charges it has had to meet on account of the plague-scare, the famine, and the terrible earthquake of June last. I can only, therefore, express a hope that the Government will bear in mind the grievances of the members of the subordinate judicial service, and of the ministerial officers in Bengal—grievances which have been so often urged on its attention—and will take the earliest opportunity to apply the necessary remedy.

"Having regard to the special circumstances to which I have referred, the Bengal Financial Statement, so far as it goes, must be accepted as satisfactory. But we must look to our past experience. Any forecast which we may now make may belie us hereafter. Calamities, equal to those which we have just passed through, or of much greater magnitude, may overtake us at any moment, and upset our most hopeful calculations. We must, therefore, be very cautious, and not too sure or confident about the future. I have no desire to be a prophet of evil, but it is ever best to keep a large margin for probable and even possible evils or misfortunes.

"With your permission, Sir, I will now direct the attention of the Government to at least one subject of the gravest importance to the teeming millions of Bengal. It is said that the Government should make some provision for meeting the scarcity of drinking-water, especially in this hot season. It may be said on behalf of the Government, that the making of such provision lies well within the province of municipalities, zamindars and the Road-cess Department. This would be special pleading, and a beneficent Government should not shelter itself under such a plea. The Government ought not for a day longer to neglect this matter of supplying drinking-water to the people of the interior in these Provinces. We do not feel the want in Calcutta. Well-to-do municipalities in the mofassil may be able to raise large loans for water-works, but there are numerous places in Bengal which have not such financial resources. I do not mean it in any way as a reflection on the great British Government, but I may mention that in ancient times, it was the first duty of Hindu kings to supply wholesome drinking-water to his subjects, and this he had to do in discharge of a strict religious injunction. Water is the very life of the people. Would it, therefore, be too much for me to request the Government to set apart a sum for the purpose of supplying drinking-water to the people? I would go further, and ask the Government to hold out special inducements to zamindars and other well-to-do people to sink wells, dig tanks and re-excavate old tanks. If this be done, we shall be able to contribute much to the health of Bengal, and to keep out cholera and other epidemic diseases."

The Hon'ble BABU KALI CHARAN BANERJEE said:—"It is to be regretted, Sir, that in the Budget Statement an improvement in our agricultural prospects should have to be associated with an increase of the excise revenue. It has always appeared to me to be the duty of the Government to extricate the Hon'ble Member in charge of the finances from the awkward position of having to congratulate himself whenever in view of an improvement in the agricultural prospects, he can count upon an increase of the Excise Revenue, and of congratulating himself so far as to be unusually liberal in his appropriations to the Excise Department. As has been already pointed out, the full sanctioned scale of officers and establishment has this year been provided for under all the heads. Then, coming to the head of Education, it is a gratifying fact that provision has been made for increased expenditure the encouragement of literature and for the establishment of a new boarding school for girls. It is striking, however, that while there is to be an increase of expenditure under this head, the increase is not likely to give satisfaction. The test of a healthy increase of expenditure is that it results in giving satisfaction to those concerned. If we take, for example, the increased expenditure in connection with the reorganisation of the Educational Service, it is very striking that while the reorganisation of the Educational Service has led to an increase of expenditure, the new scheme has not satisfied the parties concerned. That there should be an increase of expenditure, and yet those immediately concerned should not be satisfied, seems to me to be anomalous. Then, again, the amount appropriated for grants-in-aid has been cut down; so that those educational institutions which have to depend on grants-in-aid from the Government, will have their grants from the Government reduced. They, therefore, cannot be satisfied. If the test to which I have referred is at all a proper test, increase of expenditure should secure the satisfaction of those who are affected by such increased expenditure; but we have here the phenomenon of an increase of expenditure without the satisfaction which ought normally to result from increase of expenditure. There is one other point under the head of Education to which I wish to refer, namely, that the increase of expenditure is attributed partly to the examination charges in connection with schools under the charge of European Inspectors. I do not know the details of those charges, but certainly a considerable proportion of those charges must be due to the fact that in connection with European schools, an examination has been started which is separate from the Matriculation examination of the University. Time was when there was only one examination for Bengali and for European schools. Whether this increase of expenditure on account of examination charges is chiefly due to there being a separate examination for European schools I do not know; but I think it is a matter for consideration whether there should be a separate examination for European schools."

The Hon'ble MR. BUCKLEY said:—"The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee has referred to the increase of three lakhs in the Irrigation revenue, and he said that it does not afford much room for satisfaction. I am quite sure that, if he was aware of all the circumstances connected with that increase of revenue, he would see reason to change his opinion. It is true we cannot show in these provinces financial results from irrigation works equal to those in the North-Western Provinces or in the Punjab. Our irrigation works are a considerable drain, in one sense, on the Provincial revenues, but, in another sense, I think the expenditure upon them is most fully justified. I speak from personal experience of the Sone Canal, which did its work in the past famine in a way which was, perhaps, hardly appreciated by the Government, although I am quite sure it was most thoroughly appreciated by the people. I understood the Hon'ble Member to say that these three lakhs were extracted from the pockets of those who paid the water-rates for the benefit of the general tax-payer. It is true that the rate-payers paid increased rents in 1896; but they paid them most readily, the actual collections were 99·6 per cent. of the current demand of the year. They were in fact very well off and they were happy. In 1873, during the last famine which occurred in these provinces, it was the policy of the Government to import large quantities of grain for the benefit of the people of Bihar. That policy has now been departed from. In 1873 160 lakhs of maunds of rice were carried into Bihar, a quantity which was far in excess of what was required. The Sone Canal in 1896-97 actually put into the hands of the people at least 45 or 50 lakhs of maunds of clean rice (not paddy) available for the use of the famine-stricken people of Bihar; that is to say there were 50 lakhs of maund of rice in the district which would not have existed had not the canal been there. Something approaching to one-third of the total quantity of grain which Sir Richard Temple with great labour imported in 1873. This is a point of some importance. Though the revenue which is obtained from the canal is not large, it is steadily though slowly increasing. The most important point, however, is that the people now thoroughly appreciate the benefits of the canal and ask for more water than can be given to them, and leases are now actually being refused. There is a small irrigation work constructed by a native gentleman in Champaran. It was my duty to ride about that district during the late famine, and I saw miles of rice crops where you would hardly gather a handful of rice from an acre. But under the protection of that little irrigation work the value of the rice crop which was saved by it was fully equal to the entire capital cost of that canal, if not more. It would have paid the people living near that canal to have constructed that work for that one season alone. The same is true to a considerable extent with regard to our large irrigation works. The rains failed to some extent in 1895, and again in 1896, and the crop saved in those two years by the action of the Sone Canal was estimated to be equal to about two-thirds the total cost of those works. In the famine year 1896, when all the irrigated fields were rich in grain, the people sold their crops to enormous advantage, two or three times over the value, in ordinary years, and they were rolling in wealth; they are happy and contented and paid their rates cheerfully."

The Hon'ble Mr. Finucane said:—"I will reply, as far as I can, to the questions which have been put in connection with the Departments with which I am associated; but, before I do so, I hope I may be permitted to congratulate the Council on the moderation of the Hon'ble Members who have criticised the budget. Those discussions directly led to nothing in particular, but they may indirectly result in considerable benefit in the way of enabling the Financial Member to justify the expenditure which has been incurred or which it is proposed to incur, and also in eliciting information which may clear away misunderstandings But if that is the object of this discussion, and if that object is to be attained, then it is at least desirable that Hon'ble Members should give notice to the Member of the Government in charge of the Department to which the questions appertain as to the points on which they desire information. There is scarcely a single subject of expenditure upon which some question has not been asked. For my part I have had no notice of the questions which have been referred to in respect of my Departments, and it is impossible to carry in one's head all the details which have been referred to and give the information wanted. (The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee:—"I gave notice to the Hon'ble the Financial Secretary.") I must, however, endeavour to answer as well as I can.

"With regard to the contributions of local bodies towards famine expenditure, there is some misunderstanding. The position is this: District Boards and Road-cess Committees have in ordinary years to spend some of their money upon the improvement of roads, tanks, &c.; when famine came these bodies were asked whether, instead of employing the District Engineers and their other establishments on these works and working by contractors, they would be willing to place their establishments at the disposal of the Government and to contribute to the Government for expenditure on roads, tanks, &c. the money they would have themselves have spent on these objects.

They agreed to do so. They agreed to contribute of their own free will, and the total amount that was thus agreed upon to be contributed was, I think, eight lakhs. It afterwards turned out that the famine had not made its appearance in certain districts in which it was at first thought famine would have been felt. Those districts were not asked to make good the estimated contributions, and the result is that only the districts in which famine was declared were ultimately asked to contribute, and the total amount to be paid thus became very much less than what was originally estimated. But even of that total amount the whole has not yet been paid, and the question now under consideration is whether the famine districts are able to pay the sums they promised. It has been said the responsibility for relieving famine is on the Government, and that they ought not to ask the District Boards to share the burden of it. The Government has not done so; they have simply asked for the funds which the District Boards would otherwise have themselves spent, and these funds have been spent on repairs and construction of roads just as they would have to be spent by the Boards themselves. I have been asked to name the districts from which these contributions have been promised; I cannot name them now one by one; they are simply the districts which were declared to be famine districts. From other districts nothing has been taken. Not only have the District Boards not been asked to share the burden of relieving distress, but on the contrary Government has carried out from Imperial and Provincial Funds—as famine works—numerous works which would in the course of time have to be executed by the District Boards, and in doing so has largely added to the supply of good drinking water to which reference has been made.

"Then my hon'ble friend has asked how much revenue the Government derives from the khas mahals. I cannot answer that straight off. The information is given in the published annual report of the Board of Revenue. I can only say that the increase of revenue which the Government has obtained from the khas mahals and from the resettlement of revenue in Orissa and elsewhere is so moderate that, as was pointed out the other day by Sir Alexander Mackenzie, the new rents have been settled and realised all over Bengal without any friction or difficulty, with an infinitesimally small number of appeals, and with the consent of all concerned. The number of tenants whose rents have been settled since the passing of the Tenancy Act has been at least double the total number of agricultural tenures in England, Scotland and Ireland put together. Yet no complaint was heard; everything went on smoothly, and that is a sufficient guarantee that the Government has been and is being moderate in its demands.

"Then as to the Education Department, it has been asked how much of the increased cost of the Education Department is due to the increase of pay of the different branches of the Education Service, and the question has been asked why is that the reorganisation scheme has not given satisfaction. The increased cost of the reorganisation of the three branches of the service is about Rs. 14,000 a month. The superior branch of the service, manned mainly by Europeans has had its cost reduced by about Rs. 10,000 a month, by some of the senior men of the Education Department retiring and their places not having been filled up by Europeans; and the whole of that saving and more has been devoted to the improvement of the prospects of the Provincial and Subordinate Education Department; so that the whole of the saving effected by reduction of the staff of the Superior or Imperial branch of the service has been devoted to the benefit of the men in the Provincial and Subordinate branches of the service which are manned chiefly by natives of India. Then it is said why has there not been satisfaction? The only answer I can give is that the gentlemen who are dissatisfied would like to have all the money that is being spent upon the Provincial and Subordinate Services given to them, and, in addition to that, they would like to have all the good things in the superior branch of the service too. But both the Government of India and the Secretary of State have held that it is necessary to have a certain number of Europeans in the higher branch of the service, and hence the dissatisfaction. Then my hon'ble friend has spoken of technical education. Part of the expenditure under this head is due to the opening of the Sibpur agricultural classes and of the Bengal Veterinary School. And my friend says that unless the Government provides employment for those who have been trained in these classes, the money spent on these technical schools will be wasted. The Government has done all that it can in providing such employment It has reserved appointments in the Subordinate Executive Service for the licentiates of the Agricultural School, and held out hopes of other suitable employment for them, and it gives preference to candidates from these schools. At the same time I am surprised to hear such a statement as that made by the Hon'ble Member. Are we to be told that in the matter of agriculture the people of this country will not enter schools provided specially for training in agriculture unless they are promised certain employment by Government, that zamindars and their sons have no interest in improving the agriculture of the country unless they are provided with Government appointments? [The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE—"I said the most distinguished of the students."] Similarly in the case of veterinary schools. If there is anything in which the people of the country should take interest, it is in matters of this kind, in the well-being and improvement of cattle and in agricultural improvement; and if we are to be told that nobody will take an interest in those schools unless those who enter them are provided with employment, then I can only say that I hope the Hon'ble Member is mistaken and that it will not be so.

"Then with reference to the Forest Department, a question has been asked as to the cause of the additional expenditure under this head. I may remind my friend that the necessity for this expenditure was recognised some years ago, and my impression is that half of it is due to the improvement of the superior and the other half to the inferior branches of the service. During the last three or four days a letter has been before me, in which it is stated that an increase of Rs. 8,000 has been given to the inferior branch of the service.

"A question has also been asked as to the increase of fees in schools. The answer is that there has been no increase in schools in general, but only in the European schools in Darjeeling. They are schools which have been found necessary for the children of the poorer classes of Government employés who should have some facilities given them for the education of their children. It has been asked why the grants-in-aid have been reduced. The answer is that there has been no reduction. The grants-in-aid amount to six lakhs, the same as last year. The Hon'ble Babu Norendra Nath Sen has referred to the increase under the head of stamps. It is no doubt to be regretted that the people have during the late famine been obliged to mortgage their property to a greater extent than in ordinary years; but that was unavoidable unless the Government were to administer famine relief on a recklessly lavish scale and were to pay no attention to the interests of the tax-payers. It is a matter for some congratulation that the security of tenant-rights in Bengal has been so good that the tenants have been able to borrow the money they needed. The Hon'ble Member has also asked for information as to the staying power of the people. He will find all the information we have on the subject in the Final Resolution on the Famine dated 11th March which was published in the Gazette.

"I beg in conclusion to thank the Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee for the generous manner in which he has referred to the famine administration of the Province."

The Hon'ble MR. RISLEY said:—"This debate may be described as a debate de omnibus rebus et quibusdam aliis. It covers the entire range of our administration, and considering the multifarious character of the administration, it is almost beyond the bounds of possibility that any one man can carry in his head all the details which will enable him at once to say of what charges any particular sum is made up; and it frequently happens that questions are put in such a manner that they cannot be precisely answered owing to the form of the accounts. There has been a slight change in the practice of the Council in this respect. Formerly the debate on the Budget was preceded by what I may call an army of skirmishers in the shape of questions, and that is a practice which now prevails in the Bombay Council. Some forty or fifty questions are asked and answered before the debate begins. But as regards the Bengal Council, Sir Alexander Mackenzie ruled in connection with the budget debate, that it was not sound practice to ask formal questions by way of interpellation relating to the budget, and he said it was desirable that Members who wish to refer to particular points should communicate beforehand with the Secretary in charge of the Department to which the matter belongs and obtain from him any detailed information he desires, and so enable the Secretary to inform himself as to those details before the debate commences. On the present occasion I have to thank my hon'ble friend Babu Surendranath Banerjee, who is well acquainted with the practice of this Council, for having given me notice of the points he proposed to raise, and thereby placed me in a position to reply to such of them as have not already been replied to by my hon'ble friend Mr. Finucane. As to the budget itself, there is exceedingly little to be said. It is a calamity budget and bears the marks of famine, earthquake and cyclone on its face. It has been made a matter of comment that the opening balance is Rs. 5,39,000 and the closing balance is also Rs. 5,39,000. In ordinary years by a standing order of the Secretary of State, we are required to reserve out of the surplus a sum of 20 lakhs to meet unforeseen emergencies during the year. Ordinarily, therefore, the opening balance in fortunate years is made up of this irreducible minimum of 20 lakhs plus certain other sums. In 1896-97 the balance was Rs. 58,20,000 and the closing balance Rs. 41,07,000, and the difference between these sums was appropriated for the improvement of the administration. Now the balance being less than half the minimum which is ordinarily reserved, that balance cannot be reduced further; and therefore the opening and closing balance stand at the same figure.

"It is exceedingly difficult to deal with the various points which are raised in a debate of this kind in a connected fashion, and one can only notice them as they present themselves in as regular a form as is possible. My hon'ble friend Babu Surendranath Banerjee referred to the demand which has been made on District Boards in connection with the famine, and a very full reply was given to him by my hon'ble friend Mr. Finucane, which I can only amplify by giving the details. I have a statement before me which shows in what district famine was declared, and gives for a number of districts the amounts which were expended on famine relief by District Boards on their own account and the amounts contributed by them towards the Provincial expenditure on account of famine. I think it unnecessary to take up the time of the Council in reading out the details of that statement, but I can readily give my hon'ble friend a copy of it. [The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee :—"I hope it will be published in the proceedings."] As regards Irrigation, I should like to add my testimony to that of my hon'ble friend Mr. Buckley, as to the anxiety of the raiyats to get canal water. I was in Midnapore in 1874. The high-level canal had then not been constructed very long, and it was found that the raiyats had not come forward very readily to take water. The rainfall of ordinary years made them independent of the canal, and they used to wait until the last moment and would not come forward to take leases for a term of years. But in 1874 the demand for water became tremendous, and then they completely realised what a superb resource they had in the canal against the scarcity of water, but unfortunately as the canal was not fed from sources which are perennial, there was not so much water as the raiyats would have liked to take. Closely connected with this question is the question of grain compensation allowance. It was given in the famine districts, and is being given even now in one or two districts which have not reverted to their normal level Then my hon'ble friend made an appeal to the Government on behalf of the ministerial and menial servants of the Government. I may say that as regards menial servants, provision has been made to raise to Rs. 6 a month the pay of those who now get between Rs. 5 and Rs. 6, and to raise by one rupee the pay of those who get less than that sum. This has been sanctioned by the Government of India and the Secretary of State, and is being brought into effect as grain compensation is withdrawn. The question of the salaries of the ministerial officers of the Government has been discussed in this Council before. It was discussed at some length in the debate which took place on the 11th April, 1896. I then referred to the Report of the Salaries Commission. They stated that the rise of prices which had occurred between the time (1861) at which the salaries of the ministerial officers were fixed, and the time when the Salaries Commission reported (1884-85) amounted to about 75 per cent. But that is not correct. They added together a number of increases in the percentage. They said rice had gone up 65 per cent., vegetable 83 per cent. and condiments 113 per cent. I asked them what proportion of a man's income did he spend in condiments, and any one can see the enormous increase in the percentage of condiments brought up the scale. Moreover, the Salaries Commission entirely left out of account certain articles of consumption, the prices of which had fallen. They left out, for instance, piece-goods. Clothes make up a large proportion of a man's ordinary expenditure, and taking grey shirtings as a test, the price of piece-goods had fallen 30 per cent. And so with regard to salt, the price of which had fallen 35 per cent. Therefore as regards the Report of that Commission, nothing is clearer than that, as far as percentages went, it was wholly fallacious, and it no more gives one a real idea of prices than Falstaff's tavern bill with its intolerable deal of sack does of the diet of an average Englishman of his day. And quite apart from this we must put aside the whole argument of the Salaries Commission which is based on the rise in the standard of living. But there has been since that time a certain net rise in prices, and the question was very carefully gone into about three years ago under Sir Charles Elliott's orders. I prepared a table of index numbers based on what was done by economists in Europe, and it was subjected to test by high statistical authorities such as Mr. Stephen Jacob and Mr. O'Conor, Director-General of Statistics; and they came to the conclusion that the table, which had been prepared, gave a very fair approximation of the truth, namely, that there has been a rise in prices to the extent of from 13 to 16 per cent., and I said in Council then, and I say so still, that it would be on the whole fair that the salaries of the ministerial officers of the Government should be raised by 12½ per cent. or two annas in the rupee. That would cause an increased expenditure of Rs. 3,68,000 or, say in round numbers 4 lakhs; whereas the proposal of the Salaries Commission, apart from its being founded on altogether fallacious grounds, would cost no less than a sum of 24 lakhs. This proposal to raise the salaries of the ministerial officers of the Government was strongly pressed on the Government of India in connection with the last settlement of the Provincial contracts. We applied for permission to raise their salaries out of the surplus in that proportion, and asked that it might be recognised as a permanent and reasonable charge on the finances of the Province. The Government of India, however, were unable to allow that deduction to be made from the general revenues of India. It is, however, only fair that I should mention that there is something to be said on the other side. In the first place the charge is a very large one, and it would not affect Bengal only; for if you raise the salaries of the ministerial officers here on the basis of the rise in prices, the ministerial officers in other Provinces would under similar circumstances have a claim on the general purse, and in regarding this proposal with a critical mind, one can hardly fail to observe that the number of men desirous of serving in these appointments is continually increasing. It is an unfortunate consequence of the present system of education that the supply of qualified candidates increases more rapidly than the demand.

"Then my hon'ble friend referred to the reduction in the allotment for surveys and settlements of Rs. 6,23,000, and this is a point which the Hon'ble Mr. Finucane did not mention. The principle on which this allotment is arranged is that two lakhs a year are taken throughout the term of the Contract, but it was recognised that in the first year of the contract, a very large programme would have to be gone through. Consequently a special allotment of Rs. 6,23,000 was made in the first year, and the allotment for that year, therefore, is Rs. 8,23,000. It has now been reduced by natural causes to two lakhs.

"My hon'ble friend also mentioned the increase of the distillery receipts and the number of outstills. As to that, I should explain that under the head of 'distillery receipts' an increase was anticipated on the actuals of 1896-97. The receipts in 1897-98 were abnormally low owing to the prevailing scarcity. As to the number of outstills, I do not think it will be convenient, and it would certainly be quite contrary to all budget procedure, to enter into details of that kind in the Financial Statement; but the full details are given in the Excise Reports which are published and accessible to everybody. In 1896-97 there were 2,097 outstills, and they represent a net reduction of eight from the number in the previous year. I say a net reduction, although the number is apparently larger, because the increase is due to the fact that several branch shops, which were before included as annexes to the principal outstills are now given as separate outstills. The revenue from these outstills is Rs. 32,32,000. I should further explain that the revised estimate of 1897-98 and the budget estimate of 1898-99 are based simply on the previous actuals. They bear no relation to the number of outstills. It would be impossible otherwise to calculate the amount of revenue which may be expected. The actuals of the past year are taken, and that is the best basis which can be taken as an estimate.

"Then my hon'ble friend referred to the question of Ferries. I am not in a position to say now how the proceeds of each particular ferry are dealt with. The income from ferries is Provincial revenue, and in connection with certain proposals put forward early last year for introducing a scheme of permissive local taxation, the Government of India declined to allow any permanent alienation of the income from ferries. They said it was Provincial revenue and formed part of the general revenues of India and might not be permanently transferred. In point of fact what happens is that a certain number of ferries are made over to local bodies to meet particular charges. For instance, the important and profitable ferries in the neighbourhood of Patna are made over to that Municipality, and they form a considerable portion of their income, yielding something like Rs. 25,000 a year. But in many places the outturn of income from ferries is declining owing to the development of railway communications. A railway comes to a big river, and it institutes its own ferry, with the result that the income from local ferries is declining. And there can be no question that a Railway Company does the work of a ferry on the whole better than it can be done by any local contractor you are likely to find.

"Under the head of Forests my hon'ble friend asks for particulars of establishments. I have the particulars here collated under the heads of Imperial and Provincial services, but I do not know that any particular object will be gained by reading out the lists, as it consists of a mass of figures which requires to be studied somewhat carefully.

"Then as to the question of the victualling of officers and men afloat under the Marine Budget. The budget contains full provision for messing allowances for officers of the Pilot Service of different grades while on duty in the Pilot brigs. The money is given to the Branch Pilot in charge of the brig to enable him to make provision for feeding the Pilots on duty. This money was not drawn in 1896-97 owing to some technical reason, and it therefore did not appear in the accounts for that year, and that explains the apparent increase in the estimates this year.

"The increase under the head of Customs, merely means that by the end of the present year they will work up to the full strength of the sanctioned establishment. When the Tariff Act was passed in 1874, it became necessary to make a large increase in the Customs establishment. The provisions of the Act caused an enormous increase of work which was further added to by the introduction of the cotton duties. Sanction was therefore given to new appointments being made as they were required, and the Customs Department has been gradually working up to the sanctioned establishment.

"Then several speakers referred to the question of Judicial Establishments, and it was suggested that the number of Munsifs now existing is inadequate. The figures are the following during the last three years. In 1895-96 there were under the head of Subordinate Judges 51, in 1896-97 the number was 53, and in 1897-98, 73. Of Munsifs there were in 1895-96 293, in 1896-97 294, and in 1897-98 294. In the first of these years the number includes ten deputed to Assam, in the second year eight, and in the third year 11. The Government of India are being asked to sanction the retention for a period of six months of the Subordinate Judge of Burdwan, and an additional Subordinate Judge for Tippera: also for the retention of the additional Subordinate Judge of Faridpur, Birbhum and Saran, who is an itinerant officer who goes from place to place to dispose of the cases there. Reference has also been made to the weakness of the judicial establishment in connection with the duration of suits. There are some curious facts which have come before me which seem to indicate that as much work is not always got through by subordinate judicial officers as might be the case. I mention them as I have been myself both a Munsif and a Subordinate Judge, and have seen a good deal of civil suit work in former times. There was a famous case in Bhagalpur which lasted six months and in which it took 50 days to examine 92 witnesses. And there was another case at Faridpur which attracted the notice of the Chief Justice who said:—'The arguments for the plaintiff and the reply lasted for 24 days, a somewhat remarkable exhibition of forensic rhetoric. One witness was examined for 28 days; 11 or 12 adjournments were given. This is an exceedingly improper proceeding, because it breaks the thread of the case and makes it difficult to resume it,' and he goes on to remark and that is my experience also, 'that these delays are not due, in the great majority of the cases, to any fault on the part of the officers concerned.' The Chief Justice said that in this case the Subordinate Judge was not in fault. He got no assistance from the Bar, and if he attempted to control the proceedings, he complained that the Vakils became 'oppessive towards him.' In the Mufassal the Vakils who practise in the Courts have neither the training nor the experience of those in the High Court, and are neither so competent to frame issues nor are they so amenable to suggestions from the Bench.

"My hon'ble friend, Babu Surendranath Banerjee, referred also to the expenditure upon education as compared with other countries, and said that the expenditute on Education is much less here than in other countries. But the real point is that if the expenditure on education in this country is very much lower than in other countries, so also is the taxation and if it were open to us to raise taxation to the standard of other countries, there would be no difficulty in raising the expenditure on education to the same level.

"Then my hon'ble friend Babu Norendra Nath Sen referred to some point connected with the Forest and Income-tax Departments which I failed to catch completely. But I may say at once that it is entirely fruitless to compare the receipts under one particular head with the expenditure under that head. The various departments of the Government are not commercial institutions in which the receipts and the expenditure must balance. What you do expect to balance is the total receipts and the total expenditure under all heads, and it is mere waste of time to discuss any question as to the separate accounts under a particular head. The point which my hon'ble friend does not realise is that there are divided heads, half being Provincial and half Imperial; and if he looks at it in that light, then the matter clears itself up. My hon'ble friend went on to the question of providing drinking-water for the people. Everybody in Bengal is aware that Sir Alexander Mackenzie took an enormous amount of personal trouble to do everything which was possible to improve the supply of drinking-water. We have nearly completed a series of registers showing for every district in Bengal and for every village of more than a hundred people what means of water-supply, such as tanks and wells, there are, and their condition is being reported upon, and the idea of these registers is to place on record the state of things as they are, in order that the local bodies concerned, whose duty it is to improve the water-supply of the localities under their charge, may know what they have to do, and may be able when they have the means to carry out the necessary measures without unnecessary delay. But to recognise it as a Provincial duty to provide a better supply of drinking-water all over Bengal is absolutely out of the question. At the same time I admit that the resources at the command of District Boards at any rate are at present insufficient to enable them to deal with the matter at all thoroughly. My hon'ble friend was pleased to say that this was recognised as one of the obligations of Hindu kings, but I may remind him that there can be no comparison whatever between the Hindu kings of old and the Government of the present day, and may add, what he omitted to mention, that this is one of the first obligations of a zamindar on religious grounds independently of any question of taxation.

"Then the Hon'ble Babu Kali Charan Banerjee mentioned the Excise Revenue, and he seemed to think that it is a very dreadful thing that we get any excise revenue at all. I do not think that it is very likely to come within the range of practical politics, that there should be in any part of India a Maine liquor law. When that distinguished Radical politician, the Hon'ble Mr. James Bryce, came over to this country and went to Darjeeling, I was asked to show him curious forms of worship and curious customs. I took him to the top of Observatory Hill, where three different sects were offering sacrifices to the god Kinchinjunga, and shewed him that in two out of the three cases the offering consisted of strong drinks. With that fact before us, I told Mr. Bryce that it would be a very serious interference with the religious customs of a great many tribes in different parts of India to interfere with the supply of spiritious liquors. This being so, the best thing you can do is what we are endeavouring to do, and that is to get as much revenue as it is possible to get out of the excise and at the same time to reduce the consumption to a minimum. We have accordingly extended enormously the central distillery system and have greatly reduced the outstill system And as to establishments, we have now worked up to the full sanctioned establishment; but if you compare the establishment in Bengal to that which is employed in other Provinces, you will find that the establishment here is ridiculously inadequate, and if any change of policy is introduced in the Excise Department, it will rather be to assimilate our system to that which prevails in Madras and Bombay, and with such a change it will be inevitable that there should be a very large addition to the establishment. There is a very great deal of illicit distillation going on throughout the country, and it may possibly be necessary to raise the Detective establishment, but there can be no doubt that any change which may be made will pay its way.

"I have endeavoured, as far as I can, to meet all the points which have been raised by Hon'ble Members."

The Hon'ble the PRESIDENT said:—"I understand that it is customary for the President to wind up the annual discussion of the Financial Budget. But I am quite sure that my colleagues in this Council to-day will not expect many remarks on the matter from a President who has been in office for only a week. I should like, however, to say that it is a matter of sorrow to me to find that the finances of Bengal are not in a more prosperous condition. I cannot say that it is a matter to me of disappointment, for it is inevitable after a period of severe famine, a great earthquake, and precautions against pestilence, that the Province should be in straitened circumstances. But I hope we are now at the beginning of a more favourable series of seasons, and that as the year goes on, we shall find ourselves approaching another budget with lightened responsibilities and with increased hopes of financial receipts. Speaking of famine, I should like to speak here as the representative till a very few days ago of the Government of India, and to mention my admiration of the courage and care and economy with which the famine of Bengal was fought. It was not so fought in Bengal alone, but throughout India. I do believe that the famine generally was administered with more economy and more efficiency than any previous famine of the century. It ought to have been so, because we had before us the results of experience carefully tabulated, carefully summarised, and carefully arranged for the conduct of succeeding administrators. I congratulate the Province on its being free from famine now, and I congratulate ourselves on having more hopeful and more pleasant prospects before us. I listened with the greatest interest to the criticisms of the non-official members of this Council, and I hasten to acknowledge the moderation and courtesy with which all these criticisms were advanced. If I have one remark to make about them, it would be to say that I regret the absence from them of any suggestions of greater economy in the administration of the Province. The projects for the expenditure of money which are placed before the Government by non-official bodies and by officials are countless, and the difficulty is to eliminate from them those projects which are of the most pressing urgency as those to which we are limited by the conditions of finance. And I shall hope that next year we may receive from the non-official members of this Council those suggestions as to greater economy in administration which we may reasonably hope to receive from them. That is a direction in which criticism is of the very greatest value, because it is a form of criticism which I am justified in saying from my experience with the Government of India and of Local Governments is extremely rare.

"Looking down the list of projects of expenditure in the Province of Bengal this year, which I have been particularly pleased to see, I was sorry to hear no mention whatever about them in the course of the discussion. For example, I place great weight upon the projects for the improvement of the appliances of the Medical College. I believe this to be of the first importance for the improvement of the instruction which our young students get there. Next to that I shall put the charges for the improvement of the Campbell Hospital, the hopital for the poor in Calcutta. I visited that hospital last year, and it was a matter of much satisfaction to me to find that a very considerable sum has been allotted in this budget for the improvement of that hospital. Then I hoped that we should have had some acknowledgment from the hon'ble non-official members who have spoken as regards the contribution that has been made for the support of the Eden Hostel. It is a project of the very deepest importance for the welfare of young students who come to Calcutta, for their preservation and protection from the immoral influences which must beset them in a great city like this. There is one other matter in which I take great personal interest, and to which a good deal of reference has been made in the course of the discussion, and that is the allotment made for the improvement of technical education. Last year I visited the College at Sibpur, and came away greatly impressed. There is no institution of the kind which I have seen in any other part of India which approaches the Sibpur Engineering College, and I am sure that if any Hon'ble Member who spoke about it had personally visited, Sibpur College, he would have been gratified to know that every student who passed out of it receives immediate employment of some kind or other. I had something to do in the Central Provinces with agricultural classes in one way or another, and although no special efforts were made by the administration there to further the interests of the students, there was never any difficulty in the students getting employment. With reference to the question of the Subordinate Forest Service, I shall be much obliged to the Hon'ble Member who spoke of them if he would interest himself in getting a class of suitable native candidates for that service. It was tried in the Central Provinces, a large part of the area of which consist of forests and jungle, and I exhausted attempts to induce native gentlemen to enter service in the Forest Department. They did not meet with success, the reason being that the pay was not very attractive, and that the climate is extremely bad. My efforts failed there, but if hon'ble gentlemen who belong to this country can induce the natives of Bengal to enter classes for the study of forestry, I shall give them the most hearty encouragement myself. The Hon'ble Mr. Risley has taken out of my mouth remarks which I intended to make in reference to the water-supply of Bengal. He has told you that it was the earnest desire of Sir Alexander Mackenzie to give every possible aid towards the improvement of the supply of pure water in the villages of the country. A scheme has been so far formulated that it has received the warm approval of the Government of India, and will be carried still further forward in a very short time. It is essential that measures of that kind should be undertaken in a systematic and methodical way. A scheme has been prepared, and I hope to be able before another twelve months are over to make some effort in that direction."

SALT BILL.

The Hon'ble Mr. Grimley moved for leave to introduce a Bill to amend the Salt Law in Bengal. He said:—"Having regard to the fact that a large amount of the time of the Council has been occupied in carrying on the discussion on the Financial Statement, I do not propose to explain at any length to-day the reasons which make this measure necessary. I shall, therefore, confine myself to a brief statement of the chief objects of the Bill. First, it is proposed to do away with the restrictions of the Rawana system, which must necessarily transfer the salt trade and tend to increase the price of salt to the consumer. Another object is to provide for the resumption by the Government of Bengal of the administration of the Salt Department in Orissa from the Government of Madras, and the reorganisation of the controlling staff on a legal basis, while the third and last object is to introduce certain changes in the law which the experience of the past has shown to be necessary for the safeguarding of the revenue. I cannot claim to be the author of this Bill which has come to me from the hands of the Hon'ble Mr. Risley who has hitherto had charge of it, but in assuming the duty and the responsibility of conducting the Bill through the Council, I have to say that I am entirely in accord with its principles and its provisions. The Bill will be circulated to the members of the Council, and at our next meeting I propose to give a full account of the circumstances which have given rise to the measure."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

EXTENSION OF THE POLICE ACT, V OF 1861, TO CALCUTTA AND SUBURBS.

The Hon'ble Mr. Pratt presented the report of the Select Committee on the Bill to extend certain portions of the Police Act, V of 1861, to the Town and Suburbs of Calcutta. He said:—"We have seen no reason to alter the Bill as it was introduced in Council except in one particular, and that is referred to in paragraph 2 of our report which says:—'A disturbance in an area proclaimed under the Bill may be brought about by or with the assistance of inhabitants of some other area.' This certainly was the result of actual experience during the Tallah riots last year. Between 70 and 80 persons were arrested on that occasion and prosecuted to conviction; and it was found from their own admissions, as well as from the result of independent enquiries, that a majority of those persons came from areas outside the scene of actual disturbance. Moreover it was apprehended at one time that large bodies of men from the jute mills, both up and down the river, would come into Calcutta and swell the number of the rioters. Happily that danger was averted, but still it must be borne in mind as a possible feature in any future disturbance. The report, therefore, in paragraph 2 says further:—'We have therefore, following a precedent set by a Bill recently introduced in the Bombay Legislative Council, made some additions to the schedule to this Bill with the object of authorizing the recovery from inhabitants of such other area of compensation awarded to persons who have suffered from their misconduct.' Beyond this we do not propose to go. We do not ask that these persons coming from areas outside the area actually disturbed should be called on to contribute towards the pay of the additional police quartered in the disturbed area. All we ask is that inhabitants of areas who have gone forth from their own areas to the place of disturbance for the purpose of joining in the disturbance should be liable to contribute towards the compensation of persons injured by their misconduct, injuries which are brought about very largely by the active association of these individuals with the mob. I only further desire to invite the attention of Hon'ble Members to the appendix to our report which I believe is calculated to afford useful assistance in studying the provisions of this Bill."

The Council was adjourned to Saturday, the 23rd instant.

SALT BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. GRIMLEY introduced the Bill to amend the Salt Law in Bengal, and moved that it be read in Council. He said:—

"I have now the honour to introduce the Bill to amend the Salt Law and to move that it be read in Council.

"It has already been stated that one of the objects of the Bill is the abolition of the Rowana system, and as there may possibly be some Members of this Council who are unacquainted with the arrangements for the administration of Salt Revenue in Bengal, I will redeem my promise and give some account of the system, describing its origin, how long it has been in existence, the manner in which it operates, the part of the country affected by it, and the special circumstances that render its continuance no longer necessary. The supply of salt to Bengal in the past has been derived partly from foreign importations and partly from home manufacture, though the latter source is practically extinct. Until 1863 Government had the monopoly of manufacture, the districts on the sea-board of the Bay of Bengal being divided into salt agencies. The salt makers received advances, and stipulated to deliver their salt, when manufactured, to the agent, at a price agreed upon, and the agents stored the salt and sold it to wholesale dealers at a price fixed from year to year by the Government; but in 1864, under pressure from salt merchants in England, it was decided to abandon the monopoly altogether, and to leave the salt trade to private enterprise under a system of excise. The salt factories were scattered over large areas of coast country, all more or less impregnated with brine, along the Bay of Bengal from the southern extremity of the Chittagong district on the east to the south-western extremity of the Chilka Lake, in the district of Puri, on the west side of the Bay. In addition to the possibility of imported salt being smuggled from ships, there was the double danger of illicit manufacture in the saliferous tracts, and of smuggling from the numerous salt factories; and to guard against this a large preventive force was maintained, and, as a further safeguard, a plan was adopted which necessitated the purchaser of a consignment of salt above the insignificant quantity of five seers, after payment of duty, obtaining a protective document termed a rowana, and also required him to convey the salt to its destination by a specified route, and while within certain defined limits, conterminous, more or less, with the salt-producing districts, to tender his rowana for the inspection of preventive officers posted at various pass stations on the way. On reaching his destination, he had to report the arrival of the salt to the preventive officer, who issued retail rowanas to cover the transport of any salt sold, until the entire batch was disposed of. This system was directed against the three forms of smuggling already mentioned, and so long as it was worked under close supervision and with an adequate establishment, there is no doubt that it served the purpose for which it was intended, especially in the prevention of smuggling from the manufacturing grounds. But since the early days of rowanas, the circumstances of salt-supply and the conditions of the salt trade have undergone important changes, and the working of the rowana system has been very much modified in consequence. Imported salt is now the main source of supply, and home manufacture, which was mostly confined to Orissa, has entirely ceased. The rowana system was withdrawn from Orissa in 1885 without any harmful results, and the salt limits have been gradually contracted elsewhere. In addition to this, the system of bonding salt in private bonded warehouses in the mufassal has been extended, and further changes may be expected on the completion of the East Coast Railway. Formerly the rules were very stringent: the sales were checked by a special preventive force, and it was the practice to test the quantities of salt mentioned in the rowana by measuring the contents of the boat at certain stations on the line of route, but this practice was abandoned, as it led to extortion; later on in 1863, the special preventive force became merged in the Bengal Police, and though it was intended that the new constabulary should be maintained in such force as to provide for the efficient performance of salt duties, yet, in later years, when sweeping reductions were made in the police force, the pruning knife was liberally applied to the preventive branch, and only a very small portion of the force was retained for those duties, the thana establishments being cut down to the minimum required to deal with ordinary crime. Formerly also a wholesale merchant wishing to sell any salt was obliged in every instance to run to the salt station with a long note of the particulars of the sale and to apply for a pass; but he is now himself empowered to issue such passes in the form of retail rowanas, and is only required to submit a monthly statement of sales to the Collector, or the nearest police. These retail rowanas are of two kinds, the atrafee and the charchitti, each covering quantities up to 100 maunds, the former being used to protect salt which is intended to be conveyed beyond the limits of the police-station within which it may be stored, and the latter to protect salt kept for sale within those limits. There is also in the district of Backergunge a sub-charchitti, used to protect quantities up to five maunds only. The submission of monthly returns of sales by holders of rowanas, both wholesale and retail, was intended to show whether the revenue was being defrauded or not, and to attract attention to that part of the country where illicit practices prevailed. The idea was to trace every particle of salt from the ship or the manufactory to the hands of the consumer. Theoretically the system is perfect, but under the changing conditions of salt administration, it has been found impracticable to carry it out with any degree of accuracy, and without seriously hampering the salt trade. Within recent years a full enquiry has been made into the working of the rowana system by Mr. Ashton, an officer belonging to the Salt Department of the North-Western Provinces, and his report unmistakeably indicates that the system has no longer any protectional or statistical use. His conclusions are (1) that it is not worked effectively, (2) that it affords no protection to the salt revenue from illicit manufacture, and (3) that the returns of consumption under it are untrustworthy, as the salt-traders can so manipulate statistics as to screen illicit manufacture and the trade in untaxed salt. The possibility of making use of retail rowanas as a cloak to cover illicit transactions is clearly demonstrated. Mr. Ashton therefore recommended the abolition of the rowana system. This proposal, however, had already been anticipated by the Hon'ble Mr. Lyall, Member of the Board of Revenue, who, in October 1893, minuted in favour of abolition, and it may not be out of place to mention that I myself, as far back as 1875, when Secretary to the Board, after a careful study of the subject, formed the opinion that there was no special advantage in retaining the system. Again in 1888 in an unofficial communication I wrote "I am not in favour of half measures, and should be inclined to try the experiment of entirely abandoning the rowana system, and to leave salt, whether imported or locally manufactured, free and unfettered by any further supervision after it has once paid duty and passed the customs or excise barrier, confining protective measures, strengthened if need be, to the places of import, manufacture and storage. In this way the rowana system, which has been termed the second line of defence, would disappear, and only the first line of defence would remain, namely, the preventive force concentrated at the head-quarters of salt operations."

"In past years smuggling was chiefly confined to the manufacturing areas, and the rowana system, when first introduced, was obviously intended to check this, the quantity of imported salt being at that time very limited, but now that licit manufacture has ceased and the area affected has been excluded from the operation of the rowana system, so far as retail rowanas are concerned, it cannot be said that the system is in any way required there. The restrictions which it imposes on the movements of salt are a serious impediment to the course of trade, which must tend to increase the price of salt to the consumer. About 28,000 wholesale rowanas, and nearly two lakhs of blank forms for strafee rowanas, charchitties and sub-charchitties are yearly issued to the salt merchant, and when we consider the time and trouble necessary to the prompt obtaining of these passes, and the services of the men employed in the transaction, to say nothing of the fees and stamp duties, it will be readily conceived how much the trade is handicapped. The system is out of date and as a statistical record of the distribution of salt is not to be relied upon, while the check which it provides against smuggling from shipboard can be arranged for in other ways, and section 12 of the Bill has been framed to allow of this being done. The section, I may here remark, will also enable provision to be made for the collection of information corresponding to that now afforded by wholesale rowanas, showing the quantity of salt intended for despatch to various districts. There is now very little danger of any smuggling from ships in the river which cannot be controlled by the Customs preventive force. The salt traffic is mostly carried in steamers, and it is idle to suppose that a steamer would stop in the river for the purpose of selling salt. Our sources of supply are (a) salt imported by sea into the two ports of Calcutta and Chittagong; (b) salt imported by land from Ganjam; (c) salt imported by land from the north-west; and (d) karkach salt manufactured in Puri on the Chilka Lake. The rowana system is no longer applied to the last three forms of supply, and it may certainly be withdrawn, as far as imported salt is concerned, without risk, though protective documents of some kind will of course be required in order to ensure payment of the Government revenue and to protect the salt owner from molestation while in the river. There will be no difficulty in securing that full duty shall be paid on all salt imported by sea, either at the time of unloading or of clearing from bond. I was reading the other day that no great work was ever done by a system, and though I am not prepared to accept this as an infallible proposition, yet it is obvious that no good work can be expected from a system that is obsolete and moribund, and the time has certainly come for relegating the rowana system to the limbo of antiquated usages.

"The second object of the Bill is to enable the Government of Bengal to resume charge of the administration of the Salt Department in Orissa. The administration of salt revenue in Orissa was placed under the control of the Madras authorities in 1886-87. The entire management of the Orissa Salt Department, including the preventive work in connexion with that Department, was taken over by them in February 1888. The main objects of this arrangement were:—

(i) The concentration and development of manufacture of karkach or sun-dried salt.

(ii) The abolition of the rowana system throughout Orissa.
(iii) The gradual suppression of the manufacture of panga salt.
(iv) The reorganization of the establishment by substituting for the agency of the District Officers and the police a departmental staff for preventive and administrative work.

"The rowana system (at least as far as retail rowanas are concerned), which had been withdrawn from Puri in 1877, was, as noticed above, abolished in the rest of Orissa in 1885; and this step does not appear to have injured the revenue in any way. The licensed manufacture of panga has also been successfully suppressed in Orissa. But the manufacture of karkach salt from which a great increase of revenue and a substantial reduction in the retail price for salt was anticipated, has been found, owing to the weakness of the brine and the frequency of storms in the Orissa coasts, to be an unprofitable venture anywhere north of the Chilka Lake. The factories started on the Chilka for the manufacture of karkach salt under the direct system of management by Government have also failed to fulfil the expectations entertained about them, owing chiefly to the inferior quality of the salt turned out at these factories and to the difficult and expensive means necessary for its transit from the factories, on account of which it cannot compete on equal terms with the better quality of salt of the neighbouring Ganjam factories. The factories on the Chilka Lake have accordingly been closed lately by Government.

"The preventive establishment in Orissa has also been found to be very costly; and it cannot be said that this costly establishment has done conspicuously better work than the agency it replaced.

"In these circumstances, the administration of the Salt Department in Orissa has lately been retransferred to Bengal, and the work of administration has been actually resumed by the Government of Bengal, with effect from the 1st October 1897. The Salt Department in Orissa is at present administered under the Indian Salt Act, XII of 1882; and it is intended that this Bill, which repeals Act VII of 1864 which legalises rowanas, and is now in force in the whole of Bengal, except the Patna, Bhagalpur and Orissa Divisions and the town of Calcutta, should contain provisions which will cover the whole of Bengal, including Orissa; the saltpetre refineries in the Patna and Bhagalpur Divisions and in the town of Calcutta continuing to be worked under the Indian Salt Act.

"The third object of the Bill is to introduce certain changes in the law which experience has shown to be necessary in the interests of the salt revenue. I have already said that the time has come for abolishing the rowana system, but the removal of this restriction will render necessary the provision of other safeguards.

"The result of the enquiries made by Mr. Ashton in the coast districts of Bengal places it beyond a doubt that illicit manufacture is carried on on a large scale for the purpose of sale in certain parts, and more especially in the Sunderbuns tracts, which occupy a space of nearly 4,000 square miles of the 24-Parganas district. On this point I will let Mr. Ashton speak for himself. He writes thus—

'29. Salt used formerly to be made in considerable quantities along the whole line of the Sundarbans, from the Bussan river (about 10 miles below Port Canning) south-westward to Saugor Island. Sites of old salt works, indicated by heaps of broken red pottery, may be seen on both banks of the Mutlah river on the edge of the forest, and further to the south-west they are to be met with, almost everywhere on the banks of the innumerable creeks which intersect the dense jungle below the clearings. As I have already explained, the jungle of the section of the forest being dealt with is not of a kind which would render the manufacture of salt impracticable. Small clearings, natural or artificial, are numerous, salt efflorescence appears within the jungle itself where this is at all thin, and, even if this were not so, a space sufficient for a salt work could be cleared in a few hours. The soil is so extremely rich in saline matter that a clearing of a few hundred square yards only is amply sufficient to provide efflorescence for the working of a salt factory of considerable importance, and of course the supply of fuel is inexhaustible. With these facilities there is almost perfect immunity from capture, in fact, but very little chance of detection even, and a ready means of sending away large quantities of salt exists in the numerous boats which move about the creeks. Under these circumstances, it is not surprising to find that salt manufacture on a considerable scale is carried on in these jungles. That this is so there is no doubt whatever, as I shall proceed to show. Salt is made on the Bussunti river south of Port Canning, in Sundarban Lots Nos. 36, 37, 38 and 40 south-east of the Jainagar police-station, in Lot No. 116 south of Muttrapur, in Lot No. 16 south of Kulpi, and in the jungles at the north of Saugor island; in fact, along the whole upper fringe of the section of the Sundarbans from the neighbourhood of Port Canning down to Saugor, a distance of about fifty miles in a straight line. I base this assertion on personal experience, the statements of the Police, information given to me by private individuals, and the wide area of country over which I found this salt beings sold in both the 24-Parganas and the Khulna districts. The manufacture and the trade are carried on in the most secret manner. The factories are situate on the banks of creeks in the densest jungle, and can only be discovered by accident or by the help of guides. Around them are small clearings a few hundred square yards in extent, on which salt efflorescence, of a richness which allows of its being roughly scraped up to a depth of three to four inches, appears profusely, and in the creeks close by and in the jungle around there are inexhaustible supplies of sea water and fuel. A jungle salt factory comprises a furnace for boiling down brine and one or more earthern filters. In constructing a furnace two rough earthern walls, from two to three feet apart, from three to four feet in height, and from four to six feet in length, are built parallel to each other; and the space between them is roofed over in dome-shaped form with an admixture of stiff mud and twigs. Circular spaces, varying in number from four to eight, are left open in this domed roof, and upon these, small iron boilers, each about two feet in diameter, are placed for the purpose of boiling down brine. The earthen filters are constructed in precisely the same way as that which has been already described in connection with the Midnapore district, but are far larger, their diameter varying from six feet to as much as eight feet. Salt efflorescence, from the surface of the clearing around the factory, having been lixiviated in these filters, the brine so obtained is boiled down in the iron boilers placed upon the circular open spaces in the dome-shaped roof of the furnace, a brisk fire of jungle fuel is kept up between the parallel walls, and as the salt precipitates in the boilers, it is scooped out of them and stored in a heap on the ground to drain and dry. The salt so produced is very like that produced in the Midnapore district, white and small in grain, not unlike Liverpool, but of poorer colour and brilliancy and liable to absorb moisture. Each of the iron boilers used is said to turn out from a maund to a maund and a half per diem, and the quantity of salt produced daily on a factory with a furnace of eight boilers would therefore amount to from 8 to 12 maunds. In the case of factories situate near the clearings some salt is carried inland in head-loads, as there are no roads and no other means of carriage; but the greater quantity is conveyed away in boats which come down the line of the Sundarbans for the purpose and steal about the creeks in a most unobtrusive manner. From what has been said it will be apparent that the quantity of salt produced in the Sundarbans must be considerable and the trade important. The area over which it is openly sold would go to prove this. I found it selling openly by retail in the town of Jainagar about ten miles north of the Sundarbans, at Bhangorhat, within the limits of the Hurwa Police-station, and at Hussainabad on the Esamati river far to the north-east on the border of the Khulna district. About fifteen miles south of Hussainabad I found it being sold wholesale at the mart of Hingulganj, on the Esamati river in the 24-Parganas district and on the Khulna border. From Hussainabad it is said to be carried up the Esamati river towards Basirhat; and the Police informed me that they suspected that it was sent to the Kidderpore and Tollyganj markets on the outskirts of Calcutta. In the Khulna district, I found it selling within the jurisdiction of the Kaliganj, Asasuni and Paikgacha police-stations, up to a point about fifteen miles south-west of Khulna itself. This is a wide area, and the fact of the salt being on view without any attempt at concealment in so many permanent shops, in a country where there are so few of these, would go to show that its consumption is very widespread. The boats carrying it follow the lines of least resistance, so to speak, and as the river lines trend to the north-eastward, so the traces of the illicit trade may be noticed in the same direction. I could not find any trace of the salt in the neighbourhood of Calcutta. It is said to be carried there in bags intermingled with bags of paddy, and if such a trade does exist, which is not unlikely, the salt probably passes up the Hooghly river to areas beyond Salt Law limits. I found the salt selling both in a pure state and also in admixture with Liverpool salt. In the Sundarbans it is said to sell at 24 seers per rupee, or Rs. 1-10-8 per maund, and a retail dealer at Asasuni in the Khulna district told me that it was obtainable at Hussainabad in the 24-Parganas district at Re. 1-14-0 per maund, and that he had purchased it at Rs. 2-8-0 per maund from boats passing his village. As a general rule, this illicit salt is sold to consumers at the same price as the duty paid article, and the lowest rate was Rs. 3-12-0 per maund retail. The trade is a lucrative one, and there is every reason to believe that it is financed and carried on by wholesale dealers who profess to trade in duty-paid salt only, of which they keep small stores in their shops to divert suspicion. It could hardly be carried on to the extent that it is were it not for an organization of some sort, as it is not only the settlers on the line of clearings who manufacture salt. Men from the inland country go down to the Sundarbans in not inconsiderable numbers for the express purpose of working salt factories. It was said by local residents that from the neighbourhood of Jainagar alone, some five hundred men, "Podhs"

(low-caste Hindus) and Muhammadans go down to the Sundarbans every season for the express purpose of working salt factories. The implements required for such factories are cheap and few in number, iron boilers costing from Re. 1-8-0 to Rs. 2 each, two or three phowrahs, and a few earthen vessels for carrying brine. Even so, however, there must be some organization which arranges for adequate boat carriage at timely seasons and for the distribution of the salt over a wide area of country. The season for manufacture begins after the cessation of the monsoon, as soon as the heat of the sun has dried the jungle and salt efflorescence begins to appear. It continues throughout the cold season, and until about April, with the greatest briskness. It then slackens somewhat, as the south wind and storms oblige boats to traverse river channels with caution, and the exceptionally high spring tides flood the jungle lands and check manufacture by obliterating salt efflorescence. Some factories are deserted at this season, but at others work goes on during the intervals between spring tides, until the fall of the first showers of the monsoon. I have spoken of the safety with which this kind of manufacture can be carried on. To avoid being tedious I will relate briefly the experiences of three days in illustration. Coming down the Piali river, the launch anchored near Balaharnia, a small hamlet of seven houses, inhabited by Uriyas and Bengalis, and situate in a small, newly-formed clearing. On going ashore I found quantities of salt efflorescence scraped up all about the village, earthen filters were working in the jungle round about, and in some brushwood a little distance from the houses I found about ten seers of illicit salt in an earthen vessel, which the owner had evidently removed from his house on seeing the Police launch arrive. I had heard that a salt factory was being worked by these villagers, but it was hopeless to look for it in the dense jungle without some definite indication. Next day the Police took me to see some salt factories which they had seized some months before. Going down the river channel, we reached the mouth of a creek during the ebb, and the water was so shallow, and the current so strong that we had to wait for the flood. We went up the creek at last, could not find one cluster of factories, but found the second one owing to the jungle having been cut down, and then had to wait for the ebb in order to get back to the launch. Returning to Balaharnia, after being absent the whole day, I found that one of the men of the village, who had quarrelled with his fellows, was ready to show me the salt factory in the forest for a consideration. He led me about a mile into the jungles, and on the bank of a creek, and on the edge of a clearing, I found a working salt factory with a large earthen filter eight feet in diameter, a furnace arranged for eight iron boilers and a platform on a neighbouring tree as a retreat from tigers. There was no one at the factory, and the boilers had of course been removed. The factory was in regular work, and in fact salt had been produced that very day, as the traces showed. From what I saw it was clear that the manufacture within the houses was being carried on by the women and children, and that this jungle factory was the business of the men. On the third day I started to the south-westward with two Uriya wood-cutters as guides to see some salt factories which were known to exist in that direction. The Police had visited some of them earlier in the season, but the jungle was so dense, and the creeks so numerous and so alike, that they were quite unable to act as guides. The Uriyas found one set of factories with difficulty, and it was apparent that salt had been made shortly before, as there were traces of it on the ground where it had been placed in a heap to drain, and the fires were still alight in the furnaces. In searching for the second group of works, we lost ourselves in the maze of creeks and our guides failed us; we had to force our way up a creek, with dense jungle almost meeting over our heads, towards a clearing in which there was a hamlet about two miles away; from this hamlet we got a guide, a salt manufacturer himself, who took us to the second group of factories, which was situate in dense dwarf date jungle. These works were about fifty in number, and the ground about them was a perfect swamp owing to the spring tides having flooded the jungle. Returning, another group of salt factories was seen in a clearing on the bank of a river channel. We went down this channel at the close of the ebb, and could see nothing as we were twenty feet and more below the top of the bank. Returning, we came on the top of the flood, on a level with the jungle, and were then able to see the clearing and the salt factories in it. These details will give an idea of the difficulties in connection with the detection of salt manufacture in the Sundarbans. The manufacturers themselves work in perfect safety. The Police cannot reach them by way of the clearings to the northward without being noticed and warning being given; and during the ebb boats cannot come up the creeks from the southward against the strong tidal current. Even if a surprise is effected, all the men have to do is to take the iron boilers off the furnaces and disappear with them into the jungle. In such cases the Police have endeavoured to destroy the factories, but this has practically no effect, as any damage done is repaired in a very short time. Even if the earthen filters and furnaces were to be entirely demolished, new ones could be constructed in a few hours.'

"Mr. Ashton estimates the loss of revenue from illicit manufacture in the 24-Parganas at Rs. 1,50,000, a sum which was arrived at by assuming that at least 500 men are engaged per six months in illicit manufacture, each working 20 days a month, and making not less than a maund of salt per diem. Mr. Ashton's enquiries have been tested by further investigations conducted by Mr. Ross, the Commissioner of the Sundarbans, and by Babu Madhu Sudhan Chandhari, Assistant Superintendent of Police. In the course of enquiries extending over 500 square miles, Mr. Ross discovered 21 factories, each fitted with from four to eight boilers, and his experiments showed that a six-boiler factory was capable of turning out 3½ maunds of salt a day, and it is patent that these boilers were not intended to produce salt for mere petty home consumption This officer's report derives especial value from the fact that he had at first been rather sceptical about the existence of illicit manufacture on a large scale, and seemed to consider that Mr. Ashton had over-estimated its extent, but when he came to investigate the matter personally he formed a different opinion. Babu Madhu Sudhan Chaudhari travelled over 700 miles of the Sunderbans and came across seven big centres of illicit manufacture in which there were as many as 186 factories, in working order, of the type described by Mr. Ashton, and he further reports that he received authentic information from eye-witnesses that in 12 other centres manufacture was carried on in open factories from November to April by professional manufacturers for the purpose of trade. It is difficult to say with any accuracy what the loss of revenue is from this manufacture, it is estimated by different observers at from 1½ lakh to 6 lakhs of rupees, but it is evident that it must be very considerable from the reports already mentioned and also from the fact that the consumption of salt in the thanas where illicit manufacture goes on is far below the average.

"Illicit manufacture is also believed to be carried on to some extent in the districts of Midnapore and Chittagong.

"It has accordingly been decided to employ in the coast districts of Bengal such a preventive establishment as will be able to deal effectively with the illicit dealings in salt by striking at the very root of illicit manufacture. Such an establishment is intended to be permanently entertained in the 24-Parganas and the districts in Orissa, but it is also proposed to employ a small establishment tentatively to prevent smuggling and illicit dealings in salt that may be prevalent in the districts of Chittagong, Midnapore, Backergunge and Khulna.

"It will be useless, however, to employ these establishments unless the law is strengthened in such a way as to enable the officers employed to deal effectively with persons who make an improper use of salt-earth in defraud of the revenue. Power is, therefore, taken in the Bill to enable the Local Government to regulate and limit the excavation, collection, possession and sale of salt-earth in specified areas in saliferous tracts. It is not intended to interfere with the poorer classes who may make use of small quantities of salt-earth which they may find at their very doors for cheapening domestic consumption. It has always been, I rejoice to say and will, I am confident, continue to be, the policy of Government to deal leniently with such persons, but the persons against whom the provisions of the Bill are directed are those who collect large quantities of salt-earth in order to manufacture panga salt for sale, and the traders who purchase such salt and make large profits from the sale of it. The Bill has been circulated, and has been revised with reference to the opinion received which are, on the whole, favourable, and I have now to move that it be read in Council.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

EXTENSION OF THE POLICE ACT, V OF 1861, TO CALCUTTA AND SUBURBS.

The Hon'ble Mr. Finucane, with the leave on the Council, postponed till the next meeting the following motions standing in his name, namely—"that the Report on the Bill to extend certain portions of the Police Act, V of 1861, to the Town and Suburbs of Calcutta, be taken into consideration, and that the clauses of the Bill be considered in the form recommended by the Select Committee," and "that the Bill, as amended, be passed."

The Council adjourned to Saturday, the 30th April 1898.

CONSTRUCTION OF BUNDS.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked:—

Is the Government aware that Tauzi No. 880, Chuddo Hazari, a mahal situate in the Contai sub-division of the district of Midnapore, has been permanently settled with the proprietors of Jullamutha Estate, and that Tauzi No 2720, Mutas Kaleender Balushye, has been settled with the same proprietors, one of the conditions entered in the potta being that the proprietors will have the privilege of constructing bunds with a view to reclaim the lands and bring them under cultivation? Is it the case that in contravention of such a condition, a Notification, No. 243 of the 8th December, 1896, has been issued, prohibiting the construction of bunds in the tracts between the sea-dyke and the Bay of Bengal, where these lands lie, with the result that the proprietors have been put to heavy loss every year, as they are prevented from bringing these lands under cultivation?

The Hon'ble MR. FINUCANE replied:—

"Mahal Chaddo Hazari, bearing tauzi No. 880 in the Midnapore Collectorate, was permanently settled with the proprietors of the Jalamutha Estate; there is no condition in the kabuliyat that the proprietor will have the right to construct bunds; there is a condition that if bunds are required they must be paid for by the proprietor and not by Government. Mahal Mutas Kaleendar Balushye, bearing tauzi No. 2720, was temporarily settled with the same proprietor from 1st April, 1887 to 31st March, 1898; the lease, the term of which has expired, contained no reference to bunds. It is correct that a Notification No. 243 of the 8th December, 1896, was issued proposing to extend the provisions of clause (b), section 76 of the Embankment Act over an area between the sea-dyke and the Bay of Bengal, and prohibiting the erection of any new embankment or addition to any existing one. The Notification was issued under the powers vested in the Lieutenant-Governor under the Embankment Act, and was necessitated in the interests of the tract of country some 1,000 square miles in extent behind the sea-dyke, the drainage from which passes by sluices through the dyke, and so by channels across the foreshore to the sea. If the foreshore were enclosed by embankments to the exclusion of the tides, the scour from which at present keep these channels from silting, the channels would fill up, resulting in the vast area behind the sea-dyke becoming water-logged. It has not been possible within the time available to have the necessary local enquiry to ascertain how the lands of the two mahals in question lie in relation to the area covered by the Notification referred to, but it is not thought that the foreshore lands, which are subject to the action of the tides, could ever have been of value to the proprietor; while, as has been explained, it is not possible to allow them to be enclosed and cultivated without resulting damage to a much larger tract of country. The policy of discouraging the construction of bunds in the area covered by the Notification is in accordance with the recommendations of the Committee who were appointed in 1889 to consider the effect and causes of the floods in the Midnapore district. The immediate cause of the Notification was the construction of a ring embankment which obstructed twelve of the water-courses referred to."

The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee asked:—

(a) Is the Government aware that about a year ago Rani Hari Priya Debi, eight-anna proprietor of the Jullamutha Estate, submitted a memorial to Government to allow her to construct bunds, and that no order has yet been passed upon the memorial; and that Babu Bhupendranarain Roy, the other eight-anna proprietor of the Julamala Estate, submitted a petition to the Collector of Midnapore as Superintendent of embankments in that district, praying that he may be allowed to construct bunds as provided for by Government when making the settlement, and that no order has yet been passed upon the memorial?

(b) Will the Government be pleased to pass early orders on the memorials, so that the proprietors may not be subjected to further heavy losses in the future?

The Hon'ble Mr. Finucane replied:—

"(a) It is correct that Rani Hari Priya Debi submitted a memorial to Government for permission to construct embankments on her estate; it is also correct that Babu Bhupendranarain Roy submitted a similar petition to the Collector of Midnapore, upon which the Superintending Engineer has recently reported.

"(b) The matter, which is a difficult and complicated one, is still under consideration, but as at present advised, Government can hold out no hope to the petitioners of the possibility of acceding to their requests."

The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee asked:—

Is the Government aware that the Executive Engineer of Balasore has been prosecuting the land-holders within the prohibited area before the Criminal Courts with a view to prevent them from constructing petty bunds, and is it the case that convictions in these cases have been upset on appeal either by the Sessions Judge or the High Court? Will the Government be pleased to lay on the table a list of the number of such proprietors with the result of the criminal prosecutions instituted against them before the Sub-divisional Magistrate and the result on appeal or revision?

The Hon'ble MR. FINUCANE replied:—

"Government is not at present in possession of complete information as to the number of criminal prosecutions instituted by the Executive Engineer of Balasore or as to the result of them on appeal or revision. It is understood that cases have been instituted under the provisions of the law, where amicable negotiations had failed. Further enquiry will be made on the subject."

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked:—

Is the Government aware that the entire portion of the Majamutha Estate, which is held under the direct management of Government, has been excluded from the prohibitory tract, and will the Government state why this indulgence has been shown to the Government, and why the proprietors of private properties have been debarred from it?

The Hon'ble MR. FINUCANE replied:—

"It was considered necessary to extend the prohibition of the Notification only to such areas as were within one mile of any drainage channel, beyond which distance it was not considered that the prejudicial effect of embankments upon the water-courses would be operative. The lands of the Majnamutha estate fall beyond the limit prescribed, and were not therefore included in the Notification. In any case Government would not erect embankments which would be injurious, and it would be unnecessary for Government by notification to prohibit itself from doing what it had no intention of doing."

THE PROVINCIAL EDUCATIONAL SERVICE.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked:—

I have the honour to call attention to the observations noted in the margin which occur in paragraph 20* of the Government Resolution on the re-organisation of the Education Department, dated the 26th March, 1897, and to ask what steps, if any, have been taken for giving effect to the intentions of the Government for improving the position of officers in the lower classes of the Provincial Service of the Education Department, and if not, whether, having regard to the savings effected by the re-organisation scheme, will the Government be pleased to give full effect to the intentions of Sir Alexander Mackenzie in this respect?

* The Lieutenant-Governor now sanctions the introduction of the new scheme with effect from 1st August, 1896. His Honour observes that, owing to the narrowness of the scale of the Provincial Service, as compared with existing salaries, the prospect of officers in the lower classes are very discouraging. For instance, officers now placed in class VI on Rs. 250 of the service are all in class III (Rs 200—20—300) of the existing service, and before they can receive any increase of pay, they must rise to the top of class VI, and then move slowly to the top of class V. He also observes that the Provincial Service of other Provinces are practically devoid of class VIII on Rs. 150. Sir Alexander Mackenzie regrets this state of things, and, with a view to improving the prospects of Provincial Service officers, he proposes at an early date to consider whether something may not be done by assigning a greater number of appointments to some of the intermediate classes.

The Hon'ble MR. FINUCANE replied:—

"The Provincial Educational Service was benefitted by the re-organisation scheme to the extent of some Rs. 60,000 a year. Sir Alexander Mackenzie submitted proposals to the Government of India by which further benefits would be conferred on the lower grades of that service, but the Government of India were unable to grant further concessions."

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked:—

Will the Government be pleased to state (a) how many vacancies have occurred in the different grades of the Provincial Service since the date of the re-organisation; (b) how many vacancies in the 6th and 7th classes have been filled up by promotions from the Subordinate Service, how many by appointments of outsiders and how many by promotions of officers in the VII and VIII classes respectively of the Provincial Service; (c) whether this practice of appointing outsiders and promoting from the subordinate ranks has not materially prejudiced the prospects of officers in these two classes; (d) whether, considering the block that exists, Government thinks it desirable to grant any extension to officers who have already attained their 55 years and to promote officers in the Subordinate Service to Provincial posts, to the detriment of officers already in that service; (e) whether if the exigencies of the service make such promotions unavoidable, will the Government be pleased to place officers thus promoted to the last class of the Provincial Service with personal allowances equal to the difference of their pay and that of class VIII of that service, without superseding those who are already in the Provincial Service?

The Hon'ble MR. FINUCANE replied:—

"(a)—The vacancies which have occurred in the different grades of the Provincial Service since the date of re-organisation are—1 in class I; 2 in class III; 2 in class IV; 2 in class V; 5 in class VI; 3 in class VII and 3 in class VIII. Those vacancies in the several classes include those which arose from death, retirement and promotion.

"(b) The vacancies mentioned above imply 12 vacancies in class VI; of these none has been filled up by promotion from the Subordinate Service, three have been filled up by the appointment of native gentlemen who were outsiders, to the vacancies caused by the retirement from the Indian Service of Sir Alfred Croft and Messrs. Ewbank and Stack, and another outsider will take the place of Mr. Robson, who has been transferred to the Punjab. The remainder either have been or will be filled by promotions from class VII. The vacancies in class VII, as implied by the figures given in answer to (a) would be 15. These must be reduced by the four outsiders; so that they come to 11 in all; of these three have been filled by the appointment of officers from the Subordinate Service. The remainder either have been or will be filled up by promotions from class VIII.

"(c) The practice of 'appointing outsiders' existed under the old system, and cannot be altogether avoided if the efficiency of the Department is to be maintained. There have been three cases of promotion from the subordinate ranks. These have been treated as exceptional cases. Two of the officers had been selected by Sir Alfred Croft for special preferment in the former Subordinate Service, and would have found a place in the Provincial Service had the re-organisation taken place at a somewhat later date. It was thought right that they should take the places in the Provincial list according to the relative positions formerly held in the former Subordinate Service by those into whose ranks they were being admitted. The third officer stood next to these two, and it was thought right that he should receive similar treatment. It has been ruled that if an Officer is in future promoted from the Subordinate to the Provincial list, he shall be placed at the bottom of the class corresponding in pay to that which, as a Subordinate Service Officer, he had been receiving. Instances of this kind will be rare.

"(d) As regards extensions of service to officers who have attained the age of 55, the Government is bound by the orders contained in Article 503 of the Civil Service Regulations, which, on financial grounds, discountinance the compulsory retirement of an efficient officer, except for special reasons.

"(e) For financial reasons it is not possible to act upon the suggestion made by the Hon'ble Member."

The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee said:—

I have the honour to call attention to the remarks noted in the margin contained in the 7th paragraph* of the Resolution of the Government of India, dated the 23rd July, 1896, and to ask (a) how many officers teaching general subjects and how many teaching oriental languages have not been included in the Provincial Service; (b) whether the last four appointments of class VIII (vide Resolution No. 1244, dated the 26th March, 1898, of the Government of Bengal) are not new appointments not originally included in the assigned number 107 of the Provincial Service sanctioned by the Government of India; (c) if they are new, whether it would not be more consistent with the spirit of the Government Resolution quoted above to create four additional posts in that service, having regard to its subsequent increased needs which were not contemplated before; (d) whether the present arrangement has not seriously prejudiced the interests of the Professors who were already in the Education Service at the date of the last letter (No. 2832, dated the 14th August, 1895,) of the Government of Bengal on the subject of the re-organisation of the Education Department, but were placed in the Subordinate Service list?

*The principles upon which appointments recruited for in India are to be classed in the Provincial or in the Subordinate Service are:—
(1) that the line between the two services will be drawn rather according to the nature of the office held than according to pay;
(2) that generally Professors Inspectors and Joint and Assistant Inspectors are to be included in the Provincial Service; and Deputy Inspectors, Head Masters of district schools and officers of lower rank in the Subordinate Service, &c., &c.

The Hon'ble Mr. Finucane replied:—

"(a) Two officers in the Bethune College for Ladies and one officer in the Chittagong College, who teach general subjects, have not been included in the Provincial Service. College Maulvis and Pandits, who have not been so included, are ten in number. The Provincial Service cadre was fixed on the supposition that three such appointments should be given to the Bethune College, and two to the Chittagong College, and this has been done. If more consideration were shewn to these institutions, it could only be done at the expense of the larger and more important Government institutions. As regards Professors of Oriental Languages it so happens that one more than the number originally intended for admission is now actually employed in the Provincial Service.

"(b) The last four appointments are not new appointments properly speaking. They have in no way increased the number of appointments originally fixed for the several colleges. In the case of Babu Hridoy Chandra Bannerjee, he is in addition to the complement originally assigned to the Presidency College, but in consequence of this the Dacca College is one short of its assigned number.

"(c) The appointments are not new.

"(d) The interests of Professors who remain in the subordinate list are not, it is believed, injuriously affected by the changes which have taken place, as some of their number will doubtless in time find a place in the Provincial Service, and it may be presumed that all round they will be gainers."

The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee asked:—

Whether having regard to the very great inconvenience and hardship entailed on the officers of the Subordinate Service by the new scheme being held in abeyance on the one hand, and the practical suspension of their promotion under the old scheme on the other, will the Government be pleased to issue a revised promotion list according to the old Subordinate Service scale, until the orders with regard to the new scheme have been received from the Government of India?

The Hon'ble Mr. Finucane replied:—

"The Government of Bengal has asked the Government of India to allow the scheme which has been placed in abeyance to be resuscitated, with retrospective effect, and as the interests of officers are as far as possible being safe-guarded, no good would come of issuing a revised list according to the old Subordinate Service scale."

ALLEDGED LAWLESSNESS IN BURRA BAZAR.

The Hon'ble Babu Norendra Nath Sen asked:—

Whether it is known to Government that, notwithstanding all that has recently been done to suppress lawlessness at Burra Bazar in Calcutta by legislative and executive measures, there still exists in that locality a band of professional ruffians, called Gundahs, who habitually terrorize over people; and if so, what steps, if any, it is intended to keep them under more efficient control, and stamp out the evil altogether, if possible?

The Hon'ble Mr. Finucane replied:—

"The Commissioner of Police reports that so far as he knows there are no bands of gundahs in Burra Bazar at present. He has received no complaints of lawlessness or terrorism for several months back. Should there be any outbreaks of lawlessness or terrorism in Burra Bazar or elsewhere in Calcutta, Government will take prompt measures to suppress them."

PLAGUE IN CALCUTTA.

The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee asked:—

Will the Government be pleased to make a statement with regard to the suspicious cases of plague which have recently appeared in Calcutta? Are they cases of true bubonic plague? Will the Government be pleased to lay on the table the Report of Dr. Haffkine on the subject.

The Hon'ble Babu Norendra Nath Sen said:—

In view of the panic and alarm caused in Calcutta by the reports of several suspicious cases of plague in the City and of the exodus that has already commenced, I have the honour to enquire to what extent the Government will be prepared to mitigate the stringency of the rules in regard to the arrangements required to be made for segregation and disinfection, in the case of respectable people, especially as regards purdah women and children, in the event of an outbreak of the plague?

(a) Have any cases occurring in Calcutta been reported to Government as cases of plague?

(b) Has Government taken any steps to ascertain if there are or were real cases of plague? If so, what are those steps?

(c) Has Dr. Haffkine pronounced any opinion as to the nature of the bacilli he may have found in the blood and fluid of the glands of patients that were sent to him? Is Government aware that there are differences of medical opinion as regards the bacteriological diagnosis of plague; that the true bacillus of plague, if there is any, has not yet been positively determined: that some say it is Kitasato's bacillus, others that it is Yersin's,—which is the true plague bacillus? Others again have said that there is a third variety which is found in plague cases, and that it is yet uncertain which is the real pathogenic bacillus. Under these circumstances, would it not be premature to declare Calcutta to be a plague-stricken city? If Government had acted on the opinion of the late Health Officer of the Calcutta Corporation, Dr. Simpson, Calcutta would long ago have been declared as such. Would it have been proper to do so?

The Hon'ble Mr. Turner asked:—

Has the attention of the Government been drawn to the alleged cases of plague in Calcutta during the past week, or cases of disease resembling plague, and will the Government be pleased to state the result of the enquiries made in connection with the said cases?

The Hon'ble Mr. Risley replied:—

"I will answer all the questions relating to plague together. The facts are as follows:—On the night of the 16th April a sudden death from fever, accompanied by swelling of the glands of the left groin, occurred in Kapalitola, a crowded locality near Bow Bazar. The post-mortem examination showed symptoms which were regarded by the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals, the Sanitary Commissioner and the Health Officer of Calcutta as suspicious. On the other hand an experienced local practitioner considered the case to be one of septicœmic fever of a type known to him as not uncommon in Calcutta. The deceased was a native of Eastern Bengal, resident in Calcutta, and there was no evidence whatever of his having had any communication with persons coming from the areas in Bombay and the Panjab which are infected with plague. The house in which he died was thoroughly disinfected; all persons who had been in contact with him were removed to a segregation camp in Narkooldanga; and all clothes which might convey infection were burned, compensation being at once paid to their owners. Cultures were made from the important organs and were sent to Monsieur Haffkine at Bombay for bacteriological examination.

"On the following day three other persons in Kapalitola were found to be suffering from somewhat similar symptoms. One of these, a boy two years and-a-half old, has since died, and the other two are under observation. Seven other persons who had been in contact with the deceased were discharged after detention for ten days, during which time they showed no suspicious symptoms.

"A Dom who assisted at the post-mortem examination got accidentally pricked in the finger, and has been dangerously ill, but is now reported to be recovering.

"On the 27th April three more cases occurred in the neighbourhood of Kapalitola, one of which was fatal.

"On the 24th April four cases of which three were fatal, occurred in Market Street and Municipal Office Street, and on the same day a man died with suspicious symptoms at 39, Ezra Street. On the 27th four more cases occurred in the same locality, two of which have proved fatal. There were three cases, one fatal, on the 28th; and two more, one of which died, occurred yesterday.

"On the 25th April a bearer in the employ of Messrs. Kilburn and Company died suddenly at 4, Fairlie Place, and on the following day a second bearer of the same firm died in Jaun Bazar.

"On the morning of the 28th a man employed in Clive Street was admitted into the contagious ward of the Campbell Hospital with suspicious symptoms, and died the same evening.

"On the 27th April four cases were admitted into the Medical College Hospital from Phear's Lane, Chunam Gully and Champatola.

"Owing to the admitted existence in Calcutta at all times of the year of a form of fever accompanied by bubonic swellings, which on occasions proves fatal, and in view of the fact that the general death-rate of the town for the week ending the 23rd April was only 31·3 per thousand per annum as compared with 38·9, the mean death-rate of the corresponding period for the last five years, there seemed until yesterday morning to be room for doubt as to the character of the suspicious deaths which have occurred during the last fortnight. That, I fear, can now no longer be said. Monsieur Haffkine, whose authority on the subject of plague is undoubted, now reports by telegram: "Cultivation sent from Calcutta produced typical plague involution forms. Identity with plague microbe undoubted." The Lieutenant-Governor has conferred with all the Medical Officers of Government who have seen the suspicious cases, and they are unanimous in pronouncing them to be true plague. As I have already stated, no connexion can be traced between the persons affected, all of whom are residents of Calcutta, and any travellers who have arrived from the areas now infected in the Bombay Presidency and the Panjab. All such travellers are most carefully inspected at Chausa and Chakardharpur. Their railway tickets are punched with a peculiar mark before they leave the infected area, and persons holding such tickets are kept under observation throughout the journey and for ten days after their arrival in Calcutta. No suspicious cases have been discovered among the persons from Bombay and the Panjab who are now under observation here, and the Health Officer, after making special inquiry into the point, has been unable to trace any connection between the local cases and the arrivals from infected areas. Rats, however, have been found dead in considerable numbers in the press-room of the East Indian Railway and in godowns connected with the coasting trade with Bombay, and it is possible that the infection has been imported by these animals.

"The fact already mentioned, that the general death-rate of the town is exceptionally low, affords grounds for believing that the cases which have now been reported are the first which have occurred, and that if the people co-operate cordially with the Government it may be possible to prevent the disease from gaining a firm footing in the town. The possibility of plague appearing in Calcutta has long been foreseen, and a scheme for dealing with it was prepared by the Chairman of the Corporation in consultation with the Government some months ago. As part of that scheme twenty-five doctors and as many nurses were procured from England, and it was arranged that until their services were required in Calcutta they should be employed and paid by the Bombay Government. The Bombay Government has now been asked by telegram to send two doctors and two nurses at once for duty in Calcutta, and more will be called for as occasion may demand. Meanwhile from the very first as ample precautions have been taken as if the first case had been known to be a case of plague. A plague hospital and a segregation camp had already been prepared; the suspected cases were removed to the hospital, and the contact cases isolated at the camp. All houses believed to be contaminated have been disinfected as thoroughly as possible, and places in which dead rats have been found have been thoroughly cleansed.

"The measures to be adopted in dealing with an outbreak of plague are stated briefly in Chapter XVI, Report on the Plague in India, 1896, 1897, recently published by the Government of India. They are the following:—

(a) The prompt detection of cases by carefully enforced death registration, house-to-house visitation, and such other means as are found practicable.

(b) The segregation of the sick and their careful nursing and treatment in well-ventilated and sanitary hospitals.

(c) The segregation, after disinfection of clothing, bedding, &c., under medical supervision and in sanitary surroundings, of the persons who, by association with the sick, have been especially exposed to the risk of infection.

(d) The evacuation of infected houses and localities, the inmates being lodged in carefully supervised health camps.

(e) The thorough cleansing and disinfection of infected houses and localities before the inmates are permitted to return.

(f) The enforcement of general sanitary precautions, such as extensive cleansing of dwellings, freer admissions of light and air, destruction or modification of insanitary buildings, improvement of drainage and conservancy, abatement of overcrowding, and opening out of congested localities.

"Plague Regulation No. 9 of the 10th November 1897 gives effect to these principles in Calcutta, but mitigates them in the case of the upper classes by providing in rule 46 for the formation of private hospitals and segregation camps subject to the necessary precautions.

"To these must now be added inoculation with the prophylactic virus prepared by Monsieur Haffkine in his Laboratory at Bombay. Monsieur Haffkine asserts that inoculation by this material "prevents from 80 to 90 per cent. of deaths from plague and reduces the plague from an epidemic form to the position of a sporadic disease." Surgeon-Major-General Harvey was deputed by the Government of India last month to Bombay specially to examine the results of M. Haffkine's inoculations. This Government asked to be informed of Dr. Harvey's conclusions, and enquired further whether, if those results were favourable, the Government of India would agree to any modification of the segregation system. The Government of India have replied that Surgeon-Major-General Harvey's report is being forwarded by post. It is stated to be generally favourable to the system of inoculation; but the Government of India consider that the inoculation of the inmates of an infected house cannot take the place of the evacuation of the house, which is essential for the purpose of disinfection. They hold that the inmates of an infected house may be given the option of being inoculated instead of being removed to an observation camp for the full period of incubation; but after inoculation it will be necessary to keep them in a segregation camp during the course of the inoculation in order that they may be properly sheltered and kept under medical surveillance. As soon as the process of inoculation is over they may be released from segregation. The Government of India also consider that the inmates of houses round an infected house may, if they submit to inoculation, be exempted from both evacuation of the houses and segregation of their inmates. These concessions do not affect the treatment of persons actually suffering from plague in uninoculated households, who must be segregated either in public or private hospitals. But now that the efficacy of the Haffkine virus has been demonstrated, the experiment will be tried of exempting all families, which have been entirely inoculated prior to the occurrence of any case of plague among them, from liability to segregation. That is to say, if a member of a completely inoculated family is attacked by plague, neither he nor his family will be liable to removal to a segregation camp. This privilege will be subject to the strict proviso that any case that may occur in the family must be reported to the Health Officer within twelve hours of the patient falling ill, and that the directions of the Health Officer as to the isolation of the patient within the house and the daily disinfection of all parts of it are faithfully carried out. The Lieutenant-Governor wishes it to be distinctly understood that while on the faith of the experience in Bombay he strongly commends the method of inoculation to the people, inoculation will be pressed on no one. Every man will be left entirely free to satisfy himself of its efficacy and of the propriety of asking for it in the circumstances of his own household. Every assistance will be given to those who do apply, but the matter is left absolutely and entirely to the discretion of the people themselves.

"This Government has already recognised and given effect to the principle that all hospitals, whether Government hospitals or private caste hospitals, should be so arranged as to provide accommodation for the immediate family of the patients. It is of the first importance that the sick people should not be separated from their families. In the plans that have been drawn up for the plague hospitals now under construction the unit is the family block, which is divided into two parts communicating with each other—one for the patients and the other for the members of the family who accompany them. Each such block will be self-contained and secluded, and will be so arranged that female patients can be admitted without any violation of their purda. The physicians of the family will be admitted at all times, and any method of treatment that is desired may be resorted to. There can be no question that the most dangerous place for the members of an uninoculated family is the house or room in which the plague-stricken person was attacked, and that they will be far safer in the hut in which he is being treated because it is open to light and air.

"Finally, I may explain that the third question asked by the Hon'ble Babu Narendra Nath Sen is based upon a misapprehension of the scientific aspects of the subject. Only one plague bacillus is known. It was discovered almost simultaneously and independently by Kitasato and Yersin during the Hong-Kong epidemic of 1894. Their discovery has been verified during the present epidemic in India by Monsieur Haffkine, Mr. Hankin, various Medical Officers of the Government of India, the members of the scientific missions sent to Bombay by the Governments of Germany, Austria, Russia and Egypt, and by other foreign scientific authorities. But this bacillus produces three different forms of plague—simple, septicœmic and pneumonic—according as it attacks different parts of the human system. The bacilli discovered by Dr. Simpson were not plague bacilli at all. They were common atmospheric bacilli, and Dr. Cunningham showed conclusively that they did not come from the blood of the persons supposed to be suffering from plague, but were the result of contamination by the air."

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT said:—"To the very clear and calm statement which has been read to you by the Hon'ble Mr. Risley, I think it is desirable that I should, on an occasion so important, add a few words of my own.

"You have heard that not till yesterday were we able to say whether the dropping cases which have occurred during the last ten days were or were not plague. It is, alas, now certain that they were plague, and, as was our duty, we have told you frankly and at once.

"But I want you to take courage, and to give courage to those whom you represent and influence.

"You know now that in a population of 800,000 people there has been only the absolutely infinitesimal occurrence of a couple of dozen cases in ten days. They are few and sporadic, and every one has been dealt with as it occurred, with the entire precautions that the plague rules require. We think, therefore, we may assume that the plague has been taken firmly and in time. We have had the immense advantage over Bombay in 1896 that we were on our guard, and that the plague had not established itself before it was recognised. It has come at a time of year which is the least advantageous to the spread of it, and in a season which, as the Hon'ble Mr. Risley has shown to you, is exceptionally healthy. There is therefore every reason to hope and believe that we shall succeed in preventing the plague from assuming an epidemic form; and in all the encouraging features of the case no sensible person will feel the smallest grounds for alarm. I am sure you will all join with me in circulating to your constituents this consoling and re-assuring character of the case.

"In another and very important matter I will ask you to give your aid in re-assuring the people. Whenever segregation is necessary, it will be carried out with the strictest regard to the feelings of human nature. No wife shall be separated from her husband, no husband from his family, and the better classes will receive every encouragement in the arrangement of private hospitals in their own compounds or in garden houses in the suburbs to which they can remove themselves and their families in case of attack. But in addition to all this mitigation of the Bombay rules, we have announced to you to-day the success of a new method. Inoculation, I repeat, will be pressed on nobody, but in this method, when once you have assured yourselves of its efficacy, lies, I am satisfied, the assurance of safety to our city. I have made a great experiment. We have intimated to you that when families have been completely inoculated, we will leave them alone, even if plague attacks a member of it. It is a risk, but a risk worth running. We accept it because we believe the inoculated patient will have the very mildest form of attack, and he will not be a material danger to his family or his neighbours.

"The policy of segregation is a painful necessity; the policy of inoculation we suggest to you is, at last, and for the first time in the great battle with plague in India, a policy of hope.

"Therefore it is, gentlemen, that I bid you be of good cheer. Our plague is meanwhile a mere tiny business, for which we have made the most careful preparations, and which we hope to keep a tiny business. But should it be otherwise, we start our battle under conditions and with methods which give us assured hopes of such a victory as has not yet been won in India.

"I am told that large numbers of people are leaving Calcutta under the apprehension that quarantine is about to be established. They may be re-assured. There is no such intention whatever."

CALCUTTA TRAMWAYS.

The Hon'ble Mr. TURNER said:—

I would like to call attention to the nuisance to the public caused by the dilapidated condition of the Calcutta Tramways, and to ask if the Local Government would take action to compel the Corporation to put them in order?

The Hon'ble Mr. RISLEY replied:—

"The question is governed by sections 13 and 18 of Bengal Act I of 1880 as regards the portion of the Tramways within the jurisdiction of the Corporation, and by section 3 of Bengal Act II of 1884 as regards the portion outside that jurisdiction. The Government has no power to compel the Corporation to put the Tramways in order."

SALT BILL.

The Hon'ble Mr. Grimley, with the leave of the Council, postponed till the next session, the following motion standing in his name, namely—"that the Bill to amend the Salt Law in Bengal be referred to a Select Committee consisting of the Hon'ble Mr. Risley, the Hon'ble Mr. Turner, the Hon'ble Babu Kali Charan Banerjee, the Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee and the Mover." He said:—

"I shall be consulting the wishes of Hon'ble Members if I ask permission to defer the consideration of this motion until the meeting of the Council in the rains. I therefore ask permission to postpone this motion."

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT said:—"To this course the Government has no objection. It is an important Bill, and I shall be glad if all Hon'ble Members will thoroughly consider it before the Council proceeds to discuss it."

EXTENSION OF THE POLICE ACT V OF 1861 TO CALCUTTA AND SUBURBS.

The Hon'ble Mr. Finucane moved that the Report on the Bill to extend certain portions of the Police Act, V of 1861, to the Town and Suburbs of Calcutta be taken into consideration, and that the clauses of the Bill be considered in the form recommended by the Select Committee. He said:—

"I understand there is no opposition to the Bill, and it is therefore unnecessary for me to say anything."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. Finucane also moved that the Bill, as amended, be passed. He said:—

"On Saturday last I asked for a postponement of the consideration of this Bill, because the Select Committee had introduced a new and important principle in the Bill, and it was necessary to obtain the sanction of the Government of India to it. That sanction has now been obtained."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Council adjourned sine die.

FINAL REPORT ON THE WHEAT CROP OF 1897-98 IN BENGAL.

THE following is published for general information.

M. FINUCANE,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

The 9th May 1898.

DEPARTMENT OF LAND RECORDS AND AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

Final Report on the Wheat Crop of 1897-98 in Bengal.

Explanatory.—In previous years, the final report on the wheat crop furnished estimates of the area and outturn of the wheat crop of the principal wheat-growing districts only. In order to make the report complete, estimates are now furnished of the crop in all the wheat-growing districts of these Provinces.

Under the standing orders of Government, an abstract statement is also annexed to this note, giving the reports of District Officers as to the sufficiency of food-stocks in their districts and the general level of the prices of food-grains during the past year.

2. Character of the season.—It has been already stated in the different forecasts recently published by this Department that the rainfall of the monsoon season of 1897 was favourable to the sowing of all kinds of rubi crops, inasmuch as it was abundant and well distributed and left sufficient moisture in the soil to enable the seeds to germinate. There was copious rain in October; in November the rainfall was slight though well distributed, and in December it was below the normal. In January, in Bengal Proper, the rainfall was above the normal; but was deficient in the important wheat-growing districts of Bihar, as also in Orissa and Chota Nagpur. In February, the rainfall was above the normal in North Bengal and Bihar, and below the normal elsewhere. In March, the rainfall throughout the Province was less than the normal. More or less general rain was received in April.

3. Area cultivated.—The total area sown this year, as will be seen from the district returns appended to this note, amounts to 1,573,400 acres, and that sown last year amounts to 1,341,700 acres. There is thus an increase in the area sown this year of 231,700 acres, or 17·26 per cent., over last year's area. This is mainly due to the favourable character of the season.

Outturn.—In the preliminary forecast, the general outturn of the wheat crop was estimated at 15 annas. Since the issue of that forecast, the weather has been good on the whole, and there appears to be no reason to modify this estimate. The outturn of the previous year was only 10 annas. The gross outturn in 1897-98 may be estimated at 594,700 tons against 387,000 tons in the previous year.

4. The following is a summary of the harvests of the year 1897-98. It has been obtained from the marginally-noted reports issued by this Department:—

Final report on the bhadoi crops in Bengal, 1897, dated 18th December 1897.
Final report on the winter rice crop in Bengal, 1897, dated 18th December 1897.
Note on the outturn of the rabi crops in Bengal for 1897-98, dated 9th April 1898.

Bhadoi crops.—The season was favourable to the cultivation of bhadoi crops. The total area cultivated with all kinds of bhadoi crops in 1897 amounted to 16,323,700 acres against 15,864,100 acres cultivated in the previous year. Eleven out of 45 districts reported crops varying from above 16 annas to a little below 19 annas, six districts returned average crops of 16 annas, twenty-seven districts returned crops varying from above 12 annas to a little below 16 annas, and only one district reported a poor crop of 9 annas. The general yield of the bhadoi crops was estimated as over the average of 16 annas. The crop of the previous year was estimated at 10½ annas only.

Winter rice.—The season generally was very favourable to the cultivation of the winter rice crops. The total area cultivated in 1897 amounted to 31,572,700 acres against 29,143,200 acres cultivated in 1896. Two districts of these Provinces reported bumper crops of 20 annas; twenty-one districts reported bumper crops varying from above 16 annas to 19 annas; eleven districts reported average crops of 16 annas; and the remaining 11 districts returned crops varying from 14 to less than 16 annas. The crop for the Province as a whole was estimated by this Department at 18 annas against an 8-anna crop for the previous year.

Rabi crops.—The season for the rabi crops was also favourable. The outturn in 1897-98 of all the rabi crops of these Provinces, and also of such special crops as sugar-cane, tobacco, &c., was estimated at 15½ annas against 10½ annas estimated for 1896-97. The outturn of the rabi food crops, inclusive of sugarcane, was estimated at 16¼ annas for 1897-98, as compared with an outturn of 10¾ annas estimated for the previous year.

5. Food-stocks and prices of food-grains.—The statement as to food-stocks and the prices of food-grains is of especial interest this year, showing as it does how the plentiful harvests of the past six months are assisting the country to recover from the famine of 1896-97. From almost every district, it is reported that the food-stocks of previous harvests are not plentiful and that prices have ruled higher. But at the same time the large majority of District Officers report that the supply of food-grains in the present year has been above the average, and that prices have fallen since the recent crop of winter rice has come into the market.

Although the prices of common rice and wheat have now fallen below the level they stood at in April 1897, they are still far above the average, and it cannot perhaps be hoped that they will fall permanently until the deficiency of food-stocks has been made good.

Wheat exports from Bengal and Bihar—From the statistics given in the margin, it will be seen that the imports of wheat into Calcutta from Bengal and Bihar for the nine months April to December 1897, amounted to 1,33,205 maunds, as compared with 5,25,039 maunds, the imports of the corresponding period of 1896, and an average of 7,45,916 maunds for the past five years. Short crops and high prices are the explanation of this great fall in the export trade in wheat in Bengal and Bihar.

Imports of wheat into Calcutta from Bengal and Bihar during nine months April to December 1897.

N.B.—Twenty annas to be taken as representing a bumper crop, 16 annas an average crop, 12 annas three-fourths of an average crop, and so on.

STATEMENT II.

Abstract of the information regarding the prices and general condition of stocks of the supply of food-grains in the Province for 1897-98, as furnished by District Officers.

DISTRICT.	Cause of extension of wheat cultivation in recent years.	Whether the produce of the year's supply of food-grains has been much above or much below the average.	Whether the food-stocks of former harvests are plentiful or not.	Whether the prices of food-grains generally have ruled higher or lower than usual.	What have been the causes of increase or decrease of exports of wheat, and how far has the movement been influenced by a scarcity or otherwise of food-grains.	Remarks by the Agricultural Department.
Burdwan ...	......	Considerably above the average ...	The food-stocks of former harvests are reported to be not very plentiful, owing to large exports.	The prices of food-grain generally have ruled higher than usual.	Very little wheat is cultivated in this district, and what is cultivated is grown for home consumption and not for export.
irbhum ...	......	Much above the average	Food-stocks of harvests previous to 1895 were plentiful. The outturn of 1896 and 1898 was below the average. On the whole the stock at the commencement of the year was more than sufficient for the district. There was, however, brisk expert during the year which reduced the food-stock.	Very high at the commencement of the year, the highest figure (6 seers 12 chitaks) being attained in August 1897, though there was an appreciable fall on the harvesting of the aman crop. The year closed with higher prices than those prevalent in previous years.	There was no export of wheat from this district during the year.
Bankura ...	......	Average crop during the year ...	There were only an 8¼ annas crop in this district during 1896-97 and 9¼ in 1895-96, followed by heavy exports; consequently the food-stocks of former harvests are not at all plentiful now.	Owing to the failure of crops, there was a famine in the district during 1897-98, and the prices of food-grains generally ruled higher than usual.	Wheat is not much grown in this district, and there is no exportation. It is imported in small quantities from other districts to meet the demand of the people whose staple food, however, is rice.
Midnapore ...	......	Above the average in the Sadar and Ghatal subdivisions, but an average one only in the Contai and Tamluk subdivisions.	Plentiful in the Sadar subdivision and not plentiful in other subdivisions.	The price of food-grains generally have ruled higher than usual.	A very small quantity of wheat is exported from the Sadar subdivision.
Hooghly ...	......	Much above the average	The food-stocks of former harvests are not plentiful.	During the first part of the year, the prices of food-grains ruled higher than usual. During the latter part of the year, after the harvest of the winter rice crops, prices have been lower than in the corresponding period of the previous year.

Howrah ...	......	Much abov average	The food-stocks of former harvests are not plentiful.	The prices of food-grains generally have ruled higher than usual. The price of common rice rose from Rs. 3-2-9, the average of four years, to Rs. 4-8-10 per maund during last year.	......
24-Parganas ...	......	Supply of food-grains has been an average one.	Food-stocks of former harvests are not plentiful.	The prices of food-grains generally have ruled higher than usual.	There has been no export of wheat from this district.
Nadia ...	......	Below the average	Not plentiful	Higher than usual	There has been an increase in the exportation of wheat owing to a better outturn of rice, which is the principal food-grain of the people.
Murshidabad...	......	The outturn of the winter rice has been 16 annas, whereas that of other food-grains, such as wheat, &c., is considerably below the average.	The food-stocks of former harvests are not plentiful.	The prices of food-grains ruled much higher than usual from April to October. The prices approximated to average rates during the latter part of the year.	The export of wheat has been about the average, and has not been influenced by scarcity or any other cause.
Jessore ...	......	A little above average	Food-stocks of former harvests are not plentiful.	Prices of food-grains generally ruled higher than usual.	Wheat is only grown in two subdivisions in this district. There is probably no exportation.
Khulna ...	......	Well above the average	Food-stocks of former harvests are not plentiful.	The prices of food-grains ruled higher than usual from the beginning of the year up to November last, when the plentiful supply of winter paddy reduced the price to ordinary rates.	......
Rajshahi ...	......	A little below the average	Food-stocks of former harvests are not plentiful.	The prices of food-grains have ruled generally higher than usual.	There was no export of wheat.
Dinajpur ...	......	Above the average. It was estimated about a 17-anna crop all round.	Food-stocks are not plentiful ...	The prices of food-grains have ruled higher than usual.	There is no cultivation of wheat in this district worth speaking of.
Jalpaiguri ...	......	Above the average	The food-stocks are not plentiful ...	Prices of food-grains ruled higher than usual.	There is no export of wheat from the district. Only a small area is under this crop, and the produce is locally consumed.
Rangpur ...	......	A little above average	The food-stocks are not plentiful ...	Prices of food-grains ruled much higher than usual, till September, when the aus crop was harvested. There was a steady fall in prices till the month of January; since then the price remained steady.	Wheat is not exported from this district to any appreciable extent.

DISTRICT.	Cause of extension of wheat cultivation in recent years.	Whether the produce of the year's supply of food-grains has been much above or much below the average.	Whether the food-stocks of former harvests are plentiful or not.	Whether prices of food-grains generally have ruled higher or lower than usual.	What have been the causes of increase or decrease of exports of wheat, and how far has the movement been influenced by a scarcity or otherwise of food-grains.	Remarks by the Agricultural Department.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7
Bogra ...	......	Much above the average	The food-stocks of former years' harvests are very scanty, owing to large exportation to other districts.	The prices of food-grains have ruled very much higher than usual.	......
Pabna ...	......	Some what below the average ...	The food-stocks of former harvests were practically nil.	The prices of food-grains have ruled much higher than usual.	There is practically no wheat cultivation in this district.
Dacca	......	A little above the average	The food-stocks have not been plentiful.	The prices of food-grains generally have ruled higher than usual.	......
Mymensingh	......	Ditto ditto	The food-stocks of former harvests are not plentiful.	Ditto	The cultivation of wheat is very limited in this district.
Faridpur ...	......	About average	Not plentiful in the beginning of 1897-98; moderately plentiful at present.	Higher than usual	Wheat is not extensively cultivated in the district, hence there is no export of the crop.
Backergunge...	......	Above average	The food-stocks of former harvests are very scanty.	The prices of food-grains have generally ruled higher than usual.	......
Tippera ...	......	Little above the average	The food-stocks of former harvests are, if not plentiful, at least sufficient.	The prices of food-grains have generally ruled higher than usual.	......
Noakhali ...	......	The supply of food-grains was 4 annas above the average.	The food-stocks are not plentiful ...	The prices of food-grains have ruled higher than usual.
Chittagong ...	......	Below the average	The food-stocks are not plentiful ...	The prices of food-grains have generally ruled higher than usual.
Patna ...	......	Above the average	The food-stocks of former harvests are not plentiful.	The prices of food-grains ruled much higher than usual.	There has been no noticeable increase or decrease in exports of wheat.
Gaya ...	......	Above the average	The food-stocks of former harvests are not plentiful, owing to the prevailing scarcity in other districts.	The prices of food-grains generally ruled higher than usual during the first half of the year and they have been about average during the remaining months of the year.	This district is not a wheat growing district.

Shahabad ...	......	Ditto	The food-stocks are plentiful in Buxar and Bhabua subdivisions: not so in Arrah and Sasaram subdivisions.	The prices of food-grains have generally ruled higher than usual.	Export of wheat from Arrah is reported to be nil, which seems doubtful. The export figures for Buxar and Sassaram are reported to be not available. The Subdivisional Officer of Buxar, however, reports the export trade was brisk, due to better harvest of rabi crops there than in the neighbouring parts of Bihar or the North-Western Provinces. The movement was not influenced by scarcity. Decrease in export has been reported in Bhabua.
Saran ...	......	Bhadoi 14 annas, winter rice 17½ annas and rabi 17 annas, that is, bhadoi below the average and winter rice and rabi above the average.	The food-stocks of former harvests are almost exhausted, as the food grains during 1896-97 were much below the average.	Prices generally have ruled higher than usual.	Very little wheat is exported from this district.
Champaran ...	......	Not below the average	The food-stocks of former harvests were very scanty.	The prices of food-grains were generally very much higher than usual in the first half of the year; they were much lower in the latter part of the year.	There has been a decrease in the export of wheat due to the general scarcity.
Muzaffarpur ...	......	Somewhat above the average	The food-stocks are plentiful ...	The prices have generally ruled higher than usual.	Wheat is not exported from this district.
Darbhanga ...	......	Was an average one	Food-stocks of former harvests may be estimated almost nil, owing to scarcity in 1896-97.	The prices have been little higher than the average.	The wheat crop is not grown largely in the district; the produce is utilised for local consumption.
Monghyr ...	......	A little above the average	Food-stocks are plentiful everywhere, excepting in the Jamui subdivision.	Prices of food-grains were very high till about the end of October.	There has been an increase of exports of wheat, owing to famine in the North-Western Provinces and Western Districts of Behar.
Bhagalpur ...	......	The supply of food-grains has been an average one all round, and in places much above it.	The food-stocks of former harvests are not plentiful.	Prices of food-grains were higher than normal. Latterly they have been almost normal.	There is no extensive cultivation of wheat in the district. There does not appear to have been any marked fluctuation in the export trade this year.
Purnea ...	......	The supply of food-grains has been nearly up to the average.	Food-stocks are not plentiful ...	The prices of food-grains ruled very high at the beginning of the year 1897-98, and the prices began to fall in August and September.	There was little export of wheat from this district, the produce being consumed locally.
Malda ...	......	An average one	Food-stocks are not adequate ..	The prices of food-grains ruled unusually higher from June to October 1897. They are becoming lower since then.	Export of wheat was much less than in previous years owing to high prices.

District.	Cause of extension of wheat cultivation in recent years.	Whether the produce of the year's supply of food-grains has been much above or much below the average.	Whether the food-stocks of former harvests are plentiful or not.	Whether prices of food-grains generally have ruled higher or lower than usual.	What have been the causes of increase or decrease of exports of wheat, and how far has the movement been influenced by a scarcity or otherwise of food-grains.	Remarks by the Agricultural Department.
Sonthal Parganas.	......	Above the average in most parts of the district.	The food-stocks were practically exhausted in the late famine.	The prices of food-grains have generally ruled high.	The Subdivisional Officer of Godda reports that large quantities of wheat were exported to Behar and the North-Western Provinces; that of Rajmahal reports decrease in the export, and that of Pakour says, that the export is normal.
Cuttack ...	......	Supply of food-grains has been well up to the average.	The food-stocks of former harvests were small and scanty.	In the beginning of the year the prices of food-grains were very high till the winter harvest was brought into the market.	A very limited quantity of wheat is grown in the district. None is exported.
Balasore ...	......	A little below the average	The food-stocks of former harvests are not plentiful.	Prices ruled higher on account of scarcity, though moderate during the latter part of the year 1897.	Wheat is not exported from this district.
Angul and Khondmals.	......	An average one	The food-stocks of former harvests were deficient.	The prices of food-grains ruled little higher than usual owing to the bad harvests of previous years and to exports in large quantities to Cuttack and Ganjam.	Wheat is not much grown in this district and is not exported.
Puri ...	......	The supply of food-grains is below the average.	The food-stocks of former harvests are not plentiful, owing to flood and subsequent drought.	The prices of food-grains generally ruled higher than usual.
Hazaribagh ...	......	Slightly over the average crop ...	Food-stocks of former harvests were exhausted by the famine.	Prices of food-grains ruled higher than usual up to November. They have become normal again.	Wheat is not exported from this district.
Lohardaga ...	......	About the average	Food-stocks of former harvests are not plentiful.	The prices of food-grains have ruled higher than usual.	Wheat is grown only in a very small quantity in this district, and is never exported.
Palamau ...	......	Below the average	The food-stocks have been exhausted owing to famine in this district.	Prices of food-grains generally have ruled very high indeed.	Wheat is not exported from this district.
Manbhum ...	......	Above the average	The food-stocks of former harvests are not plentiful.	The prices of food-grains ruled unusually high up to August. After that time they began to fall.	Wheat is not grown largely enough in this district as to admit of export.
Singhbhum ...	......	Fully up to the average	The food-stocks are not plentiful owing to last year's short crops.	The prices of food-grains ruled higher than usual.	There is no trade in wheat in this district.

FINAL REPORT ON THE OILSEED CROPS OF BENGAL, 1897-98.

THE following is published for general information.

M. FINUCANE,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

The 10th May 1898.

DEPARTMENT OF LAND RECORDS AND AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

FINAL REPORT ON THE OILSEED CROPS OF BENGAL, 1897-98.

Explanatory.—This report furnishes estimates of the area and outturn of the different kinds of oilseeds grown in these Provinces, inclusive of both the rabi and bhadoi varieties of til.

As explained in the first forecast issued on the 22nd February last, the normal areas shown in column 4, Appendix A, are based generally on the average areas sown in the past five years. For the districts, however, of Jessore, Shahabad, Saran, Champaran and Manbhum, the estimates of District Officers have been accepted, as they have been returned after careful revision.

2. Character of the season.—The character of the early part of the season was reviewed in the preliminary forecast issued in February last. It may be thus summarised:—The good rainfall of the monsoon of 1897 left sufficient moisture in the soil for the sowing of the oilseed crops. More than the normal fall of rain was received throughout these Provinces in October. In November, rain was well distributed. In December, the fall was a little below the normal. In January, rain was deficient in Bihar, Orissa and Chota Nagpur, but above the normal in Bengal Proper. In February, the rainfall was lighter than usual in South-West and East Bengal and in Orissa, and was heavier than usual in North Bengal and Bihar. In Chota Nagpur, it was almost normal. The latter half of February was almost entirely rainless. Since the issue of the first forecast, there has been very little rain. In March, the fall was less than the normal in all parts of these Provinces. In the first half of April rain was slight and scattered, but in the latter half it was more general.

3. Area cultivated.—In the first forecast of the oilseed crops, the total normal area under oilseeds in those Provinces was estimated at 3,920,900 acres. In the returns now received, estimates of normal area have been revised by many District Officers, and the total as now returned amounts to 4,004,900 acres. The total area cultivated this year amounts to 4,160,800 acres, while that cultivated last year amounts to 3,520,600 acres. There is thus an increase in the estimate of area cultivated this year, both as compared with the estimate of normal area and with that of the area under cultivation last year, and this is due to the favourable character of the season up to and at the time of sowing.

4. Character of the crop.—Out of the 45 districts of these Provinces, 14 districts return crops of 16 annas and above, 22 districts report crops varying from 12 to a fraction less than 16 annas, and 9 districts report crops less than 12 annas. Twenty-three District Officers have not modified the estimate given in their first forecast, ten officers report that the crops have improved, and twelve that they have deteriorated.

These estimates support the general estimate of 14 annas given in the preliminary forecast for the Province as a whole. The outturn of the oilseed crop of 1896-97 was estimated at 11 annas over a smaller area cultivated.

5. Gross outturn.—The gross outturn of all kinds of oilseeds grown in these Provinces during 1897-98 is estimated at 719,600 tons against 483,200 tons which is believed to have been the outturn last year.

The normal rates of outturn assumed in calculating the gross outturn are for linseed, rapeseed and mustard, 6 maunds per acre, and for other oilseeds 4¼ maunds per acre.

BURDWAN (concld).	Midnapore	Linseed	15,600	11,700	20,600	6	10½	The increase in the area brought under cultivation this year as compared with last year is due to seasonable rain at the ploughing and sowing times and for the same reason the outturn is better. LIBERALITY OF NAWAB SIR KHWAJA AHSANULLA BAHADUR, K.C.I.E., OF DACCA.

No. 2978Medl., dated Calcutta, the 13th May 1898.

From—H. H. Risley, Esq., c.i.e., Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal, Municipal Dept.,
To—The Commissioner of the Dacca Division.

I am directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 217G, dated 3rd May 1898, in which you report that Nawab Sir Kwaja Ahsanulla Bahadur, k.c.i.e., of Dacca, has placed at your disposal a sum of one lakh of rupees to take the necessary measures for preventing the spread of the plague to Dacca, and, in case of its appearance in that town, for the proper treatment of the poor, both Muhammadans and Hindus, who may suffer from the disease. The Nawab has offered to pay another lakh of rupees if necessary for the purpose.

2. In reply, I am directed to say that the Lieutenant-Governor has much pleasure in publicly acknowledging this munificent gift and expressing his high appreciation of this further instance of the Nawab Bahadur's liberality. His Honour has already communicated his thanks to the donor by telegraph, and the fact has also been reported to the Government of India. A copy of this letter will be published in the Calcutta Gazette.

SUPPLEMENTARY REPORT OF THE CALCUTTA BUILDING COMMISSION.

NOTIFICATION—No. 3084M.

The 17th May 1898.—The following is published for general information.

H. H. RISLEY,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

SUPPLEMENTARY REPORT

BY THE

COMMISSION APPOINTED TO CONSIDER WHAT AMENDMENTS ARE REQUIRED

IN THE

IN CALCUTTA.

THE draft Bill for the amendment of the Calcutta Municipal Act, which was promised in the concluding paragraph of our former report, is submitted herewith.

2. We have carefully considered the question whether the municipal authorities should fix a street alignment or building line with the object of securing the gradual widening of streets as buildings fall or are removed. We think the attempt to widen streets by this procedure should be abandoned, because no appreciable result can be expected for a great many years, and in the meantime streets to which the procedure is applied as opportunity occurs will present unsightly gaps. As, however, the procedure in question has formed part of the municipal law of Calcutta since the year 1856, it might possibly be considered inadvisable to abandon it now. We have, therefore, dealt with the subject in Chapter II of the accompanying Bill, and recommend that, if the procedure in question be retained, the amendments shown in that Chapter should be adopted.

3. We have, in section 40 of the accompanying Bill, provided for the grant of licenses to builders on payment of annual fees. We recommend that similar provisions with respect to plumbers, surveyors, and drainage contractors should be inserted in the Calcutta Municipal Bill now before the Bengal Legislative Council.

4. We desire specially to invite attention to sections 99 to 108 of the accompanying Bill, dealing with the re-allotment of bustees. These sections are quite new. As far as we can see, they are likely to work well in practice, but we think it very desirable that public opinion should be specially invited with regard to them.

In section 101 we have provided for a reference to the Chief Judge of the Calcutta Small Cause Court when any owner of land in a bustee which it is proposed to re-allot is dissatisfied with the valuation assigned by the General Committee to his land. We recommend that, in cases where an owner claims that his land is worth more than Rs. 5,000, he should be allowed at his option to apply to the High Court to determine its value, instead of to the Small Cause Court.

5. With reference to clause (d)* of section 127 of the accompanying Bill, Babu Kally Nauth Mitter desires to invite attention to his dissent recorded in clause (e) of paragraph 138 of our former report, and to add that a limit of twenty-five times the assessed annual value would be specially unfair in the case of houses built for occupation by their owners.

6. We have not been able to frame a complete set of rules for regulating details of construction, for inclusion in Schedules A, B and C to the accompanying Bill. We recommend that the rules to be entered in these Schedules should be drawn by experts in engineering.

7. We have in the accompanying Bill described the Executive Committee as "the General Committee," believing that the use of the same expression as that employed in the Bill now before the Council would be found convenient. But we desire to say that we have settled the Bill on the supposition that the working of the clauses referring to this Committee will be entrusted to a Committee constituted in the manner recommended in paragraph 44 of our former report.

8. The accompanying Bill is not intended to set aside the dissents which have been recorded by individual members of the Commission in, or by way of annexure to, our former report. The members who recorded those dissents wish it to be understood that their views on the points dealt with in them remain unchanged.

9 We append minutes of our recent proceedings and some other papers which have been printed for us since our former report was submitted.

10. Messrs. Glass, Bright, and Banks-Gwyther having left India, the present report is submitted by the other members of the Commission.

The 4th May, 1898.

* I sign the Report subject to the reservations referred to in paragraphs 5 and 8 of this Report and to the further reservation that in my opinion the definition of the expression "materially alter" is far too wide to be of any practical use.

CHAPTER I.—PRELIMINARY.

Definitions.

1. In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,—

"Building-line."

(1) "building-line" means a line (in rear of the street alignment) up to which the main wall of a building abutting on a street may lawfully extend; [Draft Bill for Vienna.

"Building of the warehouse class."

(2) "building of the warehouse class" means a warehouse, factory, manufactory, brewery or distillery, and any other masonry building exceeding in cubical extent one hundred and fifty thousand cubic feet which is not a "public building" as defined in this section; [L. B. A., (28).]

"Bustee."

(3) "bustee" means an area containing land occupied by or for the purposes of any collection of huts— [Cal., s. 3.]

(a) standing on a plot of land not less than ten cottahs in area and bearing one number in the assessment-book, or

(b) standing on two or more plots of land which are adjacent to one another and exceed in the aggregate one bigah in area and are not separately numbered in the assessment-book;

"Bustee land."

(4) "bustee land" means land in a bustee which is let out for the building of huts under an arrangement by which the tenant of the land is the owner of the hut; [Cal., s. 3.

"Cubical extent."

(5) the expression "cubical extent," when used with reference to the measurement of a building, means the space contained within the external surface of its walls and roof and the upper surface of the floor of its lowest or only storey; [L. B. A., s. 5 (24).]

"Dwelling house."

(6) "dwelling-house" means a masonry building constructed, used or adapted to be used wholly or principally for human habitation; [L. B. A., s. 5 (25).

"Height."

(7) the expression "height," when used in relation to a building, means the measurement taken— [L. B. A., s. 5 (21).]

(a) from the level of the footway (if any) immediately in front of the centre of the face of the building or (where there is no such footway) from the level of the ground before excavation,

(b) to the level of the top of the parapet or (where there is no parapet) to the level of the top of the external wall or, in the case of a gabled building, to the base of the gable;

"House-drain."

(8) "house-drain" means any drain of, and used for the drainage of, one or more buildings or premises, and made merely for the purpose of communicating therefrom with a sewer or drain vested in the Corporation; [P. H. A., s. 4; P. H. A., 1890, s. 19 (3).]

(Chapter I.—Preliminary.—Section 1.)

"Hut." (9) "hut" means any building no portion of which above the plinth level is constructed of masonry; [Cal., s. 3.]

"Inhabited room." (10) "inhabited room" means a room in which some person passes the night, or which is used as a living room, and includes a room with respect to which there is a probable presumption (until the contrary is shown) that some person passes the night therein or that it is used as a living-room; [L. B. A., s. 5 (37).]

"Masonry building." (11) "masonry building" means any building other than a hut;

"Materially alter." (12) the expression "materially alter," when used with reference to a building, includes— [Panjab Municipal Act, 1891, s. 94; Bye-laws (c) 1, 21; C. B C paras. 80, 81, 99, 112.]

(a) the addition of any buildings, rooms, out-houses or other structures to any building,

(b) any alteration of a masonry wall, frame wall, roof, ceiling, iron construction, staircase, shaft for lighting or ventilation, lift-shaft, fire-place or chimney in a building,

(c) any alteration of any projecting part of a building,

(d) any other alterations of the internal arrangements of a building which effect an alteration of its drainage, ventilation or sanitary arrangements or affect its security,

(e) any repairs to a building which involve the entire or partial demolition and re-construction of any of the structures enumerated in sub-clause (b) of this clause, and

(f) in the case of a hut, the re-building of a wall or roof;

"Occupier." (13) "occupier" means any person for the time being paying or liable to pay to the owner the rent or any portion of the rent of the land or building in respect of which the word is used, and includes an owner living in his own house or hut;

"Owner." (14) "owner" includes the person for the time being receiving the rent of any land or building, or of any part of any land or building, whether on his own account or as agent or trustee for any person or society or for any religious or charitable purpose, or who would so receive the same if the land, building or part thereof were let to a tenant; [Panjab Municipal Act, XX of 1891, s. 3 (5); Cal., s. 3.]

"Private street." (15) "private street" means any road, street, square, court, alley, passage or riding path which is not a "public street" as defined in this section, but does not include a pathway made by the owner of a building on his own land to secure access to, or the convenient use of, such building; [Bom., s. 3 (v).]

"Public building." (16) "public building" means a masonry building constructed, used or adapted to be used— [L. B. A., s. 5 (27).]

(a) as a place of public worship, or as a school, college or place of instruction (not being a dwelling-house so used), or as a hospital, work-house, public theatre, public hall, public concert-room, public ball room, public lecture-room, public library or public exhibition-room, or as a public place of assembly, or

(Chapter I.—Preliminary.—Section 2.)

(b) for any other public purpose, or

(c) as an hotel, lodging-house, home, refuge or shelter, where the building exceeds in cubical extent two hundred and fifty thousand cubic feet, or has sleeping accommodation for more than one hundred persons;

"Public street." (17) "public street" means any road, street, square, court, alley, passage or riding path, whether a thoroughfare or not, over which the public have a right of way, and includes— [Cal. s. 3.]

(a) the roadway over any public bridge or causeway, and

(b) the footway attached to any such street, public bridge (other than the Howrah bridge) or causeway, and

(c) the drains attached to any such street, public bridge or causeway, or

(d) if there be no drain attached to any such street, all land up to the outer wall of the premises abutting on the street, or, if a street alignment has been fixed, then up to such alignment; [C. B. C., para. 61.]

"Re-erect." (18) the expression "re-erect," when used with reference to a building, includes— [Punjab Municipal Act, 1891, s. 94; Cal., s. 235; L. B. A., s. 5 (6); C. B. C., para. 80.]

(a) the re-construction of a building after more than one-half its cubical extent has been taken down or burnt down or has fallen down,

(b) the roofing of any space between one or more walls and buildings,

(c) the conversion of one or more huts or temporary structures into a masonry building,

(d) the conversion into a place for human habitation of any building not originally constructed for human habitation,

(e) the conversion into more than one place for human habitation of a building originally constructed as one such place,

(f) the conversion of two or more places of human habitation into a greater number of such places, and

(g) the alteration of a building for the purpose of effecting a partition amongst joint-owners;

"Sewer." (19) "sewer" includes sewers and drains of every description, and channels and every other device for carrying-off sullage, sewage or offensive matter and polluted water or rain-water or sub-soil-water, except drains included in the definition of "house-drain;" [P. H. A., s. 4.]

"Street." (20) "street" means a public or private street; and

"Street alignment." (21) "street alignment" means a line dividing the land comprised in and forming part of a street from the adjoining land.

Power to decide whether land is a bustee or bustee land. 2. The General Committee may decide whether any particular land is or is not a "bustee" or "bustee land" as defined in section 1, and their decision shall be final. [Cal., s. 3—"bustee land."]

(Chapter II.—Streets and Municipal Land.—Sections 3—8.)

CHAPTER II.—STREETS AND MUNICIPAL LAND.

Proprietary rights of the Corporation in respect of Streets and Public Spaces.

Public streets and squares vested in the Corporation.

3. All public streets and squares (not being the property and kept under the control of the Government or the Commissioners for the Port of Calcutta), including the soil, and the side-drains, footways, pavements, stones and other materials of such streets and squares, and all erections, materials, implements and other things provided for such streets or squares, shall vest in and belong to the Corporation. [Cal., s. 202; Ben. Act IV of 1894, s. 23.]

Certain open spaces vested in the Corporation.

4. All open spaces acquired under section 25, and all erections, materials, implements and other things provided for such spaces, shall vest in and belong to the Corporation.

Duties of the several Municipal Authorities in respect of Streets.

Naming of public streets.

5. (1) The Chairman shall from time to time cause to be put up or painted on a conspicuous part of some building, wall or place, at or near each end, corner or entrance of every public street, such name as the Corporation may from time to time determine as the name by which such street is to be known. [Cal., s. 217.]

(2) No person shall destroy, pull down or deface any such name, or put up any name different from that put up by order of the Chairman.

Numbering of buildings in or near street.

6. (1) The Chairman shall from time to time cause a number to be affixed in a conspicuous place on the outside of each building in or near a street or at the entrance of the enclosure of each such building. [Cal., s. 218.]

(2) No person shall destroy, pull down or deface any such number.

(3) When a number has been affixed under sub-section (1), the owner of the building shall be bound to maintain such number and to replace it if removed or defaced; and if he fails to do so the Chairman may by written notice require him to replace the number.

Maintenance and repair of public streets.

7. The General Committee shall, out of funds to be allotted by the Corporation, cause the public streets to be maintained and repaired, and for those purposes may do all things necessary for the public safety or convenience.

Powers of the several Municipal Authorities in respect of Public Streets and Municipal Land.

Power of General Committee to make and improve streets.

8. The General Committee, with the sanction of the Corporation, may— [Cal., s. 205; C. B. C., para. 44.]

(a) lay out and make new streets;

(b) construct new bridges and sub-ways;

(c) turn, divert, discontinue or permanently or temporarily close any public street or part thereof; and (d) widen, open, enlarge or otherwise improve any public street.

Chapter II.—Streets and Municipal Land.—Sections 9-12).

Powers of the several Municipal Authorities in respect of Public Streets and Municipal Land—contd.

Power to dispose of so much of a permanently closed street as is not required.

9. (1) When any public street is permanently closed under section 8, the Corporation may sell the site of so much of the roadway and footpath as is no longer required, making due compensation to any person injured by such closing and sale. [Cal., s. 2..]

(2) In determining such compensation, the Court shall make allowance for any benefit accruing to the same premises or any adjacent premises belonging to the same owner from the construction or improvement of any other public street, at or about the same time that the public street, on account of which the compensation is paid, is closed.

Power to define general line of buildings.

10. (1) The General Committee may give public notice of their intention to define the general line of buildings on each or either side of any public street at the time in existence. [Cal. s. 205.]

(2) Such line shall not be defined so as to extend further back than the line of the wall abutting on the street at its widest part.

(3) Every such notice shall specify a period within which objections will be received.

(4) The General Committee shall consider all objections received within the said period, and may then make an order defining the said line.

(5) Such order shall be published in the Calcutta Gazette and shall take effect from the date of such publication.

Restrictions on construction of buildings or walls within such line.

11. No portion of any building or wall abutting on a public street shall be constructed within the line (if any) defined under section 10: [Cal., s. 206; C.B.C., para. 57.]

Provided that the General Committee may permit additions to be made within such line if they merely add to the height of, and rest upon, an existing building or wall, upon the owner executing an agreement binding himself and his successors in interest—

(a) not to claim compensation in the event of the Committee at any time thereafter deciding that such additions or any portion thereof ought to be removed, and

(b) to pay the expenses of such removal.

Setting back projecting buildings or walls.

12. (1) When any building, wall or part thereof projecting across a line defined under section 10, or beyond the front of the building or wall on either side of such first-mentioned building or wall, has fallen down or been burnt down or taken down, the General Committee may, by written notice, require the same to be set back to or towards the said line or the line of either of the adjoining buildings or walls. [Cal., s. 297; Bom. s. 298; C.B.C., para. 58.]

(2) When any building or wall is set back in pursuance of any requirement made under subsection (1), the Corporation shall forthwith make full compensation to the owner of the building or wall for any direct damage which he may sustain thereby.

(3) The portion of land added to a street by virtue of any such requirement shall become part of the street and shall vest in the Corporation and the Chairman may forthwith take possession of the same on behalf of the Corporation and, if necessary, clear it.

(Chapter II.—Streets and Municipal Land.—Sections 13-18.)

Powers of the several Municipal Authorities in respect of Public Streets and Municipal Land —contd.

Setting buildings forward to improve street alignment of public street.

13. The General Committee may, upon such terms as they think fit, allow any building or wall to be set forward for the purpose of improving the street alignment of a public street. [Cal., s. 209.]

Removal or alteration of fixtures attached to building so as to project, etc., over public street or land.

14. (1) When any fixture has, whether before or after the commencement of this Act, been attached to a building so as to form part of the building, and the same causes a projection, encroachment or obstruction over or on any public street or any land vested in the Corporation, the General Committee may, by written notice, require the owner or occupier of the building to remove or alter such fixture. [Cal., ss. 221, 222 C. B. C., para. 63.]

(2) If the expense of removing or altering any fixture under this section is paid by the occupier of the building, in any case in which the fixture was not erected by himself, he shall be entitled to deduct the expense of removal or alteration from the rent payable by him to the owner of the building.

(3) If the owner or occupier of the building proves that any such fixture was erected before the first day of June, 1863, or that it was erected on or after that day with the consent of any municipal authority duly empowered in that behalf, the Corporation shall make reasonable compensation to every person who suffers damage by the removal or alteration of the fixture.

Alteration of doors, etc., opening outwards on public street.

15. (1) If any door, gate, bar or ground-floor window be hung or placed so as to open outwards on a public street in a manner likely, in the opinion of the General Committee, to cause obstruction, the General Committee may, by written notice, require the owner of the building or land to which the door, gate, bar or window is attached to cause the same to be altered. [Cal., s. 219.]

(2) Nothing in sub-section (1) shall apply to house-shutters so constructed as to fold flat to the wall, whether opening on to the ground or not.

Gutters and pipes for carrying water from building in public street.

16. The General Committee may, by written notice, require the owner of any building in a public street— [Cal., s. 220.]

(a) to put up proper gutters and pipes for catching and carrying the water from the roof and other parts of the building, and for discharging the same in such manner as may be directed in the notice, and (b) to keep such gutters and pipes in good condition.

Approach roads, and iron trunks thereunder.

17. (1) No person shall, without the written permission of the Chairman, construct an approach road to a building or land so as to cross the footpath of a public street, or otherwise to connect with a public street.

(2) When any such permission is given the owner of the building or land must provide at his own expense a suitable iron trunk, of a pattern approved by the Engineer, for the passage of water in the side channel of the street under the said approach road.

Power to direct alteration of pipes and appliances.

18. If the General Committee deem it necessary for any of the purposes of this Act that any pipes or appliances laid in any street should be raised or sunk or their situation altered, they [Cal., s. 227.]

(Chapter II.—Streets and Municipal Land.—Sections 19, 20.

Powers of the several Municipal authorities in respect of Public Streets and Municipal Land—contd.

may from time to time, by written notice, direct any person owning or having control over such pipes or appliances to have the work done, in such manner as the Committee may direct, either forthwith or as soon as conveniently may be:

Provided as follows—

(a) no direction shall be given for the execution of any such work in such a way as permanently to injure any of such pipes or appliances or to prevent the water, gas or other contents thereof from flowing as freely and conveniently as before; and

(b) the Corporation shall pay the expenses attending the execution of such work, and shall also pay full compensation for the damage done thereby, both to the persons to whom such pipes or appliances belong and to any other persons who may be injuriously affected.

Projected public streets.

19. (1) The General Committee may from time to time prepare schemes and plans of proposed public streets, showing the direction of such streets, the street alignment and building line on each side of them, their intended width, and such other details as may appear desirable. [Cal., s. 60, 208, C. B. C., paras 51, 54, 55, 60, 119 (7).]

(2) The width of such proposed streets shall not be less than forty feet, or, in a bustee, twenty feet, inclusive of space for footpaths:

Provided that this sub-section shall not apply in any case in which the street alignment runs along an existing street and the General Committee consider it impracticable to widen the street to the extent of forty feet or twenty feet, as the case may be.

(3) It shall be the duty of the General Committee to lay out public streets in bustees, so far as may be practicable, both for the purpose of securing proper ventilation for huts in such bustees, and in view to the contingency of masonry buildings being erected therein.

(4) When any plan has been prepared under sub-section (1), the street to which it refers shall be deemed to be a projected public street, and the provisions of section 12 shall apply to all buildings and walls which may fall down or be burnt down or taken down, so far as they stood across the street lignment or building line of the projected street.

Private Streets.

Making of new private streets.

20. (1) Any person intending to make or lay out a new private street must send to the Chairman a written notice containing the following particulars, namely:— [Cal., s. 213 C. B. C., para. 62.]

(a) the intended level and width of the street,

(b) the street alignment and the building line, and

(c) the arrangements to be made for levelling, paving, metalling, flagging, channelling, sewering, draining and lighting the street.

Private Streets—contd.

(2) The provisions of this Act as to the level and width of public streets and the height of buildings abutting thereon shall apply also in the case of streets referred to in sub-section (1), and all the particulars referred to in that sub-section shall be subject to approval by the General Committee.

(3) Within thirty days after the receipt of any notice under sub-section (1), the General Committee shall either sanction the making of the street, or disallow it, or ask for further information with respect to it.

(4) Such sanction may be refused—

(i) if the proposed street would conflict with any arrangements which have been made, or which are in the opinion of the General Committee likely to be made, for carrying out any general scheme of street improvement,

(ii) if the proposed street does not conform to the provisions of this Act referred to in sub-section (2), or

(iii) if the proposed street is not designed so as to connect at one end with a street which is already open.

(5) If further information is asked for, no steps shall be taken to make or lay out the street until orders have been passed upon receipt of such information.

Prohibition of breach of section 20.

21. No person shall make or lay out any street referred to in section 20, sub-section (1), until he has obtained the sanction of the General Committee under that section or in contravention of any orders made thereunder. [Cal., s. 214.]

Levelling, &c., of private streets.

22. (1) If any private street or any part thereof be not levelled, paved, metalled, flagged channelled, sewered, drained and lighted to the satisfaction of the General Committee, they may, by written notice to the respective owners or occupiers of the land fronting, adjoining or abutting upon such street or part, as the case may be, require them to level, pave, metal, flag, channel, sewer, drain and light such street or part. [Cal., s. 215.]

(2) If such notice be not complied with, the General Committee may, if they think fit, direct the Chairman to execute the works mentioned or referred to therein; and the expenses thereby incurred shall be paid by the owners in default, according to the frontage of their respective lands, in such proportion as may be settled by the General Committee or, in case of dispute, as may be settled in the manner provided by the Calcutta Municipal Bill for the settlement of disputes respecting expenses.

Power of General Committee to take over private streets.

23. (1) If any private street which conforms to the provisions of this Act referred to in section 20, sub-section (2), be levelled, paved, metalled, flagged, channelled, sewered, drained and lighted to the satisfaction of the General Committee, they may, if they think fit, and if three-fourths of the owners of buildings in such street signify in writing their consent thereto, declare the same, by written notice put up in any part of such street, to be a public street, and thereupon the same shall become a public street and shall vest in the Corporation. [Cal., s. 216.]

(Chapter II.—Streets and Municipal Land.—Section 24.)

Private streets—contd.

(2) The General Committee may, with the consent of the owner or all the owners thereof, take possession of any private street which conforms to the provisions of this Act referred to in section 20, sub-section (2); and thereupon such street shall become a public street and shall vest in the Corporation.

Acquisition of land.

Acquisition of land and buildings for improvement of public streets.

24. (1) The Chairman, with the approval of the Corporation, may acquire any land required for the purpose of opening, widening, extending or otherwise improving any public street, or of making any new public street, and the buildings, if any, standing upon such land. [Cal., s. 201.]

(2) The Chairman, with the approval of the Corporation and the sanction of the Local Government, may acquire [in addition to land and buildings acquired under sub-section (1)] any land outside the proposed street alignment, with the buildings, if any, standing thereupon, which the Corporation may, in the exercise of any of the powers conferred by sub-section (1), consider it expedient to acquire: [C. B. C., para. 131.]

Provided that, in any case in which it is decided to acquire any land under this sub-section, the owner of such land may retain it by paying to the Corporation an annual sum to be fixed by the General Committee in that behalf, or a lump sum to be fixed by the General Committee, not being less than the capitalized value of such annual sum.

(3) If any sum payable in pursuance of the proviso to sub-section (2) in respect of any land be not duly paid, the same shall be recoverable in the same way as the consolidated rate, and, if not so recovered, the Chairman may enter upon the land and sell the same, with any erections standing thereon, by public auction, and may deduct the said sum and the expenses of the sale from the proceeds of the sale, and shall pay the balance (if any) to the defaulter.

(4) Any sum paid in pursuance of the proviso to sub-section (2) or recovered under sub-section (3) in respect of any land shall be left out of account in determining the annual value of such land for the purpose of assessing it to the consolidated rate.

(5) Any land or building acquired under sub-section (2) may be sold, leased or otherwise disposed of by the General Committee; and any conveyance made for that purpose may comprise such conditions as the Committee think fit as to the removal of the existing building (if any), the description of new building (if any) to be erected, the period within such new building (if any) shall be completed, and any other similar matters.

(6) The General Committee may require any person to whom any land or building is transferred under sub-section (5) to comply with any conditions comprised in the said conveyance before they place him in possession of the land or building.

(Chapter II.—Streets and Municipal Land.—Sections 25-28.)

Acquisition of land—contd.

Acquisition of open spaces.

25. The Corporation may, by purchase on voluntary sale, or by the gift of the person or persons legally entitled to dispose of the same, or by proceeding under the Land Acquisition Act, 1894, or by taking possession of and laying out disused cemeteries or burial-grounds, acquire or accept the ownership of any open spaces, whether enclosed within rails or palings or unenclosed, and may lay out, close, enclose or dispose of the same in any manner they may think fit. I of 1894.

Prohibitions and Directions.

Regulation of verandahs, etc., projecting over streets.

26. (1) No verandah, balcony, sunshade, weather-frame or the like shall be erected so as— [Cal., s. 223 : C. B. C. para. 64.]

(a) to be supported by pillars resting on the pathway or roadway of a public street, or

(b) to project over any street having no footpath, or

(c) to project over any street which is less than forty feet wide.

(2) Subject to the provisions of sub-section (1), the General Committee may, at their discretion, give written permission, on such conditions as they may think fit with reference to payment of fees or rent or any other matter, to owners or occupiers of buildings abutting on any public street to put up verandahs, balconies, sunshades, weather-frames and the like, to project from any upper storey thereof over such street.

(3) On the breach of any such condition, the Committee may by written notice require the owner or occupier to comply with such condition.

(4) At any time after permission has been given under sub-section (2) to put up a verandah, balcony, sunshade, weather-frame or the like to project from a building, the General Committee may, by written notice, require the owner or occupier of the building to remove such projection on payment of compensation.

Hoards, fences and scaffoldings.

27. (1) If any person intends to erect or take down, or to alter or repair the outward part of, any building, and if any public street would be obstructed or rendered dangerous or inconvenient in consequence of the work, he shall, before beginning the work, cause sufficient hoards or fences to be put up in order to separate the building from the street, and shall maintain such hoards or fences standing and in good condition, to the satisfaction of the Chairman, during such time as the Chairman may consider necessary for the public safety or convenience, and shall cause the same to be sufficiently lighted at night. [Cal., s. 246.]

(2) No person shall put up any hoard, fence or scaffolding in a public street without the written permission of the Chairman.

Restrictions on making holes or depositing materials in public street.

28. (1) No person shall in any public street make a hole or deposit any building or other materials for any time longer than is necessary for immediate transit, without the written permission of the Chairman. [Cal., ss. 229, 230.]

Prohibitions and Directions—contd.

(2) When such permission has been granted to any person, he shall, at his own expense, cause such hole or materials to be sufficiently fenced and enclosed until the hole is filled up and otherwise made secure or the materials are removed, and shall cause the same to be sufficiently lighted at night.

(3) If any such person fails to obey any of the directions contained in sub-section (2), and any damage or injury arises, he shall be liable to indemnify the Corporation for any expenses or damages which they may have to pay by reason of such failure.

(4) If any person makes a hole or deposits materials without obtaining permission under sub-section (1), or encloses more of the public street than the Chairman has, under that sub-section, permitted him to enclose, or fails to fence, enclose or light any hole or materials as required by sub-section (2), or to fill up any hole or remove any materials when any permission given under sub-section (1) has lapsed or been withdrawn, the Chairman may, by written notice, require him to fill up such hole or remove such materials.

Prohibition of obstructions in public street.

29. (1) No person shall build any wall, or, without the consent of the Chairman, erect or set up any fence, rail, post, platform or other obstruction, projection or encroachment (not being a fixture referred to in section 14), or deposit any materials or goods, in a public street, or in or over any drain, sewer or aqueduct in a public street, or in or on any land vested in the Corporation. [Cal., s. 212.]

(2) Nothing contained in sub-section (1) shall be deemed to prevent the Chairman from permitting temporary erections in a public street on the occasion of any festival or ceremony, or for building purposes.

Bye-laws.

Power to make bye-laws.

30. (1) The General Committee may make bye-laws—

(a) for the regulation of open spaces acquired under section 25, and

(b) for regulating, in any particular not specifically provided for in this Act, all matters relating to the width and construction of streets and the fittings of streets.

(2) Any bye-laws made under clause (a) of sub-section (1) may provide for the removal by any police constable of any person infringing such bye-laws.

CHAPTER III.—Building Regulations.

A.—Building sites.

Requirements as to building sites.

31. No piece of land shall, after the commencement of this Act, be used as a site for the erection of a building—

(1) unless the site is of such a shape as to admit of the erection of a building the main axis of which will run either at right angles to the line of the nearest street or parallel therewith, or as nearly at right angles to or parallel with such line as the General Committee may consider practicable; and

(Chapter III.—Building Regulations.—Sections 32, 33.)

A.—Building sites—contd.

(2) if the site is within thirty feet of a tank, unless the owner satisfies the Engineer that he will take such order as will prevent any risk of the domestic drainage of the building passing into the tank; and [Cal., s. 47 (d).

(3) if the building to be erected is a public building, a dwelling-house or a hut,—

(a) unless the site is certified by the Engineer to be dry and well-drained or to be capable of being well drained, and

(b) if the site is a filled-up tank, or has been filled up with or used for depositing rubbish, offensive matter or sewage, unless the Engineer has examined the site and granted a certificate to the effect that it is, from a sanitary point of view, fit to be built upon. [Cal., s. 247(c); Bom., s. 348(e), Bye-law (f) 1; C. B. C., para. 78.]

Sale of site unsuitable for building.

32. (1) If any site is so shaped or situated or is of such size that the owner is debarred, by the operation of this Act or the bye-laws made hereunder, from erecting a building on the site, the General Committee may, with the consent of the owner, sell the site by public auction. [C. B. C., para. 74.]

(2) The General Committee shall, with the like consent, fix a price below which the site shall not be sold, and owners of adjacent lands shall have a right, in preference to all other persons, to buy the site at any sum bid at the auction over and above such price.

(3) The proceeds of the sale shall, after deducting the expenses of effecting it, be paid to the aforesaid owner.

Formation of plots into suitable building sites, and sale of such sites.

33. (1) When two or more adjoining plots of land are, by reason of their shape, situation or size, individually unsuitable for the construction of buildings in accordance with the provisions of this Act and the bye-laws made hereunder, and the owners of such plots cannot agree to amalgamate and re-divide the plots in order to admit of the construction of buildings as aforesaid, the General Committee may, on the written request of the owners of not less than half of the area of such plots, take possession of the land and form it into suitable building sites.

(2) When such sites have been so formed, the General Committee shall cause each of them to be separately put up for sale by public auction, and may fix in respect of each site a price below which it shall not be sold.

(3) If no sufficient offer is made at the auction for any site, the General Committee may, as often as they may think fit, cause it to be again put up for sale and alter the upset price, or may, with the consent of all the owners of whose land the site forms part, dispose of it by private sale.

(Chapter III.—Building Regulations.—Sections 34, 35.)

A.—Building sites -contd.

(4) The proceeds of every sale of a site under this section shall, after deducting the expenses of effecting the sale, be divided among the owners of the land from which the site was formed, in proportion to the relative value of their shares in such land; and such proportion shall be determined by the General Committee, whose decision shall be final.

Implied covenant in sales of land.

34. When any land is, after the commencement of this Act, sold as a site for the erection of a building, and the area is too small to admit of sufficient land being left for the formation of a street in accordance with the provisions of this Act, the instrument of sale shall be deemed, in the absence of an express clause therein to the contrary, to include a covenant binding the vendor, his executors, administrators and assigns, to provide free of further payment so much additional land as may be needed for the formation of such street.

B.—Buildings generally.

Power to regulate future erection of certain classes of buildings in particular streets or localities.

35. (1) The Corporation may, at the instance of the General Committee, give public notice of their intention to declare— [C. B. C., para. 120.]

(a) that, in any streets or portions of streets specified in the notice,—

(i) continuous building will be allowed subject to the provisions of this Act relating to continuous building, or

(ii) the elevation and construction of the frontage of all masonry buildings thereafter erected or re-erected shall, in respect of their architectural features, be such as the General Committee may consider suitable to the locality, or [C. B. C., para. 106.]

(b) that, in any localities specified in the notice, the erection of only detached buildings will be allowed, subject to the provisions of this Act relating to detached buildings, or

(c) that, in any streets, portions of streets, or localities specified in the notice,—

(i) the erection of shops will not be allowed without the special permission of the General Committee, or

(ii) the erection of buildings of the warehouse class will not be allowed without the special permission of the General Committee, or

(iii) the erection of buildings of the warehouse class will be allowed, subject to the provisions of this Act relating to such buildings, or

(iv) the erection of huts will not be allowed without the special permission of the General Committee. [C. B. C., para. 106.]

(Chapter III.—Building Regulations.—Sections 36, 37.)

B—Buildings generally—contd.

(2) No objections to any such declaration shall be received after a period of one month from the publication of such notice.

(3) The General Committee shall consider all objections received within the said period, and shall then report to the Corporation, who may prepare a declaration relating to the streets or localities referred to in the notice and submit the declaration to the Local Government, together with the said objections (if any) and their report upon them.

(4) The Local Government, after considering the said objections (if any), may confirm the declaration, and before doing so may modify it, but not so as to extend its effect.

(5) When any such declaration has been so confirmed, it shall be published in the Calcutta Gazette and shall take effect from the date of such publication.

Prohibition of inflammable materials for roofs or external walls.

36. (1) External roofs or walls of buildings erected or re-erected after the commencement of this Act, and external roofs or walls of any building which are materially altered after the commencement of this Act, shall not be made of grass, leaves, mats or other inflammable materials. [Cal., s. 224.]

(2) The General Committee may, by written notice, require the owner of any building situated in or near a street and contiguous to or adjoining any other building, and having at the commencement of this Act an external roof or wall made of any such material as aforesaid, to remove or alter such roof or wall.

(3) This section shall not apply to any garden-hut, orchid house, fernery or other similar structure within a compound, unless in any particular case the General Committee consider any such structure to be dangerous.

(4) Nor shall this section apply to the area which was added to Calcutta by the Calcutta Municipal Consolidation Act, 1889, or to any area hereafter included in Calcutta under the Calcutta Municipal Bill, or to any portion of any of those areas, until it has been specially extended thereto by resolution passed by the Corporation in meeting. Ben. II of 1888.

Provisions applicable to buildings hereafter erected, re-erected or materially altered:

37. The following provisions shall have effect in the case of buildings hereafter erected or re-erected, and shall also have effect in the case of any building hereafter materially altered, so far as regards the portion of the building so altered, that is to say:—

Height of buildings.

(1) Subject to the provisions of clause (2), if a building is to be, or is, situated at the side of a street, no portion of the building shall intersect any of a series of imaginary lines drawn across the street at an angle of forty-five degrees with the plane of the ground, such lines being drawn from the street alignment on the side of the street which is the more remote from the building in question, at the level of the pavement or of the centre of the street. [Bye-law (f) 2; C. B. C., paras 56, 114, 115.]

(Chapter III.—Building Regulations.—Sections 38, 39.)

B—Buildings generally—contd.

Explanation.—If a building be placed at the edge of the street, its height must not exceed the width of the street, but, if the building or one or more of its storeys be set back, the height of the building may be increased, subject to the condition that no portion of the building, after the height is increased, intersects any of the aforesaid lines.

(2) If a building is to be or is situated on a corner plot, so as to abut upon more than one street, the height of the building shall (unless the General Committee otherwise consent) be regulated by the wider of such streets so far as it will abut or abuts upon such wider street, and also so far as it will abut or abuts upon the narrower of such streets to a distance of forty feet from the wider street. [L. B. A., s. 19.]

Building over sewer or drain belonging to the Corporation. (3) A building shall not be placed over any sewer or drain belonging to the Corporation, except with the written consent of the General Committee. [Cal., s. 243 (d); C. B. C., para. 89.]

Passage for access to building from street. (4) Where only detached buildings are allowed, the passage affording access to a building from the street must be at least nine feet wide, and shall be sixteen feet wide in any case in which the General Committee may consider it practicable to secure a passage of that width. [C. B. C., 73.]

Distance between building line and street alignment. (5) In new streets where continuous building is allowed, the distance between the building-line and the street alignment shall not be less than four feet.

Level of buildings. (6) A building shall not be built upon a lower level than will admit of its drainage being led into some public sewer at the time existing or projected. [Cal., s. 243 (c); C. B. C., para. 89.]

Plinth. (7) The plinth of a building must be at least two feet above the level of the centre of the nearest street. [Cal., s. 243 (b); C. B. C., para. 89.]

Rules for construction of buildings hereafter erected, re-erected or materially altered. 38. The rules set forth in Schedule A, as amended from time to time in exercise of the powers conferred by section 132, shall have effect in the case of all buildings hereafter erected or re-erected, and shall also have effect in the case of any building hereafter materially altered, so far as regards the portion of the building so altered. [C. B. C., paras. 98, 101, 102.]

Drainage of buildings hereafter erected or re-erected. 39. The following provisions shall have effect in the case of buildings hereafter re-erected from the ground level or erected, that is to say:—

(1) The floor or lowest floor of the building must be constructed at such level as will admit of—

(i) the construction of a drain sufficient for the effectual drainage of the building, and

(ii) the provision of the requisite communication with some sewer into which the drainage may lawfully be discharged, at a point in the upper half of such sewer, or with some other means of drainage into which the drainage may lawfully be discharged.

(2) The drains prescribed by clause (1) of this section must be constructed in accordance with the rules contained in Schedule B, as amended from time to time in exercise of the powers conferred by section 132.

(Chapter III.—Building Regulations.—Sections 40, 41.)

C.—Masonry Buildings.

Licensed builders.

40. (1) No person other than a builder licensed by the Engineer shall be employed to erect, re-erect or materially alter any masonry building. [C. B. C., para. 50.]

(2) The Engineer may grant licenses under sub-section (1) to any persons whom he may consider competent to act as builders.

(3) Every such license shall be for a period of one year and shall be renewable at the end of each year.

(4) There shall be charged for every such license a special annual fee according to the following scale, namely:—

	Rs.
if the licensee holds a license under Class I of Schedule III annexed to the Calcutta Municipal Bill	500
if the licensee holds a license under Class II of the said Schedule	250
if the licensee holds a license under Class III of the said Schedule	25

(5) If any applicant for such a license is a Licentiate of Civil Engineering or has passed some test of professional qualification certified by the Chief Engineer, Bengal, to be equivalent to that for Licentiate of Civil Engineering, his application shall not be refused by the Engineer except upon the ground that the applicant is unfit, through incompetency, misconduct or other grave reason, to hold such a license. [Bom., s. 355 (2).]

(6) If the Engineer refuses any application for a license under this section, he shall, at the request of the applicant, give to the applicant his reasons for such refusal, in writing under his signature and without charge. [Bom., s. 355 (3).]

(7) Any license granted under this section may be withdrawn by the Engineer for reasons to be recorded by him in writing.

(8) An appeal shall lie to the General Committee from any order made by the Engineer under this section refusing or withdrawing a license.

External doors.

41. The General Committee may, by written notice,— [C. B. C., para. 122.]

(a) require the owner of any public building to provide the building with external doors or door-ways of such number, height and width as the Committee may consider necessary, or

(b) require the owner of any dwelling-house which is being erected, re-erected or materially altered to increase the size of the principal external door thereof to a height of seven feet and a width of three-and-a-half-feet, measured inside the door frame.

(Chapter III.—Building Regulations.—Section 42.)

D.—Dwelling-houses.

Provisions applicable to dwelling-houses hereafter erected, re-erected or materially altered:

42. The following provisions shall have effect in the case of dwelling-houses hereafter erected or re-erected, and shall also have effect in the case of any dwelling-house hereafter materially altered, so far as regards the portion of the house so altered, that is to say:— [C. B. C., para. 114.]

Proportion of site which may be built upon.

(1) The total area covered by all the buildings on the site shall not exceed two-thirds of the total area of the site. [C. B. C., para. 75.]

Damp-proof course.

(2) Every wall of the house must have a damp-proof course at or above the level of the ground-floor. [Bye-law (e) 3.]

(3) Such damp-proof course may consist of sheet lead, asphalt, slates laid in cement, vitrified bricks, or any other durable material impervious to moisture. [C. B. C., para. 100.]

Every room to be open to outer air.

(4) The whole of at least one side of every room must either be an external wall or abut on an interior courtyard or on a verandah. [Bye-law (f) 3.]

Size and ventilation of inhabited rooms.

(5) Every room which is intended to be used as an inhabited room— [Bye-law (f) 5, s. 7.]

(a) must be in every part not less than ten feet in height, measured from the floor to the upper point of the wall on which the roof rests;

(b) must have a clear superficial area of not less than eighty square feet; and

(c) must be provided, for purposes of ventilation, with door or windows opening directly into the external air, or into a verandah, and having an aggregate opening of not less than one-fifth of the superficial area of that side or one of those sides of the room which faces or face an open space.

Area of interior courtyard.

(6) The minimum superficial area of every interior courtyard shall be,— [Bye-law (f) 3; C. B. C., para. 116.]

in the case of a one-storeyed house, one-fourth of the aggregate floor area of all the buildings abutting on the courtyard, and in the case of a house having more than one-storey, twice the area hereinbefore prescribed for a one-storeyed house.

Width of interior courtyard.

(7) The minimum width of every interior courtyard shall be,— [Bye-law (f) 3; C. B. C., para. 116.]

in the case of one-storeyed house, fifteen feet, and in the case of a house having more than one-storey, twenty-five feet.

Prohibition of rooms over privies.

(8) No room other than a bathroom or privy shall be placed over a privy. [C. B. C., para. 120 (4).]

Open space at back and sides of house.

(9) Except in localities where the erection of only detached buildings is allowed, there must be at the back of the house, and on any side of the house which is not attached to the adjacent premises, an open space extending along the entire width of the house, unless such back or side abuts on an open square or the like which is dedicated to public use and is consequently not likely to be built upon. [Bye-law (f) 3, C. B. C., para. 117.]

The minimum distance across such open space, from every part of the house to the boundary line, or (if the boundary is a wall) the inner edge of the boundary wall, of the land or building

(Chapter III.—Building Regulations—Section 43.)

immediately opposite such part, shall, in the case of a one-storeyed house having a courtyard, be—six feet, if there is a building next to such boundary line or wall, or four feet, if there is an open space of at least four feet on the other side of such boundary line or wall.

If the house has no courtyard, the said minimum distance must, in the case of a one-storeyed house, be ten feet.

In the case of a house having more than one storey, the said distances of six feet, four feet and ten feet, respectively, must be increased as follows, namely:—

if there be two storeys, by one-half;
if there be three storeys, by one; and if there be four storeys, by one and a half.

Open space round detached house.

(10) In localities where the erection of only detached buildings is allowed, an open space must be left on each of the four sides of the house, and the width of such space, measured from the house towards the boundary of the site, must be at least as great as the house is high:

Provided as follows:—

(i) the space hereinbefore prescribed need not be left round servants' houses erected in the compound of a dwelling-house for the accommodation of servants employed in such dwelling-house;

(ii) servants' houses as aforesaid, stables and out-offices, not exceeding fifteen feet in height and twenty feet in depth, may be placed within the said space on not more than two sides of the dwelling-house, if a passage of not less than twenty-four feet is left between them and the dwelling-house;

(iii) the said space may be reduced in width on any two sides of the dwelling-house if a corresponding increase is made in the width of the space on the other two sides.

Interior courtyards and outward open spaces to be raised,

(11) Every interior courtyard and every open space prescribed by this section must be raised at least one foot above the level of the centre of the nearest street, so as to admit of easy drainage into the street. [Bye law (f) 4.]

and kept open.

(12) Every interior courtyard and every such open space must be open to the sky and must be kept accessible for the purpose of cleansing, and no structure shall be erected therein: [Bye law (f) .]

Provided that a boundary wall, a privy or a receptacle for ashes may be erected in any such open space.

Further provisions applicable to dwelling-houses hereafter erected re-erected or materially altered in a bustee:

43. (1) The following further provisions shall have effect in the case of dwelling-houses hereafter erected or re-erected in bustees, that is to say:— [C. B. C., para. 119 (6)]

(Chapter III.—Building Regulations— Sections 44-46.)

D.—Dwelling-houses—contd.

Land for street. (a) The owner of the land must give up all land which may be required so as to leave a space of twenty feet in front of and along the entire length of the boundary line of the premises. [C. B. C., para. 119 (1) (3).]

(b) All land so given up shall vest in the Corporation, and the owner shall receive reasonable compensation therefor. [C. B. C., para. 119 (1).]

Space at front, back and sides of house. (c) If the house is to be built on the site of a hut which was removed for the purpose, a space of at least nine feet must be left at the front and back and on each side of the house. [C. B. C., para. 119 (3).]

Pathway between house and hut. (d) If the house is to be built adjacent to a hut, a pathway of at least nine feet must be left between the two buildings. [C. B. C., para. 119 (5).]

(2) Clauses (a) and (b) of sub-section (1) shall also have effect in the case of any dwelling-house which is situated in a bustee and which is hereafter materially altered by enlarging the front of the house.

E.—Buildings of the warehouse class.

Open spaces for buildings of the warehouse class hereafter erected, re-erected or materially altered. 44. The provisions of clauses (9), (10), (11) and (12) of section 42, as to dwelling-houses, shall have effect in the case of buildings of the warehouse class hereafter erected or re-erected, and shall also have effect in the case of any such building which is hereafter materially altered, so far as regards the portion of the building so altered:

Provided that, when the building is to be or is situated in a locality which has been set apart, by declaration under section 35, for the erection of buildings of the warehouse class,—

(a) if the building is not detached, the distance across the open space prescribed by the said clause (9) need not be more than half the minimum prescribed by that clause, and

(b) if the building is detached, the open space prescribed by the said clause (10) need not be more than half as great as the building is high.

Height of buildings of the warehouse class. 45. Notwithstanding anything in section 37, any building of the warehouse class which is to be or is situated in a locality which has been set apart, by declaration under section 35, for the erection of buildings of the warehouse class, may be constructed to one-and a-half times the height permitted by the said section 37.

F.—Applications for approval of sites for, and for permission to erect, re-erect or materially alter, masonry buildings.

Application for approval of site for erection or re-erection of masonry building. 46. (1) Every person who intends to erect or re-erect a masonry building shall send to the Chairman— [Cal., ss. 235, 237 (6), C. B. C., arts. 72, 73, 75.]

(i) an application for approval of the site, and (ii) a site plan of the land.

(Chapter III.—Building Regulations.—Section 47.)

F—Applications for approval of sites for, and for permission to erect, re-erect or materially alter, masonry buildings—contd.

(2) The application must be written on a printed form (to be supplied by the Chairman free of charge), and must state the position of the site, the number assigned to it in the assessment-book, its dimensions and such other particulars as may be prescribed by the General Committee.

(3) The site plan must be drawn to a scale of not less than one twenty-fifth of an inch to a foot, must be sent in triplicate, and must show—

(a) the boundaries of the site;

(b) the position of the site in relation to neighbouring streets;

(c) the name of the street in which the building is proposed to be or is situated;

(d) the position of the building in relation to—

(i) the boundaries of the site,

(ii) all adjacent streets, buildings and premises within a distance of sixty feet of the site, and

(iii) (if there is no street within a distance of sixty feet of the site) some existing street or some street projected under section 19 or sanctioned under section 20;

(e) the means of access to the building from the street;

(f) the position and approximate height of all other buildings within forty feet of the site;

(g) the position, form, dimensions and ventilation of privies, urinals, drains, cesspools, stables, cow-houses, wells and other appurtenances of the building, and the inclination of such drains;

(h) free passage or way in front of the building;

(j) space to be left about the building to secure a free circulation of air, admission of light, and access for scavenging purposes;

(k) the width and level of the street (if any) in front, and of the street (in any) at the rear of the building, and

(l) such other particulars as may be prescribed by the General Committee.

Application to be sent and particulars furnished by person intending to erect, re-erect or materially alter a masonry building.

47. (1) Every person who intends to erect or re-erect a masonry building shall send to the Chairman— [Cal., ss. 235, 236; C. B. C., paras. 72, 75.]

(i) an application for permission to execute the work,

(ii) a plan of the building,

(iii) complete elevations and sections of the work intended to be executed, and

(iv) a specification of the said work.

(2) The application must be written on a printed form (to be supplied by the Chairman free of charge), and must state the description of the building, its dimensions, and such other particulars as may be prescribed by the General Committee. [Cal., s. 236, C. B. C., para. 82.]

(Chapter III.—Building Regulations.— Sections 48, 49.)

F.—Applications for approval of sites for, and for permission to erect, re-erect or materially alter, masonry buildings—contd.

(3) The plan of the building and the elevations and sections must be neatly and accurately drawn to a scale of one-eighth of an inch to a foot, and must be sent in triplicate, and the said plan must show,— [Cal., s. 237(a); C. B. C., paras. 72, 75.]

(a) the levels and width of the foundation of the building;

(b) the level of the lowest floor of the building; and

(c) the level of all courtyards and open spaces in the building or premises, and the plinth-level of buildings with reference to the level at the centre of the nearest street.

(4) The specification of the work intended to be executed must comprise full information as to the following particulars, namely:— [Cal., ss. 236, 237, 243, C. B. C., para. 75.]

(i) the materials and method of construction to be used for external walls, party walls, foundations, roofs, floors, fire-places and chimneys;

(ii) the manner in which roof and house drainage and the surface drainage of land will be disposed of;

(iii) the manner, if any, in which it is proposed to pave the courtyards and open spaces in the building or premises, and the slopes to which the surface is to be made in each case;

(iv) the means of access that will be available to scavengers to get to service privies;

(v) the purpose for which it is intended to use the building; and

(vi) if the building is intended to be used as a dwelling-house for two or more families, or as a place for carrying on any trade or business in which more than twenty people may be employed, or as a place of public resort,—the means of ingress and egress.

Explanation to clause (v).—If it is intended to use the building or any part thereof for any of the purposes specified in Schedule XVII to the Calcutta Municipal Bill, or as a stable or a cow-house, the fact must be expressly stated. [Bye-law (e) 8; C. B. C., para. 103.]

(5) Every person who intends to materially alter a masonry building shall comply with the foregoing provisions of this section in so far as they are capable of application to the intended alteration.

Signature of plans, elevations and sections.

48. The plans, elevations and sections referred to in sections 46 and 47 must be signed clearly and in a prominent place by the builder who is to erect, re-erect or alter the building, and by the owner of the building, and must, if in any case the General Committee so require, be certified by a surveyor licensed by the Committee. [Cal., s. 23 C. B. C., para. 72.]

Permission to erect or re-erect masonry building not to be given unless and until site approved.

49. Permission to erect or re-erect a masonry building shall not be given unless and until the Chairman has approved the site on an application sent to him under section 46. [Cal., s. 235; C. B. C. paras. 67, 75.]

(Chapter III.—Building Regulations.—Sections 50-52.)

F.—Applications for approval of sites for, and for permission to erect, re-erect or materially alter, masonry buildings—contd.

Work not to be commenced unless and until permission given.

50. The erection, re-erection or material alteration of a masonry building shall not be commenced unless and until the Chairman has granted written permission for the execution of the proposed work on an application sent to him under section 47. [Cal., ss., 235, 236; C. B. C., paras. 67, 68.]

Formulation of requirements and objections.

51. (1) All information and documents which it may be found necessary to require, and all objections which it may be found necessary to make, before deciding whether a site should be approved for a masonry building, or whether permission to erect, re-erect or materially alter a masonry building should be given, shall be respectively required and made in one requisition, and the applicant shall be apprised thereof at the earliest possible date. [C. B. C., para. 68.]

(2) Within thirty days after the receipt of any application under section 46 relating to a site, the Chairman may require the applicant— [C. B. C., para. 70.]

(a) to furnish him with any information on matters referred to in that section which has not already been given in the documents received thereunder; or

(b) to satisfy him that there are no objections which may lawfully be taken, on any of the grounds mentioned in section 56, to the approval of the site.

(3) Within thirty days after the receipt of any application under section 47, the Chairman may require the applicant— [Cal., s. 237; C. B. C., paras. 70, 83.]

(i) to furnish him with any information on matters referred to in that section which has not already been given in the documents received thereunder, or with any document prescribed by that section which has not been sent in; or

(ii) to satisfy him that there are no objections which may lawfully be taken, on any of the grounds mentioned in section 56, to the grant of permission to execute the proposed work.

(4) If any information or documents required under sub-section (2) or sub-section (3) is or are, in the opinion of the Chairman, incomplete or defective, he may, within thirty days after the receipt of the same, require further information or documents to be furnished. [Bom., s. 340.]

(5) If any requisition made under sub-section (2), sub-section (3) or sub-section (4) is not complied with within three months, the application received under section 46 or section 47, as the case may be, shall be deemed not to have been made. [Cal., s. 237; Bom., s. 341; C. B. C., para. 70.]

Approval of site when to be given or refused.

52. Within thirty days after the receipt of any application made under section 46 for approval of a site, or of any information required under sub-section (2), or of any further information required under sub-section (4), as the case may be, of section 51, or within thirty days after the Chairman has been satisfied that there and no objections such as are referred to in clause (b) of sub-section (2) of that section, the Chairman shall, by written order, either approve the site or refuse, on one or more of the grounds mentioned in section 56, to approve the site. [Cal., s. 235.]

(Chapter III.—Building Regulations.—Sections 53-56.)

F.—Applications for approval of sites for, and for permission to erect, re-erect or materially alter, masonry buildings—contd.

Permission to execute work when to be given or refused.

53. Within thirty days after the receipt of any application made under section 47 for permission to execute any work, or of any information or documents required under sub-section (3), or of any further information or documents required under sub-section (4), as the case may be, of section 51, or within thirty days after the Chairman has been satisfied that there are no objections such as are referred to in clause (ii) of sub-section (3) of that section, the Chairman shall, by written order, either grant permission to execute the work or refuse, on one or more of the grounds mentioned in section 56 or section 57, to grant such permission : [Cal., s. 237, C.B.C., paras. 68, 83.]

Provided that, when such application is for permission to erect or re-erect a masonry building, the said period of thirty days shall not, in any of the cases mentioned in this section, begin to run until the site has been approved under section 52. [Cal., s. 239.]

Record of reasons, and appeal, when approval or permission refused.

54. (1) Whenever the Chairman refuses to approve a building site for a masonry building, or to grant permission to erect, re-erect or materially alter a masonry building, he shall state specifically the grounds for such refusal, and the applicant may appeal to the General Committee against such refusal. [C. B. C., paras. 68, 77, 78.]

(2) If the General Committee reject any such appeal they shall, by written order, specifically state the grounds for such rejection. [C. B. C., para. 77.

Reference to General Committee if Chairman delays grant or refusal of approval or permission.

55. If, within the period prescribed by section 52 or section 53, as the case may be, the Chairman has neither given nor refused his approval of a proposed building site, or his permission to execute any proposed work, as the case may be, the General Committee shall be bound, on the written request of the applicant, to determine, by written order, immediately on the expiration of such period, whether such approval or permission should be given or not. [Cal., s. 244; C.B.C., para. 68.]

Grounds on which approval of site for, or permission to erect, re-erect or materially alter, a masonry building may be refused.

56. The only grounds on which approval of a site for the erection or re-erection of a masonry building or permission to erect, re-erect or materially alter a masonry building may be refused are the following, namely :— [C. B.C., paras. 68, 77.]

(1) that the proposed work, or any of the particulars comprised in the site plan, building plan, elevations, sections or specification, would contravene some specified provision of this Act or some specified bye-law made hereunder ; [Cal. ss. 235, 238.]

(2) that the application for such permission is not in conformity with sub-section (2) of section 46 or sub-section (2) of section 47, as the case may be;

(3) that any of the documents referred to in section 46 or section 47, as the case may be, have not been signed or certified as prescribed by or under section 48;

(4) that any information or documents required by the Chairman under section 51 has or have not been duly furnished; or

(5) that the applicant has no satisfied the Chairman that there are no objections which may lawfully be taken, on any of the grounds hereinbefore in this section mentioned, to the grant of the said approval or permission.

(Chapter III.—Building Regulations.— Sections 57-62.)

F.—Applications for approval of sites for, and for permission to erect, re-erect or materially alter, masonry buildings—contd.

Special powers for suspending or granting permission to erect a masonry building or convert huts, etc., into a masonry building.

57. Notwithstanding anything contained in section 56,— [Cal., s. 235.]

(a) if any street shown in the site plan is an intended private street, the Chairman may at his discretion refuse to grant permission to erect a masonry building or to convert one or more huts or temporary structures into a masonry building until the street is commenced or completed, and

(b) the Chairman, with the sanction of the General Committee, may for special reasons grant permission to erect a masonry building, or to convert one or more huts or temporary structures into a masonry building, on any site without reference to its position in relation to any street. [Cal., s. 235 C. B. C., para. 76.]

Fresh application after refusal to approve site or to permit execution of work.

58. When approval to a site for a masonry building, or permission to erect, re-erect or alter a masonry building, is refused, the applicant may at any time send to the Chairman a fresh application and fresh or modified documents under section 46 or section 47, as the case may be, framed with the object of meeting the objections for which such approval or permission was refused. [Cal., s. 238; C. B. C., para. 68.]

Lapse of permission, if not acted upon within one year.

59. If the erection, re-erection or alteration of any masonry building is not commenced within one year after the date on which permission was given to execute the work, the work shall not be commenced until a fresh application has been made and a fresh permission granted under this Chapter. [Cal., s. 239.]

G.—Supervision over erection, re-erection and material alteration of masonry buildings.

Notice by licensed builder before commencing work.

60. Not less than three days before any licensed builder commences to erect, re-erect, or materially alter a masonry building, he shall send to the Engineer written notice specifying the date on which it is proposed to commence the work and the date and number of his license.

Inspection during progress of work.

61. The General Committee, the Charman, the Engineer, and any municipal officer authorised by the Chairman in this behalf, may, at any reasonable time, enter on and inspect any masonry building which is being erected, re-erected or materially altered. [C. B. C., para. 85.]

Special inspection when work approaching completion.

62. (1) When the outer walls of any such building are complete up to the topmost beam level, the licensed builder shall send to the Engineer written notice of the fact. [C. B. C., para. 85.]

(2) The Engineer shall, within forty-eight hours after the receipt of any such notice, cause a notice to be served on the said builder and on the owner of the building or his agent, requiring them to appear on the premises at a time to be specified in such notice, and shall inspect the work at that time, in the presence of the said builder and owner or agent if they appear.

(Chapter III.—Building Regulations.—Sections 63, 64.)

G.—Supervision over erection, re-erection and material alteration of masonry buildings —contd.

Certificate of completion of work.

63. (1) If, on making such inspection, the Engineer finds that the work has been carried out in accordance with the provisions of this Act and the bye-laws made hereunder, he shall record a certificate to that effect, and shall give a copy thereof to the owner of the building or his agent.

(2) If, on making such inspection, the Engineer finds that the work has been carried out in contravention of any provision of this Act or of the bye-laws made hereunder, he shall record a statement specifying the defects, and shall, on the application of the owner of the building or his agent, furnish him with a copy of such statement.

(3) When the said defects have been remedied to the satisfaction of the Engineer, he shall record a certificate under sub-section (1), and shall give a copy thereof to the owner of the building or his agent.

(4) No part of any masonry building which has been erected, re-erected or materially altered under this Chapter, shall be used until a certificate has been recorded under sub-section (1 in respect of the building.

H.—Huts.

Provisions applicable to huts hereafter erected, re-erected or materially altered:

64. The following provisions shall have effect in the case of huts hereafter erected or re-erected, and shall also have effect in the case of any hut hereafter materially altered, so far as regards the portion of the hut so altered that is to say:— [C. B. C., paras. 94, 107.]

Continuous lines.

(1) Huts in a bustee shall be built in continuous lines, in accordance with an alignment to be prescribed by the General Committee and demarcated on the ground. [C. B. C., para. 113.]

Passages.

(2) Where an alignment prescribed under clause (1) does not correspond with the alignment of a street in the bustee, a passage of at least fifteen feet, measured from eave to eave, must be left between the rows of huts abutting on such prescribed alignment. [C. B. C., paras. 108, 109, 113.]

Use of passages.

(3) All passages referred to in clause (2) shall remain private property, subject to a right in the Corporation to send carts along them or otherwise make use of them for any of the purposes of this Act. [Bye-law (e) 13; C. B. C., para. 109.]

Courtyard.

(4) Notwithstanding anything contained in clause (1), huts in a bustee may, with the special sanction of the General Committee, be built so as to form an open courtyard, comprising at least one-fourth of the whole area occupied by the huts and courtyard. [C. B. C., para 113.]

Space.

(5) There must be between each hut abutting on a street in a bustee, except in the case of huts referred to in clause (4), a space of at least three feet, measured from eave to eave. [C. B. C., para. 111.]

Distance of huts from metalled and sewered streets.

(6) Except with the sanction of the General Committee, no hut shall be placed at a greater distance than one hundred feet from the nearest part of a metalled and sewered street. [Bye-law (a) 14; C. B. C., para. 110.]

Distance between hut and masonry building.

(7) No portion of a hut shall stand within fifteen feet of a masonry building: [C. B. C., para. 112(d).]

Provided that this clause shall not preclude the erection of huts in compounds in any case where masonry out-offices would be permissible.

(Chapter III.—Building Regulations.—Section 65.)

H.—Huts—contd.

Prohibition of projections or dropping of water over street or passage. (8) Every hut abutting on a street or passage, whether public or private, shall be constructed so as not to project over, or admit of water from the roof falling upon or injuring, the street or passage. [Bye-law (e) 16.]

Height. (9) No hut shall comprise more than one storey or shall exceed fifteen feet in height, measured from the top of the plinth to the junction of the eaves and wall. [C. B. C., para. 118.]

Privy. (10) Every hut must be provided with a sufficient privy, of a pattern to be prescribed by byelaws made under this Act:

Provided that the General Committee may allow a common privy for the use of the occupants of two or more adjacent huts if the number of all such occupants does not exceed ten.

Surface drains. (11) The General Committee may prescribe such surface drains for the drainage of huts as the circumstances of the locality and the position of the nearest sewer may render practicable. [Bye-law (e) 19.]

(12) If the General Committee consider that a new surface drain should be constructed for the benefit of occupants of any hut, they may, by written notice, require the owner of the land on which the hut stands to construct such drain. [Bye-law (e) 20.]

(13) When any drain has been constructed by the Chairman in default of compliance with a notice issued under clause (12), and is subsequently repaired at the expense of the Corporation, the owner of the hut aforesaid shall be bound to pay the cost of such repair.

Plinth. (14) The plinth of every hut must be raised at least two feet above the level of the centre of the nearest street or passage. [Bye-law (e) 18.]

J.—Applications for permission to erect, re-erect or materially alter huts.

Application to be sent, and particulars furnished, by person intending to erect, re-erect or materially alter a hut. 65. (1) Every person who intends to erect, re-erect or materially alter a hut shall send to the Chairman— [Cal., s. 247; C. B. C. Paras. 72, 91.]

(a) an application for permission to execute the work, and

(b) a site-plan of the land.

(2) The said application must be written on a printed form to be supplied by the Chairman free of charge. [Cal., s. 247.]

(3) If it is intended to use the hut or any part thereof for any of the purposes specified in Schedule XVII to the Calcutta Municipal Bill, or as a stable or a cow-house, the fact must be expressly stated in the said application. [Bye-law (e), 8; C. B. C., para. 103.]

(4) The said site-plan must be drawn to a scale of one-eighth of an inch to a foot, must be sent in triplicate, and must show— [Cal., s. 247; C. B. C., paras. 72, 73.]

(i) the hut,

(ii) the privy provided or to be provided for the use of occupants of the hut,

(iii) the means of access to the hut from the street or passage on which it abuts,

(iv) the position of the hut in relation to all huts, streets, passages, privies and tanks within a distance of fifty feet from the site, and

(v) such other particulars as may be prescribed by the General Committee.

(Chapter III.—Building Regulations.—Sections 66-71.)

Work not to be commenced unless and until permission given.

66. The erection, re-erection or material alteration of a hut shall not be commenced unless and until the Chairman has granted written permission for the execution of the proposed work on an application sent to him under section 65. [Cal., s. 247; C. B. C., paras. 67, 68.]

Power of Chairman to require further information or a proper site plan.

67. (1) The Chairman may require the applicant— [C. B. C., para. 70.]

(a) to furnish him with any information on matters referred to in section 65 which has not already been given in the documents received thereunder, or with a proper site-plan as prescribed by that section, or

(b) to satisfy him that there are no objections which may lawfully be taken, on any of the grounds mentioned in section 71, to the grant of permission to execute the proposed work.

(2) If any information or plan required under sub-section (1) is in the opinion of the Chairman incomplete or defective, he may require further information or a fresh plan to be furnished. [Bom., s. 340.]

(3) If any requisition made under sub-section (1) or sub-section (2) is not complied with within one month, the application received under section 65 shall be deemed not to have been made. [C. B. C., para. 70.]

Permission to execute work when to be given or refused.

68. Within fourteen days after the receipt of any application made under section 65 for permission to erect, re-erect or materially alter a hut, or of any information or plan required under sub-section (1), or of any further information or fresh plan required under sub-section (2), as the case may be, of section 67, or within fourteen days after the Chairman has been satisfied that there are no objections such as those referred to in clause (b) of section 67, the Chairman shall, by written order, either grant such permission or refuse, on one or more of the grounds mentioned in section 71, to grant it. [Cal., s. 247; C. B. C., para. 68.]

Record of reasons, and appeal, when permission refused.

69. (1) Whenever the Chairman refuses to grant such permission as aforesaid, he shall state specifically the grounds for such refusal, and the applicant may appeal to the General Committee against such refusal. [C. B. C., paras. 68, 77.]

(2) If the General Committee reject any such appeal, they shall, by written order, specifically state the grounds for such rejection. [C. B. C., para. 77.]

Reference to General Committee if Chairman delays grant or refusal of permission.

70. If, within the period prescribed by section 68, the Chairman has neither granted nor refused to grant permission to erect, re-erect or materially alter a hut, the General Committee shall be bound, on the written request of the applicant, to determine, by written order, immediately on the expiration of such period, whether such permission should be granted or not. [Cal., s. 250; C. B. C., paras. 68, 94.]

Grounds on which permission to erect, re-erect or materially alter a hut may be refused.

71. The only grounds on which permission to erect, re-erect or materially alter a hut may be refused are the following, namely:— [C. B. C., paras. 68, 77.]

(1) that the proposed work would contravene some specified provision of this Act or some specified bye-law made hereunder;

(Chapter III.—Building Regulations.—Sections 72-76.)

J.—Applications for permission to erect, re-erect or materially alter huts—contd.

(2) that the application for such permission is not in conformity with section 65;

(3) that any information or plan required by the Chairman under sub-section (1) or sub-section (2) of section 67 has not been duly furnished; or (4) that the applicant has not satisfied the Chairman that there are no objections which may lawfully be taken, on any of the grounds hereinbefore in this section mentioned, to the grant of the said permission.

Fresh application after refusal of permission to erect, re-erect or materially alter a hut.

72. When permission to erect, re-erect or materially alter a hut is refused, the applicant may at any time send to the Chairman a fresh application and a fresh or modified plan under section 66, framed with the object of meeting the objections for which such permission was refused. [Cal., s. 247; C. B. C., para. 68.]

Lapse of permission, if not acted upon within six months.

73. If the erection, re-erection or material alteration of any hut is not commenced within six months after the date on which permission was given to execute the work, the work shall not be commenced until a fresh application has been made and a fresh permission granted under this Chapter. [Cal., s. 247.]

K.—Supplemental Provisions.

Compensation after refusal to permit building when site falls within street alignment of projected public street.

74. If permission to erect a masonry building or to convert one or more huts or temporary structures into a masonry building is refused on the ground that the site falls wholly or in part within the street alignment of any projected public street, and if the site or the portion thereof which falls within such alignment be not acquired by the Chairman under section 24 within one year after the date of such refusal, the Corporation shall pay reasonable compensation to the owner of the site. [Cal., s. 236.]

Acquisition of land by Corporation for provision of passage.

75. (1) If in any case an applicant for permission to erect, re-erect or materially alter a building has not sufficient land to admit of such a passage as is prescribed by or under clause (4) of section 37 being provided, he may submit a written application to the Corporation requesting them to acquire land for the purpose and undertaking to pay all expenses which may be incurred by them in so doing. [C. B. C., para. 73.]

(2) The Corporation may thereupon acquire such land and may sell the same to the applicant for the sum which they have expended in acquiring it, and may, if they consider it necessary so to do, require the applicant to give security for the payment of such sum, before taking any proceedings to acquire the land.

Exemption of plant-houses, etc.

76. The following buildings shall be exempted from this Chapter, that is to say:— [C. B. C., para. 121.]

(a) any building erected and used, or intended to be erected and used, exclusively for the purpose of a plant-house, summer-house (not being a dwelling-house), poultry-house or aviary, provided the building be wholly detached from, and situated at a distance of at least ten feet from, the nearest adjacent building, and

(Chapter III.—Building Regulations.—Chapter IV.—Bustees.—Sections 77-79.)

K.—Supplemental Provisions—contd.

(b) any building erected or intended to be erected by, or with the sanction of, the Corporation or the General Committee for use solely as a temporary hospital for the reception and treatment of persons suffering from any dangerous infectious disease.

CHAPTER IV.—Bustees.

A.—Preliminary.

Power to define and alter limits of bustees.

77. The General Committee may define the external limits of any bustee, and may from time to time alter such limits. [Cal., s. 251.]

Restriction on application of this Chapter to masonry buildings in bustees.

78. None of the powers conferred by any of the following sections of this Chapter shall be exerciseable in respect of masonry buildings in a bustee, or lands pertaining to such buildings, unless such buildings and lands be purchased or acquired by the Corporation. [Cal., s. 251.]

B.—Improvement of Bustees.

Preparation of standard plan by owners.

79. (1) The General Committee may at any time serve a written notice upon the owners of a bustee requiring them to prepare a joint plan of the bustee, to the scale of twenty-five feet to the inch, showing— [Cal., s. 252, C. P. C., para. 95.]

(a) the manner in which the bustee should be laid out, with the huts standing in regular lines and with a free passage, in front of and behind each line, of such width as may be necessary for ventilation and for scavenging,

(b) the proposed drains,

(c) the water-supply, the bathing arrangements (if any) and the privy accommodation to be provided for the use of the tenants,

(d) the streets and passages which are to be maintained for the benefit of the tenants,

(e) the land (if any) which is to be kept as common land,

(f) the tanks which are to be filled up, and the tanks which are to be conserved, and

(g) any other proposed improvements.

(2) The streets referred to in clause (d) shall be not less than twenty feet wide and not less than two hundred feet apart, and the passages referred to in that clause shall be not less than fifteen feet wide.

(Chapter IV.—Bustees—Sections 80—83.)

B.—Improvement of Bustees—contd.

(3) If any land within the limits of a bustee is not bustee land, the said plan shall be so prepared as clearly to distinguish such land from the bustee land.

(4) The said plan shall be considered by the General Committee, and such modifications shall be made therein as they may require.

(5) The said plan shall then be laid before the Corporation, and when approved by them shall be deemed to be the standard plan of the bustee.

Preparation of standard plan by General Committee in default of owners.

80. (1) After the service of a notice under section 79 on the owners of any bustee, if such owners do not agree among themselves in the preparation of a plan as required by such notice, or if they for any reason prefer to have a plan prepared for them by the General Committee, or if they fail to comply within sixty days with such notice, the General Committee shall, within a further period of sixty days, themselves prepare a plan to the scale and showing the particulars prescribed in the said section. [Cal., s. 253.]

(2) When a plan has been prepared by the General Committee under sub-section (1), they shall fix a day for the hearing of objections made by or on behalf of the owners of the bustee, and may at their discretion modify the plan in accordance with any objection so made. [Cal., s. 254.]

(3) If such objections are disallowed, or when the plan has been modified in conformity with any of such objections, the plan shall be laid before the Corporation, and when approved by them shall be deemed to be the standard plan of the bustee.

(4) When the General Committee prepare a plan under sub-section (1), they may charge the said owners therefor at such rate not exceeding three rupees per bigha as the Corporation in meeting may fix, and such charge may be recovered in the manner provided by the Calcutta Municipal Bill for the recovery of the consolidated rate.

Suspension of building pending preparation of standard plan.

81. When the owners of a bustee have been required under section 79 to prepare a plan, no hut shall be erected, re-erected or materially altered within the bustee until a plan has been prepared and approved under that section or under section 80. [Cal., s. 252.]

Prohibition of building contrary to standard plan.

82. When a standard plan has been prepared for any bustee under section 79 or section 80, no hut shall be erected, re-erected or materially altered in such bustee unless the hut, or the portion (if any) to be added, as the case may be, occupies a site, or portion of a site, marked in the standard plan as the site for a hut. [Cal., s. 256.]

Power to require re-erection of huts in conformity with standard plan.

83. The General Committee may at any time, on paying compensation to the owner of any hut which is not in conformity with such standard plan, require him to take down the hut and re-erect it in conformity with the plan. [Cal., s. 255.]

(Chapter IV.—Bustees—Sections 84—86.)

B.—Improvement of Bustees—contd.

Power to require carrying out of other improvements in conformity with standard plan.

84. (1) The General Committee may at any time serve a notice upon the owners of any bustee for which a standard plan has been prepared as aforesaid, requiring them— [Cal., s. 255.]

(a) to construct the drains, privies, streets and passages and carry out the other improvements shown in such standard plan, so far as may be practicable, having regard to the existing arrangement of the huts, and

(b) if any tank is shown in such plan as to be filled up or improved, to fill up or improve such tank.

(2) Until such notice is complied with, the Chairman may refuse to sanction the erection or re-erection of, or the making of any material alteration in, any hut in the bustee.

Inspection, report and preparation of standard plan by medical officers, in cases requiring expedition.

85. (1) If it appears to the General Committee that any bustee is, by reason of the manner in which the huts are crowded together, or for any other reason, in such an unhealthy condition that the procedure provided by the foregoing sections of this Chapter would be too dilatory to meet the emergency, they may cause the bustee to be inspected by two medical officers. [Cal., s. 257.]

(2) The said medical officers shall forthwith make a written report on the sanitary condition of the bustee, and shall annex to the report a plan approved by them as a proper standard plan of the bustee, and shall certify which of the improvements required to bring the bustee into conformity with such plan should be taken in hand forthwith, in consequence of the unhealthy condition of the bustee, and which of them should be deferred for action under the foregoing sections of this Chapter.

(3) The former improvements shall be shown in a schedule to be annexed to the report and called Schedule A; and that schedule must clearly indicate—

(a) the huts which should wholly or in part be removed,

(b) the streets, passages and drains which should be constructed,

(c) the tanks or low lands which should be filled up,

(d) other improvements which the said medical officers consider to be required in order to remove or abate the unhealthy condition of the bustee, and

(e) if, for the purpose of making such streets or passages, or effecting any other improvement indicated in such schedule, it is necessary to purchase or acquire any land within the bustee which is not bustee land—the land which should be so purchased or acquired.

Approval by General Committee of standard plan annexed to such report.

86. The General Committee shall, within six months after the receipt of such report, approve the standard plan annexed thereto after making such modifications (if any) therein as they may deem proper. [Cal., s. 258.]

(Chapter IV.—Bustees—Sections 87—92.)

B.—Improvement of Bustees—contd.

Power of General Committee to require owners or occupiers to carry out improvements proposed in such report.

87. The General Committee may cause a written notice to be served upon the owners or occupiers of the huts referred to in the said report, or, at the option of the Committee, upon the owners of the land on which such huts are situated, requiring them to carry out all or any of the improvements indicated in the said Schedule A, or any portion of such improvements. [Cal., s. 258.]

Power of General Committee to carry out such improvements in default of owners.

88. (1) If, after the service of a notice under section 87, the said improvements are not duly carried out in accordance with the notice, the General Committee may cause all or any of such improvements, or any portion thereof, to be carried out. [Cal., s. 259.]

(2) All expenses incurred by the General Committee under sub-section (1), including such reasonable compensation as the Committee may think fit to pay to the owners or occupiers of huts removed, shall be paid by the owners of the land, and may be paid by instalments if the Committee so direct:

Provided that, if it appears to the Committee that any such owner is unable, by reason of poverty, to pay such expenses or any portion thereof, they may order the same to be paid out of the General Fund.

Disposal of materials of huts pulled down in pursuance of section 88.

89. (1) If any hut be pulled down in executing any improvement under the orders of the General Committee in pursuance of section 88, the Committee shall cause the materials of such hut to be given to the owner of the hut; or, if the owner be unknown or the title be disputed, the materials shall be sold and the proceeds of the sale, together with any sum which may be awarded as compensation under section 89, sub-section (2), shall be held in deposit by the Corporation until the person claiming the amount obtains an order from a competent Court for the payment of the same to him. [Cal., s. 260.]

(2) A Court of Small Causes shall be deemed to be a competent Court for the purposes of this section.

Power of Corporation to purchase or acquire land in pursuance of report made under section 85.

90. The Corporation may, at any time after the receipt of a report made under section 85, purchase or acquire any land (not being bustee land) which is mentioned in that behalf in Schedule A annexed to such report. [Cal., s. 261.]

Application of sections 82 to 84, in order to bring bustee into conformity with standard plan approved under section 86.

91. When improvements have been carried out in any bustee under section 87 or section 88, the provisions of sections 82, 83 and 84 shall apply to the bustee for the purpose of bringing it into complete conformity with the standard plan approved under section 86. [Cal., s. 262.]

Alternative power to General Committee to make standard plan, to purchase or acquire bustee, and to carry out improvements themselves or through purchaser or lessee.

92. (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in sections 86 to 91 (both inclusive), the General Committee may, after receipt of a report made under section 85 with respect to any bustee, pass a resolution to the effect that the bustee is an unhealthy area and that, in their opinion, the purchase or acquisition of the bustee, or of any portion thereof, is necessary for the purpose of making the requisite improvements therein. [Cal., s. 263.]

(Chapter IV.—Bustees—Sections 93, 94.)

B—Improvement of Bustees—contd.

(2) When any such resolution has been passed, the General Committee shall proceed to make a standard plan for the improvement of the said bustee or portion, and shall lay such plan before the Corporation, together with such estimates as may be necessary for a due understanding of the same, and a copy of the said resolution.

(3) If the plan be approved by the Corporation, they shall submit it to the Local Government, together with the said estimates and a copy of the said resolution; and, if the plan be approved by the Local Government, the General Committee may purchase or acquire the said bustee or portion.

(4) When the said bustee or portion has been so purchased or acquired, the General Committee shall either—

(a) sell or let the same or part thereof to some person for the purpose and under the condition that he will, as respects the land so sold or leased to him, carry out the improvements shown in such standard plan, or

(b) themselves bring the said bustee or portion, together with any part thereof which has not been sold or leased under clause (a), into conformity with such standard plan.

(5) The General Committee shall be bound to proceed as directed by sub-section (4) within a period of four years from the date of their purchasing or acquiring the said bustee or portion in pursuance of sub-section (3), or within such further period (if any) as the Local Government may prescribe.

Proportions of area of bustee to be shown in standard plan as streets, passages and open lands.

93. (1) A standard plan prepared under this Chapter shall not, without the consent of the owners, show more than one-half of the area of the bustee as streets or passages or more than one-half of the same as open lands not to be built upon, whether such open lands be common ground, streets, passages or spaces behind a line of huts. [Cal., s. 263.]

(2) No tank that is not filled up shall be taken into account in calculating the said proportions of one-half.

Regulation of plots by standard plan, and compensation for adjustment of plots.

94. (1) Every such standard plan shall, as far as possible, provide for one or more huts being completely contained in each separate plot of bustee land within the bustee, and for the prescribed proportion of roadway and open ground in each plot; and, if a greater portion of any one plot is taken for streets, passages or open lands than the proportion allowed by section 93, the compensation which should be paid to the owner of such plot, and the persons who should pay such compensation by reason of their benefiting by the arrangement, must be specified in the plan. [Cal., s. 263.]

(2) If no owner can equitably be called upon to pay such compensation, the same shall be paid by the Corporation.

(3) The compensation payable as aforesaid to the owner of any plot shall not be paid until such plot has been brought into complete conformity with the standard plan.

(Chapter IV.—Bustees—Sections 95—98.)

B.—Improvement of Bustees—contd.

Streets shown in standard plan, if not public streets, to remain private.

95. (1) The streets shown in the standard plan of a bustee which are not already public streets shall, unless the General Committee and the owners concerned otherwise agree, remain private streets; and the portion thereof which falls on the land of each owner shall belong to such owner: Cal. s. 265.

Provided that any portion of any such street which falls on land purchased or acquired by the Corporation in pursuance of section 90 shall remain the property of the Corporation.

(2) Every such private street shall at all times be kept open to the use of the Corporation for scavenging purposes and for the other purposes of this Act, and shall also be kept open for the use of all the tenants of the bustee; but no such use of any such street shall be held by any lapse of time to confer a right of way on the public so as to bring the street within the definition of a "public street."

Rights of owners of land and huts, respectively, over streets, land and drains shown in standard plan.

96. When a standard plan for a bustee has been approved, Cal. ss. 267.

the several owners of bustee land shall respectively be deemed to be the occupiers of the streets and common ground of the bustee and of such drains of the bustee as serve more than one hut, so far as the same are constructed in accordance with such standard plan, and the owner of each hut shall be deemed to be the occupier of the land occupied by his hut, of that portion of the open space behind his hut which appertains to the hut, and of any drain which is provided for the sole use of his hut.

Bustee when to be deemed a re-modelled bustee.

97. When a bustee has been brought into conformity with any standard plan approved under this Chapter, it shall be deemed to be a re-modelled bustee. Cal. ss. 260, 268.

Power to take land out of the category of bustee land.

98. (1) Any owner of bustee land may at any time send a written notice to the Chairman that he intends to make such changes as will take the land or any part thereof out of the category of bustee land. Cal. ss. 261, 262.

(2) From the date of such notice no application shall be received for erecting, re-erecting or materially altering any hut on such land.

(3) Such owner shall be bound to remove, within six months after the date of such notice, all huts standing on such land; and, if he does not do so, the notice shall be deemed to be cancelled.

(4) When all huts have been so removed, such land shall cease to be bustee land, and shall, according to its situation, either be altogether excluded from the limits of the bustee, or be shown, in any standard plan approved for the bustee under this Chapter, as not being bustee land:

Provided that, if any such land is shown in such plan as a street or part of a street, the same shall, unless the General Committee otherwise direct, continue to be a private street, and shall be subject to the provisions of section 95, sub-section (2).

(Chapter IV.—Bustees—Sections 99—102.)

C.—Re-allotment of Bustees.

Declaration of intention to re-allot bustee or block.

99. (1) The Corporation, at the instance of the General Committee, may give public notice of their intention to re-allot the land comprised in any bustee or in any portion of a bustee which is contained between streets so as to form a compact block.

(2) A declaration may be made under sub-section (1) in either of the following cases, namely:—

(a) if the bustee or block, as the case may be, has been inspected by two medical officers nominated under section 85, and pronounced by such officers to be in a dangerously insanitary condition, or

(b) if an application is made for permission to erect a masonry building in the bustee or block, as the case may be.

Preparation of ground plan of such bustee or block.

100. (1) Before any notice is published under section 99 in respect of any bustee or block, the General Committee shall cause to be prepared a ground plan of the same.

(2) Such plan shall be prepared on a scale of fifty feet to the inch, and shall show—

(a) all land comprised in the said bustee or block, divided into plots according to ownership, all streets being shown separately, and

(b) the estimated value, at the time the notice is published, of each such plot.

Determination of value of land of each owner.

101. (1) On the publication of any notice under section 99, the General Committee shall send a copy of the said plan to each of the owners of land shown therein, together with a notice requiring him to appear before the Committee on a day to be specified in the notice (such day being not more than one month after the issue of such notice) and show cause why the estimated value of the plot or plots belonging to him, as shown in the plan, should not be taken as the value thereof.

(2) The General Committee, after hearing anything that may be urged by any owners who so appear, shall determine the value of each plot as aforesaid, and shall serve a notice on the owner of each plot specifying the valuation thereof as so determined.

(3) If any such owner is dissatisfied with the valuation of his plot, as specified in such notice, he may, within one month after the service of the notice, apply to the Chief Judge of the Court of Small Causes to determine the value of the plot.

(4) The determination of the General Committee or [if an application is made under sub-section (3)] of the Chief Judge shall be final.

Preparation of re-allotment plan.

102. (1) When the value of each such plot has been determined under section 101, the General Committee shall cause to be prepared a re-allotment plan of the said bustee or block.

(2) Such plan shall be prepared on the scale of fifty feet to the inch, and shall show all lands comprised in the bustee or block, divided into—

(a) streets of not less than twenty feet wide and not more than two hundred feet apart,

(Chapter IV.—Bustees—Sections 103—106.)

C.—Re-allotment of Bustees—contd.

(c) building-sites for huts to abut on such streets or passages.

(3) In preparing such plan, the bustee or block shall be so divided as to allot to each of the owners of land therein as nearly as possible the same share in the aggregate value of the re-allotted proprietary plots that he had, immediately before the publication of the notice referred to in section 99, in the aggregate value of the proprietary plots then existing.

(4) The value of land shown either in the ground plan or in the re-allotment plan as set apart for streets shall be excluded in calculating, for the purposes of sub-section (3), the aggregate value of proprietary plots.

Compensation where owner of land is not re-allotted his proper share.

103. If the share in the aggregate value of the re-allotted proprietary plots that is allotted to any owner under section 102, sub-section (3), is less than the share that he had, immediately before the publication of the notice referred to in section 99, in the aggregate value of the proprietary plots then existing, the General Committee may direct the payment to him of such sum by way of compensation as they may think sufficient.

Compensation for land set apart for streets.

104. The Corporation shall pay to the persons entitled thereto compensation for any land which may be shown in a re-allotment plan as set apart for streets over and above the quantity which was so set apart before such plan was prepared.

Revision and final adoption of re-allotment plan.

105. (1) When a re-allotment plan has been prepared, the General Committee shall send a copy of the plan to each of the owners of land in the bustee or block, as the case may be, together with a notice requiring him to appear before the Committee on a day to be specified in the notice (such day being not more than one month after the issue of the notice) and state any objections he may have to the re-allotment proposed, on the ground that it does not secure to him the share prescribed by section 102.

(2) The General Committee, after hearing anything that may be urged by any owners who so appear, shall make such alterations (if any) in the re-allotment plan as they may consider necessary, and shall then finally adopt the plan and send a copy of the same to the owner of each plot.

Removal of huts, and marking out of streets, passages and building-sites.

106. (1) When a re-allotment plan has been finally adopted for any bustee or block, the General Committee shall cause the huts therein to be removed at the cost of the Municipal Funds.

(2) The provisions of section 89 shall apply to all huts so removed, and the owners of such huts shall be entitled to reasonable compensation for disturbance.

(3) When the huts have been removed, the General Committee shall mark out the several streets, passages and building-sites in accordance with the plan, and make over the said sites to the persons to whom they are respectively allotted by the plan; and the bustee or block, as the case may be, shall be deemed to be a re-allotted bustee.

(Chapter IV.—Bustees.—Chapter V.—Privies, Latrines, Urinals, &c.—Sections 107-112.)

C.—Re-allotment of Bustees—contd.

Erection of dwelling-houses in re-allotted bustee.

107. If any dwelling-house be erected in a re-allotted bustee, it must be placed so as to stand not less than ten feet from the alignment of any street, and not less than twelve-and-a-half feet from the alignment of any passage on which it may abut.

Bye-laws.

108. The General Committee may make bye-laws for carrying out the purposes of sections 99 to 107 (both inclusive).

CHAPTER V.—PRIVIES, LATRINES, URINALS, ETC.

Regulation of site of future privies.

109. (1) No privy shall after the commencement of this Act, be placed in the space required by this Act to be left at the back of a building— [C. B. C., para. 120 (6), (8).]

(a) unless the total height of the privy does not exceed nine feet, and

(b) if the privy is a service privy, unless there is a space of at least six feet between the privy and the wall of the building.

(2) No service privy to be used by the occupants of a building shall, after the commencement of this Act, be placed at a distance of less than six feet from any other building which— [C. B. C., para. 120 (5).]

(i) is a public building, or

(ii) is, or is likely to be, used as a dwelling-place, or as a place in which any person is, or is intended to be, employed in any manufacture, trade or business.

Provision of access to privy from street.

110. (1) If there is no convenient access from a street to any service privy, and if the General Committee consider it inexpedient to cause the privy to be connected with a sewer, the Committee may, by written notice, require the owner of the privy to form a passage giving access to the privy from the street. [C. B. C., para. 120 (2).]

(2) Every notice served under sub-section (1) must require that such passage be formed at ground-level, be not less than four feet wide, and be provided with a suitable door, and must inform the said owner that the passage may, at his option, be either open to the sky or covered in.

Provision of connected privies.

111. (1) No service privy shall, after the commencement of this Act, be placed on any upper floor of a building: [C. B. C., para. 210 (9).]

Provided that, if in any case the Chairman considers it impracticable or inexpedient to provide a connected privy, he may, by written notice, authorise the owner of the building to erect a service privy and require him to pay such sum as may be specified in the notice for the purpose of meeting the expenditure likely to be incurred by the Corporation in removing filth from the privy.

(2) The Chairman may, by written notice, require the owner of any building to convert any service privy into a connected privy.

(3) An appeal shall lie to the General Committee from any notice issued by the Chairman under sub-section (1) or sub-section (2), and their decision shall be final.

Paved surface in privies, for ablution purposes.

112. Every privy must have for ablution purposes a paved surface connected with the drainage of the premises to which the privy belongs. [C. B. C., para. 120 (15).]

(Chapter V.—Privies, Latrines, Urinals, etc.—
Sections 113-117.)

Means of ventilation for privies in or adjacent to buildings.

113. Every privy situated in, or adjacent to, a building must have— [C. B. C., para. 120, (10).]

(a) an opening, of not less than three square feet in area, in one of the walls of the privy as near the top of the wall as may be practicable and communicating directly with the open air, and

(b) adequate means for constant ventilation at the floor of the privy and at the upper point of the wall on which the roof of the privy rests.

Floors of privies in or adjacent to buildings.

114. The floor of every privy situated in, or adjacent to, a building must— [C. B. C., para. 120 (11), (12).]

(a) be flagged or paved with hard tiles or other non-absorbent material,

(b) (unless the privy is situated on an upper floor) be in every part at a height of not less than six inches above the level of the surface of the ground adjoining the privy, and

(c) have a fall or inclination towards the door of the privy of at least half an inch to the foot.

Regulation of privies (situated in or adjacent to buildings) constructed for use in combination with a moveable receptacle for filth.

115. The following provisions shall have effect with regard to privies situated in or adjacent to a building when such privies are constructed for use in combination with a moveable receptacle for filth, that is to say:— [C. B. C., para 120 (12).]

(a) the space beneath the seat of privy must be of such dimensions as to admit of a moveable receptacle for filth, of a capacity not exceeding two cubic feet, being placed and fitted beneath the seat in such manner and position as will effectually prevent the deposit, otherwise than in such receptacle, of any filth falling or thrown through the aperture of the seat; [C. B. C., para (13).]

(b) the privy must be so constructed as to afford adequate access to the said space for the purposes of cleansing such space and of fitting therein and removing therefrom a proper receptacle for filth; [C. B. C., paras 120 (14).]

(c) the said space must be walled in with flagging, slate or good brick-work, at least nine inches thick and rendered in good cement or asphalted, and the door for the insertion and removal of the receptacle must be made so as to completely cover the aperture. [C. B. C., para. 120 (15).]

Rules for construction of privies.

116. Every privy erected or re-erected after the commencement of this Act must be constructed in accordance with the rules contained in Schedule G, as amended for the time being in exercise of the powers conferred by section 132.

Procedure for enforcement of provisions of sections 112 to 116.

117. (1) If any privy, whether erected or re-erected before or after the commencement of this Act, is so constructed as to contravene any of the provisions of sections 112 to 115 (both inclusive), the General Committee may, by written notice, require—

(a) the occupier of the building to which the privy belongs, or

(Chapter V.—Privies, Latrines, Urinals, etc.—Sections 118, 119.)

(b) (if the privy does not belong to a building) the owner of the land on which the privy stands, to make such alterations as may be specified in the notice with the object of bringing the privy into conformity with the said provisions.

(2) If any privy erected or re-erected after the commencement of this Act is not constructed in accordance with the rules referred to in section 116, the General Committee may, by written notice, require—

(i) the occupier of the building to which the privy belongs, or

(ii) (if the privy does not belong to a building) the owner of the land on which the privy stands, to make such alterations as may be specified in the notice with the object of bringing the privy into conformity with those rules.

(3) When the occupier of any building pays the expenses of making any structural alterations in a privy in pursuance of any notice issued under sub-section (1) or sub-section (2), he may deduct the amount thereof from any rent due or thereafter accruing due to the owner of the building. [Cf. C. S. C., para. 120 (3).]

Control over construction of filth receptacles within fifty feet of tank or watercourse, and removal of same.

118. (1) No person shall construct any service-privy, latrine, urinal, house-drain, cesspool or other receptacle for sewage or offensive matter within fifty feet of any tank or watercourse unless he first satisfies the Engineer that he will take such order as will prevent any risk of sewage or offensive matter passing by percolation or otherwise into such tank or water-course. [Cal., s. 292; C. S. C., paras. 90, 120 (1).]

(2) The General Committee may at any time, by written notice, require any person, upon whose land there is situated within fifty feet of any tank or water-course, any receptacle mentioned or referred to in sub-section (1), to remove such receptacle.

General powers of control over privies and urinals.

119. (1) All privies and urinals shall be under the survey and control of the General Committee as regards their site, materials, dimensions and construction. [Cal., s. 291; C. S. C., para. 120 (4).]

(2) The General Committee may, by written notice, require that any privy or urinal be altered, paved, repaired, trapped, ventilated or kept in such a state of repair as to admit of its being sufficiently cleaned, or be supplied with water, or be connected with a sewer, or be demolished.

(3) Every such notice shall be addressed to the occupier of the building or land to which the privy or urinal belongs, or for the use of the occupants of which the same was constructed or is continued.

(4) The expense of executing any work in pursuance of any such notice shall be borne by the said occupier.

(Chapter V.—Privies, Latrines, Urinals, etc.—Sections 120-124.)

(5) When the occupier of any building or land pays the expenses of making any structural alterations in a privy in pursuance of any such notice, he may deduct the amount thereof from any rent due or thereafter accruing due to the owner of the building or land.

Provision of privies.

120. If the General Committee consider that any privy or additional privy ought to be provided for any building or land, they may, by written notice, require the owner of the building or land to cause such privy, together with the necessary pipes, drains and water-supply, to be constructed. [Cal., s. 294 C. R. C. para. 130 (1).]

Expenses of building or alteration of privy to be paid out of Municipal Funds in certain cases.

121. If, within one year after any privy has been built or altered with the sanction or on the requisition of any municipal authority, a requisition is made by any municipal authority for the re-building or alteration of such privy, the expenses of such re-building or alteration shall be paid out of the Municipal Funds.

Provision and maintenance of public latrines and urinals.

122. The General Committee shall provide and maintain, in proper and convenient situations, public latrines and urinals, and shall cause all latrines and urinals so provided to be constructed and kept so as not to be a nuisance or injurious to health. [Cal., s. 10.]

Licensing of public latrines and urinals.

123. (1) The General Committee may grant licenses, for any period not exceeding one year, for the provision and maintenance of such latrines and urinals for public accommodation as they may from time to time think proper, and may charge fees for such licenses; and may at any time, if they think fit, on giving one month's notice, cancel any license so granted. [Cal., s. 311.]

(2) All fees charged for licenses granted under sub-section (1) shall be recoverable from the licensees in the manner prescribed by the Calcutta Municipal Bill for the recovery of the consolidated rate.

(3) No person shall keep a public latrine or urinal without obtaining a license therefor under sub-section (1), or after such license has been cancelled; and no licensee shall suffer a licensed public latrine or urinal to be in a filthy or noxious state. [Cal., s. 312.]

General powers of control over house-drains and cesspools.

124. (1) All house-drains, as well within as without the building or land to which they belong, and all cesspools, shall be under the survey and control of the General Committee as regards their site, materials, dimensions and construction. [Cal., s. 226.]

(2) The General Committee may, by written notice, require that any house-drain or cesspool be altered, paved, repaired or kept in such a state as to admit of its being sufficiently cleaned, or be supplied with water, or be connected with a sewer, or be stopped up or demolished.

(3) Every such notice shall be addressed to the owner of the building or land to which the drain or cesspool belongs or for the use of the occupants of which the same was constructed or is continued.

(4) The expenses of executing any work in pursuance of any such notice shall be borne by the said owner.

(Chapter V.—Privies, Latrines, Urinals, &c.—Chapter VI.—Acquisition and disposal of Land and Buildings.—Sections 125—127.)

General powers of control over stables and cow-houses.

125. (1) All stables and cow-houses shall be under the survey and control of the General Committee as regards their site, materials, dimensions and construction. [Cal., s. 256.]

(2) The General Committee may, by written notice, require that any stable or cow-house be altered, paved, repaired or kept in such a state as to admit of its being sufficiently cleaned, or be supplied with water, or be connected with a sewer, or be demolished.

(3) Every such notice shall be addressed to the owner of the building or land to which the stable or cow-house belongs, or for the use of the occupants of which the same was constructed or is continued.

(4) The expenses of executing any work in pursuance of any such notice shall be borne by the said owner.

CHAPTER VI.—ACQUSITION AND DISPOSAL OF LAND AND BUILDINGS.

Further powers for acquiring land or buildings.

126. In addition to the powers expressly conferred on any municipal authority by any other Chapter of this Act for the acquisition and disposal of land or buildings, the Corporation in meeting may acquire any land and buildings, whether situated in Calcutta or not,—

(1) for the purpose of opening out any congested area or of otherwise improving any portion of Calcutta; [C. B. C., para. 136.]

(2) for the purpose of erecting sanitary dwellings for the poorer classes; and [C. B. C., para. 137.]

(3) generally, for carrying out any of the purposes of this Act. [Cal., s. 397.]

Application of Land Acquisition Act, 1894, with amendments.

127. Any land or buildings which any municipal authority is authorised by this Act to acquire may be acquired under the provisions of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894; and for that purpose the said Act shall be subject to the following amendments, namely:— [Cal., s. 399, C. B. C., para. 135.] [I of 1894.]

(a) The expression "Collector" shall include also the Chairman of the Corporation of Calcutta and any officer specially appointed by him, with the approval of the Local Government, to perform all or any of the functions of a Collector under the said Land Acquisition Act.

(b) Section 17 of the said Land Acquisition Act shall apply also in the case of any area which is stated in a certificate granted by a Magistrate to be unhealthy. Before granting any such certificate the Magistrate shall cause notice to be served as promptly as may be on the persons referred to in sub-section (3) of section 9 of the said Act, and shall hear without any avoidable delay any objections which may be urged by them against the application of the said section 17.

(Chapter VI.—Acquisition and disposal of Lan and Buildings.—Section 127.)

(c) The market-value of the land or building shall be deemed, for the purposes of clause first of sub-section (1) of section 23 of the said Land Acquisition Act, to be the market-value according to the disposition of the land or building at the date of the publication of the declaration relating thereto under section 6 of the said Land Acquisition Act:

Provided as follows:

(i) if it be shown that, before such declaration was published, the owner of the land or building had taken active steps and incurred expenditure to secure a more profitable disposition of the same, further compensation, based on his actual loss, may be paid to him;

(ii) if the market-value is specially high in consequence of the property being put to a use which is unlawful or contrary to public policy, that use shall be disregarded and the market-value shall be deemed to be the market-value of the land or building if put to ordinary uses;

(iii) if the market-value has been increased by means of any improvement made by the owner or his predecessor in interest within two years before the aforesaid declaration was published, such increase shall be disregarded, unless it be proved that the improvement was made bonâ fide and not in contemplation of proceedings for the acquisition of the land being taken under the said Land Acquisition Act.

(d) The market-value of the land or building shall, until the contrary is shown, be presumed, for the purposes of the said clause first of sub-section (1) of section 23, to be twenty-five times the annual value of the property, as entered in the assessment-book prescribed by the Calcutta Municipal Bill: Provided that this presumption shall not be made in respect of any land or building until a re-assessment has been made, after the commencement of this Act, for the district in which such land or building is situated.

(e) Clauses fourthly and fifthly of sub-section (1) of section 23 of the said Land Acquisition Act shall not apply in the case of tanneries, surki mills or other offensive trades.

(f) Notwithstanding anything contained in section 49 of the said Land Acquisition Act, any part of a masonry building may be acquired on payment of compensation for severance.

(Chapter VI.—Acquisition and disposal of Land and Buildings.—Sections 128—131.)

Vesting in Corporation of land and buildings acquired under the Land Acquisition Act, 1894.

128. On payment by the Corporation, out of the Municipal Funds, of the compensation awarded under the said Land Acquisition Act, 1894, in respect of any land or buildings, and of any other charges incurred in acquiring the land or buildings, the same shall vest in the Corporation.

[Cal., s. 399; Act XX, 1891 (Punjab Municipalities), s. 10; I of 1894.]

Power of Corporation to pay rent for, or take on lease, land or buildings.

129. The Corporation in meeting may from time to time pay rent for, or take on lease, on such terms as they may think fit, any land or building required for any of the purposes of this Act.

[Cal., s. 398.]

Power to transfer land or buildings acquired for making improvements.

130. (1) When any land or building has been acquired in pursuance of clause (1) or clause (2) of section 126 for the purpose of making improvements, the Corporation may sell, lease or otherwise transfer the same to any registered Company, or to any private individual who satisfies the Corporation of his ability to carry out such improvements, for the purpose and under the condition that it or he will carry out the said improvements in accordance with the scheme hereinafter mentioned.

[C. B. C., paras. 136, 137.]

(2) Before any such sale, lease or transfer is made, the General Committee shall frame a scheme for carrying out the said improvements by or with the concurrence of the said Company or individual under the superintendence and control of the Chairman and upon such terms and conditions, to be embodied in the scheme, as may be agreed upon between the General Committee and the said Company or individual.

[53 and 54 Vict. 70, s. 6.]

(3) Every such scheme shall be published in the Calcutta Gazette and in such other manner as the General Committee may think fit, together with a notice specifying a period within which objections will be received.

(4) The General Committee shall consider all objections received within the said period, and shall then submit the scheme to the Local Government, together with the said objections (if any) and their report upon them.

(5) The Local Government, after considering the said objections (if any), may confirm the scheme, and before doing so may modify it, but not so as to extend its effect.

(6) Every lease granted by the Corporation under this section shall be deemed to include a covenant authorizing the Corporation to re-enter in the event of the lessee failing to carry out improvements in accordance with the said scheme.

(7) Before possession of any land or building is given by the Corporation in pursuance of any contract (other than a lease) made under this section, the Corporation shall take security for the due carrying out of improvements in accordance with the said scheme.

Power to transfer land or buildings in other cases.

131. In any case not referred to in section 130, the Corporation may sell, lease or otherwise transfer, on such terms as they may think fit, any land or building vested in them.

[Cal., s. 397.]

CHAPTER VII.—MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS.

Powers to amend Schedules A, B and C.

132. The General Committee may make bye-laws for altering, adding to, or cancelling any of the rules set forth in Schedule A, Schedule B or Schedule C.

Powers with reference to overcrowded buildings.

[Mad. Act I, 1884, s. 328; Bom., s. 380; C. B. C., para. 124.]

133. (1) Whenever the General Committee consider—

(a) that any building is, by reason of its having no plinth or having a plinth of insufficient height, or by reason of the want of proper drainage or ventilation, or by reason of the impracticability of cleansing, attended with risk of disease to the occupiers thereof or to the inhabitants of the neighbourhood, or is for any reason likely to endanger the public health or safety, or

(b) that any block of buildings is, for any of the said reasons, or by reason of the manner in which the buildings are crowded together, attended with such risk as aforesaid, they may cause a written notice to be fixed to some conspicuous part of the building or block, requiring the owners or occupiers thereof, or at the option of the Committee, the owners of the land occupied by such building or block, to execute such works or take such measures as the Committee may deem necessary for the prevention of such risk.

(2) Where any building in respect of which a notice has been issued under sub-section (1) is demolished in pursuance of an order made by a Magistrate under section 138, the Corporation shall make reasonable compensation to the owner thereof.

Recovery of expenses of demolishing buildings under section 133.

[Bom., s. 490; ib., s. 440.]

134. (1) When a written notice issued under section 133, sub-section (1), for the removal of a building or block of buildings is not complied with, and the building or block has been demolished in pursuance of an order made by a Magistrate under section 138, the expenses incurred in effecting such demolition shall be recoverable by sale of the materials removed; and, if the proceeds of such sale do not suffice, the balance shall be paid by the owner of the said materials.

(2) But, if the expenses of the demolition are in any case paid before the materials are sold, the Chairman shall restore the materials to the owner thereof on his claiming the same at any time before they are sold or otherwise disposed of, and on his paying all other expenses, if any, incurred by the Chairman in respect thereof or in respect of the intended sale or disposal thereof.

(3) If the materials are not claimed by the owner thereof, they shall be sold by public auction, or otherwise disposed of as the Chairman may think fit, as soon as conveniently may be after one month from the date of their removal, whether the expenses of the removal have in the meantime been paid or not; and the proceeds, if any, of the sale or other disposal, remaining after defraying therefrom the costs of the sale or other disposal, and, if necessary, of the removal, shall, if not claimed by the owner within two months, be paid to the credit of the Municipal Funds, and shall be the property of the Corporation.

Power to direct discontinuance of use of premises for offensive or dangerous trades near dwelling-houses.

135. (1) If it be shown to the satisfaction of the General Committee that the use of any premises situated near dwelling-houses for any of the purposes referred to in section 491 or Schedule XVII of the Calcutta Municipal Bill (except as cow-houses or stables) is injurious to the health or material comfort of the occupants of such houses, or [Cal s. 349, C. B. C., para. 125.]

if any premises situated within fifty feet of a dwelling-house are used for any of the said purposes (except as aforesaid), or if the owners of any buildings situated within one hundred feet of any premises used for any of the said purposes (except as aforesaid) make an application to the General Committee in this behalf, and deposit with the Corporation the sum required for purchasing or acquiring the said premises, as estimated by the Chairman, and also undertake to pay any further expenses to which the Corporation may be put, the General Committee may, by written notice, require the occupier of such premises to discontinue such use within one month after the service of the notice.

(2) When the use of any premises for any of the purposes aforesaid has been discontinued in pursuance of such a notice, no compensation shall be payable for loss arising from such discontinuance, but the Corporation shall be bound to purchase both the land and the buildings from the owner; and, if the Corporation are unable to agree with the owner as to the price to be paid, the land and buildings may be acquired under the Land Acquisition Act, 1894. I of 1894.

[illegible] contracts.

136. (1) The Corporation may enter into and perform all such contracts as they may consider necessary or expedient for carrying into effect the provisions of this Act. (Cal. s. 62, C. B. C., para. 65.)

(2) The Corporation may at their option enforce any contract which was entered into by them at any date before the commencement of this Act and which might lawfully have been made if this Act had been in force on such date.

CHAPTER VIII.—Demolition, Alteration and Stopping of Work.

Demolition or alteration of buildings unlawfully commenced, carried on or completed.

137. If the General Committee are satisfied that the erection, re-erection or material alteration of any building— [Cal. ss. 240, 241, 248, Bye-law [illegible], C. B. C., paras. 44, 67, 87, 93, 104.]

(a) has been commenced without obtaining the permission of the Chairman, or (where an appeal or reference has been made to the General Committee) in contravention of any orders passed by the General Committee, or

(b) is being carried on or has been completed otherwise than in accordance with the particulars on which such permission or orders was or were based, or

(c) is being carried on or has been completed in breach of any provision contained in this Act or in the bye-laws made hereunder or of any directions lawfully given under this Act or such bye-laws,

(Chapter VIII.—Demolition, Alteration and Stopping of Work.—Section 138.)

the General Committee may apply to a Magistrate, and such Magistrate may make an order—

(i) directing that the work done, or so much of the same as has been unlawfully executed, be demolished by the owner of the building or altered by him to the satisfaction of the Committee, as the case may require, or

(ii) directing that the work done, or so much of the same as has been unlawfully executed, be demolished or altered by the Chairman at the expense of the owner of the building.

Demolition or alteration of work in other cases.

138. In any of the following cases, namely :— [C. B. C., paras. 44, 57, 87, 124.]

(1) if the General Committee decide that any additions made to a building or wall in pursuance of an agreement executed under the proviso to section 11 ought to be removed, or

(2) if, within the period prescribed in any notice issued under section 14, sub-section (1), requiring the removal or alteration of a fixture, the fixture be not duly removed or altered, or

(3) if, within the period prescribed in any notice issued under section 26, sub-section (3), requiring the owner or occupier of a building to comply with any condition on which the putting up of any verandah or other erection was permitted, such condition is not complied with, or

(4) if, within the period prescribed in any notice issued under section 26, sub-section (4), requiring the owner or occupier of a building to remove a verandah or other erection, the same be not duly removed, or

(5) if, within the period prescribed in any notice issued under section 36, sub-section (2), requiring the owner of a building to remove or alter an external roof or wall made of inflammable materials, the same be not duly removed or altered, or

(6) if any privy be placed in contravention of section 109 or section 111, sub-section (1), or

(7) if any person, after erecting a service privy authorised under the proviso to section 111, fails to pay any sum required under that proviso,

(8) if any owners or occupiers neglect to execute any works or take any measures required by any notice affixed under section 133,

the General Committee may apply to a Magistrate, and such Magistrate may make an order

(Chapter VIII.—Demolition, Alteration and Stopping of Work.—Chapter IX.—Penalties.—Sections 139-141) directing that the additions, fixture, erection, roof, wall, privy or buildings, as the case may be,—

(a) be demolished by the owner or altered by him to the satisfaction of the Committee, or

(b) be demolished or altered by the Chairman at the expense of the owner.

Power of General Committee or Chairman to stop progress of building unlawfully commenced or carried on.

[C. B. C., paras. 8-, 93.]

139. (1) In any case in which the erection, re-erection or material alteration of a building has been unlawfully commenced or is being unlawfully carried on, the General Committee or the Chairman may, by written notice, require the person carrying on the work to stop the same pending the decision of a Magistrate on an application to be made to him under section 137.

(2) If in any case it is reported to the General Committee or the Chairman that the erection, re-erection or material alteration of a building has been unlawfully commenced or is being unlawfully carried on, they or he may, by written notice, require the person carrying on the work to stop the same until the Committee can satisfy themselves as to the fact.

(3) If any work be carried on upon any premises in contravention of a notice issued under sub-section (1) or sub-section (2), any person directing or carrying on such work may be removed from the premises by any police officer.

Demolition and fine cumulative.

[Cal., ss. 242, 249. C. B. C., para. 87.]

140. When any person is liable to be directed to demolish work and to pay a fine under this Act, both those directions may be given at the discretion of the Magistrate.

CHAPTER IX.—PENALTIES.

Certain offences punishable with fine.

141. Whoever—

(a) contravenes any provision of any of the sections, sub-sections or clauses of this Act mentioned in the first column of the following table; or,

Fine for unlawfully commencing, carrying on or completing building work.

143. If the erection, re-erection or material alteration of any building— [Cal., ss. 242, 249; C. B. C., paras. 67, 80, 93.]

(a) is commenced without obtaining the permission of the Chairman, or (where an appeal of reference has been made to the General Committee) in contravention of any orders passed by the General Committee, or

(b) is carried on or completed otherwise than in accordance with the particulars on which such permission or orders was or were based, or

(c) is carried on or completed in breach of any provision contained in this Act or in the bye-laws made hereunder or of any directions lawfully given under this Act or such bye-laws, the owner and the builder shall each be liable to fine which may extend in the case of a masonry building to five hundred rupees and in the case of a hut to fifty rupees, and to further fine which may extend in the case of a masonry building to one hundred rupees and in the case of a hut to ten rupees for each day during which the offence is continued after the first day.

Fine for disobedience of direction for demolition or alteration where building work unlawfully commenced, carried on or completed.

144. If any person to whom a direction to demolish or alter work is given under clause (i) of section 137 fails to obey the same, he shall be liable to fine which may extend in the case of a masonry building to five hundred rupees and in the case of a hut to fifty rupees and to further fine which may extend in the case of a masonry building to one hundred rupees and in the case of a hut to ten rupees for each day during which he so fails after the first day. [C. B. C., para. 87.]

Fine for disobedience of direction for demolition or alteration in other cases.

145. If any person to whom a direction to demolish or alter is given under clause (a) of section 138 fails to obey the same, he shall be liable to fine which may extend to one hundred rupees and to further fine which may extend to fifty rupees for each day during which he so fails after the first day. [C. B. C., para. 87.]

Fine for putting building to other than declared use.

146. When a building has been erected, re-erected or materially altered after a declaration has been made, under the Explanation to clause (v) of section 47 or under sub-setion (5) of section 65, as the case may be, then any person putting [C. B. C., para. 105.

the building or any part thereof to any use other than that stated in such declaration shall be liable,—

(a) in the case of a masonry building, to fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, and to further fine which may extend to one hundred rupees for every day after the first during which he continues such use, and

(b) in the case of a hut, to fine which may extend to fifty rupees, and to further fine which may extend to ten rupees for every day after the first during which he continues such use.

Fine for using building for carrying on offensive trade without previous declaration.

147. When a building has been erected, re-erected or materially altered under Chapter III without any declaration having been made, under the Explanation to clause (v) of section 47 or under sub-section (3) of section 65, as the case may be, that it was intended to use the building or part thereof for any of the purposes specified in Schedule XVII to the Calcutta Municipal Bill or as a stable or a cow-house, then any person using the building or any part thereof for any of those purposes shall be liable,—

(a) in the case of a masonry building, to fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, and to further fine which may extend to one hundred rupees for every day after the first during which he continues such use, and

(b) in the case of a hut, to fine which may extend to fifty rupees, and to further fine which may extend to ten rupees for every day after the first during which he continues such use.
